On the antenna end, go up with the coax. Then any water that gets in will come out the same end, instead of in the shack. I friend of mine did have puddle under his rig from water flowing out of 9913. No, he did not take a lightning hit. I don't use 9913 outdoors. Also, I think the flexible 9913 is not hollow.

Unfortunately the desiccant doesn't last, because it absorbs moisture from the air in the shack. However, you can easily regenerate silica gel by baking it in a moderate oven for a few hours.

Even better is "active" pressurization - keeping a positive pressure inside the line at all times. A very simple, low-cost method is to use a small fish-tank aerating pump in the shack, with the far end of the line sealed (exactly as Pete recommends) so there is no through flow. The positive pressure is very effective at keeping moisture out.

In the shack, the air is connected by soldering a small brass tube through the side of a normal coax plug. PL259/SO239 connectors will leak, so you have to tape over them; most types of N connectors are already well sealed.

Positive pressure is even more useful if you have a sealed box at the far end of the line, containing preamplifiers, relays etc. In the long term it keeps outdoor electronics in far better condition than the alternative method using a vent hole in the box, which exposes everything inside the box to atmospheric moisture.

To make sure the air pressure gets through into the box, you may need to drill small holes through the insulators of some in-line connectors. Only small holes are needed because there's very little flow. For a deluxe job, pressurize the system with dry air, by connecting the pump through a tube of silica gel desiccant (regenerated every few months as above).

I can't remember who first suggested this method, but I'd like to thank him! It worked very well indeed for me, for more than 10 years.

Another plug for my live online meteor (and other ionization-causing phenomena) observation site....

The Quadrantids Meteor Shower is kicking off the New Year well with an expected 120 meteors/hr (ZHR 120). The shower started on the morning of 1st Jan and will run for 5 or 6 days, but the peak is apparently quite sharp, with a rapid rise to the peak occurring over only a few hours.

The expected peak will be on the morning of Sunday 4th Jan between 04:00 and 06:00 utc, though the 3rd could be worth watching too. In theory, the maximum meteor rate will be similar to the Geminids shower last month.

Again, conditions for visual observers is not good, mainly because the moon is quite full, which will stop all but the strongest meteors being seen. More likely (in the UK) it will be cloudy again!!

(Now for the plug!) Radio observation is not affected by these problems. See and hear the Quadrantids live online at http://tinyurl.com/w6pv.

The next decent shower after this is in April, so don't miss this one!

I forgot "drip loops". All of mine come off the antenna with the exceptions of the wire dipoles, and curve upward. Then they are taped to the mast. I would have thought it would have kept the water out, but in the case of the lightening strike I had water coming out of the rig. course it could have blown out the coax farther down. It did just that with the 7/8" Heliax. (bout 30 feet down from the top).

Greetings,

I seem to remember that either NASA or JPL communications were re-transmitted on some amateur frequencies (2m band, as I recall).

Anyone know if this is being done for tomorrow's Mars rover landing, in the Southern California area, and what the frequencies are?

Thanks much.

I agree. Not to sound like an ad for Times Microwave but IMHO the stuff is great and well worth the additional cost. I first started using it for S band and above. Today, it's the only type I got installed anywhere.

Additional cost? It's been pretty much a few cents below 9913 most of the time. <:-)) (admittedly I have purchased any in a couple of years, got enough to last for a while) And it takes the same connectors.

I pulled out well over a 1000 feet of 9913 after the lightening strike and ordered 1500 feet of LMR-400. I gave most of the 9913 to local club members.

SPECIAL ANNOUBCEMENT TO ALL RADIO AMATEURS FRM Hamventionï¿½ 2004

Press Release
(January 2, 2003)

For more information please send e-mail to: media@hamvention.org

Hamventionï¿½ Award Nominations Close January 31st

Do you know an outstanding amateur in your club, community, or from on-the-air contacts? Does this person appear to excel in some phase of amateur radio? Do you feel that he/she deserves national and world-wide recognition? If so, then the time is now for you to sit down and write a letter to nominate that special radio amateur for one of three Hamventionï¿½ 2004 awards.

There are three categories of awards being presented: The Radio Amateur of the Year, Technical Excellence and Special Achievement Award.

The Radio Amateur of the Year is described as that special person who has made a long term commitment to the advancement of amateur radio. A well-rounded individual who has contributed most of his or her lifetime to our hobby in some very outstanding way.

A nominee for the Technical Excellence award should be a person who has made an outstanding technical advancement in the field of amateur radio. Something like a revolutionary new equipment design or mode of operation that has impacted positively on the day to day operation of many hams.

Last but by no means least, a nominee for the Hamvention's Special Achievement award is the kind of special person who has made an outstanding contribution to the advancement of amateur radio. This award is usually given to a respected amateur who spearheaded a single significant project.

All amateurs are eligible - Novice through Extra. Recipients are decided by the Awards Committee, based partially upon the information received, not the number of nominations submitted. The decision of the judges is final.

Nominations must be received before midnight on January 31, 2004. Documentation is not only beneficial, but essential in determining viability of a candidate's achievement(s). Magazine articles, newsletters, newspaper clippings, videos, etc. will better inform the Awards Committee of your candidate's accomplishments. All materials become the property of the Hamvention and cannot be returned. Submissions go by mail to: Awards Committee, Hamvention 2004, PO Box 964, Dayton Ohio, 45401.

(Note: You can also fill out the on-line "Nominating Form" found at the Hamventionï¿½ 2004 website (http://www.hamvention.org) by clicking your mouse on the words "Award Nominations," but you are still required to submit substantiating documentation to the address noted above before January 31, 2004)

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1377 with a release date of Friday, January 2, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a QST. V-K hams welcome 2004 with new spectrum. P-29 hams enter the new year with no-code and the FCC ends 2003 embracing smart radios. All this and more on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1377 for the first week of 2004 coming your way right now.

RESTRUCTURING: EXCLUSIVE SPECTRUM DOWN UNDER

Hams in Australia start 2004 with an unexpected gift. Some exclusive spectrum in the 75 meter band. From Brisbane here's Q-News Graham Kemp, VK4BB, with the rest of the story:

As of January 1st amateur radio operators in Australia have gained exclusive access to 24 kHz of HF spectrum at 3776-3800 kHz for high frequency amateur radio communications between continents.

The new Australian spectrum allocation for the amateur service is made under footnote AUS8 of the Australian Radiofrequency Spectrum Plan 2002 published by the ACA. It aligns well with international arrangements, which means intercontinental communications for Australian amateur radio operators will be improved at these frequencies.

This domestic change has affected other spectrum users. More than 40 government bodies, community groups and commercial organizations were previously licensed for HF communications within this 24 kHz of spectrum, with amateur operators having lower priority access to 6 kHz.

For Q-News Australia, I'm Graham Kemp, VK4BB, for the Amateur Radio Newsline.

A very nice way to start the year 2004. (Q-News)

RESTRUCTURING: P29Z CALLS GIVEN HF GIFT

Australia is not the only nation in the Southern hemisphere to have some ham radio rules changes with the new year. A report out of Papua New Guinea says that the tiny nations has welcomed 2004 by going no-code.

According to Rick Warnett, P29KFS, in Port Morsby, the nations telecommunications regulator PANGTEL has issued an opinion confirming that P-N-G hams holding a Limited Amateur Operator's Certificate of Proficiency now have access to all High Frequency bands granted by PANGTEL. As a result, from 0000 P-N-G time on December 31st hams assigned P29Z series calls have full High Frequency access in the ham bands from 165 KHz thru 28MHz in addition to their 430 MHz to the multi Ghz allocation. RESCUE RADIO: IRELAND PREPARES FOR POWER OUTAGES

Meantime on the other side of the world, what amounts to a mini Field Day exercise took place in Ireland December 6th and 7th. This when that nations ham radio rescue service known as AREN took part in a twenty-four hour simulated test to help prepare members for a possible power failure such as those experienced recently in the US and in the United Kingdom.

The test had several goals. Among them was to establish that AREN members could operate without mains power and to have members ready for activation during a sustained standby period. Also important was maintaining discipline by politely and firmly holding control of a working frequency for the duration of the exercise.

According to assessment reports, the AREN members demonstrated a keen and effective will to efficiently operate such a service. They also held the primary exercise frequency of 3.660 MHz without incident for the duration of the watch period. (IRTS)

RADIO LAW: S.C. INDICTMENT IN BPL RELATED SCHEME

Back here at home, it looks as if the first scam associated with Broadband over Powerline technology has surfaced. Amateur Radio Newsline's Jim Davis, W2JKD, tells us the who, the what, the why and the where:

News reports say that two Texas businessmen have been indicted on wire fraud and money laundering charges. This in a scheme that defrauded a South Carolina electric utility out of $1 million.

Prosecutors in Columbia, South Carolina say that the two convinced the utility to invest the money in research they said would allow voice, video and data to be sent to homes and businesses through power lines. According to the documents filed on Thursday, December 18th, the could not deliver on the promises they had made.

THE CHANGING OF THE GUARD: Joe Knight, W5PDY, - S.K.

Some truly sad news to report. One of the nicest people ever to hold a ham radio license, Joe Knight, W5PDY, the recently retired New Mexico ARRL Section Manager, died on December 28th. Knight was in declining health when he passed away in Albuquerque at age 76.

For those not aware, Joe Knight held the honor of the longest tenure of any Section Manager in history. He was elected to the post in the mid 1970's and only stepped down last July after his health began to fail. In all he served as New Mexico Section Manager close to 27 years. A record never before matched.

Knight was the subject and chief narrator of an article, "The Luckiest Man Alive," which appeared in the January 2003 issue of QST Magazine. In it, Knight said that Amateur Radio will exist as long as there are people who love the art and science of communicating by radio. The article also outlined the vast emergency communication resources that Knight and hundreds of other dedicated volunteers built up over the years in New Mexico.

John Stuart, AC5ZO, the president of the Albuquerque DX Association, visited Knight on December 22nd. At that time Stuart presented Knight with an honorary membership certificate in that group.

Survivors include his wife, Lois, KC5CXO, who often accompanied Knight on his hamfest and convention visits and was a tireless recruiter for new ARRL members. (ARRL, W7AS, N7US, others)

CHANGING OF THE GUARD: Emmanuel G. Papandreas, W4SS, - S.K.

And former ARRL Southern Florida Section Emergency Coordinator, Emmanuel G. Papandreas, W4SS, of Lake Worth, passed away, Friday, December 26th at age 80. Manny as he was better was Southern Florida was SEC for 20 years. A record longer than any of his predecessors. And during his tenure, Papandreas oversaw the amateur emergency communications effort following Hurricane Andrew in 1992 including the staging area at the South Florida Fairgrounds in Palm Beach County.

W4SS was a life member of the West Palm Beach Amateur Radio Club and served numerous terms as President. He also taught amateur radio classes and was an ARRL Volunteer Examiner in Palm Beach county. And, over the years, W4SS was the recipient of many awards and honors from the South Florida agencies served by Amateur Radio. (WA4AW)

RADIO RULES: FCC OPENS SMART RADIO PROCEEDING

Turning to the regulatory scene, the FCC has adopted a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking and Order that sets out proposals and seeks comments on the uses and applications for "smart" radio systems. This, In light of the ever increasing demand for wireless transmitters.

Smart radios have the ability to adapt their use of spectrum to their environments. For example, a smart radio system could use geolocation and table lookups to determine whether certain frequencies are candidates for use in a particular area. Then, those frequencies could be scanned, idle spectrum identified, and the best frequencies and power levels selected for a particular link.

More is at http://hraunfoss.fcc.gov/edocs_public/attachmatch/DOC-242312A1.doc and http://hraunfoss.fcc.gov/edocs_public/attachmatch/FCC-03-322A1.doc on the World-Wide-Web. (CGC, FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: YOU CAN FLY BUT YOU CAN'T USE THAT RADIO

The FCC has asked more groups representing hang glider enthusiasts to tell their members to stay off the ham bands unless they hold Amateur Radio licenses. The agency's Daryl Duckworth, N-N-Zero-W, has more details:

Audio report only. Hear it at www.arnewsline.org

--

Hang gliding zealots who fail to heed the FCC warning could face some pretty severe penalties. (FCC, RAIN)

ENFORCEMENT: COMPANY FINED $8,000 FOR FAILING TO PAINT TOWER CABLES

The FCC has issued an $8,000 fine against Tower Properties of Florida, Inc. for having unpainted cables attached to their tower structure. Cables that the regulatory agency says precluded good visibility of the orange and white aviation-painted structure.

Section 17.50 of the FCC's Rules provides that antenna structures such as this one that require painting will be cleaned or repainted as often as necessary to maintain good visibility. Further, as incorporated by reference, alternate bands of aviation orange and white are normally displayed on coaxial cable, conduits, and other cables attached to the face of a tower. (CGC, FCC)

COMMUNICATIONS LAW: JUDGE RULES ISP'S DO NOT HAVE TO PROVIDE INFO TO MUSIC INDUSTRY

Meantime, back here in the United States, a major setback for the music industry's anti-piracy campaign. This, a federal appeals rejects efforts by the music producers to compel the nation's Internet providers to identify subscribers accused of illegally distributing music on-line. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, has more:

It happened on Friday December 19th and it's being called a substantial setback for the entertainment industry. This, as a three-judge panel from the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia overturned a ruling by the trial judge to enforce a copyright subpoena.

Earlier a trial judge had authorized the use of the subpoenas forcing Verizon Communications Inc. to turn over names and addresses for at least four Internet subscribers. Verizon complied but instructed its lawyers to challenges the ruling.

In its decision, the appeals court not only sided with Verizon. It went a step further. This, by declaring one of the crucial arguments used by the Recording Industry Association of America to obtain the original order as -- quote -- bordering upon the silly. The judges words-- not ours.

What does this mean to those artists and companies wanting to protect their intellectual copyright? It won't stop the entertainment industry from suing those who continue to swap music and video files peer to peer, but it will make them a lot harder for the industry lawyers to locate.

>From the entertainment capitol of the world, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, reporting for the Amateur Radio Newsline

Its not known if the recording industry plans to appeal this latest decision against it to the U-S Supreme court. (Published news reports)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: ARISS UPDATE

According to ARISS International Chairman Frank Bauer, KA3HDO, the crew on board the International Space Station does not have time to read messages from the ham public and he advises against sending any. We have more in this report:

In letters posted to the SAREX remailer, Frank Bauer, KA3HDO, indicates that ham radio is lucky that the crew has been able to fire up the new Kenwood packet radio system that was recently delivered to the space outpost. He also says that its not a good idea for hams to send personal e-mails to the astro-hams indicating that they are really to busy to read and answer them.

As to the new radio itself, Bauer says that the unit is a Kenwood D700 that has been modified to support up to 25 watts maximum output. Normally, if the crew has the system configured with the default settings. This means about 10 watts out which is medium power on the 700.

Regarding the packet frequencies and why split channels rather than simplex is used, Bauer says this. 145.80 MHz is designated a human spaceflight downlink frequency. Right now it shares use on voice and packet for general operations and school group contacts. In the future it will be used at times for voice, packet, repeater capabilities, school group contacts and S-S-T-V. Because of this, the ARISS team would like to keep the downlink frequency clear for all to hear and receive. Therefore, packet simplex is use not a good idea on this frequency.

Meantime, Miles Man, WF1F, has posted some photos of the new station on his MAREX website. The URL is: http://www.marex.org/hardware.kenwood.html (SAREX BBS, WF1F)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: RADIO BRINGS FASTER FAST FOOD

On the emerging technology front, fast food has gotten even faster in southern California thanks to the magic of radio. This as five McDonald's restaurants sign a deal with a communications company to allow motorists to zip through the drive-through line without having to stop and pay cash for their food.

The trick is utilizing the same technology that permits motorists to skip stops on toll roads. A transponder will emit a signal to a receiver at the food giant that will automatically calculate the food the fee. The motorist is then billed. The process is said to cut 15 seconds off the normal 131 second-wait for delivery at the payment window. (Technology Corner)

INTERNATIONAL-ARGENTINA: ANDES MOUNTAIN LAND CROSSING

>From the international page, Carlos Beviglia, LU1BCE, says that between January 4 and 15th, the Radio Club Argentino will participate in the 6th Andes Mountains Land Crossing. LU1BCE is the Secretary of the Radio Club Argentino. He tells the Ohio Penn D-X newsletter that this trek is made every year to honor General San Martin and his army's crossing to Chile. This, during the American Independence War in 1817.

The Radio Club Argentino will provide the communication for the event. The club will set up two High Frequency stations at every camp point throughout the journey. Operation will be mainly on SSB and C-W using the special event call LS4M. QSL via LU4AA, either direct or via the bureau. (OPDX)

INTERNATIONAL-CANADA: MEET THE NEW RAC EXEC COMMITTEE

Meantime, to the North, word that Daniel Lamoureux VE2KA, has been elected as president of the Executive Committee of Radio Amateurs of Canada. This, for a 2004 through 2005 term. Also elected to the committee are First Vice President Robert Nash, VE3KZ; Vice President of Regulatory Affairs James Deann, VE3IQ; Vice President Field Services and International Affairs Pierre Mainville, VA3PM, and Noel Marcil, VE2BR, as Secretary. (RAC)

INTRUDER WATCH: THOSE INDONESIANS AGAIN

On the Intruder Watch scene, we have some bad news and some good news. First the bad. VK6XW reports hearing 53 non ham stations on the 14 MHz band operating SSB. He says that most appear to be from Indonesia.

The good news? Word that another group of Indonesians who had been using 14.335 MHz have vanished and have not been found again. The same is true for the bunch on 14.252 which have also disappeared from the Amateur spectrum leaving only the 14.144 gang which have gone LSB and moved up to 14.145 Mhz. (Q-News)

SPECIAL EVENT: 50 YEARS A HAM

And you might call this one celebrating a personal best. This as Fort Wayne Indiana's Jack Forbing, K9LSB, takes to the air from March 1st to the 14th as K9L in celebration of his 50 years as a licensed operator.

Jack and his friends in the Hoosierland Amateur Mobile Systems group will operate all bands and all modes from K9LSB's home QTH. Equipment for the event will be a Yaesu FT-1000MP Mark V and a Yaesu FTV-1000 6 meter transverter into an yaggi at 65 feet. All other bands will use dipoles antennas. All QSL's go to K9LSB at his Callbook address. And we wish Jack a hearty well done on reaching this milestone in his ham radio career. (Via e-mail)

DX

In DX, 9V1DX, is now active as 9V0A from Ellsworth Mountain in Antarctica. He was spotted in 40 and 30 meters CW. Watch 7.001 or 10.108 MHz between 01:30 and 03:00 UTC. (OPDX)

And W4WX, will be active as KG4DX from Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, from January 13th to the 19th. He will operate the HF bands and 6 meters. QSL to his home call, direct with SASE. (OPDX)

Lastly, AP2JZB, was active recently from Pakistan on 17 and 12 meters SSB . Watch around 18.119 and 24.946 MHz between 13:30 and 15:00 U-T-C. QSL as directed on the air. (OPDX)

THAT FINAL ITEM: HAM RADIO HISTORY -- THE FIRST BIG REPEATER MEETING - PART I

And finally this week, many hams are not aware that back in the early 1970's repeater growth and continued experimentation in ham radio relay communication came to a screeching halt. This, as the result of overly restrictive regulations on the part of the FCC.

As most radio amateurs of that era knew, this was not a good time to be the owner of a repeater unless you also held an Electronics Engineering degree. Things had to change if F-M and repeaters were to grow again. In the end, one man risked it all to make it happen.

On January 24, 1974 then 73 Magazine publisher Wayne Green, W2NSD, brought a group of prominent "repeater people" before the FCC. He had arranged the meeting in an attempt to convince the Commissioners to roll back the restrictions put in place as a result of Docket 18803. Here's a sample of what that meeting sounded like:

Meeting audio sample

Want to hear more? Well, over the next several months you can take a trip back in time to join Wayne Green, W2NSD, former Colorado's Marshal Quiat, AG0X, New York's Howard Lester W2ODC and Dick McKay, K6VGP, from California. This, as they and others go to Washington D-C -- to -- quite literaly -- set repeaters free.

Part 1 of the audio of that meeting is on our website as a Newsline Extra. In it you will meet the hams who traveled to Washington to speak on behalf of the nations FM and repeater community. You will also hear some of the presentations made by them. Its on line now at our f-t-p site at www.arnewsline.org slash quincy.

This is literally a page out of ham radio's history. Its here -- right now for you -- exclusively -- on the Amateur Radio Newsline. (ARNewesline(tm))

As much as I am disdained at public postings of this nature on news groups, they do tend to serve as a focused group for this particular topic.

BackyardAstronomy.org, a loose affiliation of amature astronomers is now available on the world-wide-web (http://www.backyardastronomy.org). In its infancy now, BackyardAstronomy.org is looking for interested parties in becoming affiliates in hosting public star parties, as well as feed-back on the website's content. we are looking for folks from around the country, and around the world who have telescopes, and are interested in donating an evening every quarter to public outreach star-parties.

As a registered affiliate, you will have a voice in which parties you will participate in, as well as the direction that BackyardAstronomy.org takes in the future. Of particular note is the allocation of affiliate revenue stream from the web-site. Asside from the cost of hosting (approx $50/mo), the proceeds are directed to be placed in a trust-fund to be donated (as Astronomy related tools) to Libraries and/or Public Schools. Affiliates will present the nominations for the organization, and vote for the final recipient (awarded annually).

If you are interested, I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Regards, and Clear Skies!

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1378 with a release date of Friday, January 9, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. V-K hams celebrate a new ham radio, some new Amateur Radio problems in Nepal, and Canadian hams learn that they may loose 220 to 22 MHz. All this and the latest in the war against B-P-L on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1378 coming your way right now.

RESTRUCTURING: NO-CODE COMES TO VK-LAND

Major changes to ham radio in Australia were celebrated on the air on New Years Day. Q-News Graham Kemp, VK4BB, listened in and tells us what he heard:

When 1 January 2004 arrived, so to did a new era for Amateur Radio operators around Australia. At one minute past midnight, amidst the fireworks across Australia, Amateur Radio short wave frequencies lit up, too, as they celebrated the removal of a requirement for Morse Code qualification by getting on air in unprecedented numbers.

A quick scan through the 80 meter band during the first hour of the QSO party showed that there was standing room only with stations of all license levels participating eagerly in the party with some limited and novice limited stations handling high amounts of static and nearby station noise with considerable skill .

All states and territories activated special radio stations for the event. There were plenty of Wireless Institute of Australia stations on the air to help with the bonus contacts with VK5WI, VK6WIA, VK2WI, VK4WIG, VK4WIA and VK4WIT heard during the quick scan around 80 meters.

In the act, the Wireless Institute of Australia's club station VK1WI was activated from the home of their President, Alan Hawes. Way up north long time WIA supporter John Stevens took to the airwaves from the Townsville region.

As the morning wore on the stations operating were fewer but still at a level that veteran operators say rival the heydays of HF operating when Novice licensees were first able to access the HF bands.

From Q-News Australia, I’m Graham Kemp, VK4BB, reporting for the Amateur Radio Newsline.

Still more changes to ham radio down-under is expected in the coming months. (Q-News)

RESTRUCTURING: NEW BANDS AND NO-CODE TO CROATIA

Croatia has become the first country in Region 1 to benefit from the expansion of the 40 metre band agreed at the World Radio Conference in Switzerland last summer. 9A amateurs have also been given privileges at 70 and 3,400 Mhz.

New amateur radio regulations came into effect in Croatia on the 26th of December. Since then, amateurs there may operate between 7,100 and 7,200 kHz on a Secondary basis, with a maximum power of 1,000 watts PEP, in addition to the normal Region 1 allocation of 7,000 to 7,100 kHz. On 4 metres, Croatian amateurs now have 70.000 to 70.450 MHz, with a power limit of 10 watts. They also gain a new band between 3,400 and 3,410 MHz, with a maximum permitted power of 150 watts.

The Morse code requirement for an HF bands licence was also dropped with the new regulations and there are now only two licence classes there: the full licence and a beginners' licence.

I’m Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, in Nottingham England. (GB2RS)

RADIO POLITICS: HAM RADIO IN NEPAL

Some bad news about ham radio in Nepal. Charles Harpole, K4VUD, says that his efforts, along with those of 9N1AA, to expand ham radio in that nation and to establish a memorial club station for the late Father Marshall Moran, 9N1MM, are on an indefinite hold. This, due to the disturbed social and political conditions there.

Harpole says that all radios and other gear that was donated some years ago have been distributed to the currently licensed native 9 N hams. Harpole says that the gear will come back to a club station someday. Harpole asks that everyone bear with this situation and extend understanding. (OPDX)

SPECTRUM REALLOCATION: 220 - 222MHZ ON THE BLOCK IN CANADA

Canadian Amateurs may lose part of the 220 to 222 MHz in the 1 point 3 meter band. band. Thats the recommendation being made by the Radio Advisory Board of Canada to Industry Canada following an 18 month survey. Rick Johnson, KA9VZD, is in Antioch, Illinois, with more:

In a move reminiscent of the situation in the United Sates back in 1991, the 220 to 222 MHz band would be transferred away from Canada’s Amateur Radio operators and given to that nations Mobile Radio service. That’s the bad part. Here’s the good news. The Radio Advisory Board of Canada has recommended that Amateur repeaters in this portion of the band be grandfathered to continue operation for a number of years. That time period would be decided by Industry Canada which is Canada’s radio and telecommunications regulator.

The Radio Advisory Board also recommended allocating 219 to 220 MHz to amateurs in Canada on a secondary, non-interfering basis. This says the R-A-B-C would put the band in agreement with a similar allocation now available to radio amateurs in the United States.

But here is where the Radio Advisory Board of Canada begins to think outside the proverbial box. While most administrations seems to frown on the idea of hams and non-hams sharing spectrum and talking with one another in a common allocation, Canada has other ideas.

The Radio Advisory Board wants a 150 kHz wide parcel in the reallocated band be designated as “Public Service Spectrum.” A small band to be shared by Canadian Amateur Radio operators and Canadian Mobile Services for special public safety and disaster communications applications. In other words, Canadian hams could talk with their non ham counterparts -- and vice versa -- in a disaster scenario.

Radio Amateurs of Canada, as a member of the Radio Advisory Board of Canada, has opposed any changes to the 220 to 222 MHz spectrum. Unfortunately, so far with very little success.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Rick Johnson, KA9VZD, reporting.

Industry Canada must now take this advice and decide what it will do with 220 to 222 Mhz, and how soon. The full story is on the web at http://www.rac.ca/news/canada.htm (RAC)

THE BPL FIGHT: BPL INTERFERENCE PROVEN TWO-WAY

Two organizations have filed comments with the FCC that augment previously expressed worries about potential interference from and to Broadband over Power Line systems. One of them shows that service providers could loose a lot of income if anyone operates even a low power radio near a B-P-L transmission line. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, reports:

Picking up on the what it terms as grave concerns expressed by the Federal Emergency Management Agency over implementation of B-P-L on December 4, the nonprofit Disaster Preparedness and Emergency Response Association has called on the FCC to require impartial B-P-L field testing as well as additional public comment and full and open public hearings.

The ARRL Letter says that in comments to the FCC the Disaster Preparedness organization concluded that serious interference to and disruption of critical emergency communications systems in several licensed services throughout North America would almost certainly result from BPL implementation as currently proposed.

Endorsing earlier FEMA remarks, the group said that proposed B-P-L systems don't just pose a risk of interference. Rather, they have already been shown to actually cause harmful interference to licensed radio services.

Meanwhile, the Amateur Radio Research and Development Corporation has filed additional test data with the FCC. This, to support preliminary findings suggesting that BPL systems are susceptible to interference from even modest Amateur Radio HF signals. AMRAD said its newest data demonstrated that amateur operation in the test neighborhood would cause many homes to lose their Internet connectivity.

For its RF susceptibility experiment, AMRAD used the Potomac Electric Power Company system test site. It features a mid-1960s vintage home with unshielded interior electrical wiring and overhead power lines.

AMRAD's tests found that at a distance of just over one-half mile, data transfer ceased in the face of a signal from a mobile 100 watt transmitter on 3 point 980 MHz. When sited adjacent to the test property, AMRAD said data transfer went away in all but one instance at a transmitter power of just 4 watts operating in the proposed Broadband Over Powerline spectrum.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, in Los Angeles.

What AMRAD has now done is to prove that interference with B-P-L will be a two way problem. More so for data providers who won't see much profit if something as simple as a 5 watt C-B radio can shut down a neighborhoods B-P-L operations. (ARRL)

THE BPL FIGHT: TAMPA TRIBUNE PRESENTS BOTH SIDES

An excellent article that details both sides of the B-P-L controversy appeared in the January 5th edition of the Tampa Tribune. In it, reporter Will Rodgers provides not only the industry side of the issue, but the ham radio side as well. The article can be read on-line at the cyberspace address in this weeks printed Amateur Radio Newsline report. WITH THE FCC: CHAIRMAN POWELL PROMOTES A FREE MARKET TELECOM REVOLUTION

The chairman of the FCC is sending out a message that the migration to digital telecommunications will not falter. Michael Powell says that entrenched service providers such as telephone companies and cable television providers can either join the party or suffer the consequences.

In a December 29th interview with reporters and editors from the San Jose Mercury News, Michael Powell shared a number of personal views. At one point he stated the current migration to digital is really a simple thesis. One that says for the past 100 years we've had one kind of communications system. That being a system that's both analog and narrow band. And while it's the greatest machine ever built by mankind, it's also extremely mature, and it's really, in Powell's view, at the end of its innovation life.

Perhaps Powell's most controversial statement came in regard to companies that are not eager to invest in the digital revolution. He said -- quote: "I have no problem if a big and venerable company no longer exists tomorrow, as long as that value is transferred somewhere else in the economy."

You can read more of what FCC Chairman Powell had to say at www.siliconvalley.com/mld/siliconvalley/7591252.htm (CGC)

RADIO LAW: FCC STILL NOT "NAMING NAMES" IN ENFORCEMENT ISSUES

The FCC's decision to no longer identify those hams allegedly violating the Part 97 Amateur Rules continues into the new year. The agency's Daryl Duckworth, N-N-Zero-W, has the latest word:

Duckworth: "The FCC, at least temporarilly, has revised the format in which it is supplying information on Amateur Radio enforcement actions. The new format provides only the state and city with a synopsys of the action taken, without naming any indiciduals.

Pursuant to privacy concerns, the FCC currently is reviewing its proceedures in its radio services regasrding the release of information about individuals. Following this review, the FCC will determine its privacy policy for the future. "

As we go to air there is still no word as to when the revirew of privacy proceedures at the FCC will be completed. Its been about two months since the ban on relesing names was put in place. (FCC)

COMMUNICATIONS LAW: NORWEGIAN COURT SAYS COPYING DVD'S NOT PIRACY

An appeals court in Oslo Norway has dealt a major blow to those trying to protect the intellectual copyright of material that they own from unauthorized duplication. This, after it upholds the acquittal of a 20-year-old Norwegian man who posted a program on the Internet for cracking DVD security codes.

Prosecutors had appealed a lower court decision after Jon Lech Johansen was acquitted last January of violating Norway's data break-in laws with his DeCSS program for DVDs. The prosecution had sought a 90-day suspended jail sentence, confiscation of computer equipment and a $2,940 fine. But the judge ruled that Johansen could freely copy DVDs he bought, adding he didn't violate the Nordic country's laws protecting intellectual property.

The case was widely seen as a test of Norway's computer protection laws. Prosecutors said they were considering appealing to the country's supreme court. In the meantime, the decision is being viewed as a major setback for anti-piracy proponents in the entertainment industry, worldwide. (Published news reports)

RADIO HONORS: GARC HONORS MEMORY OF KU3Z

The Goddard Spaceflight Center Amateur Radio Club in Greenbelt Maryland has honored one of its own. By a unanimous vote at the clubs Christmas party, the "WA3NAN Space Shuttle Retransmission Facility" has ben renamed the "Joe Grzesik KU3Z Memorial Space Shuttle and I-S-S Retransmission Facility." This, in honor of Grzesik’s outstanding support of relaying of space shuttle and International Space Station ham radio communications on the terrestrial Amateur bands for over two decades. Joe Grzesik KU3Z became a Silent Key in 2003. (N8PK vis the WA3NAN News Exchange)

HAM RADIO HONORS: SELECTING THE TOP 5 QSL MANAGER SURVEY

John Shelton, K1XN, Editor of the Go List says that it’s time again for his newsletters’ annual “Top 5 QSL Manager” survey. This is is a process by which DX’ers get to choose those that they consider to be the best QSL Managers with whom they have had dealings with in the past 12 months. Its also a way to provide at least a small “thank-you” to the work performed by these and other QSL Managers around the world.

The results of this survey will be given to Carl Smith, N4AA, for inclusion in the QRZ-DX bulletin and also announced on the GO LIST Reflector by mid February. To vote, send your list of those who you are the five best 5 of 2003 by e-mail to golist@golist.net before February 1st. Again, that address is golist@golist.net. (OPDX)

HAMFESTS: WINTERFEST IN VA. IN FEB.

Turning to the ham radio social calendar, the 28th annual Winterfest sponsored by the Vienna Wireless Society is slated for Sunday, February 29th. The gathering will take place at Northern Virginia Community College in Annandale, Virginia. And if you're ready to take the test, an Examination Team will be on hand Saturday, February 28th. More information is on the web at

MEETINGS AND CONFERENCES: AMSAT-NA IN FL IN FEBRUARY

And the next meeting of the Board of Directors of AMSAT-NA will take place at the Orlando Airport Clarion Hotel on Saturday, February 21 and Sunday, February 22nd. Starting at 8.30 am on Saturday, the meeting will be open to all AMSAT North America members wanting to take part.

Among the items to be discussed will be to develop the AMSAT North America Strategic Plan while considering current governing factors. AMSAT members wishing to attend and make a presentation to the Board should advise President Robin Haighton, VE3FRH by February 15th. Let him know the topic and the length of time needed to present. His e-mail is ve3frh@amsat.org (AMSAT-NA)

SPACE AND SCIENCE: NEW TRAVELING SPACE EXHIBIT

The largest traveling space exhibit ever has made its first stop The 12,000 square foot display will allow visitors to touch rocks from Mars and the moon, take a virtual visit to the red planet and explore the international space station.

The exhibit employs the most advanced technology available here on earth to get its message out. The exhibit will be at Seattle's Pacific Science Center through May 9th. Then, it begins its own journey on a 15 city tour over the next five years. (NASA News)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: SIREN SENSOR TEST IN L.A.

On the technology front, the Los Angeles Fire Department has been asked to study the possibility of equipping engines with a device to turn traffic lights green. This, so vehicles responding to emergencies don't have to stop at intersections. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, is in our Los Angeles studio with more:

Los Angeles City Councilman Tom LaBonge has asked the Fire Department to work with the City's Department of Transportation to start a pilot program using technology such as SirenSensor. This is an acoustically activated device that can differentiate emergency sirens from ambient noise and then warn the civilian driver of the approach of an emergency vehicle. It does this by shutting of a near-by car's audio system or radio and activating both audible and visual signals. The councilman believes that this technology can help police and firefighters respond to emergencies with greater speed.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, in the City of Angels.

No word when the tests of this remote control system might begin. More about SirenSensor is on the web at http://www.findarticles.com/cf_dls/m4PRN/1998_Nov_13/53213508/p1/article.jhtml (LA News)

NEW PRODUCTS: NEW QUICK-CHARGE NiMH BATTERIES

Turning to the latest in electronic products of interest to hams, we have this from battery maker Rayovac. That company has announced a new charger that it says is capable of fully restoring a specially designed Nickel Metal Hydride cell in only 15 minutes. Dubbed the I-C3, the new rechargeable cells and charging system uses Rayovac's In-Cell Charge Control technology that puts the control of recharging into the battery instead of the charger. The company says that doing this offers significant performance and convenience advantages over existing rechargeable and disposable battery systems. NEW PRODUCTS: INTEL IN YOUR TV

And the world's largest microchip maker will soon unveil plans to make integrated circuits for use in digital television receivers. Santa Clara, California based Intel is exploring a technology called liquid crystal on silicon which is a hybrid between the more expensive silicon microchips and liquid crystal displays. This could significantly lower the cost of flat panel high definition displays. Industry analysts say that if this technology is successful it would pose a serious threat to established consumer electronics chip makers in Europe and Japan, such as Philips and Sony Corp., as well as emerging players like Texas Instruments. THAT FINAL ITEM: THAT FINAL ITEM: ARDF

Lastly, some hams have learned the secret of enjoying the hobby while staying physically fit. They're the fans of on-foot transmitter hunting, also called radio-orienteering and ARDF. Reporter Joe Moell, K0OV, has the story of a California ham who is rapidly becoming one of the best.

I've told you about the many direction-finding medals that have been won by Jay Thompson W6JAY, Newsline's Young Ham of the Year. But you don't have to be Jay's age to be a big winner at international on-foot transmitter hunts. 61-year-old Bob Cooley KF6VSE of Pleasanton, California has just brought home a couple of gold medals from the IARU Region 3 Championships in Australia.

The competitions began November 28 near Ballarat, a historic gold mining town in northwestern Victoria province. They were hosted by the Wireless Institute of Australia and organized by the Victorian ARDF Group.

Cooley competed in M60, the Superveteran Category for men age 60 and above. On the 4.7-kilometer two-meter course, he found his required three fox transmitters in 1:30:25, seven minutes ahead of the second-place finisher. Then on the 5.6-kilometer 80-meter course, he did even better, finding all three foxes and getting to the finish line in 1:15:22.

All three IARU Regions hold championships in odd-numbered years. These events for Region 3, encompassing Asia and Oceania, drew 50 male and 9 female competitors from Australia, China, Japan, Korea, and New Zealand. KF6VSE was the only guest from North America.

A long-time competitor at non-radio type orienteering events, Bob has improved greatly since he discovered ARDF in 1999. He finished among the top ten in his age and gender category at the 2000 ARDF World Championships near Nanjing, China. This past summer, he won gold medals on both bands at the 2003 USA ARDF Championships near Cincinnati.

You can get a link to the complete results from Australia and learn more about world-class transmitter hunting on the Web at www.homingin.com. There you will also find the details on the upcoming USA ARDF Championships, which will take place in California next June. That's homingin -- one word -- homingin.com

From southern California, where we do transmitter hunting every month of the year, this is Joe Moell K-zero-Oscar-Victor, reporting for Newsline.

Absolutely nothing. There are a group of people who specialize in sending such tripe to as many UseNet newsgroups as possible -- possibly just for the disruption value, possibly to send covert messages, possibly for other reasons. The first has become known as "HipCrime" (or "DipSlime"), and his followers are generally known

Paul Schleck doesn't manage rec.radio.broadcasting, and I don't know much about him except that he's e-mailed me a couple times about xposting between rrb and rec.radio.info.

I moderate rrb, and while (like the original moderator) I try to be liberal in what I accept, there are certain basic guidelines that you must follow or I won't post your stuff.

Hi All:

This is KD6NRP in southern California. I maintain a web site (www.spacearchive.info) that covers astronomy and space news for California, Arizona, Nevada, Utah, and New Mexico.

Besides publishing stories about what NASA and universities are up to, I'd like to begin adding news stories about space-related amateur radio activities and events in the Southwest.

Here are some of the activities I'm interested in:

- High altitude balloon flights

- High altitude rocket launches

- Amateur satellite construction/prelaunch preparations

- Meteorscatter comms during meteor showers

- Extensive VHF openings due to aurorae, etc.

Please let me know if you learn of any such events.

The following is a closed circuit advisory for Amateur Radio Newsline bulletin stations. It is not necessarily for broadcast.

According to Support Fund Administrator Andy Jarema, N6TCQ, Amateur Radio Newsline has only received enough funding of late to keep the service going for another month or so. In other words, the bills from last November have been paid , but now money has to be raised to keep from loosing the phones and e-mail service from bills accrued in December.

Andy says that Newsline continues to exist hand to mouth on a week to week basis. He says that It is up to you and the listeners to make sure that it is funded so that it can continue to provide this vital service. Otherwise he may soon be forced to pull the plug.

Please help us to keep The Amateur Radio Newsline on the air. Our address is the Amateur Radio Newsline Support Fund, Post Office Box 660937 in Arcadia California. The Zipcode is 91066. Again and as always, we thank you.

That ends the closed circuit advisory with Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1379 with a release date of Friday, January 16, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. The ARRL Board meets to discuss the future of ham radio and lots of news on the B-P-L front. Find out the details on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1379 coming your way right now.

RESTRUCTURING: ARRL BOD MEETS IN CT JAN 16-17 TO DISCUSS WRC-03

Look for some major changes in the structure of the United States Amateur Radio service to be proposed or at least put open to study. This as the American Radio Relay Leagues Board of Directors holds its first annual meeting of 2004 as this newscast goes to air. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ, reports:

What’s to come under the ARRL Board of Directors scrutiny? The ARRL Letter points to the big item being the implementation of changes in US Amateur Radio rules. This, in the wake of World Radiocommunication Conference of 2003.

Among other significant changes, W-R-C 03 delegates agreed last summer to leave up to individual countries whether to require a Morse code test for access to amateur high-frequency allocations. Several nations have already dropped the code testing requirement for High Frequency access. In the United States, the FCC last year invited public comments on 14 Morse-related petitions for rule making, but it has not yet acted on the issue. When it meets, the ARRL Board is expected to discuss in detail recommendations in response to W-R-C 03 that were developed during last November's meeting of the ARRL Executive Committee.

Most observers generally believe that there will not be any major action by the FCC to implement W-R-C 03 changes until it hears from the League. This Board meeting is expected to generate an ARRL position that will be transmitted to the regulatory agency, but you will have to wait until the meeting is over and the League issues its own statement to find out what that position is. We suggest you keep an eye on www.arrl.org the next few days for any breaking news on ARRL Board decisions.

Among other actions, the Board also will elect members to the Executive Committee and appoint three directors to the ARRL Foundation Board. The Board also will elect officers for the next two years. Incumbent President Jim Haynie, W5JBP, has indicated that he plans to run for a third term. (ARRL Letter, others)

RESTRUCTURING: IARU REGION 1 TO MEET IN FEB

Meantime the International Amateur Radio Union will be holding its next regional conference in a few weeks. Q-News Graham Kemp, VK4BB, is here with that story:

The Twelfth Regional Conference Is being held from February 16 - 20, 2004 in Taipei, Taiwan. There are Working Groups, where most if not all the business is discussed and these run parallel to one another. A wealth of information is exchanged on the floor at these Working Groups.

There are formal discussion times and of course many informal discussions and gatherings such as over meals and receptions and so on. Contacts made at these conferences assist when an issue comes up back home, help can be sought on a first name basis.

There will be workshops on two important topics. The first is a Workshop on WRC 2003. It will include a detailed discussion on the new Article 25. To facilitate the discussion, a paper by Michael Owen VK3KI is being circulated with the Conference papers so that all societies will be able to make an advance study and brief their delegation on issues to raise and matters for seeking clarification.

The other Workshop will be on The Society's IARU Liaison Officer. The Workshop will help gain a better appreciation of the duties and responsibilities of the Liaison Officer and hopefully lead to greater satisfaction from the work carried out by Liaison Officers.

Graham Kemp, VK4BB, reporting.

THE BPL FIGHT: AUSTRIA TURNS OFF ITS BPL

And a big win overseas on the B-P-L front as reported by the ARRL Letter. The Austrian Amateur Transmitter Federation says that a Broadband over Power Line field test in the city of Linz has been cut short as a result of excessive radio interference. According to the national ham radio society, the Government Ministry for Commerce, Innovation and Technology closed down Linz Power Company's B-P-L pilot project because it was generating interference on the HF bands.

Shortwave broadcaster Radio Austria says the case that brought the issue to a head was a Red Cross report. One that documented that emergency services radio traffic during a disaster response drill last May was the victim of massive B-P-L interference. According to the broadcaster, measurements were said to have indicated that radiation from the B-P-L system exceeded permissible field strength levels by a factor of 10,000.

Last fall, Linz amateurs and their national leaders got together with power company representatives in an effort to resolve BPL's incompatibility with High Frequency ham radio operation. The meetings followed news reports of interference to emergency service communications and QRM complaints from several area hams.

The Commerce Ministry Order not only means the end of the Linz B-P-L pilot project. It also perminently curtails any future the deployment of this technology in Austria. (ARRL)

THE BPL FIGHT: PANASONIC TO INTRODUCE HOME BPL SYSTEM

A form of Broadband Over Powerline may be coming to a house near you. This as Matsushita Electric announces that it has developed a high-speed home power line IP networking technology capable of high-definition video transmission.

Amateur Radio Newsline’s Bruce Tennant, K6PZW has more:

Best known for its Panasonic-brand products, a newly developed Matsushita Electric technology will make it possible to provide broadband connectivity to every room in a house via existing home power lines. This, using an Panasonic branded adapter about the size of an audiocassette that the company says cannot be interfere with by radio amateurs.

The adapter contains a power plug, power supply, LAN connector and an L-S-I chipset that converts broadband data into signals that can travel over a power line. The unit connects a broadband Internet link such as D-S-L or optical fiber lines to the existing power lines in the home. According to Panasonic, a user simply plugs the P-L-C adapter into any AC power outlet to create a home broadband networking without installing new cabling.

The most interersting claim being made by Panasonic is that the new technology it calls H-D P-L-C resists interference from other signals such as those from ham radio that the company says often use the same frequencies as wired communications. In order to realize this capability, Panasonic claims that it combined Orthogonal Frequency Division Multiplexing and Wavelet technology to reduce the noise caused by the interference down to one-fifth of typical noise levels. This the company says creates a proprietary interference-resistant and ultra-high-speed modulation-demodulation method without use of additional filter circuitry that eliminates the frequencies where interference is likely to occur. What impact that this new technology will have on over-the-air radio reception by hams and other spectrum users is not addressed.

Panasonic expects to introduce P-L-C adapters for both consumer and office use by the end of 2004 providing that the HomePlug Powerline Alliance determines a final specification in the summer of 2004. An L-S-I chipset will also become commercially available at the same time.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, reporting.

Matsushita Electric and its Panasonic subsidiary exhibited this new Powerline Communications technology at 2004 International CES held last week in Las Vegas. Both companies are members of the HomePlug Alliance which has been working with the ARRL to notch out amateur frequencies from its powerline communications signals. (ARNewsline(tm), CQ -- from news releases)

THE BPL FIGHT: W1RFI SPEAKS IN PA

Meantime, one of the leading experts in the area of Broadband Over Powerline interference has made his thoughts known. Speaking at Frankford Radio Club meeting on in Philadelphia last Tuesday night, Ed Hare, W1RFI, said that B-P-L is not good news for the radio spectrum. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Mark Abramovich, N-T-3-V, was there and has this report:

When Ed Hare talks, amateurs and others listen.

During an hour-long presentation at the FRC's meeting on the University of Sciences campus here in Philadelphia, Hare made the case that Broadband Over Power Lines is a threat to the future of the hobby.

"If these B-P-L systems came to my neighborhood, HF Amateur Radio as I know it would be over," he explains. "I mean S-9 on multiple bands would seriously cripple me.

Oh, we've had more serious threats when Amateur Radio was shut down after the world wars, but this ranks up there with it in terms of the potential to cause harm to the types of Amateur Radio that many of us enjoy doing."

The reason: Hare says B-P-L field tests by a handful of electric utilities use power line systems to carry high-frequency or HF signals to homes and businesses to give them connections to the internet.

"My neighbor's computer system is a local interference problem," he says. "I'm not going to hear the one three blocks up the street.

But Broadband over Power Line, they're going to intentially conduct those signals onto the overhead lines that will run through my house and then they're going to build this as big as an entire neighborhood. Clearly it has a different interference potential."

Hare says he's charted the interference on 20-meters, calculating it on a national and worldwide scale should B-P-L be rolled out.

"The ability of HF to sustain worldwide communication if you have 30-microvolts per meter of noise will not exist," Hare says.

He says the interference potential goes beyond the ham bands.

"This will affect military spectrum, this will affect international broadcasting spectrum, this will affect other government spectrum," Hare says. "This will affect commercial HF spectrum and as I tune outside the ham bands, you know what? That's not a radio wasteland, there's a lot of stuff there."

And, Hare notes, there's serious concern about medical-diagnostic devices.

"I go to my doctor's office, it's a house in a residential neighborhood," Hare says. "And he's going to hook me up to the E-K-G machine to find out whether I'm going to die before the end of the day. And, if that thing's interfered with, maybe I'll get a false positive or a false negative."

Finally, Hare says the amateur community is not alone.

"I'm very pleased to see groups like FEMA, NTIA and others getting involved with this saying essentially the same things ARRL is doing based on their work," Hare says.

"They, too, see a serious inteference potential to HF that needs to be addressed before B-P-L could ever be considered in any way."

For Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz NT3V in Philadelphia.

RESCUE RADIO: NIUE DEVASTATION REPORTED BY HAM RADIO

From the rescue radio file, word that radio amateurs became a lifeline when tropical cyclone Heta ripped through the tiny island republic of Niue two weeks ago. The storm left the tropical paradise with no regular means of communicating with the outside world and summoning much needed relief aid. Enter ham radio.

According to news reports, a radio operator on the island put out a a call for help which was answered by Steve McCully, W7TZ/ZF2CQ, in the California community of Oak Hills. In fact, it was McCully who phoned the New Zealand Consul General in Los Angeles and provided that government with its first notification that Niue had been ravaged by 186 mile per hour winds.

RADIO ALLOCATIONS: RULES FOR 5.9 GHZ INTELLIGENT TRANSPORTATION ADOPTED

The FCC has adopted service and licensing rules for the 5.9 GHz Band for Dedicated Short Range Communications or D-S-R-C. This, from 5.850 to 5.925 Ghz in the Intelligent Transportation Systems Radio Service.

According to the Commission, DSRC systems will provide a limited-range, wireless link to transfer information between vehicles traveling at high speeds and roadside units or other vehicles. Some examples include intersection collision avoidance, work zone warnings, road condition warnings, electronic toll collections, and electronic payment for gas, fast food, or parking.

ENFORCEMENT: $5.4 MILLION DOLLAR FAX FINE

Some good news for anyone who is sick and tired of getting unsolicited junk faxes. Federal regulators approved a record $5.4 million fine against a company for faxing unsolicited advertisements to consumers.

The five-member commission unanimously approved the penalty on Wednesday, December 31st but did not announce its decision until Monday, January 5th. The FCC said Fax.com accrued the penalty because it violated the rules 489 separate times incurring an $11,000 fine for each instance. In affirming the fine the commission rejected arguments from Fax.com that the ban on unsolicited faxes was unconstitutional and that the fine was excessive.

The Federal Communications Commission said the fine given to Fax.com, Inc. was the largest ever for violating do-not-fax rules that went into effect in 1992. Fax.com sends faxes on behalf of clients that pay a fee. Its website claims that the company offers the industry's largest fax number database of more than 30 million numbers. Company officials did not immediately respond to a requests from the media for comment. (FCC)

COMMUNICATIONS LAW: BLAME THE COMPUTER

Prosecutors looking to throw the book at accused computer hackers have come across a legal defense. In four words, “the computer did it.” And in this era of hijacked PCs and laptops, jury’s are believing it.

In one case in the U-K, nineteen year old Aaron Caffrey was recently acquitted on charges of hacking into the computer system of the Houston Pilots back in 2001. Houston Pilots is an independent contractor for the Port of Houston.

Caffrey had been charged with breaking into the system and crippling the server that provides scheduling information for all ships entering the world's sixth-largest port. Although authorities traced the hack back to Caffrey's computer, he claimed that someone must have remotely planted a "trojan program" onto it. That it was the trojan and not him that did the hacking. (Published reports)

HAMFESTS AND CONVENTIONS: THE 44TH MIAMI TROPICAL HAMBOREE

Turning to the hamfest and convention scene, the 2004 season really kicks off the weekend of February 7th and 8th. This, when the doors of the Miami Dade County Fair Expo Center in Florida swing open to welcome the 44th Tropical Hamboree.

This years Hamboree has a long list of great programs with speakers that include such notables as ARRL President Haynie W5JPB, FCC chief rules enforcer Riley Hollingsworth K4ZDH, IARU President Larry Price W4RA, CQ Communications' Rich Moseson W2VU and Radio School's Gordon West WB6NOA. They will take part in a free form round-table discussion of the future of the Amateur Radio service. Moseson and West will later join Florida’s own Sherri Bower, W4STB, in the conventions Public Relations Forum.

Attendees will also get to hear the latest DXpedition Adventures presented by South Florida DX Association and learn about Amateur Radio at the National Hurricane Center. There will be lots of vendors and all the other niceties that make the Miami Tropical Hamboree a must attend on the convention circuit. The event is sponsored by the Dade Radio Club of Miami, Inc. More information is on-line at www.hamboree.org (Tropical Hamboree)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: AIR LEAK ON ISS LEADS TO CONTACT CANCELLATION

A small air leak on board the International Space Station forced cancellation of the Monday, January 12th scheduled contact with the Armstrong Middle School in Flint, Michigan. The I-S-S recently began experiencing the slight loss of air pressure, which the crew had to locate and repair. This meant that they had to devote all their time to resolving this issue using special ultrasonic monitoring. The leak was located and repaired late the same day. Contacts missed are in the process of being rescheduled. (ARISS)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: UPDATE ON OPERATIONS FROM ARISS

We also have an update on what’s happening with the new radio gear on board the International Space Station and why hams on the ground heard un proto packets for a while. Amateur Radio Newsline’s David Black, KB4KCH, is here with the details:

Frank Bauer, KA3HDO, is the Chairman of ARISS. Amateur Radio on the International Space Station. And Bauer says that he has been sifting through the many e-mails he has received over the past few days regarding ham radio operations from the orbiting outpost.

Bauer says that the new Kenwood D 700 radio recently delivered to the ISS is still in what he terms as its "raw" form. In other words, the ARISS team has not yet run a formal engineering checkout of the new hardware and the ISS crew has not gotten the operations procedures uplinked to them.

According to Bauer, at this point in time the Kenwood radio system is not properly configured for digital operations. A reconfiguration change occurred after it was brought on line which has led to this issue. So, what hams see in the way of packets coming from the station right now will probably not be what they will see in the future.

As to the signal fading problem Bauer says that its probably due to the antenna that’s currently in use. The astro-hams are now using the new antenna system located on the Service Module and is a single, bottom mounted unit. Since the structure of ISS is very large, it is quite possible that the ham radio signals are getting some blockage.

Bauer says that ARISS will continue to evaluate the antenna system performance. He notes that there are now 4 antenna systems that can support 2 meter and 70 cm operation. This says Bauer gives a lot of possibilities with the antennas, including signal splitting, if need be.

As to the packet signals heard during a recent school contact? Those who heard it heard history being made. The first ever multiple radio operations from the International Space Station. While the older Ericsson radio system was doing the school contact, the new Kenwood radio system was active doing packet. It was also -- perhaps -- the first man made Q-R-M from space.

Bauer says that the astro-hams kind of surprised everyone on the ground by getting the radio system installed much earlier than they had anticipated. As a result, the Amateur Radio on the International Spasce Station team has been working feverishly with the space agencies to get the procedures uplinked and engineering checkouts scheduled. INTERNATIONAL - INDIA: HAM RADIO AT THE CHILDREN’S SCIENCE CONGRESS

On the international scene, ham radio was a part of India’s 11th National Children Science Congress. Organized by the an educational group in the city of Lucknow the event ran from the 27th to the 31st December with more than 2000 students, teachers and science promoters from various parts of that nation taking part.

According to VU2DCT, Lucknow hams were also called by program organizers to give the demonstration on Amateur Radio for the benefit of participants. Most of attendees were astonished to listen a live QSO between VU2WAP and a ham in Columbia, South America. During their presentation the hams emphasized the role of Amateur Radio in disaster situations. (Q-News)

THAT FINAL ITEM: THE POTTY MOUTH AND THE VURGER

And finally this weeek, customers at a Troy, Michigan Burger King are getting something extra with their orders that’s a little harder to swallow than a hamburger and fries. And its coming by radio. Rick Johnson, KA9VZD, is here with a complete menu on this one:

The Detroit News is reporting that police in nearby Troy are looking for the person who has found a way to broadcast on the same frequency as a local Burger King drive-through radio system. The jammer has interrupted business transactions with obscene remarks on several occasions that have startled customers.

The most recent incident took place on January 8th. It happened when the manager went outside to apologize to customers and look for the source of the salty talk. Suddenly a voice boomed from the speaker and said -- quote: “There’s nothing you or the police can do about this, so get your fat -- err -- lets say posterior -- take your fat posterior back inside and take your goons with you.”

Police suspect the calls are being made by a mobile radio transmitter or walkie-talkie in the vacinity of the restaurant. Illegal use of any telecommunications device is a misdemeanor in the city of Troy. And as we all know, its also a serious violation of Federal law.

Heading out the door for some fast food, I’m Rick Johnson, KA9VZD, reporting for the Amateur Radio Newsline.

Hey -- can you make that a double cheeseburger and a double order of rings. Yeah and hold the mayo....

Sounds as if the story made Rick a bit hungry. And oh yes. Troy police say that they have the FCC for assistance to track down this all beef potty-mouth with a mustard laced tongue. (ARNewsline(tm) from vasrious sources)

Hi,

I made a simple PIC-based keypad for the FT-817.

With a 16-buttons keypad it makes you set the frequency, change mode (AM/FM/USB/LSB/CW), VFO (A/B), repeater shift (+/-/simplex) and split.

You can find the project on my website at http://www.qsl.net/it9xxs

The firmware for the PIC is free to any amateur radio operator, for non-commercial purposes only.

Most likely is ISS, easy to hear with a ground plain antenna.
145.800, however it is mostly APRS Packet traffic unless you can catch the crew in contact with a school. The crew very rarely contacts individual hams, but if time permits they will do a signal report exchange, in other words keep it short!
APRS Packet can be decoded using the Soundcard on your computer.
Download AGWPE.zip: http://www.elcom.gr/sv2agw/inst.htm
Also on the same page: AGWMONITOR.ZIP
AGWPE is a virtual Packet engine for the soundcard, the Monitor program reads the Packet protocol messages.
What you will most likely see are latitude and longitude numbers of the station sending the message and a short greeting like "Hi from Matt in "town".

If you can tune and have antennas for the other birds, would not hurt to listen on the frequencies listed for them.

Also a good satellite tracking program would be needed so you know when to listen.

Good and free Satscape: http://www.satscape.co.uk/

Make sure you set up the observer location nearest city to your location listed will be fine.

Try the FM birds AO-27 and SO-50 - a decent high-gain omni antenna will let you hear them at nearly any elevation except directly overhead. I've worked both with an HT and a high-gain whip (but my Arrow II works much better.) Both sats transmit at 436.795 (+- up to 10khz on either side for Doppler shift.)
AO-27 is currently only transmitting voice on evening passes over North America (when it's moving south to north.) SO-50 is turned on for most passes over North America, but it does have to be activated by a control operator each pass, so it's not always on. And make sure you turn your squelch off - AO-27 only puts out 500mw into a 1/4 wave whip, and SO50 runs about 3db below that, so they won't break your squelch.

http://www.amsat.org/amsat/intro/ao27faq.html

Hope this helps, and keep an ear out for me - I'm in most North American passes in the evening.

Actually, it's jerks like you that are intent on destroying everyone's enjoyment of the hobby. FYI - it's the hams that have entered the hobby over the last 17 years that have boosted and improved the effectiveness of the service in times of national emergency. Everyone's sick of listening to whiners like you with your prognostications of doom and gloom.

Do the hobby at large a favor and go phuk yourself...

And this has WHAT to do with Amateur Radio in space?!

BTW - If you're so sick of ham radio, please do not hesitate to send all your equipment to me. Thanks!

I don't normally respond to anonymous trolls, but I feel compelled to counter
your statements above.

IF you feel that the ARRL "is intent on destroying (your) enjoyment of the hobby," you must get your enjoyment purely from a self-delusional sense of superiority.

I've been licensed for well over 25 years. The ham bands have not "become sounding like CB over the last 17 years" - there have always been a few bad apples - MANY of them OTs who passed the 20 wpm Morse test and believe they are some sort of gods.

Yes, new hams may make some operating errors and they may need a little coaching and immersion in the "culture" of ham radio to get to the point where they sound experienced. We ALL made such mistakes when we first got on the air - learning by doing is the best way to learn.

So get off your high horse ...

I was unhappy with the ARRL's policy on Morse testing for a long time, and I'm still not happy with the aspect of their new proposal that would keep Morse testing for Extra. (Though I have nothing to gain personally, since I'm already an Extra.)

HOWEVER, the ARRL does SO much good for ham radio that I finally decided to take out a life membership - BEFORE their proposal came out (not knowing what position they'd take on the code test).

If all the OT's bail out on the ARRL over this, they will be cutting off their noses to spite their face.

I encourage everyone to maintain their ARRL membership. And, I encourage those who aren't members to join. The best way to influence the ARRL in a progressive direction is from the inside - join, then talk to your ARRL Director, make your views known, and let him/her know that your vote in the next ARRL Director election in your division depends on their performance.

Carl - wk3c

I agree 100%. If one wants to influence the direction of change, they've got to get in there and do the work. "Taking their marbles and going home" accomplishes nothing except leave the field wide open for people with other viewpoints. It removes the necessary balance and resulting debate that is necessary for progress. Not everyone is going to agree with the direction and result but the effort that goes into it will usually (but not always) yield a better result than when a single point of view is allowed to be put into affect without the scrutiny that comes with such debate.

Have you actually listened to CB lately? Ignoring the heterodynes from the AM carriers, it sounds completely different than even a crowded during a contest ham band.

Oh man is that rich. So your saying the 'new hams in the last 17 years' are the only ones that have made advancements in the art and/or provided emergency communications?

What a idiot and a conceited one at that.

Do yourself a favor, go buy a copy of 200 meters and down, then read 50 years of the ARRL. Then come back and say the same thing goof.

Well Carl, our Director . Frank Butler don't even answer e-mails on the subject, and others.

Knowing the gang of 15 is so on high I can only assume they have their noses in the clouds that they can't hear us lowley constituits.

Most people I have talked to, on the air, and on the internet, think the proposal is terrible. Most of which are/were ARRL members. And all to the man saying they are dropping it.

Dream on. The ARRL does not listen. But its members read it loud and clear . Its called money. And to hell with what the members really want.

So you would support the League no matter what they do because they are the "only game in town?"

By that logic, if you were living in Iraq you would have supported Saddam Hussein (or Hitler in Germany).

There comes a time when you have to think and act for yourself. If the League is going to pander to the "give me a free upgrade" crowd, then let that crowd support them. I dropped my membership a few years ago after seeing the League's "re-structuring" proposal.

You can only fight the undesirable changes from the inside. By bailing out, you've let the people with ideas you don't like have free rein. Why didn't you get in there and oppose it? Run for office? Solicit the support of like minded people in a letter writing campaign? Or if you didn't want to do the work, find someone who thinks like you and push them to do the work? Work for ARRL rule changes that wouldn't let the ARRL submit FCC petitions without getting a confirming vote of the membership?

No I support them because they have the horsepower to get things done.
I may not agree with them on all issues, but it is a place to make our voices heard.
Enough of us writing the League can make a difference.
Squabbling on the NG's and dropping out will accomplish little.

I live in Kansas Toto. Poor logic on your part.
Like don't support the US government because they passed a law you don't agree with.
I write my government reps and the ARRL regularly -- do you ??

Well you can drop out and scream on the NG's or you can work with and thru the ARRL to get things done.
I doubt the ARRL reads this NG.

The ARRL has accomplihed much in the interests of Amateur Radio.

I did write ARRL when I was a member, and also spoke to their reps at club meetings. But they always seemed more interested in justifying the positions the League was committed to than listening to members' ideas.

I'm not screaming, just stating my opinion. I was a League member for many years. But when they repeatedly take positions on important issues that I think are wrong, why should I continue to support them? If they feel that the long-time hams will always support them no matter what, they will continue to ignore us and take us for granted. Perhaps if enough of the Old Timers drop out, they will get the message.

I suspect a few of the ARRL crowd do read these NGs.

Not lately. They've also made some enormous blunders.

Did you try running for office yourself or, if you lacked time to run,

Old timers dropping out will not do a thing. There are enough new people coming in that they won't even notice. Instead we will be left with an even more unbalanced viewpoint.

Depends on your point of view. I'm going to encourage more cranky old hams to drop out.

Although new versus old does cause friction, the balance is still needed.
The new bring fresh enthusiasm and new ideas. The old have the experience to weigh these ideas and modify them so they will work or to spot ideas that have been tried in the past and known to fail. We need both old and new.

I won't join the ARRL because full membership now requires a frontal lobotomy. If you see your section manager or Division director at a meeting or Hamfest, ask them how their surgury went, then slap the shit out of them for me.

Here we go again with the demographics. The ARS is a geriatric service.

Too bad they took the birth date out of the database.

She's kind of right, Brian. I'd modify it that the oldsters should be the helpful type, not the ones spitting bile about how awful or stupid everyone is anymore. 8^) I really enjoy talking with old timers about ham radio and radio in general as long as I don't get an earful of vitriol.

I'm afraid you will need to slap them in order to get their attention.
The BOD doesn't listen to members or hams like me anymore.

If the ARRL leadership had cared about the state of amateur radio and the quality of its operators, they never would have made the proposals that they've made over the last 11 years. To them its let us get more morons licensed so we can get more money in the ole bank account. The ARRL leadership doesn't care for quality, capable operators. But their plan will back fire on them and ham radio has and will suffer. When you hand free licenses to everyone, those people don't appreciate it and probably won't buy a membership. You always appreciate something more when you had to work harder to get it and you'll take care of it. But to the ARRL it's all about money and I'll bet anyone in this group that if they get their way with their proposal they will offer a 12 dollar discount to new ham non-members like they did at the last restructuring. "Take a ham test, and we'll discount new membership on the price of your VEC test fee!"

Oh well, Nuff said. Most of you don't care anyway. Back to listening to the lids and CBer type behavior on the bands. 73

Keep in mind also that the vitriolic ones tend to be highly vocal and noticeable thus giving people the impression that there are a lot of them when in reality they are only a handful.

When they came out with incentive licensing, there was a vocal minority complaining. When they came out with the No code tech license there was a vocal minority complaining. Now they are doing away with most of the CW requirement and there is a vocal minority complaining.

WAyyyy back there used to be the class separation and then they did away with it to the point where the General class had full privileges. Then incentive licensing, then the new structure with code free techs on VHF, then they lowered the CW speed and now they are doing away with most of the CW requirements which are there due to international agreements.

"To me" it matters little whether they make the requirements tech heavy, procedure heavy, or require CW. It has little to do with the character of those coming into the service.

Each change has brought out the "gloom and doom" element proclaiming this will be the straw that broke the camel's back and the end of Amateur Radio.

Maybe in addition to the technology and procedure testing we should run a test on character traits? <:-)) If we had been doing such there would be a number of current hams who would have failed.

I have gone the whole route and yes, I passed 20 wpm to get my license, but I don't see that need be a requirement for future applicants.

It really doesn't matter how we test, there is always going to be a mix of character traits and groups who oppose the way each other operate. There will also be a small percent who will not be satisfied no mater what is done.

72. AO-40 in critical condition

From the AMSAT Bulletin board:

Dear All,

AO-40 is in a very critical situation at the moment..

Our command team is working hard to get AO-40 back under fully control.

Last night (Orbit #1488, 2004-01-27, 00:57, UTC MA 42) the battery voltage suddenly dropped from 26V to 14V. We currently believe, that in some kind of domino effect more battery cells died shortened.
There is also a report that the Heat Pipes 4+X+Y temperature suddenly rise from 27°C to 92°C, when a few moments later the voltage went down.
This report is not yet confirmed..

Several stations reported, that around this time the S-Band signal dropped rapidly. This would be consistent with the low bus voltage, preventing the S-TX from working properly. At the moment we assume that the IHU is still working.

Command stations are trying to send send blind commands to the spacecraft in an attempt to switch over to the auxiliary battery.

If that does not help, than the IHU will be reseted and loaded with some software to switch the relays.

It may take some time, perhaps until the sun angle is getting better.

Well... I'm gonna try again. I posted this over 8 hours ago and it's not shown up on my server yet so my apologies if it turns up twice.

When they came out with incentive licensing, there was a vocal minority complaining. When they came out with the No code tech license there was a vocal minority complaining. Now they are doing away with most of the CW requirement and there is a vocal minority complaining.

From Amsat Bulletin Board:

Initial attempts today at recovering the S2 beacon on AO-40 have so far not been successful. However, these will be repeated many more times from multiple locations in the days ahead. We have a good "fix" on ALON/ALAT and we are spinning at 3.5 RPM, so we have quite a few days/weeks before the squints become problematic due to the mystery effect. Currently, the mystery effect is working for us to improve solar angle. Attempts will also be made in the next few days to bring the K-Tx on line and search for its signal. The command team has a series of simple machine code commands that, if heard, should activate transmitters, switch receivers, switch batteries, etc. without having to load the flight software into the IHU-1.

By way of review, the command team had been watching the main battery for a number of months and noting that its behavior, while not alarming, was not fully as expected. In particular, there were voltage fluctuations with spin under relatively light power loads. When panels 1-6 received sunlight their 1/2 complement of solar cells would often lead to a voltage dip, which would pop back up when the fully arrayed panels were in the sunlight. This suggested that perhaps one cell in the 20 cell main battery might be weakening. On Sunday, we noted that the battery was not maintaining its set voltage and this led to the safety software shutting off the passbands. Some minor adjustments were made to the solar array voltage offsets and this helped some, but we stayed in passband off mode to study the matter further. It appears that at this time we may have acquired a second bad or shorted cell, though we are analyzing this further. During eclipse on orbit 1487, at approximately 1930 utc on 2004-01-26 the battery voltage hit the extreme low voltage trigger. This caused safety resets of the battery and solar array set points and the auxiliary battery was tied in to the main battery. This all appears to have happened benignly, and when I got AOS at MA=8, about an hour and a half later on the following orbit, I noted that the extreme low voltage flag had been set ,as well as the other changes noted. Voltages on both batteries at this time were similar to other post-Sunday values, as were the charge currents. At this voltage level, the auxiliary battery was considerably undercharged. We appeared to be in a stable, though not fully nominal mode, and I was in the process of noting the status of things to the command team to decide on the next course of action when, at 00:39:59 utc the battery voltage suddenly dropped from its post-Sunday level of 25.5 to 26.5 volts, down to 18 volts. This was accompanied by an expected increase in charge current. The safety software shut off the S2 Tx at the next MA change, and I brought it back up manually twice, noting that the voltage was relatively stable at about 14 volts with heavy charge current. After letting things sit for a few minutes, a third attempt to start the S2 Tx was not successful.

Our current best understanding is that we suffered a catastrophic failure of the main battery which is clamping the buss voltage at a low level. Accordingly, we have been concentrating our efforts on trying to connect the auxiliary battery to the main buss and disconnect the main battery, placing it on trickle charge for further analysis. If we can manage just 10 volts on the main buss to activate the IHU-1 we should be able to accomplish this with the simple machine codes noted above, and the voltages should come up to levels where the S2 will function.

If you examine the telemetry during this time, 10 minutes after the low-voltage "event", the temperature of heat pipe 4 + X + Y takes a 34.2 deg.C apparent increase in temperature over a span of 14 seconds (1 block interval), and continues to rapidly increase almost to the top of the scale. Given the timing of this change, 10 minutes after the low-voltage "event", its rapidity, the thermal inertia of the large, circumferential heat pipes, etc... it is difficult to believe that this is real. Most importantly, this heat pipe sensor sits in a "benign" area at the apex of panels 1 and 6, near the high-gain end of the spacecraft. There are no batteries or BCR's in this region, only the controller for the liquid rocket motor (which was powered off!), and the L1 receiver, which shows no accompanying change in temperature. All of the BCR's and batteries are much closer to heat pipes 1 and 2 at the omni end of the spacecraft. Therefore, this may represent a failure of the software/hardware due to low voltage, rather than a real temperature increase. However, this will be studied further. No other telemetry anomalies have been noted but we continue to look.

Hi,

In order to complete an article, can someone provide me an URL or give me technical data about the telecommunication system used at JPL with Mars Rovers Spirit and Opportunity ?
I am searching data about frequencies used at DSN, low gain antenna radiation pattern, power, sensitivity, high gain antenna beam width, radiation pattern, bandwith, emitting power, strength of receive signal, sensitivity, gain, sizing

There are some info at marsrovers.jpl... but very few.

Thanks in advance

Hi Thierry,

This 13-page PDF document was written in 1997 but might answer a lot of your questions. It doesn't talk about the direct link that the current rovers use sometimes but does cover UHF to the satellite relays.

HAM RADIO POLITICS: A NEW DIRECTION

Topping the news this week -- honoring one of our own. Enlisting an army of volunteers to make us all a little bit better -- and doing it in the name of the late Roy Neal, K6DUE. But first -- the biggest organization of Amateur Radio operators in the world finally takes a position on the code versus no-code issue. The ARRL is asking the FCC in a petition for rulemaking to create a no code entry level H-F license for anyone who can successfully pass a written exam of a mere 25 questions. If the FCC accepts the ARRL idea, it would keep the more stringent requirements for the Amateur Extra Class license, including their ability to send and receive Morse code. Amateur Radio Newsline’s David Black, KB4KCH, takes a look at the details of what the ARRL is asking the FCC to do:

Code free access to ham radio's high frequency bands ... it's part of what could change amateur radio's complexion forever. And it could become reality.

The ARRL says it will ask the FCC to make sweeping changes to the United States amateur radio service. Perhaps the biggest change of all: Creating a new entry level ham radio license that grants access to high frequencies without requiring any Morse code proficiency.

But that's not all. The League also proposes consolidating all amateur radio licenses into three classes: Novice, as it's being called for now, General and the highest level, Extra. And only the Extra class license would require Morse code proficiency--of 5 words per minute. The new Novice license would require a 25-question written test and would offer limited HF, Morse code, data and phone and image privileges on 80, 40, 15 and 10 meters. Novices would also have VHF and UHF privileges, including access to 6 meters and 2 meters. Their power levels would be restricted to 100 watts on 80, 40 and 15 meters, and to 50 watts on 10 meters and higher.

The middle amateur radio license would continue to be the General, but it would include all current Technician, Tech Plus and present General license holders. This license would not require a Morse code test. Under this proposal, if you are a current Technician or Technician Plus, you would automatically obtain General class privileges with no additional testing. The current General examination would remain unchanged for new applicants.

The third license class, the Extra, would involve the fewest changes. Under the League proposal, hams with Advanced class licenses would essentially automatically become Extra class because of similarities in the technical proficiency required for both levels. New applicants for the Extra class license would have to pass a 5 word-per-minute code test--the written test would stay as is. If you're currently a Novice, Tech Plus or General license holder, you would receive a lifetime 5 word-per-minute credit.

The proposed changes got the blessing of ARRL's Board of Directors January 16th. The proposals are the creation of a League Executive Committee acting at the Board's direction. The new structure suggestions come as a result to changes in international radio regulations that are part of the World Radiocommunication Conference 2003. At the same time, the FCC has been wanting to streamline the amateur radio licensing structure which it began more than five years ago.

How do radio amateurs feel about the changes? Reaction is mixed:

Janice Rock AF4LT - Audio Only Report: Please listen to audio version of newscast.

Janice Rock, AF4LT, sees benefits and drawbacks:

Janice Rock AF4LT - Audio Only Report: Please listen to audio version of newscast.
--

Supporters say the new structure offers a true entry level license with HF privileges that should boost growth in the amateur radio service. While some hams may claim that taking away code for HF access damages amateur radio, other hams dispute that. Bill Levey, WA4FAT:

--
Bill Levey, WA4FAT - Audio Only Report: Please listen to audio version of newscast.
--

Supporters say the changes will help amateur radio by allowing new Novices to participate in emergency nets on HF sideband. The impact of this proposal on amateur radio's long term future has Janice Rock concerned for another reason:

Janice Rock AF4LT - Audio Only Report: Please listen to audio version of newscast.
--

League Executive Vice President David Sumner K1ZZ says the Novice class license could wind up getting a new name, more appropriate for the times -- this, as amateur radio faces what could be one of the biggest changes in its history.

RESCUE RADIO: NYC ARES ACTIVATES FOR COLD WEATHER

The New York City District Amateur Radio Emergency Service was called into action last Wednesday evening, January 14 th. This, after the American Red Cross of Greater New York contacted Mike Lisenco N2YBB. Lisenco is the District Emergency Coordinator for ARES and the message was clear: Call together the members of ARES to provide emergency communications between the warming centers being established in the five boroughs and Red Cross headquarters in Manhattan.

Lisenco: “Once I received the phone call from the coordinator of disaster volunteers at the Red Cross of greater New York, the first thing that I did was to call the five EC’s we have here in New York City. Each borough which constitutes a county has its own EC. In turn they called their people looking staff the shelters.”

--

By the next morning, New York City District ARES Emergency Coordinators had more than a dozen Amateur Radio operators on standby awaiting the activation. Friday evening they went into action after Mayor Bloomberg announced the shelter openings. The ARES radio operators manned their posts throughout the operation, which lasted the better part of a day during some of the most frigid weather ever recorded in the Big Apple. The hams finally stood down on Saturday afternoon.

This is not the first time that New York City District ARES has provided critical communications for emergencies. They were active with the oil barge explosion at Port Mobile on Staten Island, the Northeast Blackout in August 2003 and did heroic work following the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001. Break 1

Stay tuned for the details on one of amateur radios most ambitious mentoring projects. It’s coming up later in the newscast, but first From the United States of America, we are the Amateur Radio Newsline, heard on bulletin stations around the world including the Peace River Repeater Associations systems serving Punta Gorda Florida.

ANNOUNCING THE ROY NEAL, K6DUE, AMATEUR RADIO MENTORING PROJECT

Amateur Radio Newsline is paying tribute its late vice president, Roy Neal, K6DUE, by naming an ongoing mentoring program in his honor. Roy became a silent key last August after surgery. He was 82.

The Roy Neal, K6DUE, Amateur Radio Mentoring Project is designed to pair new hams -- often called “newbies” -- with veteran amateurs. This, in the hope that some of the established hams’ operator skills can be passed down to new generations.

Pasternak: “ere is a long tradition of mentoring, often called “elmering,” in Amateur Radio. No one knows the origin of the term, but the first teacher might well have been named “Elmer.” My mentor was a guy named Charlie Zussman. Back in the 1950’s he was WA2AKX. Today he’s WE2R. And his helping me become a ham has lead to a friendship that has lasted a lifetime. What he taught me was that tradition is an important part of the hobby.

That’s Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, who has produced these newscasts since 1977. He and the Newsline Board of Directors came up with the idea for this project. Bill says that ham radio has become a tremendously complex arena and new hams often don’t know where to turn for help:

Pasternak: “We have licensed hams who are truly experts in numerous fields ranging from bouncing radio signals off the moon, to writing complicated software which enables new forms of two-way communication. We want to take advantage of that knowledge base to help newcommers.”

While Amateur Radio includes world-class experts in a number of specialties, there are literally thousands of hams who have operating skills also worthy of passing on. For example, contesting is very popular, yet it is a tough nut to crack for a beginner.

Pasternak: “Contesting is intimidating. I know. I’m just getting started. Good contest operators often are able to contact four stations per minute for hours at a time. The great ones do even better than that. How they are able to do that is a skill that should be passed on to newcommers.”

Two large pools of Amateurs are needed to make this mentoring project work. First, there must be a group of volunteers who have a skill and are willing to share their time. The second group is made up of the large number of beginners who want to learn.

One of the nations top mentors, kit building expert Joe Eisenberg, K0NEB, has agreed to help set up databases and to begin the process of matching mentors with beginners. All we need to know is if you need assistance or if you are able to mentor others. We also need your name, call letters, address with zipcode, phone number, e-mail and when its best call.

The special e-mail address to register is mentor@arnewsline.org.

Mentors might be matched by zipcode – and be in the same town, or they might be half-way around the world from each other and communicate by e-mail. Either way I think we can make it work.

Pasternak: “The project’s namesake, Roy Neal, K6DUE, was himself a mentor and not only in ham radio. I know this first hand because he is the one who taught me to become a better writer and producer.

More important: Those of us who knew Roy, also know that helping others was a very important part of his life. As such. we feel that the least that we here at Amateur Radio Newsline can do is keep his memory alive with this project.”

THE BPL FIGHT: NORTH CAROLINA HAMS MEET WITH POWER PROVIDERS

Slow but steady progress in dealing with the imminent release of Broadband over Poweerlines in North Carolina. Gary Pearce, KN4AQ, is here with more:

Progress Energy fulfilled their promise to North Carolina Amateur Radio operators and invited several Raleigh area hams to observe their new Phase II BPL trial in a rural subdivision south of the city on January 15th.

BPL – Broadband over Power Lines – is a system for delivering high speed Internet through neighborhoods and into homes and businesses via the power lines. The technology places radio frequency signals on the power lines in parts of the spectrum between 2 and 80 MHz. Those signals radiate to some extent, and can cause interference to a receiver in the vicinity of the power lines. Naturally this has become cause for great concern among hams worldwide.

In Raleigh, three ham radio operators met with engineers for both Progress Energy and Amperion, the equipment manufacturer. Two of the Progress Energy engineers were also hams.

The BPL trial consisted of a half-mile of overhead feeder along a highway, and a few dozen homes passed by buried power lines. A “repeater” amplified the signal about every other block.

We were particularly interested in the spectrum used. We learned that each run of BPL, from repeater to repeater, uses two blocks of spectrum, 2.5 and 3.5 MHz wide. At each repeater, a different block of spectrum is required.

The overhead feeder segment in this trial used spectrum blocks around 25 and 29 MHz. We listened with mobile equipment driving on the road adjacent to the power line, and received S-9 signals in the immediate vicinity of the line that sounded like this when tuning across the 10 meter band:

[audio clip of BPL signal]

The signal fell off quickly when driving away from the line, but a ham at a home station almost a mile away heard the 10-meter BPL signal about S-6 using an 80-meter dipole antenna.

Amperion says a Network Operation Center can move any repeater to another block of spectrum, or notch part of a block by remote control, to eliminate interference, but they were unable to demonstrate that for our test.

Even with that flexibility, fitting 3.5 MHz wide blocks of energy in between ham bands would be a delicate jigsaw puzzle. That much “empty” spectrum exists only between the 30, 20 and 17-meter bands, and it’s empty only from the perspective of Amateur Radio.

Skip could completely upset the equation. BPL signals, which are similar to very low power QRP Amateur signals, could reflect off the ionosphere and appear hundreds or thousands of miles away. The energy of one isolated trial area might not have much impact, but a mature nationwide system with hundreds or even thousands of installations using the same spectrum blocks could be a very different story.

Yet to come in BPL is a comprehensive report from the NTIA; an FCC Notice of Proposed Rulemaking for changes in Part 15, based on last year's Notice of Inquiry; and a decision by your local utility about getting involved in BPL.

THAT FINAL ITEM: THE LIFE AND TIMES OF K2ORS

And finally this week, a new book is in the works about a broadcast legend who also happened to be a ham radio operator. Take a listen:

Shep: “Well there I am playing that character deep in the jungle. We have $400,000 of camera equipment that’s being eaten by mosquitoes. They eat Betamax cameras. You don’t know about the tropics. Leaches are coming up the tripods, when a runner comes down the beach. He’s a Chumaro Indian.

He’s running. He’s sweating. He arrives in the clearing. This is exactly what happened.

The Director is standing there. He's sweating and saying: '...damn, we got to get this.' We kept trying to clean the lens off. It was a tough shoot.

And this Chumaro runner comes up and he's saying; 'Message. Message." He has a message. The Director looks at it and he hands it to me and the message said -- and I quote: '...The Dayton Hamvention called. They want you to speak this spring.'

I said: 'For cripes sake, how did they know I was in the jungle' (laughter)"

That was the late Gene Shepherd, K2ORS, speaking at the Dayton Hamvention several years ago. Shep as he liked to be called, passed away in 1999. Now, author Eugene Bergmann has set to work writing the definitive book about the ham who invented talk radio. In a recent interview with Amateur Radio Newsline, he told us why:

Bergmann: "Well I first started listening to Jean Shepherd way back in '56 when I was in college and I think what he had to say and the way he said it affected my thinking for the rest of my life. Soon after he died I realized how important he was to my way of thinking. That he was like an old friend. I got more and more involved in learning more about him and I finally decided that I had to write a book about his art."

In writing his book, Eugene Bergmann wants to make certain that every aspect of Shep's life and career is accounted for, including his love of ham radio. And a love it was as in this very rare recording where he accurately predicted the explosive growth in F-M and repeaters in general and one New York City machine in particular:

Shep: "I don't think you guys who sit around every night like you do recognize the already legandary status of this repeater outside of this area. I just came back from a trip from the Canadian border and all the way down through New England and way up in the Northern part of Maine I worked guys and the one thing that they all talked about was SUR (WA2SUR). And they really was a quality of 'wow' in their voice. I think that in another ten years there's no telling how immense this repeater will be and what a structure it will be. I am very serious when I say this. I think we are in the beginning of a thing here and I think that ultimately 25 years from now people will look back on the early two meter guys like us -- we're considered early guys now -- with a legendary awe. You know, with a quality of awe, like 'my god -- they started it all."

That was recorded way back the evening of June 21st 1972 over the then WA2SUR repeater in New York City. K2ORS was right on in his F-M and repeater growth forecast. Bergmann says that’s the kind of he plans to include:

Bergmann: “In May of 1968 in one of his broadcasts he said: ‘...I became at the age of ten, totally, maniacally and for life I might point out -- completely skulled out by Amateur Radio.’ So he was quite an enthusiast up to his death in ‘99”

Sound intriguing? Well you can find out a lot more about Eugnene Bergann’s book and how you can help to writer it on this weeks RAIN Report. Just go to www.rainreport.com or dial into area code 847-827-7246, sit back and enjoy a quarter hour with Eugene Bergmann and his new book on the legendary Jean Shepherd, K2ORS. (ARNewsline(tm))

AMATEUR RADIO NEWSLINE™ ANNOUNCES CREATION OF THE ROY NEAL, K6DUE, AMATEUR RADIO MENTORING PROJECT

January 15, 2004 (Los Angeles California) The Amateur Radio Newsline Inc., a Federally chartered 501(c)(3) not-for-profit corporation has today announced the creation of the “Roy Neal, K6DUE, Amateur Radio Mentoring Project.” This is a program designed to take newly licensed radio amateurs and place them one-on-one with veteran hams so that they may learn the traditions and operating skills that no classroom or home-study environment can teach.

Roy Neal, K6DUE, was a driving force within the structure of Amateur Radio Newsline. He passed away on Friday, August 15, 2003 from complications arising from heart valve replacement surgery a few days earlier.

In addition to serving as Amateur Radio Newsline's Vice President, he was also our teacher, advisor and friend. Those of us who had the honor of knowing Roy were keenly aware of his willingness to help anyone better themselves. He was always willing to share his lifetime of knowledge in many areas including science, space exploration and Amateur Radio. With this in mind the Amateur Radio Newsline Board of Directors at its annual meeting on December 13, 2003 voted unanimously to honor Roy’s memory by creating a program to carry on his vision.

What we have named “The Roy Neal, K6DUE, Amateur Radio Mentoring Project” is loosely based on a similar program created by Broadway performer Ann Reinking. Reinking was a student of and performer with the legendary choreographer/director Bob Fosse. She is now carrying on the “mentoring” tradition in the art of dance through her own educational foundation, the Broadway Theater Project. This is a Florida based training program connecting students with seasoned theater professionals. If we may quote Ms. Reinking:

“Its sort of an un-written law or rule in the world of dance that you pass on what you know. This particular craft is at its best when its passed from one person's hands to the next.”

Now, if you think about it, what Ann Reinking says about "dance" applies equally to our world of Amateur Radio. Maybe more so, because, for decades the knowledge and tradition of our hobby/service was passed down from seasoned operators to newcomers, one to one. Unfortunately, in the ham radio of today, this art of mentoring that we call "Elmering" seems to be disappearing. It is being replaced by "weekend cram class training" and/or the more tedious world of “home study.” Both provide lots of technologically trained hams, but they do not turn out skilled operators or hams who really appreciate the art of amateur radio. Only one-on-one “mentoring” or “Elmering” can do that.

“The Roy Neal, K6DUE, Amateur Radio Mentoring Project” is to be a similarly structured program that fosters those one-on-one relationships that go well beyond the knowledge necessary to pass a ham radio exam. It will put an emphasis on our traditional ham radio values by placing new hams into contact with skilled operators who are willing to teach them such radio art-forms as how to work DX, or run a contest, build and operate a repeater, talk by bouncing signals off the moon, kit construction and anything else that makes a ham a ham. In essence, to pass along the living traditions that make ham radio what it is to all of us old timers.

To make this work, two groups of hams are needed. First we need skilled operators who are willing to donate time to assist those in need of training. We also need new hams to come forward and say: “I want to learn more.” We will do our part by matching the mentors to those in need of Elmering.

To get the project underway we have asked Joe Eisenberg, K0NEB, to create the necessary databases and begin the process of matching volunteer mentors to those wishing instruction. We are also asking both groups to send us an e-mail at mentor@arnewsline.org. In your note please state if you are offering to be a mentor or are in need of training. Please include your name, call, address, e-mail address with zipcode, phone number, best time of day to call and any other pertinent information.

It is our hope that the nation's Amateur Radio community will join with us to make "The Roy Neal, K6DUE, Amateur Radio Mentoring Project" a part of the traditions of the hobby, and that it will become a lasting memorial to the radio amateur who gave so much of his life to making Amateur Radio the best hobby and service in the universe.

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1381 with a release date of Friday, January 30, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T.

Hams across the nation react to the ARRL restructuring proposal and the first B-P-L law suit involving ham radio is threatened in Austria. These stories and an interview with ARRL President Jim Haynie, W5JBP, highlight this weeks Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1381 coming your way right now!

RESTRUCTURING: HAMS REACT TO THE ARRL NO-CODE PROPOSAL

Hams are starting to react to the recent ARRL proposal to restructure the United States Amateur Radio service, and not surprising the comments are as diverse as the community itself. Amateur Radio Newsline’s David Black, KB4KCH, is at our South-East Bureau with this part of the story:

If you listen to the ham bands and check out the comments on the qrz.com website, it appears that most amateur radio operators have a somewhat sedate response to the ARRL's restructuring proposal. While some activists make their opposition quite vocal, the majority of comments so far seem to accept the League's initiative, 'though some do express reservations.

"I can live with this" is how some comments go. Others more strongly support the League by saying, "right on, A-double-R-L." The biggest concern most express centers around the ability to monitor the airwaves for rules compliance if explosive growth results. As one operator on 15 meters says, "If we get a million new hams, will the FCC give us 500 more Riley Hollingsworth's to keep them in line?" Hollingsworth handles amateur radio enforcement matters for the Commission.

Some operators say the League's proposal will wind up dumbing down amateur radio. Some even claim to have resigned their ARRL membership, 'though so far, no proof of that has surfaced. Vehement opponents of restructuring may in fact terminate their League memberships, but the number is not expected to be significant.

Restructuring is not a done deal. Announcement of the League's proposal is only the start. The League will formally request that the FCC make a rules change. Once the Commission receives that request, it will be up to the FCC to decide whether or not it will consider the League proposal put it out for public comment. Chances are that it will. Once the proposal is assigned a rule making designation, you will have a chance to make your opinion known.

Comments are likely to come from the general public, the business community and any special interest groups as well as those who hold an FCC assigned call sign.

Stay tuned -- the story's just beginning.

From the South-East Bureau in Birmingham Alabama, I'm David Black, KB4KCH, reporting for the Amateur Radio Newsline.

Unless the FCC decides to place the ARRL request on a separate fast-track, you can expect the agency’s first action to be putting it out for initial comment sometime in the next several weeks. (ARNewsline(tm))

RESTRUCTURING: THE ARRL ON THE ARRL RESTRUCTURING PROPOSAL

The ARRL is now explaining why it has decided to ask the FCC to restructure the United States Amateur Radio Service, and the words are coming straight from the top. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, caught up with ARRL President Jim Haynie, W5JBP, by phone and got some insight into why the ARRL Board acted as it did :

With the American Radio Relay League's imminent filing with the FCC of its proposal for a new, no-code HF entry level license, the debate is certain to heat up.

ARRL President Jim Haynie W5JBP acknowledges the league's proposal will generate some controversy. But he says months of research, surveys and lots of internal debate went into crafting the revival of a Novice-class license.

Yes, Haynie confides, the ARRL's directors and Haynie himself were pressing the flesh - so to speak - for months gathering input from the amateur community. Directors also were conducting informal surveys among ARRL members. And, he says, a professional research company was hired by the league to survey hams about the state of the hobby.

Haynie says the research company's findings were pretty sobering and bolstered the ARRL board's drive for license reform.

"For example, 53 percent, if my memory serves me correct, today of all amateurs now are 55 years or older," Haynie says. "And this is growing at an exponential rate, it's not linear. And this is a very disturbing thought."

He says the results also revealed something the ARRL suspected for some time.

"There's people getting licenses and they're getting involved in what we call, or what I call '2-meter ghettos' and they have no place else to go so they lose interest after about a year or six months or whatever," Haynie explains. "So you've got 200,000 or 300,000 Technician licenses out there who say 'I've tried' and they did and they didn't like it."

Haynie says it became clear one way to recapture the magic of the hobby lay in the experiences many long-time hams had when they first entered amateur radio.

"We went back and thought about, okay, how did it used to work and what was successful about it? And the old Novice class license was extremely successful, I think. And, we said, 'Well, okay then we have to go back to some form of that.' "

Last year's World Radiocommuncations Conference laid the ground work for countries to decide for themselves what to do about CW and licensing. But Haynie says the WRC '03 decision played a small role in the ARRL's deliberations.

"Morse Code is certainly tradition, I don't deny that," Haynie says. "And I think it's a neat ability. It's a skill. It has nothing to do with intelligence."

Haynie says he and other directors have heard some argue: 'Hey, I had to pass a code test, why shouldn't everyone else.' Haynie says that's like saying I'd like to play golf like Tiger Woods and coming to the realization that's probably not going to happen because you simply don't possess the skills - even with lots of practice. The same logic, he says, applies to CW. For many hams, he says, it's simply not their bag.

Haynie says the ARRL's proposal preserves CW for one license class, yet opens the doors to the world of HF for those who couldn't learn and master Morse Code to pass even a 5-words-per-minute test.

"People, they realize, they've come to grips: We are getting older. And we're not getting the people into Amateur Radio," Haynie says.

"And the amateur community realizes that we've gotta do something. And, I don't say that the league's proposal is perfect. Neither does any of the directors or officers of the league say that. But it was the best that we could come up with that still preserved the Morse Code tradition for the Extra class exam, and yet, gave you the taste of the old Novice that I used to have 30-something years ago."

Haynie says he's confident, based on his experience with the FCC, that the agency will look favorably on the ARRL license proposal.

"I have a gut feeling that they will take a majority of it, at least I think they will. They'll probably fine tune it, they'll tweak it some because that's typical of the federal government," Haynie says.

"But on the other hand, I know, I know that they want to simplify the Amateur Radio Service. They want three classes of licenses. They want to reduce their workload and continue to do what they like to do and amateur radio take care of itself."

And how long does Haynie think it will take the FCC to act and make any changes to the Amateur Radio license structure? He says don't expect a decision anytime soon.

"I don't see anything happening on any of the petitions, including the league's, probably 'til late 2005," Haynie concludes.

Haynie says his e-mail and phone have been busy since the board's vote two weeks ago. He says he's comfortable with the license proposal and is prepared to support and defend it.

Haynie says he had the chance to do so earlier this week before his hometown radio club in Garland, Texas. He says after explaining the league's rationale to the group, those willing to listen asked lots of questions. Haynie says he felt by the time it was over, many appreciated the league's work on behalf of the hobby.

Haynie's next stop: The 44th Tropical Hamboree in Miami on February 7 where he's expecting to get lots of feedback.

If all went as expected, the ARRL was to transmit its proposal to the FCC on Wednesday, January 28th. And less we forget, a word of congratulations to Jim Haynie on his election to a third term leading the United States only recognized Amateur Radio society. The ARRL Letter Board of Directors expressed its confidence in W5JBP’s leadership on January 16 with a unanimous vote for his him to continue as President. (ARNewsline(tm))

THE BPL FIGHT: AUSTRIAN BPL PROVIDER SUING HAMS OVER NEWS STORY

In what looks to be a case of “he said -- no -- he said,” a row is brewing over the introduction of Broadband over Powerline telecommunications in the city of Linz, Austria. One that has a service provider taking that nations Amateur Radio society to court over statements quoted in the media world-wide.

As reported a few weeks ago, stories were circulating that PLT, or Power Line Telecommunications as the Europeans call their BPL system, had been halted in Linz. This, due to interference caused by the system. Also that the Austrian government had enjoined the service provider and the system would never be permitted.

Not true says the BPL provider and the power company and its now headed to court to try to stop the hams from complaining to them and to the press. From across the Atlantic, Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, has more:

The Austrian national amateur radio society, OeVSV, has objected to the use of PLT in Linz, stating that it causes interference to amateur stations, and issuing a press release which was picked up by the Austrian mass media. It appears that the OeVSV was misquoted as saying that the Austrian ministry had taken out an injunction against the PLT providers and that the service had been closed down for good in Linz.

The management of Speed-Web Consulting and Linz AG, who are responsible for the PLT transmissions, are disclaiming what they say are "press attacks by Austrian radio amateurs". They say that there has not been any injunction against them and the roll-out of PLT continues.

Speed-Web and Linz AG say that Austrian radio amateurs are doing their best to stop PLT "by filing undue interference complaints". They go on to say that "if there should be any actual, harmful and officially proven interference case caused by Powerline Communications, mitigation measures will solve this very case at that specific location in the concerned frequency".

On the 14th of January, Linz AG stated that it would be suing the OeVSV, as well as its president personally, over this matter.

Jeramy Boot, G4NJH.

The decision of Linz A G to sue the ham radio operators over the story of BPL says that in this one, big business is willing to go the whole nine yards. (GB2RS)

THE BPL FIGHT: FCC'S ABERNATHY ACKNOWLEDGES AMATEUR RADIO BPL CONCERNS

Here at home, FCC Commissioner Kathleen Q. Abernathy is apparently shifting away from her definition of BPL as a "Broadband Nirvana.” Last week Abernathy specifically cited Amateur Radio concerns about the interference potential of Broadband Over Power Line in remarks she delivered to the Catholic University of America's Columbus School of Law.

According to the ARRL Letter, Abernathy said BPL should not be widely deployed before dealing with ham radio's interference fears. She admitted that she now recognizes that Amateur Radio licensees have raised concerns about the potential for harmful interference. Abernathy described this as something that will have to be addressed before any mass market deployment can occur.

Commissioner Abernathy made her remarks on January 22 at the school's Washington, DC campus. Abernathy said that if engineers can find a way to prevent harmful interference to other radio services, BPL would represent a tremendous advance for consumers, because it could bring broadband to any home that has electric power delivery. (ARRL)

RADIO LAW: CONGRESS MAY RAISE INDECENCY AND OBSCENITY FINES

Using obscene and indecent language on the airwaves may soon get very expensive. This as congress considers raising the stakes for those who insist on talking dirty on the radio. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, has the details:

United States Representative Fred Upton of Michigan introduced congressional legislation to upthe maximum fine for an indecent broadcast from $27,500 to $275,000. Under the Upton sponsored measure the maximum fine for a continuing violation would be raised from $300,000 to $3 million.

Upton had also scheduled hearings to review the FCC's indecency enforcement policies for January 28th. Ken Johnson, a spokesman for Representative Billy Tauzin of Louisiana is quoted as saying that law makers intend to move the legislation quickly in hopes of sending a signal to broadcasters that enough is enough.

This action comes following recent complaints by FCC Chairman Michael Powell. He says that the existing penalty cap on indecency fines was too low to discourage off-color broadcasts.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF

Commissioner Powell believes that once broadcasters start to feel the pinch where in their wallets they will start to think twice about transmitting indecency on the airwaves. (Published news reports)

ENFORCEMENT: UPS TO THE FCC: YOU HAVE OUR FULL COOPERATION

The FCC has received a letter from United Parcel Service offering the company’s full cooperation in removing any unlicensed radio equipment from its nationwide fleet. This follows a January 7th letter to the Middlesburg Ohio office of U-P-S detailing unlicensed 10 meter operations coming from delivery vehicles in that area.

The FCC also has contacted another trucking company, R and L Transfer of Norwalk Ohio regarding the same type of problem. Unlicensed operators coming to the 10 meter band has been a growing problem around the world in recent years. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: THAT RADAR IS A NO-NO

The FCC has also written to a pair of hams in the Winfield and Haysville Kansas area. This, regarding a reported piece of marine radar equipment mounted in a land based vehicle. According to the FCC the radar unit was being used for storm spotting without being licensed for this use. The identities of those using the radar system were not revealed. (FCC)

HAMFESTS AND CONVENTIONS: FIRE CANT STOP THE DIXIFEST IN MEMPHIS

Despite a fire that destroyed its normal venue, Dixiefest 2004 in Memphis Tennessee will happen the weekend of February 14 and 15. Planners were able to find a new home at the Mid-South Fairgrounds' Pipkin Building. This is only a proverbial stones-throw from the Shelby County Building which was destroyed in the December 2003 blaze. More information about this premiere event can be found on-line. OUR GOLDEN PAST: CARL & JERRY "LIVE" AGAIN

Its time for a trip back to the 1950's. To a kinder and gentler Amateur Radio. Our tour guide for this journey is Bruce Tennant, K6PZW:

Remember the names Carl and Jerry? Well if you were playing with ham radio in the 1950's and 1960's you are well aware that these are the first names of the two fictitious teenage electronic whizze's. Characters created by the late John T. Frye, W9EGV, for his long-running magazine series of the same name.

The Carl and Jerry stories appeared in Popular Electronics from October 1954 through December 1964. They told of the adventures of two perennial teenage boys who shared a special bond because of their shared love of music, electronics and radio. Now, many of these stories are again available to read to enjoy thanks to a new spot on the world-wide-web. Better yet, they are the kind of stuff you may want to read to your grandkids, especially if they have the same wonderment as you when you were their age.

Where are they and how do you these Pop Com classics? Thats easy. Just follow to link you will find in this weeks print edition of this Amateur Radio Newsline report. And good news for our sight impaired listeners. Word is that the print works well with most devices to help the blind to read as well.

Traveling back in time for the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, enjoying the past.

So far there are only 21 of the stories in the seriers on the web, but enough to keep you glued to your computer screen for several hours. They are there to read at http://home.gwi.net/~jdebell/pe/cj/cnjindex.htm (ARNewsline(tm))

INTERNATIONAL - VK: AN AUSTRALIAN LICENSE IS REQUIRED

A note to those of you who intend to operate from Australia on an extended visit. It appears that many amateurs, including those operating maritime mobile from within Australia's territorial waters, are using their own callsign with the 'stroke VK' suffix. Under Australian telecommunications law, this is not permitted for any lengthy stay. Once past the grace period, all radio amateurs operating from Australia, and more importantly, from Australia's territorial waters must obtain an Australian license and individual VK callsign from the Australian Communications Authority. If you don't you will be told to go off the air. (Q-News, RSGB)

INTRUDER WATCH: HARMONICS BOTHER 20 METERS

An unidentified broadcaster on 14.280 MHz, has been identified as a harmonic of a Radio Liberty. The transmitter in question operates on 4.760 MHz and it's the 3rd harmonic that been heard in V-K-Land.

Meantime, another intruder on 14.320 MHz has been found to be Radio Uzbeckistan. This time it's the 2nd harmonic of a transmitter on 7.160 that's responsible for what's being heard. (Q-News)

WITH THE ARRL: MAJOR CHANGE IN DXCC POLICY ANNOUNCED

A major change in the criteria for determining what is a new DXCC entity. An ARRL news release says that the organizations Board of Directors has removed the guideline that provides for an entity to be added to the DXCC list if it has a separate International Amateur Radio Union member society. The ARRL says that this provision had the unintended consequence of bringing in applications for IARU membership that do not further the objectives of the organization. In fact, all it has done is to create what ARRL terms as an unfortunate and unnecessary administrative burden for the IARU. (ARRL)

THAT FINAL ITEM: RADIO FROM SPACE - THE SETI INSTITUTE IS MONITORING

Lastly this week, scientists searching the stars for aliens are convinced an E.T. is out there -- it's just that they haven't had the know-how to detect such a being. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Norm Seeley, KI7UP, has the rest of the story:

Science Online says that technological advances have opened the way for scientists to check millions of previously unknown star systems, dramatically increasing the chances of finding intelligent life in outer space in the next 25 years.

The article quotes Seth Shostak. Shostak is the senior astronomer at California's non-profit Search for Extraterrestrial Intelligence Institute says that it is like looking for needles in the haystack that is our galaxy, but there could be thousands of needles out there. But on a recent visit to Australia to attend a conference on extraterrestrial research, Shostak said detecting alien life is only the start.

Since it was founded in 1984, the SETI Institute has monitored radio signals, hoping to pick up a transmission from outer space. Its Project Phoenix conducts two annual three-week sessions on a radio telescope at Arecibo, Puerto Rico. Project Phoenix, is the privately funded successor to an original NASA program that searched the heavens for signals from extra-terrestrial beings. That program was canceled in 1993 amid much skepticism in the Congress regarding the possibility of life in outer space.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline. I’m Norm Seeley, KI7UP

But Science Online says that the search has been slow. About 500 of 1,000 targeted stars have been examined and no extraterrestrial transmissions have been heard. (ScienceOnLine)

This is Andy Jarema, N6TCQ, Chief Financial Officer of the not-for-profit organization you know as the Amateur Radio Newsline. And once again, I am using the single word -- HELP! If you value this service, please help. We try to keep these kind of thing as subtle as we can.

You responded so wonderfully to our plea last April, and we haven't really asked for anything since. But, unfortunately, your response dwindled in the waning months. The expenses of bringing you the up-to-date news on Amateur Radio did not.

We'd really like to hear from you. And we'd really like to hear from the repeater clubs out there. These are the wonderful folks who re-transmit our broadcasts, bringing your nets increased value, and giving your members the latest in Amateur Radio news and information to enhance their hobby.

But Amateur Radio Newsline cannot continue without the funding needed to pay the monthly bills. And right now, we can't.

In the quarter century that it has existed, no one at the Amateur Radio Newsline has ever taken a salary. We all volunteer our time and talents. But what we ARE faced with are monthly expenses for gathering and delivering the news to YOU! We are talking telephone, Internet access and the like. This has not changed.

The bottom line is this: I'm asking that you try to find it within your organization or yourself as an amateur to continue this service. As we've said before, whether Amateur Radio Newsline continues to provide this service or if it disappears is totally your decision. We're here to serve you for as long as you want us. Your response over the next several weeks will provide the answer.

The address for the Amateur Radio Newsline is Post Office Box 660937, Arcadia California, 91066.

Looking forward to hearing from you REALLY soon, I'm Andy Jarema, N-6-Tiny California Quake.

90. About X-band and ham activities

Hi,

I am trying to compile some data about telecommunications used by Spacecrafts on Mars.
Most telecom are established between the DSN and the Mars rovers through the X-band.

This band is also used by scientists (radioastronomy, geodesy, meteorology...) and fishermen

I would like to know if radio amateurs work also with these high frequencies. I think to Moon bouce activities (EME) or maybe some ham satellites (not sure).

Can you confirm me what are the applications is which radio amateurs use the X-band, and if possible on what range of frequencies ?
At last if some of you are using an X-antenna (I mean X-band, not X shape !), a picture 'd be welcome to illustrate this subject.

Thanks in advance

From Amsat-BB

The Board of Directors of AMSAT-NA met on Thursday evening, to review the current situation with AO-40. As you are all probably aware the satellite does not appear to be transmitting at this time and every effort is being made to accurately determine the cause of failure and to make suitable corrections. For detailed technical information see the AMSAT-BB and /or the AMSAT-DL web site. In summary it seems that the primary battery has failed and that the secondary or auxiliary battery is not sufficiently charged to take over at this time. The next few weeks will be of great interest as the satellite is entering into a sun angle which is becoming increasingly favourable for charging the batteries.
From the telemetry that was being sent during the last few hours (and minutes) of the batteries life tests are being made on spare batteries in our Orlando Laboratory to try and simulate the failure and determine what can be done for recovery.At this time AMSAT engineers and scientist at both Orlando and at AMSAT-DL are optimistic about the chances of recovery but (like the NASA Spirit problem) this may take some time to accomplish.
The Board of Directors of AMSAT-NA unaminously want to commend the AO-40 controllers and those working on the problem for their expertise and dedication in determine the nature of the problem, trying to simulate the problem on Earth, and hopefully in developing a technique to resolve the situation. Meanwhile AMSAT-NA and AMSAT-DL each have a high orbit satellite under design and construction which will ultimately, with your support, replace AO-40. ECHO, our new LEO satellite will be launched this Spring, In a window starting March 31st. Your support is, as always, critical to AMSAT's efforts.

I've placed a (partial) analysis of meteor rates for January on my website (the G7IZU Radio Reflection Detection Page). I was not collecting data for the whole month, but in future I plan to collect data continuously. The data can be accessed through the "live" page and can be viewed online as html, or downloaded as an MS Excel 2000 file for viewing offline. What is clear from my data is, what most observers are already aware, that the early morning is the best time for observation (not just visually, but for radio obs too). The sharp peak of the Quadrantids shower on Jan 4th is also very clear.

There are other Radio Obs analysis sites online, though the data is not always so easy to understand and digest. By using 3D Excel charts, I have displayed the data in an easier to view format.

Follow the links to Data Analysis on the index page or on the live page.

It's likely that information is protected to prevent deliberate interference from some technologically informed vandal.

Hubbell's radio spec's were kept mostly quiet, and all transmitted information was not just digitised but also encrypted.

Sadly, there have been incidences over the years where deliberate interference / capture of a channel has occurred.

Some examples:
Taking over a Burger King's radio based drive through intercom is Michigan. (not a challenging feat, just a basic radio hoodlum.)

The pirate traffic heard on the UFO Fleetsat birds.

Pirate carriers on the old ANIK birds providing phone connections to remote northern communities in Canada.

Pirate radio on and around 6955 KHz. (not interference - nor usually malicious, but RF none the less.)

Captain Midnight, albeit an employee at an uplink teleport, chose to use that gear to deliberately capture HBO's transponder and temporarily take over their feed.

I'm not suggesting for a moment that you personally have such an agenda, but there are common criminals types who'll write a virus that destroys data to the tune of $billions worldwide - just for kicks. Imagine the loss incurred because some punk decided it would be cool to disrupt communications to a satellite, or a probe, or whatever. Keeping frequencies and protocols quiet helps prevent such things, and sadly there are those who would attempt them. Granted you need some pretty sophisticated (and large) antenna arrays to connect to some things, but can be acquired with a simple yagi antenna, or a few feet of copper tubing wrapped around a form.

Even if you had the frequency data, it likely the information is encoded in some proprietary format. (you're not going to use your KAM and receive "crater05.jpg" coming down in AX.25)

What exactly is it you would like to do?

With or without any future service the Hubble will some day go offline.
There have been a lot of ideas floating around as to what to do then.
I was wondering if it could be possible to boost it to a LaGrange Point, rather than de-orbit it? Is an earth-moon point stable? I know the earth-sun point can be used as the SOHO satellite is there, but it would require a lot more fuel to reach. Apparently, recovery of the Hubble for placement in the Smithsonian is not possible, so I wanted to put an alternative idea out for discussion.

In theory, the L4/L5 points are stable, but in the Earth/moon system, all five points are unstable due to the eccentricity of the moon's orbit and the influence of the sun.

Not a lot more - both require a delta-V near escape velocity, or around 3 km/s.

The problem with putting HST outside low Earth orbit is that its pointing system relies on geomagnetic torquers to desaturate its reaction wheels.
Move HST out of the Earth's magnetic field, and you've got to find some other way to do that. Also, HST's comm system relies on TDRS, and accessing TDRS from well outside GEO is questionable at best.

Recovery of Hubble remains technically possible, but NASA has ground-ruled it out for safety reasons.

How about attaching it to the ISS?

I'm very worried about the Hubble's end. It's big enough to have some of its bigger parts survive re-entry, and it definitely doesn't have enough fuel to change course enough to guarentee a splashdown somewhere.

Boosting it to any higher orbit would have to be done with an attachable expendible, since the Shuttle can't go high enough to guarentee it won't fall back. If we're talking about putting it up in a higher orbit without worrying about using it again, then the only problem is to fly the shuttle up there, grab Hubble, attach the rocket, release it, have the rocket align itself and Hubble in the right direction, and fire away. Knowing NASA, I suspect they're going to take their chances and let it fall rather than spend the money building the rocket, training the crew, and doing the mission, all of which is going to cost hundreds of millions of bucks.

The plan is to fly up a booster to guide it into a controlled descent.
Without the Shuttle the booster will have to go up on an unmanned launcher.

That is the whole problem in the first place, NASA decided not to fly another shuttle mission to Hubble, and that is why it is facing the end of its life. If NASA were to consider another Hubble flight, then they would simply keep Hubble in operation.

There is talk of sending a booster pack up to Hubble to ensure that it is under control as it comes back in.

I would like to see Hubble come to a better ending, such as doing the additional Shuttle flight despite the risk, or putting Hubble into some parking orbit to save it until it can be brought back to the Air & Space Museum (or the NASM Annex to be built on the moon). But the money, which could be $500-million or so to fly that mission and build the hardware, could do so much more down here on Earth. Consider that the Keck cost something like $30-million each. We could build an enormous amount of space and astronony hardware for what it would cost to save Hubble.

That's the idea I've been pushing, not only could it be serviced but also controled from the ISS, have it maybe about a mile from it in same orbit.

There is no fuel or propulsion system on the hubble, and there never was.

It's not the size of the bird that ensures that components will survive, but details of construction. (And don't let Hubble's size fool you, much of it empty space.)

Hubble doesn't have any fuel at all. It could be controlled the same way Skylab was, by varying it's drag by changing it's attitude, but that's of doubtful effectiveness.

We'd have to launch a Shuttle to go get Hubble. Bring it home. And then launch it again on another Shuttle to the ISS. The fuel costs are roughly comparable to sending a rocket up to it to change Hubble's orbital inclination.

Then Hubble would have to contend with a relatively polluted environment around ISS, which has rocket thrusters and many spacecraft coming and going. And Hubble would have to be insulated somehow from the vibration of humans and machines working inside the Station. And somehow, Hubble would have to find a way to point itself irrespective of what direction the Station is pointing.

Leaving it in orbit nearby is not practical, either. Hubble has no propulsion system, so it would quickly drift away from ISS (which performs semi-frequent orbit adjustment firings to maintain the desired altitude.)

Forgetting economic reality for a moment, couldn't you tether a telescope to the station with a cable that is a few kilometres long ? That would allow the telescope to benefit from reboosts, while still being far enough away to avoid the "pollution" near the station and with a tether long enough to attenuate vibrations.

And at regular intervals, they could pull the telescope to the ISS where changes could be done by ISS crews doing EVAs from Quest, and then push it back to its tethered position. From a maintenance point of view, this would end up costing a lot less since it woudln't require dedicated flights.

I realise at that the ISS altitude, such a telescope wouldn't provide the ultimate in precision, but wouldn't it still be of useful to many scientists?

Don't confuse uplinks with downlinks. There is little need to protect downlinks.

Hubble uses the TDRS relay satellites, and I believe all or almost all of the specs for talking to them are public. Many satellites use them.

>Even if you had the frequency data, it likely the information is encoded

Almost certainly it's using the semi-standard CCSDS protocols, which are public knowledge. The compression algorithms used on the images are non-standard but likewise public, although it helps to know where to look.

However, there's a more fundamental problem. There's always too much data and not enough link capacity, so the bit rate on a planetary downlink will inevitably be cranked up to the point where DSN can just barely decode the bits reliably. Now, DSN has enormous dishes (the smaller ones are 34m across) and extremely expensive top-of-the-line receivers (the front ends used to be maser amplifiers in liquid-helium baths; recently DSN switched to HEMT amplifiers cooled only :-) to 15K). If they can barely decode the bits, there's no hope you can.

If memory serves, <http://deepspace.jpl.nasa.gov> has considerable detail about the technologies used.

Even a tether only a few km long will still generate some tension due to gravity-gradient torque. HST's attitude control system, optimized as it is for fine pointing at relatively high altitudes, may not be able to keep up.

And what are you going to do if and when it drifts into the ISS; expend more fuel on ISS to avoid it? Sure it could be done, but given that MIR got smacked by an experimental rocket once gives the Astronauts food for thought that they might fight such a proposal.

Push it back how? The ISS isn't that manueverable.

Of course, this is academic. Given that they're in such totally different orbits, for a reason, to avoid a collision, getting Hubble to the ISS would require a lot of propellant, something the shuttle doesn't have, given that the cargo bay would be filled with Hubble and unavailable to hold extra fuel.

Could they build simple attachment, with few gyroscopes, that can also

I red somewhere about little satellites that can save existing satellites from deorbiting. This one would just need to have few more gyros.

Ancillary question...
Why was the Hubble placed in the orbit it is in. Pity nobody thought about access when it was put up. I'd have thought that there could have been orbits that would be reachable from ISS without the huge thrust requirements that the current one requires. Or is it just a case of nobody knew which orbit Iss would use at the time, so then the question could be asked about the orbit chosen for the ISS??

Also, considering the main , or one of the main parts of this new initiative is to get humans onto other worlds, where they are on their own for long periods, surely, if Hubble could be preserved in orbit, it could serve as a relatively safe practice mission destination for any new craft that might be designed.

And what happens the first time you reboost ISS?

And not only that, except on a perfect sphere, with a separation of 1 mile or so, that will gradually change over time.

Even over a "perfect sphere", the differential drag would move ISS and HST apart rapidly.

Boost it into Geo, it can still crosslink to Tedris, be further out of the atmosphere and won't need fuel to keep from re-entering ...

That won't work for four basic reasons (and I'm sure there are more...) --

1) No booster attachment on HST available
2) HST is too fragile to withstand that sort of translational acceleration
3) VERY expensive to boost something that heavy from 300 miles to over 22,000 miles altitude
4) "TDRS" wouldn't be able to see it easily if it were at the same altitude

HST was placed in a 28.45 degree orbit back in the days when that was the planned orbit for Space Station Freedom, though there was no plan to keep them in-plane. When SSF became ISS, it was moved to 51.6 degrees to accommodate the Russians.

Hi Roger, sorry about the spelling, I knew it was wrong, but it was pre-coffee and didn't look it up. The attachment and acceleration are the killers, with the sunk cost in the Hubble, I don't think cost is such a driver, what is it about $250 million to boost to Geo?

Fair enough. Ok, perfect sphere in a vacuum. :-)

Oh boy, are there more! ;-) Most importantly, HST's thermal system was specifically designed for LEO. Hubble isn't "dressed" appropriately for any other orbit -- some parts would either be too cold or too hot, and the heaters would necessarily be on longer away from the warm Earth.

Then again, if it was at GEO, you could just bolt on a high-gain antenna and transmit direct to Earth -- that would actually simplify communications and permit a higher data volume.

Frankly, we have the money for SM4, and NASA has every intention of returning the Shuttle to flight. All that needs to happen for Hubble to continue operations to 2010 and beyond is for O'Keefe to give the nod.

The two snipped are real, but the first two can be somewhat overcome (in theory anyhow).

In theory one could a frame that would mimic the Shuttle's cargo bay, replace deployed items with deployable items, install the Hubble in the frame, and then boost the whole thing to GEO.

Tain't anywhere near practical, but it's not impossible.

Apologies if I am missing something obvious - but consider the following:

The main reason for not servicing the Hubble AIUI is there is no safe haven or tile repair system if the orbiter were to be damaged during take off.

The shuttle payload bay has dimensions 15x60ft (4.6x18.3m) and has a maximum payload weight of approx 50,000lbs (22,680kg)

A Soyuz TM is 7m long, 2.7m diameter and weighs about 7 tons.

So.... on a mission to replace Hubble gyros or add new instruments why not just load up 2 x Soyuz into the orbiter payload bay? In the unlikely event of the shuttle being damaged on the way to orbit you have a bail out facilty for 6 astronauts.

If transfer from the orbiter to 2 different Soyuz's is a problem then fly a skeleton crew of 3 and engineer a docking adapter directly from the shuttle payload bay to the Soyuz.

Andy

I have read the extensive thread that my question has started, but I think most of you missed my point. I said once the Hubble was OFFLINE what should we do with it. My idea was to find a way to preserve it in space as a museum piece, since it is not practical to return it to the Smithsonian here on earth. Most of the posts talked about how it could not function at other orbits, etc., which was not my question.
Rather than send a drone to de-orbit Hubble why not boost it to a LaGrange point or perhaps Geo-sync orbit, where in its offline state it could be visited in the future...

Hardly -- it is, in fact, in the most accessible orbit for the shuttle.
(The ISS orbit is much less convenient, and was an unhappy compromise that became necessary when the Russians joined the project.)

>I'd have thought that there could have been >orbits that would be reachable from ISS without the huge thrust requirements

Not ones where the shuttle could have lifted Hubble to the desired altitude.
(Shuttle payload to ISS-like orbits is rather more limited.)

Besides, nobody cared whether Hubble was going to be accessible from ISS. ISS was utterly irrelevant to Hubble operations. Servicing Hubble with dedicated shuttle flights made all kinds of sense; having to work via ISS made no sense at all.

I thought I heard them say in the report after the recovery that the prob was sending data at 120bps. It seemed rather slow, but that might just be the control channel.

I don't know about the downlink frequency, but guessing it might be in S band. A frequency high enough that the antennas are small and gain is high, but not high enough in frequency that the antennas need to be precisely pointed or the amplifiers ineffecient.

Sorry, dunno about this HF frequency... but any kid with a crystal set and some spare minty wrappers could transmit on that frequency with more than 100W. If it's an emergency frequency, its not cool. Most pirates are not malicious and generally take no pleasure from causing

A couple of days on Ebay and you can have all the gear you need.

Interference to the downlink could only occur for 1/3 of the time at any one earth station and you would have to be pretty close to the earth station to even have a chance of interfering.

I would think that most people would be interested in knowing the specs behind the link for self education purposes rather than anything evil. Some people might even consider having a go at recieving the signal themselves. Though I think there is a reason why Deep Space trackers use very large antennas.

Telescopes were built to look through, not at. The Hubble shouldn't be treated like a Questar. A safe but lame Hubble isn't worth a damn. Some people say putting it in the Smithsonian will be inspirational to the next generation. But we can't do that yet. And even when we do, wouldn't a better inspiration be something that is in space and operational?

Spending money on the Hubble to continue ops is good, but spending money on it for museum purposes is a waste, just like buying a Questar scope.
Our money would be better spent on a next generation scope like NGST/JWST, like buying an ETX.

The 3.5" Questar has an outrageous price tag of $3,000 to $3,500. This is way too much for a puny 3.5". The Questar doesn't provide anything special for that price. The optics are so, so nothing that good. Yes it has finely machined metal parts which is nice but in no way justifies the price. What about that nice pretty chart on the tube. It is crap and you can buy Uranometria for a lot less.

The Meade ETX is a great alternative to the screw you over price Questar. It only cost around $350. The optical quality of the ETX is better then the break the bank Questar. I have seen the 2 side by side and the ETX was noticeably sharper. Also S&T has compared the 2 and they also say the ETX optics are better. But the ETX has some plastic parts. There is nothing wrong with plastic parts. Plastic is the way of the future. Even your car has plastic in it. Plastic is very strong. There are those who think plastic is not as good as medal. Those who think like that are brainwashed by the evil merchant thieves. Some claim the Questar can withstand being dropped down the stairs better then the ETX. You drop either one down the stairs and the optics will break. But hey the mount is fine but useless with cracked glass. The ETX wouldn't survive the fall either, but who cares buy another one just $350. You can drop several down the stairs and replace them and still save money over the Questar. That is what I call a good investment.

What about other alternatives. All telescopes 4" or larger except refractors are much better alternatives then the Questar.

The Questar 3.5" is generally considered too small for serious astronomy. The f/13 f/ratio is too sssssllllllllooooooowwwwwww for astrophotography or CCD imaging. $3,500 is a serious price so therefore you would think it is for serious astronomy. All 6" Newtonians will outperform the Questar in everyway and they cost less. You can buy a 6" scope for just $300. Read any book on astronomy and you will learn that aperture is the key. The larger the more you can see. You can get larger aperture for a fraction of the cost of the Questar. There are times with travel restrictions or quick setup use where small aperture is fine. That is what binoculars or the ETX is for.

So with all the reasons not to buy a Questar then why do morons still buy the over priced to puny to see a damn thing scope? Only explanation is they have mental problems. They think that if they spend large amount of money on something it makes them feel better. Then they tell lies that it is the best. Look at the pretty star chart. I have more money then you do so na na boo boo. The Questar is looked at more then looked through, how sad. This is a serious thing. Whenever you see a Questar stay far away from it and the owner. The owner has a serious problem and may even kill you.

Hellooooooooo? Might you wish to convey how 5 paragraphs of anti-Questar rant has anything to do with turning the HST into a space exhibit? You did well with the first paragraph. The second one started to slip. The remaining five were worthless.

That was truly a bizarre piece of work.

From Amsat-BB:

The AO-40 command team has established a routine of trying to cycle the main battery off (aux. battery on) and then the S2 Tx ON every orbit, using simple machine codes. Following this, the sequence to disconnect all transmitters is sent, to protect them from low voltage. If we have approximately 10 volts on the main buss, then these commands should be making it through, but the S2 transmitter was not designed to run below 20 volts and is not coming on. The battery relay has been tested in the amsat lab, where a duplicate exists, and it will cycle reliably at 12 volts, but not lower. If we have less than 10 volts, then the commands will not be received because the IHU-1 and/or command receivers are insufficiently powered. Either way, the IHU-1 is not currently running IPS. The machine code commands only function in reset mode. We assume that we currently have less than 12 volts and that either the IHU-1 and relay are not functional (<10 volts) or the relay isn't functional (<12 volts), because cycling the relay should get us out of this situation by disconnecting the main battery.

With regard to the stability of the attitude/spin, this will not be a concern for a very long time. We are currently rotating at 3.5 RPM. The spin decay rate is extremely slow. It will take approximately 4 years to drop this to 3.0 RPM. We can magnetorque at speeds as low as 1.5 RPM. The mystery effect will decrease ALON approximately 11.5 degrees/week. It does not affect ALAT, though ALAT will change slightly as the orbit precesses.

MAIN BATTERY NOTES (and conjecture):
The main batteries consist of three packs housed in sheet aluminum cases and bolted to the radial braces between panels 1/6, 2/3 and 4/5. The cells within the packs have threaded metal binding posts and the cells are connected by thick metal straps with strain relief "U's" in them. The pack at 2/3 consists of 7 cells and is the negative end of the chain. The pack at 1/6 consists of 6 cells and is in the middle of the chain. The pack at 4/5 consists of 7 cells and is at the positive end of the chain. The main battery pack at 1/6 is the closest battery to the "flaky" heat pipe thermistor, though it is located "below" this heat pipe near the omni end of the spacecraft. Main battery packs 4/5 and 1/6 lost their thermistors during the 400N incident. Whether this was due to trauma to the battery or damage to the cabling is unknown. If a short to ground occurred in the 1/6 battery pack it would pull the cells on the negative side of the short in this pack to zero, as well as all cells in the 2/3 pack. Depending on the location of the short and the status of the cells in pack 4/5, this could pull the main buss voltage to half normal (14 volts) or even 10 volts or below. <conjecture> A short at this location might have generated enough localized heat (or even some hot metal spatter) to damage the thermistor on the flaky heatpipe or, more likely, its wiring. This is appealing because it would represent a single point failure, rather than a failure cascade. One piece of evidence that doesn't clearly fit with this theory is that the cells in pack 2/3, the one main battery pack that still has a thermistor temperature sensor, do not appear to get warm following the voltage drop. We do not know how much capacity remained in these cells. It is possible they contained relatively little energy. </conjecture>

As several of you indicated, we are in a waiting game for the main battery to develop one "open" cell.

I agree with the sediments(sic) expressed here. I also think that a lot of the suggestions on what to do with Hubble are generated from romantic notions and not by scientific and/or economic realities. One is trying to bring Hubble back to display it in the Smith. This is something that shouldn't be taken from the NASA budget, since the funding WILL come from other projects that need the funding right now.

Case in point is that the funding for the Next Generation Space Telescope has been held back, if not cut back, for now, thanks to a tight NASA budget. I know this first hand because I lost a job working for that project because one of the contractors didn't have the funding they were expecting this year. Also, a lot of funding for the two rovers came from other projects that have sinced suffered; some were reorganized or simply cut.

Those that want to see their romantic notions realized should raise the funding for it publically and not suggest "NASA do this" or "NASA do that". There's enough things done by NASA for image rather than scientific and technological return that robs programs that do the latter of funding. And those that say NASA isn't about science should be reminded that the images taken by Hubble were, for the most part, science oriented, whether you believe money should have been spent on the science or not, and not just for NASA's public image.

Hmmm, it'll be a tight fit for Mercury.
Seriously, HST last observation before it's plunge into the Pacific should be on Mercury even though HST probably fry its optics with the Sun nearby.

you might need a NASA sized budget. Parkes certainly did. they spent a great deal of NASA's money to increase the gain of their dish by 1db at 8GHz. That's the downlink frequency. Try visitng the Parkes Telescopes website. It's fascinating.

Here's a note I wrote on the AMSAT-BB a couple of years back. The AO-27 birdie problem also afflicts SO-50 on the TS-2000.

I run a TS-2000 on satellite. Before that I used an FT-847.

The only problems with the radio on satellite are:

o The birdie on AO-27's downlink makes it very difficult to work AO-27 during a lot of its pass.

o If you want to use the transverter frequency readout on the downlink band it reduces the uplink power to 5W - a software design bug.

o Don't rely on the internal TNC's for operating the digital birds.

Other than that it works extremely well on satellite. I prefer it to the FT-847 because:

o I can control the entire radio remotely (useful recently as I am a PCSat command station).

o There's no expensive filters to buy.

o The '2000 has none of the birdies which I encounter with the '847 on the FO-20/29 downlink when transmitting.

o The dual receive function is handy at times, but I don't use it anywhere near as much as I'd anticipated.

If FM sats are your thing you'll find the birdie on AO-27 very annoying. Personally I only rarely operate FM sats, tending to stay on the linear transponder birds.

I like it so much I have two - one for mobile and one for the shack. For mobile operation, you will never be bored on a journey: I'm QRV 80m to 23cm.

Interesting, thanks for the link. To answer the previous question, the closest current equivalents are perhaps the various Amsat groups, with Amsat-DL developing a proposal to send an amateur spacecraft to Mars.

Interestingly, James Miller suggests that you can pick up spacecraft en route with as little as a 1m dish.

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1382 with a release date of Friday, February 6, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. A major problem for Amsat Oscar 40, a surprise BPL rollout in Pennsylvania, UPS says that illegal 10 meter radios will be ordered out of company trucks and another view of the ARRL's restructuring proposal. Find out the details on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1382 coming your way right now.

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: AO-40 SUFFERS CATASTROPHIC POWER FAILURE

The main battery pack on board the AMSAT Oscar 40 satellite has failed and controllers are unsure if the bird can be brought back to life on the reserve power system. Amateur Radio Newsline's Norm Seeley, KI7UP, tells us what happened on-orbit:

According to AMSAT Executive Vice President Rick Hambly, W2GPS, AO-40 began its tumble to obscurity on Sunday, January 25th. That's when the satellites battery voltage momentarily dropped to 24 point 5 volts. This triggered a fail-safe that shut down the satellites passbands. Then, at the beginning of the eclipse on orbit 1486 the battery voltage rapidly dropped just below the cutoff voltage of 24.0 volts and this shut down the transmitters to protect the battery and other on board equipment.

AMSAT controllers kept a close eye on the bird and on Tuesday the 27th the battery voltage suddenly dropped from to 14V. Mission commanders currently believe that more battery cells short circuited. Control stations immediately began transmitting blind commands to the spacecraft in an attempt to switch over to the auxiliary battery. Eventually, the auxiliary battery pack came on line, but in parallel with the main pack. This means that the shorted main Ni-Cad battery is loading down the back-up Nickel Metal Hydride cells are clamping the voltage low and keeping the auxiliary battery from fully powering the spacecraft.

AMSAT is hopeful that one of the cells in the main battery will eventually fail open circuit. This would effectively remove the damaged battery from service and permit the back up battery to assume the full load of AO-40. In the meantime its a waiting game with fingers crossed that no other catastrophic failures to other parts of the satellite take place.

A set of spare A0-40 back-up batteries were found at the AMSAT lab in Orlando Florida. Using them Stan Wood, WA4NFY and Lou Mc Fadin, W5DID performed a series of tests that showed the auxiliary battery pack on board the satellite should work well if they are otherwise undamaged. Unfortunately, than will only happen if the main battery pack can be pulled off line.

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: MIKE FOALE TALKS HOME

Still with ham radio in space, Wednesday, January 28th was a very special day on board the International Space Station for Astronaut Mike Foale. That’s because the space traveler got the chance to speak to students at the school he used to attend and he did so using Amateur Radio. Take a listen:

Contact Audio no print transcript

The contact between Foale on board the I-S-S and the kids at The King’s School, Canterbury, England began at 17:42 UTC when the I-S-S answered the call of G-B-4-F-U-N. That station was operated by G-Zero-A-K-I and the audience kept its breath as Foale answered 12 questions.

Contact Audio - No print transcript

Media coverage of this contact was impressive. Meridian TV, BBC TV, BBC Radio Kent, Invicta Radio and the Kent Gazette interviewed the students and put reports in the main newscasts. The BBC World Service and the Press Association asked for information and contact transcripts. (ARISS, ON4WF)

THE BPL FIGHT: PA HAMS ORGANIZE TO FIGHT ALLENTOWN ROLLOUT

Hams in Northampton County in eastern Pennsylvania, just outside of Allentown, are organizing a campaign to protest announced plans by PP&L to offer Broadband Internet Service over power lines in a development in Hanover Township. The Allentown-based utility has been doing field tests of the technology in nearby Emmaus, Pa.

The ARRL's Eastern Pennsylvania Section Manager Eric Olena, WB3FPL says PP&L sent out 2,000 letters to residents in a section of Hanover Township and already has received replies from 200 people interested in subscribing to the service.

Olena says an ARRL District Emergency Coordinator and other hams met with township officials to warn them about the massive inteference Broadband over Power Lines brings to the radio spectrum, including fire and emergency frequencies. But, he says, the officials apparently were swayed by the utility's assurances no such interference exists.

An interview with Olena and others involved in the battle, coming in next week's Newsline. (ARNewsline(tm), NT3V)

ENFORCEMENT: EVEN MORE COOPERATION COMBATTING 10 METER PIRATES FROM UPS

A follow-up to our recent story concerning the use of unlicensed 10 meter radio gear on-board United Parcel Service Trucks. As reported, back on January 7th the FCC notified the U-P-S offices in Elkhart Indinana and Middleburg Heights Ohio of its findings. The company offered its full cooperation to end the problem.

Now comes word from the FCC that they have been contacted by UPS national corporate headquarters has contacted the regulatory agency and the company did not mince any words. It told the FCC that the agency has its full cooperation in removing any unlicensed radio gear and any non-certified two-way gear from their delivery fleet, nation wide.

According to UPS, the only personally owned radio gear permitted in their trucks under a collective bargaining agreement with their union drivers are commercially built unmodified C-B sets, and that only on a regional as-needed basis. No other radios are allowed. (FCC, UPS, others)

ENFORCEMENT: THE FCC ACTIVE IN A NUMBER OF CASES

Meantime, the FCC has been active in a number of other enforcement issues involving ham radio operators. The agency’s Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, has more:

Duckworth: “An Extra class license was downgraded to Technician class due to a failure to appear for a retest in Solidad California. Also, cancellation of an Extra class license in Medera California for the same reason.

A notice for retesting was sent to a General class licensee in Hialeah Florida. The deadline for that one is March 1st.

A letter requesting additional information pursuant to Section 308(b) of the Communications Act -- in order to make a decision on a General class renewal went out to Newton Square PA..

A letter settling enforcement action with a General class licensee in Bart VT. has resulted in voice operation prohibited for three years on 20 meters.

Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, reporting.

Even though its still not naming names of alleged violators the FCC is making sure that those thinking about breaking its rules know its still around. (FCC, RAIN)

RESTRUCTURING: ANOTHER LOOK AT THE ARRL PROPOSAL

Even though there are more than a dozen restructuring proposals before the FCC, its the American Radio Relay Leagues recent filing that really has the world of Amateur Radio talking. The obvious question is why, and thats what we asked correspondant Mark Abramovich, NT3V, to find out:

As more amateurs find out what the ARRL has to say, they're starting to pay attention.

When the ARRL speaks, the FCC generally listens. In the past, the FCC has used the organization's proposals as a foundation for decisions.

To understand where the ARRL is coming from, you might want to get some perspective from the past. Who better to offer it than Harry Dannals W2HD - elected ARRL president in 1972 and re-elected to five consecutive terms. Now retired and living in Charlottesville, Va., Dannals is on top of the debate.

"It's a long cry from the days of incentive licensing when we did have people who resigned their membership, withdrew their membership, or did not renew their membership, just to show their disappointment and utter dissatisfaction with the incentive licensing proposal as it was named," Dannals recalls. "Because that was indeed (what it was), in the minds of the ARRL board headed at that time by President Herb Hoover.

He believed that in order for us to show that we were improving ourselves and becoming better at what we do that we should upgrade our license structure."

Dannals says the claim the ARRL proposal for a "no code" HF license "dumbs down" the hobby is off the mark.

"I think the new proposal, despite the criticism by those who say: 'I had to do it and therfore, you have to do it,' I think the new proposal will bring more people into amateur radio than the 'no code' proposal ever did," Dannals says.

Dannals says the Novice concept will go a long way in revitalizing interest.

"The introductory grade of license will give them some of the things that will make amateur radio mean more, the long-distance communication, the long friendships that develop over the many thousands of miles," Dannals says. "And I do believe we need this."

Dannals laughs at the fears that we'll need hundreds of FCC types to police the new hams.

"I think if the amateurs themselves who have experience, the older timers - and they don't have to be white-haired and grizzly old-timers - they can be relatively newcomers, maybe 5-10 years," Dannals says. "They can take care of tutoring the newcomers more than adequately."

Dannals says local radio clubs are the key to success for any license restructuring.

"Put out a handshake and say: 'Come on board. We'll help you, we'll teach the courses that you can use to get your license and we'll help you once you've got your license.' The old Elmering still is working."

Keep an ear open for more on this from both Harry Dannals and Mark Abramovich as all of the restructuring petitions wind their way through the FCC rules making process over the next several months. ARNewsline(tm))

REGULATORY: CROSS BORDER RADIO DISPUTE BETWEEN US AND MEXICO BROADCASTERS

A cross border radio war may be brewing between the United States and Mexico. This as complaints of massive interference to United States broadcast operations from a new station on 560 kHz in Tecate Tijuana Mexico lead to a high level telephone call between the FCC and the Mexico’s SCT on Thursday, January 29th. A call that many hoped will defuse the situation before it escalates any further.

According to the CGC Communicator, the SCT which is Mexico's telecommunications regulator is said to have promised swift action in eliminating the interference that XEKTT is currently causing to U.S. stations. But the story does not end here. Concern for Mexico's planned operations as XESS on 780 kHz and XEDD 920 kHz, also in the vicinity of Tijuana continues to mount. A printed copy the authorization for 780 kHz has surfaced. It confirms that operation with 20 kilowatts dayside and 10 kilowatts night with non-directional facilities both times and a quarter-wave tall broadcast tower is in fact sanctioned by the SCT.

The CGC Communicator says that this confirms the power figures it published a few weeks ago and establishes what it terms as more blow torch situations. Meanwhile, additional broadcasters are joining the list of companies concerned with the current 560 kHz interference. (CGC)

ENFORCEMENT: THE FCC VS. THE SUPERBOWL HALFTIME SHOW

FCC Chairman Michael Powell has ordered an investigation of the telecast of last weeks Superbowl half-time show in which rock performer Justin Timberlake ripped part Janet Jackson costume on-camera. The stunt brought a massive number of complaints to the regulatory agency from viewers of the game.

In a press release obtained by the Amateur Radio Newsline, Powell states: “I am outraged at what I saw during the halftime show of the Super Bowl. Like millions of Americans, my family and I gathered around the television for a celebration. Instead, that celebration was tainted by a classless, crass and deplorable stunt. Our nation’s children, parents and citizens deserve better.”

CBS which aired the game denied that the incident was preplanned. None-the-less, Powell instructed the Commission to open an investigation into the broadcast. He also stated that the inquiry will be thorough and swift.

At least in theory, each station that permitted the video to be aired could be fined or have its license designated for as hearing if the investigation finds that the material was either indecent or obscene. (FCC release)

RESCUE RADIO: AGENCY WARNS OF BIG FIRE SEASON IN THE SOUTHWEST

Hams involved in emergency communications in the Western United States should get ready for a rather busy fire season. At least that’s what a recently released preliminary outlook for 2004 seems to imply. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, has the retails:

According to Jay Miller, W-A-5-W-H-N and Raleigh Stout A-C-5-J-W, the Southwest Area Coordination Center in Albuquerque, issued the report. The center is a multiagency hub for the region's wildfire operations and it says that persistent drought and millions of dead or dying trees have set the stage for a fire season as bad or worse than 2002. That’s when millions of acres burned across the region.

In southeastern Arizona and southern New Mexico, field surveys reveal that the snow pack holds less than 20% of the average moisture of a normal mid-winter. Coupled with the 2003 monsoon season being one of the driest in a century, the center says that tinderbox conditions are manifest.

And its going to get worse. With little relief in sight, the fire season, which usually begins in April, could start a month or more earlier. Public land managers are being urged to complete training and preparations sooner than usual and to put more firefighters on duty. It also means that hams involved in support of firefighting efforts will need to hone their skills a lot earlier this year in order to be prepared.

For the Amateur Radio Nerwsline, I’m Bill Passternak, WA6ITF

Its beginning to look as if firefighters and the ham radio operators who support them may have a tough fire season ahead. (ARNewslin(tm), WA5WHN)

THE WAR ON TERROR: SECURITY ALERT FOR CELL PHONE GUNS

Don't be surprised if you're asked to make a call on your cellphone the next time you go through airport security. Time Magazine quotes sources as saying handguns disguised as regular cellular telephones have been seized in several drug raids across Europe.

The potentially deadly devices look exactly like a normal cellular handset but are capable of rapidly firing four .22-caliber rounds of ammunition. They are manufactured in Croatia and are fired by punching buttons on the keypad

So far, none of the phony cellphones are known to have surfaced in the United States. Aviation security experts say screening equipment now in use can detect these cellphone guns as well as all other improvised explosive devices.. POSTAL PROBLEMS: CQ INVESTIGATES DAMAGED MAGAZINES

If you are wondering why your ham radio and other magazines have been showing up with torn covers or their insides missing, you are not alone. So were the folks at CQ who were receiving complaints from their readers. So they launched their own probe and what they found that its likely a problem at the United States Postal Service.

According to CQ Publisher Dick Ross, K2MGA, the postal system has installed new equipment that’s designed to speed up the processing of mail through automated sorting. Ross says that it usually works quite well but unofficial information coming to him says that the units can cause problems if they are even slightly out of adjustment. As Ross says, it sounds as if the new technology demands maintenance far beyond having a service crew fix it when it breaks.

Ross says that his magazines have already taken steps to get around the problem until the postal service finds a permanent fix. This includes new imported paper for the magazine covers.

What Dick Ross found out about the foibles of the postal services automated sorting system makes good reading. You can find it on page 4 of the February issue of CQ Magazine. (CQ)

This, in a letter published in the Sydney Morning Herald and The Age news papers. Q-News Graham Kemp, VK4BB has the details.

While BPL holds out the promise of always-on internet availability from every household power point, overseas experience with this new technology shows Australia should not rush into adopting it.

BPL/PLC systems installed here would cause significant interference to high frequency communications users across Australia which include emergency services, aircraft, police, rural and remote services, maritime, government agencies and private users such as we Radio Amateurs.

Roger Harrison, VK2ZRH, speaking for the group says they are an informal alliance of organisations and individuals across Australia with interests in RF communications and technologies. Alliance members come from broadcasting, community service bodies, consultancies, emergency services, equipment manufacturers and suppliers, government, industry bodies, the radio amateur community and other radiocommunications users.

Graham Kemp, VK4BB.

Howdy from Bill K7MT Helena, Mt.

Last pass 2215Z 06 Feb, 2004 found several hams on FO-29. W0EEC, W7JPI, KG7EZ, K7MT, KE6OAG, and N7EQF in a wonderful roundtable the entire pass. What a great bunch of folks and very professional in their communications on the satellite. Great job by everyone and look forward to many more great qso's on FO-29.

Also look for Robert W0LMD who is having AO-40 withdrawals and he is showing up on FO-29 over the last two days. Carl N4OZI, K6YK,W0SAT and a couple I missed can also be heard almost daily.

Cheers all K7MT

Howard
Thanks for the information - much appreciated!

I had heard that the TS2000 was not very sensitive on 144/436 - can you comment please?
I too had hope to run the TS2000 mobile - do you use the smaller control panel when mobile?
Which linear transponder birds do you find most useful?

Sorry about the long list of questions - just moved into a cond with antenna restrictions and think getting back into the birds is probably a good path with linblads or turnstiles in the attic...

You might find some of the following interesting:

"Frequency Assignment Guidelines for Communications in the Mars Region" Space Frequency Coordination Group
http://sfcgonline.org/handbook/rec/rec22-1r1.pdf

I understand that Mars orbiters and landers are using the CCSDS Proximity-1 protocol. You can find a copy of the specs (I think they were broken into several documents) on the CCSDS Web site:
http://www.ccsds.org/.

I also understand that other CCSDS protocols are used between Mars and Earth.

Ever had the thought that if 50,000 people donated to someone a dollar each, it would be an amazing way to earn a lot of money without anyone shelling out large sums of cash? Well, it can be done. (So they say.)
=0D
I found this article in a news group, and it makes perfect sense. If you= follow it's simple instructions, you could make yourself a large amount o= f money in a very short time. I do however advise that you look into it thoroughly to make sure that everything is perfectly legal. (It seems O.= K. to me)

=0D
Elias Moussally wrote the following:
=0D
I just read an article in an Internet news group describing how to make= $50,000.00 in only one month from a $5.00 investment.

Of course I thought this was ridiculous ,or some type of pyramid. I talk= ed it over with my family, an attorney, and my friends, and they all agreed = it was some sort of scam. I hate scams because usually someone gets burned,= and I didn't want it to be me! I blew it off for a few weeks then saw another one in a news group I go to a lot and thought, "Maybe this is legitimate!". Besides, what's $5.00 , I spend more than that in the morni= ng

on my way to work on coffee and cigs for the day.
=

Well, two weeks later, I began receiving money in the mail! I couldn't believe it! Not just a little , I mean big bucks! At first only a few hundred dollars, then a week later, a couple of thousand , then BOOM . By= the end of the fourth week , I had received nearly $47,000.00. It came fr= om

all over the world. And every bit of it perfectly legal and on the up an= d
up. I've been able to pay off all my bills and still had enough left over= for a nice vacation for me and my family.

Not only does it work for me, it works for other folks as well. Markus Valppu says he made $57,883 in four weeks. Dave Manning claims he made $53,664 in the same amount of time. Dan Shepstone says it was only $17,0= 00 for him. Do I know these folks? No, but when I read how theysay they di=
d
it, it made sense to me. Enough sense that I'm taking a similar chance with $5 of my own money. Not a big chance, I admit--but one with incredible potential, because $5 is all anyone ever invests in this syste= m.
Period. That's all Markus, Dave, or Dan invested, yet their $5 netted them tens of thousands of dollars each, in a safe, legal, completely legitimate way. Here's how it works in 3 easy steps:

=

Invest your $5 by writing your name and address on five separate pieces o= f paper along with the words, "PLEASE ADD ME TO YOUR MAILING LIST." (In thi= s
way, you're not just sending a dollar to someone; you're paying for a legitimate service.) Fold a $1 US bill, money order, or banknote inside each paper, and mail them by standard U. S. Mail to the following five addresses:
=0D
(Remember: It costs more to send a letter to Europe, Asia or so) =

=0D
1. Angela Johnson

5. Ray Parsons
807 East 9th St.
Sedalia, MO 65301
USA

=0D
=0D
STEP 2.
=0D
Now remove the top name from the list, and move the other names up. =

This way, #5 becomes #4 and so on. Put your name in as the fifth one on t= he list.
=0D
=0D
STEP 3.
=0D
Post the article to at least 200 news groups. There are at least 1700= 0 news groups at any given moment in time. Try posting to as many news grou= ps
as you can. Remember the more groups you post to, the more people will s= ee
your article and send you cash!
=0D
=0D
STEP 4.
=0D
You are now in business for yourself, and should start seeing return= s within 7 to 14 days! Remember, the Internet is new and huge. There is no way you can lose.
=0D
Now here is how and why this system works:
=

Out of every block of 200 posts I made, I got back 5 responses. Yes, that's right, only 5. You make $5.00 in cash, not checks or money orders,= but real cash with your name at #5.

Each additional person who sent you $1.00 now also makes 200 addition= al

postings with your name at #4, 1000 postings. On average then, 50 people= will send you $1.00 with your name at #4,....$50.00 in your pocket!

Now these 50 new people will make 200 postings each with your name at=

#3 or 10,000 postings. Average return, 500 people=3D $500. They make 200
postings each with your name at #2=3D 100,000 postings=3D5000 returns at = each=3D$5,000.00 in cash!

Finally, 5,000 people make 200 postings each with your name at #1 an=
d
you get a return of $50,000 before your name drops off the list. And that's only if everyone down the line makes only 200 postings each! Your total income for this one cycle is $55,000.

From time to time when you see your name is no longer on the list, yo= u
take the latest posting you can find and start all over again.
=0D
So that's it. Pretty simple sounding stuff, huh? But believe me, it works. There are millions of people surfing the net every day, all day, a= ll over the world. And 100,000 new people get on the net every day. You know= that, you've seen the stories in the paper. So, my friend, read and follo= w

the simple instructions and play fair. That's the key, and that's all the= re is to it. Print this out right now so you can refer back to this article= easily. Try to keep an eye on all the postings you made to make sure everyone is playing fairly. You know where your name should be.

REMEMBER....HONESTY IS THE BEST POLICY.YOU DON'T NEED TO CHEAT THE BASIC IDEA TO MAKE THE MONEY!
GOOD LUCK TO ALL,AND PLEASE PLAY FAIR AND YOU WILL WIN AND MAKE SOME REAL INSTANT FREE CASH!
=0D
So that's it. Since you are paying for the service of having your name added to a person's mailing list, you aren't actually giving themmoney. =

So try it out, it's only five dollars, and you never know, it just might work out.
=0D
!!! REMEMBER: IF YOU SEND A MAIL TO EUROPE, THEN YOU HAVE TO STAMP IT WIT=

In case you hadn't noticed, USENET folks aren't a free consulting or educational service.

The first answer is, correctly, to have a look at the AMSAT web page. The AMSAT folks go to some trouble to keep tabs on their satellites and it would be a shame to have all that effort go to waste.

If you don't understand it, by all means ask here.
But kindly check the attitude at the door. It's not called for.

Ah, the friendly Canadian amateur speaks.

While you may be technically correct, the combined knowledge of folks on this newsgroup is considerable[1], and it's a shame to see it overpowered by ego.

Look, people, hams are _supposed_ to help people out -- or were, anyway, back when I got my license, in 1963. Maybe things have changed. If they've changed _that_ much, I'm not sure I want to be a ham.

You might try applying that advice to yourself. Your reply, while somewhat less unhelpful than the first two to the original poster, fails to take into account the irritation felt by someone who, after Reading The Fine Manual and Doing The other Right Things, asks for help in the most logical place and gets responses that are terse and distinctly unhelpful. Instead, you walk willingly into the same trap.

Or maybe you don't particularly care about the image you project of yourself, Canadians, and hams.

I see you're a bit north and a lot west of my cottage in Go Home Bay, ON, a mile east of 45N 80W. At least the Canadians in _that_ neighborhood really _are_ friendly.

Hi Bruce,

One issue about leaving it in orbit indefinitely is that NASA's orbit debris policy is specifically against that. From the orbit debris point of view, it's in the best interests of everyone to remove dead spacecraft from orbit as quickly as possible. The longer an object is in orbit, the longer it is a target for existing debris. Once hit, there is a chance the collision will create more debris, further polluting the orbit. Hubble just had a anomalous event recently (5 August 2003) where a 5-cm piece of something (probably thermal blanket) detached itself from the telescope. See current issue of ODQN at:

http://orbitaldebris.jsc.nasa.gov/newsletter/newsletter.html

So the longer you leave HST or any spacecraft in the "shooting galley", the greater the chances it will be hit and cause more debris. New NASA LEO missions are required to re-entry within 30 years of launch. The best way to preserve HST for a museum would unfortunately be to retrieve it and bring it back.

GEO orbits have their own disposal requirements for similar debris reasons. Most operators boost nearly-dead GEO satellites out of the belt (by at least 250-km in altitude) in order to prevent introducing more debris there (and to free up the slot for future spacecraft). Sun-Earth LaGrange points would be a little different, since they are quasi-stable depending on the effects of solar radiation pressure. Something put there may eventually wander off into a heliocentric orbit.

Patrick,

AO-40 AMSAT OSCAR 40
Catalog number: 26609
Launch Date: November 16, 2000

Uplink V-band 145.840 - 145.990 MHz CW/LSB
U-band 435.550 - 435.800 MHz CW/LSB
L1-band 1269.250 - 1269.500 MHz CW/LSB

Downlink: S2-band 2401.225 - 2401.475 MHz CW/USB
K-band 24,048.010 - 24,048.060 MHz CW/USB
Beacon: 2401.323, 24,048.035

Status: Currently Non-Operational

This from Stacey Mills, W4SM 01/29/2004:

The AO-40 command team has established a routine of trying to cycle the main battery off (aux. battery on) and then the S2 Tx ON every orbit, using simple machine codes. Following this, the sequence to disconnect all transmitters is sent, to protect them from low voltage. If we have approximately 10 volts on the main buss, then these commands should be making it through, but the S2

transmitter was not designed to run below 20 volts and is not coming on. The battery relay has been tested in the amsat lab, where a duplicate exists, and it will cycle reliably at 12 volts, but not lower. If we have less than 10 volts, then the commands will not be received because the IHU-1 and/or command receivers are insufficiently powered. Either way, the IHU-1 is not currently running IPS. The machine code commands only function in reset mode. We assume that we currently have less than 12 volts and that either the IHU-1 and relay are not functional (<10 volts) or the relay isn't functional (<12 volts), because cycling the relay should get us out of this situation by disconnecting the main battery.With regard to the stability of the attitude/spin, this will not be a concern for a very long time. We are currently rotating at 3.5 RPM. The spin decay rate is extremely slow.
It will take approximately 4 years to drop this to 3.0 RPM. We can magnetorque
at speeds as low as 1.5 RPM. The mystery effect will decrease ALON approximately 11.5 degrees/week. It does not affect ALAT, though ALAT will change slightly as the orbit precesses.MAIN BATTERY NOTES (and conjecture):The main batteries consist of three packs housed in sheet aluminum cases and bolted to the radial braces between panels 1/6, 2/3 and 4/5. The cells within the packs have threaded metal binding posts and the cells are connected by thick metal straps with strain relief "U's" in them. The pack at 2/3 consists of 7 cells and is the negative end of the chain. The pack at 1/6 consists of 6 cells and is in the middle of the chain. The pack at 4/5 consists of 7 cells and is at the positive end of the chain. The main battery pack at 1/6 is the closest battery to the "flaky" heat pipe thermistor, though it is located "below" this heat pipe near the omni end of the spacecraft. Main battery packs 4/5 and 1/6 lost their thermistors during the 400N incident.
Whether this was due to trauma to the battery or damage to the cabling is unknown. If a short to ground occurred in the 1/6 battery pack it would pull

the cells on the negative side of the short in this pack to zero, as well as all cells in the 2/3 pack. Depending on the location of the short and the status of the cells in pack 4/5, this could pull the main buss voltage to half normal (14 volts) or even 10 volts or below. <conjecture> A short at this location might have generated enough localized heat (or even some hot metal spatter) to damage the thermistor on the flaky heatpipe or, more likely, its wiring. This is appealing because it would represent a single point failure, rather than a failure cascade. One piece of evidence that doesn't clearly fit with this theory is that the cells in pack 2/3, the one main battery pack that still has a thermistor temperature sensor, do not appear to get warm following the voltage drop. We do not know how much capacity remained in these cells.
It is possible they contained relatively little energy. </conjecture>As several of you indicated, we are in a waiting game for the main battery to develop one "open" cell.

Ground stations capturing telemetry from AO-40 are asked to ZIP the file and send a copy of the dat to the AO-40 archive at: ao40-archive@amsat.org.

As long as you put the preamp in it's fine.

Yes I use the RC-2000.

FO-29 is pretty much the only consistent linear transponder bird at the FWIW I live in an apartment block in a 'conservation area' which is also 'Grade-II listed'. So I thought I'd have no chance. However I am lucky enough that the roof is 120' up and is flat, so you can't see my array from street level, unless you really know where to look. Depending on your circumstances your mileage may of course vary...

Have a TS-2000 and like it a lot. Last spring I worked CW on FO-29, full duplex mode. The SSB stations were to hard for me to understand, I am a senior citizen with my hearing going to pot.

The set up was a two meter 5/8 mag mount mobile whip on a "cookie sheet", and a quarter wave ground plane for 70 cm on the roof of a story and half flat top apartment building. I lived on the top level and the antenna cable was pretty short, think the 70 cm coax was about 25 feet.
I was glad to work the CW I found, not as many on as SSB, a pretty good satellite. Heard the sat about a minute after AOS on Nova software and pretty much to LOS.

Worked ISS and NO-44 Packet satellites using the same set up many times.
NO-44, Bob WB4APR turned on the 432 receiver for some test passes, I was able to get in on 70 cm using about 15 watts to NO-44 on 70 cm.

Now I am in a senior high rise, not on the top level, my satellite operating days are over unless I can go portable, have no wheels to go mobile, no balcony, no outside antennas allowed.

ANS-046 WEEKLY SATELLITE REPORT

This report is organized into 2 parts.
Part 1 - operational analog amateur satellites.
Part 2 - operational digital amateur satellites.

SB SAT @ AMSAT $ANS-046.S1
WEEKLY SATELLITE REPORT PART 1

AMSAT NEWS SERVICE BULLETIN 046.S1 FROM AMSAT HQ
SILVER SPRING, MD, February 15,2004

ARISS - INTERNATIONAL SPACE STATION
Catalog number: 25544
Launch date: November 20, 1998

Worldwide packet uplink: 145.990 MHz FM
Region 1 voice uplink: 145.200 MHz FM
Region 2/3 voice uplink: 144.490 MHz FM
Worldwide downlink: 145.800 MHz FM

Sponsors: AMSAT, ARRL, ARISS

Status: Operational since September, 2000. Digipeater: Active

The current Expedition 8 crew is:
Commnader Mike Foale, KB5UAC
Flight Engineer Alexander Kaleri, U8MIR

The ISS daily crew schedule can be found at:
http://spaceflight.nasa.gov/station/timelines/Remember that the crew operates on UTC time. Also, all of the time line is NOT translated from Russian and posted.

U.S. callsign: NA1SS
Russian callsigns: RS0ISS, RZ3DZR
TNC callsign: RS0ISS-1

Sil, ZL2CIA, reports to ANS:
Those of you who like to run Sgates will be pleased to know that the ISS digi is active again and handling APRS traffic.
I successfully passed a number of packets via the station this evening.
(see below).
Ironically, it has probably never been turned off - it just looked that way.

The problem is simply that the Rx on the ISS has been tuned to a different frequency than that listed.
The current configuration is

Downlink 145.800 MHz (with Dopler)
Uplink 145.825 MHx (with Doppler)
Digi Callsign is RS0ISS-3

Please send any confirmations to ans-editor@amsat.org.

Catalog number: 22825
Launched: September 26, 1993

Uplink: 145.850 MHz FM
Downlink: 436.795 MHz FM

Status: Operational

Off the AO-27 webpage at http://www.ao27.org:
February 6th, 2004 UTC
The on-board watchdogs have turned the scheduler off. This was expected as the last few days of telemetry have shown lower battery voltages. We will be downloading the Whole Orbit Data and looking at why the voltage is lower.
I will send a new schedule up as soon as we know what happened. Keep in mind that AO-27 is in its 11th year on orbit. If you hear the telemetry, please don't try to uplink, you will only cause interference to the command stations

The latest information on AO-27 from control operator Michael Wyrick, N3UC (former N4USI), can be found at: http://www.ao27.org

An AO-27 question-and-answer page is available on the AMSAT-NA web

This from Alberto E. Zagni - I2KBD on November 26,2003:

I can confirm that IO-26 is still in Safe Mode (MBL telemetry).
We have some problems to uplink the full IHT software, probably due to an unfavourable attitude of the spacecraft.
Until the IHT (high level code) is reloaded, NO digipeat will be possible, since it is part of the IHT multitasking code.

We as well demudulate the sounds of a canine into the huiman audio spectrum.
It would mean more :) Seriously though i would rather listen to the sounds of the natural phoenominom of planets like we were meant to last year :)
oops.

Though we see photos we ignore all other senses. I want to hear, smell, taste and touch venus and mars though i suspect tasting venus would be hotter than the most supreme vindaloo.:-)

This would act as an online resource for space watchers.

Has this been done or is it being used somewhere else ?

Hi All:

I've just updated my web site and posted some previously unpublished images of the 1998 launch of a Pegasus XL rocket carrying NASA's TRACE satellite into orbit.

There's a ham radio connection to this: We used the very wide coverage WB6OBB crossband repeater to meet to view the launch and to share countdown status.

The photos are posted at http://www.spacearchive.info/trace.htm

SAVE HUBBLE FOR KIDS SAKE!

http://www.Hubble2004.com

What Can I do NOW to help SAVE Hubble Space Telescope?
The best way to get your voice heard is in chorus with others, as a group we can make sure the Hubble Space Telescope will be maintained for the "Worlds" benefit. NASA has said that the telescope is too "risky" to maintain, but at the same time they support sending astronauts to Mars as their current and past "robotic" missions are repeatedly having serious technical problems.

We're starting a GLOBAL petition that will take the voices of people from all over the world and send them to the US Congress to pass a resolution to allow the Hubble to provide imagery until the mission is complete in 2011. At that time, its expected that a new telescope will replace Hubble.

The problem is that we can't afford everything we now have and can eventually think of.
It's lots of fun to go to a party & have a great time as long as somebody else pays for it. The live band, the great food, real crystal dinnerware, but eventually the bill does show up, all the talk of the national deficit seems to disappear when it's my fun thing that might not be fully funded.
Somehow using the kids as a shield, especially now, really isn't genuine.
I'm all for science, who in the group isn't, but talking about saving everything and wanting more just adds to the bill that will have to be paid later.
I know, I know, you can't hear with all the great music right now, but I hope I am not around when the music stops, you on the other hand probably will be. Make wise choices now, they will still be there tomorrow.

NASA has its priorities wrong. We need to find a way to greatly reduce the cost of launches. $10,000 per pound is too much! If we could get it down to $100 per pound or less, every university in the country could have its own space telescope if they wanted one. The question is, how do we make space affordable? Why is it still so expensive after nearly 50 years of launches?

It is possible, are we willing to give up sending people into space? That is where the multiplier of 100x shows up.

How many reasons do you want?

A hundred fold decrease in cost is a HUGE decrease. For high tech gadgetry, the typical decrease is typically about ten fold from initial model to balls out mass production.

No major advances in basic propulsion science, i.e. no dilithium crystals, impulse drive or anti-gravity engines nor is there likely to be. Chemical rockets are going to be around a long time.

No economies of scale and highly unlikely space craft will ever be mass produced like Toyotas.

Since it is so expensive, only governments can afford to do it, and we all know how efficient government agencies of any type or nation are.

That's not to say costs can't be reduced, just that it is unrealistic to expect a couple of orders of magnitude reductions.

Another possibly stupid question:

In the various movies about giant objects on a collision to earth, they have often used Hubble to get more precise imaging to determine the nature of object, where to plant the big bomb etc etc .

In real life, once an object of a possible collision course has been detected, could/would Hubble be tasked to follow that object to provide the most accurate information ? Or would ground based telescopes be more than sufficient to get the job done ?

Oh, googling on sci.space.* + "CATS" might be interesting. As a summary: it is unlikely to be NASA that gets the price down. Google also on Space-X, XCOR, Pegasus, ...

If all you want to do is track it, ground-based telescopes would be perfectly adequate for almost all cases. Hubble might be used for an attempt to get an actual image of the thing, although it's hard to say how useful that would be.

Couldn't we get close to it with a fleet of fully reusable shuttles that can be operated and serviced like todays commercial jets?

Electronics have had similar decreases. The first electronic calculators were over $300. Just last week, I bought a very nice solar powered desktop calculator with an oversized LCD for only $1!

Thats an open question. It took a lot of years and experience to get commercial jets to where they are today. Even so, there is still a metric buttload of maintenance and support involved, it's just clumped together at intervals rather than being between individual flights.

Definitely so. That sort of massive improvement has never been done in one leap before. On the other hand, to quote the late Max Hunter (chief engineer for the Thor IRBM, later the basis of Delta), when that comment was made to him: "The human race has never done anything as stupid as we've done in space."

>No major advances in basic propulsion science, i.e. no dilithium crystals, >impulse drive or anti-gravity engines nor is there likely to be. Chemical >rockets are going to be around a long time.

Probably so, but that doesn't mean that chemical rockets are in a state of perfection which permits no major improvements. Too much of the accepted wisdom in chemical rocketry is just the first thing that happened to work when people were in a hurry in the 1950s. The alternatives are poorly explored, and the current technology is in no way optimum.

Also, "nor is there likely to be" is gross hubris. If you added "soon" to that, I might agree, with reservations.

>No economies of scale and highly unlikely space craft will ever be mass >produced like Toyotas.

There won't be mass production of spacecraft without major improvements in propulsion, which probably won't happen soon. But there is plenty of room for somewhat lesser economies of scale. Having reusable spaceships merely cost as much as major airliners would be a massive improvement... and there is no clear reason why they couldn't, since they should actually be simpler.

>Since it is so expensive, only governments can afford to do it...

An increasing fraction of space launches are for private customers, and there have already been privately-developed space launchers (a few).

If you assume that development of a reusable spaceship has to cost billions and billions, then definitely only government can do it. But that is an assumption, not a self-evident fact.

>That's not to say costs can't be reduced, just that it is unrealistic >to expect a couple of orders of magnitude reductions.

I would say that a more accurate statement is that it is difficult to prove that such a reduction is possible. The notion is not ridiculous; even high-performance experimental aircraft typically operate at only perhaps ten times their fuel costs... and that is several orders of magnitude better than today's rockets. There is no obvious law of nature which prevents reusable rockets from getting down into the same range.

Even operating and servicing like today's cranky high-tech experimental

I think we've progressed a bit beyond kerosene and LOX, but there are probably further improvements possible.

While just about anything is possible, I highly doubt there will be anything to replace chemical rockets (for launch from the Earth) ever. I give it zero probability in the next 50 years.

I hope I'm wrong since there is nothing I would like more than to hop into my space flitter and have a hamburger at the cafe on the Phobos, but I don't believe it will happen.

Lesser by a great factor. Successful aircraft are produced in numbers far exceeding the number of spacecraft anyone would want (assuming no one invents dilithium crystals).

The closest comparison available is the Concorde, which was a commercial disaster and never recovered the development costs.

Further, if spacecraft became flyable by entities other than governments, which are for the most part exempt from their own regulations, the regulatory burden to certify the airframe for flight would run the cost right back up and they would hardly be simpler as they would have to be certified for both atmospheric and space flight.

One needs only to look at the time and cost required for certification of a new, simple, piston engine driven aircraft to get a feel for this.

> >Since it is so expensive, only governments can afford to do it...

The vast majority of "private" space launches use government vehicles.

There is yet to be a Orbits-B-Us private launcher that;

A) Works

B) Has significant cost savings

If there were, every satellite maker on the planet would be beating on their door.

> If you assume that development of a reusable spaceship has to cost > that is an assumption, not a self-evident fact.

Without dilithium crystals, it IS a self-evident fact. We've had space flight for about half the time we've had flight, and the best we can do is a few individuals with one off designs that at best will get a person or two up and back just to set a record that cost millions.

The basic laws of economics prevail; if it were possible, someone other than the government would be putting satellites in orbit and making a buck or two in the process.

No law of nature, but law of governments.

Are you aware that the Wright recreation had to get special exemptions from the FAA to take place?

If the current regulatory burden were in place at the time of the Wright's original flight, we would still be flying spruce and linen biplanes.

Until 2053 :-) (for warp drive, the rest will be transfered technologies from Vulcans)

I agree entirely.

However, this brings a big dilemma: does one adopt a defeatist attitude and stop looking for new and improved propulsion methods limiting humanity to current rocket engines for the foreseable future, or does one continue to research new propultion methods with failures until they actually come up with something that works ?

How many rockets exploded/failed in the 50s and 60s until they got it "right ?" (heck, Ariane has had a lot of recent explosions).

The engine isn't the only story. Thermal protection is another big issue.

What seems to be stopping NASA right now is a religious choice between a reusable vehicle and a simple capsule, and for reusable, whether it should be winged or not, parachute or not.

One continues to refine and improve methods that conform to known physics and hope that sometime, somewhere, someone in a lab says to himself "Gee, that's weird" and comes up with something new.

How many airplanes crashed until they got it "right"? The US has had what,
3 spacecraft accidents where life was lost?

What seems to be stopping NASA right now is the choice between a non EPA

THE BPL FIGHT: ARRL REACTS TO FCC NPRM

The ARRL and many others in ham radio are not happy with last weeks FCC decision to proceed with further implementation of Broadband Over Powerline, and they are making their position known. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Mark Abramovich, NT3V, has been following developments and has more in this report:

To say American Radio Relay League President Jim Haynie W5JBP was disappointed with the FCC's decision to issue a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Broadband Over Powerlines might be an understatement.

Haynie sat in on the FCC's Feb. 12 meeting in Washington, D.C. and admits he was dumbfounded when many of the commissioners expressed excitement about the possibilities of BPL, ignoring interference concerns expressed by their technical staff.

"To have Commissioner (Kathleen) Abernathy come out in her initial speech that blew us away and her unbounded enthusiasm and then turn around at the hearing I attended and listen to Commissioner (Jonathan) Adelstein allude to unsubstantiated reports of interference and I was livid," Haynie says.

Haynie says the commissioners look more like cheerleaders for, than regulators of, the communications industry.

"It just seems to me though that the commission has gone from a regulatory agency to a Chamber of Commerce," Haynie says. "Their eagerness to implement this prior to the NTIA study rollout, which they actually have a letter from a congressman asking them to wait, seemed to me it was put on the fast track and try to beat the NTIA results."

Haynie says lots of what he heard about what's supposed to be in the NPRM does not bode well for amateur radio. But he says there are some burdens on the electric utilities.

"They put a lot of constraints on the BPL industry," Haynie explains. "They have to react in real time, they have to be frequency agile. They have to have public web sites, they've got to have somebody on duty 24-7 to mitigate complaints of interference."

Ah, yes, interference. BPL proponents claim hams don't know what they're talking about.

"I've heard reports of some of the BPL industry spokesman who flat deny that there's a problem," Haynie says. "There never has been a problem, there can't be a problem. "In several interviews I've done with the regular press it was: 'Okay, go down a buy you a short-wave receiver at Radio Shack. Go down there and listen to it for yourself. I don't have to give you all these engineering data, you can hear it for yourself.'

"The utilities, they are being hand-held very carefully by the BPL industry and being told: "There's not a problem, there's not a problem.' "

Haynie says profit for the equipment manufacturers and the utilities is clearly the motive for BPL.

"Any CEO worth his salt who's running a power company is going to try to figure out more ways to get investment return for his investors," Haynie says. "He's got a grid there and if these salesmen come in and tell him: 'Well look, you know, we can bring you in an extra million dollars a day or million dollars a week for your power grid and it's not going to cost you anything other than just put these little devices on every quarter mile.' Why not?"

But Haynie says a recent Carnegie Mellon University study of the BPL business model identifies pitfalls.

"It would take 17 years for the recovery of the initial investment," Haynie says. "And that puzzled me until I read the article and it said because broadband is dropping, DSL dial-up is getting cheaper every month.

"Deals are coming out, Verizon's fixin' to come out with some more stuff. The old thing $30 a month is going to be high. And that's what BPL wants right now, $30 for a residential, $50 for a business."

Haynie accuses proponents of deception proponents in "selling" the concept. He says the claim it will finally connect rural areas of the country to high-speed internet access is, well, hogwash!

"We know that what the BPL industry wants to do is pick the low-hanging fruit, the high-density population areas," Haynie says. "But that's the selling point they're using on the (Capitol) Hill. And that's the selling point they use with the commission. I heard Chairman (Michael) Powell say that himself along with several of the other commissioners.

"They have been sold this bill of goods. And if anybody would stop and think about it, if it was such a good deal to serve five customers in a four-square-mile area, the DSL and the cable people would be doing it now."

Haynie says he's seen and heard criticism of ARRL, much of it declaring the League hasn't done enough to address the BPL threat.

"Let me assure you, we have done a lot, and we have talked to a lot of our potential allies," Haynie says."We've had one, in-face meeting in Washington. We do constant e-mails back and forth.

"But I am not going to, and the League is not going to, reveal all the things we're working on because that would be ridiculous to show the hand to the industry. Let them figure out what we're up to."

What can you do and where do Haynie and the League see this going? Tune in next week for part two of our interview with Jim Haynie W5JBP.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia

WITH THE ARRL: THREE LONGTIME AWARDS DISCONTINUED

Meantime, the ARRL Awards Branch has discontinued three longtime awards programs. Gone are the Rag Chewer's Club, the Old Timer's Club and the Friendship Awards.

According to the ARRL Letter, the society’s Membership Services Manager Wayne Mills, N7NG, says that the number of amateurs applying for awards in general has declined significantly over the years, and interest in these three awards had slowed to a trickle.

Mills says that the awards programs eliminated had outlived their interest level. He adds that the cessation of the three awards is effective immediately. (ARRL)

RESTRUCTURING: NEW RULES FOR DANISH HAMS

More restructuring of ham radio is taking place around the world. This, as a set of new Amateur Radio regulations have been introduced in Denmark that make the nation code-free. Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, reports:

The Danish Information Technology and Telecom Agency has announced new regulations for radio amateurs in Denmark. The main feature of the new regulations is the elimination of the Morse code examination for access to the HF bands. Danish radio amateurs are also now allowed to use parts of the 4-meter band without a special permit. These are: 70.0125 to 70.0625, 70.0875 to 70.1125, 70.3125 to 70.3875 and 70.4125 to 70.4875MHz. Beacons are allowed in the 70.0125 to 70.0500MHz portion of the band. Detailed Danish 70MHz band plans can be found on the Internet.

I’m G4NJH in Nottingham.

The new regulations came into effect on the 1st of February. (GB2RS)

RESTRUCTURING: CROATIAN HAMS GET NEW PRIVILEGES ON 40 METERS

Croatia has become the first country in Region 1 to benefit from the expansion of the 40-meter band agreed at the World Radio Conference in Switzerland last summer. 9 A prefix amateurs have also been given privileges at 70 and 3400MHz and now no longer have to pass a Morse code test for access to the HF bands.

New amateur radio regulations came into effect in Croatia on the 26th of December but have only recently been announced to the world. Since that date Croatian amateurs have been permitted to operate between 7100 and 7200 kilohertz on a Secondary basis, with a maximum power of 1000 watts P-E-P. This is in addition to the normal Region 1 allocation of 7000 to 7100 kilohertz.

On 4 meters, Croatian amateurs now have 70.000 to 70.450 MHz, with a power limit of 10 watts. They also gain a new band between 3400 and 3410 MHz, with a maximum permitted power of 150 watts.

And like so many other nations, the Morse code requirement for an H-F band access license has been dropped. Under the new regulations and there are now only two classes in Croatia. They are the full license and a beginners' ticket. (GB2RS)

CONVENTIONS: HAMVENTION HOPES TO STAY IN DAYTON

Hamvention will probably stay in the Dayton Ohio area. This, according to the event’s General Chairman Gary Des Combes, N8EMO. In an interview with the Rain Report, Des Combes says that Dayton is the Hamvention’s home:

Des Combes: “My personal goal, and the goal of all of the volunteers is to maintain the show in Dayton Ohio. This is where it started and we would love to have it stay here. The plan we have no is to continue to go in that direction.”

--

How do planners intend to do this?

--

Des Combes: “What we need to do as a volunteer team is to work smarter, harder and more efficiently. Make the dollar ‘squeal’ so that the cost to the attendee and the flea-marketer and the exhibitors stay reasonable.”

--

What about the rumors of a move away from Dayton?

--

Des Combes: “There have been questions, quite frankly, from the exhibitors and others about wanting to move to newer and nicer facilities, but there are significant costs associated with that, and its our goal to keep this show a volunteer show because -- quite frankly -- we can do it better and more economically than if we went to a larger venue.”

Keeping the show in Dayton is only a small part of what Gary De Combes has to say about Hamvention 2004. Part one of the Rain interview with De Combes is on-line right now at www.rainreport.com and on the phone at 847-827-7246. Part 2 will be available on Friday, February 27th.

ENFORCEMENT: EX-KG6IRO DUE BACK TO COURT

I’m Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, with a late breaking story. Dateline Los Angeles California where former ham Jack Gerritsen, the ex-KG6IRO is headed back to court. This time for a probation hearing and sentenceing on charges that he tresspassed on a federal instalation. Bur local hams haqve gotten themselves involved in the sentencing proceedure and are trying to convince Judge Carolyn Turchin of United States District Court to ban Gerritsen from owening or operarating any transmitting equipment -- of any sort -- during his probation period.

This action appears to be a grass-roots effort by repeater owner operators all across Southern California who believe that Gerritsen is responsible for interference to their systems. They are asking all of their users and other hams in the area to send a letter to Judge Turchin explaining the importance of quashing any source of interference that could cause problems during emergencies. They also want to let the judge know all about Gerritsen’s past record and have her order him to stay away from ham radio or any other two-way service as a restriction of his probation.

Judge Turchin has set Monday, February 23rd for the hearing. Will let you know the outcome in next weeks Amateur Radio Newsline report. (ARNewsline(tm))

RADIO GOOD-GUYS: COLORADO YOUTH RADIOS IN REPORT OF FOUND POLICE TWO-WAY

A Highlands Ranch, Colorado, teen appears to have done the right thing when he found a Denver police radio on Monday the 16th. Not sure what the unit was, he used it to let the police force know he had it.

The 13-year-old boy found the radio in the yard of a nearby home. This, after he saw it thrown from a sport utility vehicle. The unidentified youngster retrieved it, figured out how to turn it on and used the radio to tell a police dispatcher that he had it.

Denver police and Douglas County sheriff's officials were working to retrieve the radio. Officials say that they hadn't been notified that a radio was missing, and investigators were trying to determine who it belonged to. They are also looking into how this radio got out of the City and County of Denver.

ROAD RADIO SAFETY: STUDY FINDS LOTS OF IN-CAR DISTRACTIONS

Drivers are distracted 16.1 percent of the time their vehicles were moving and cellphones nor two-way radio is not the main culprit. This, according to a study conducted by the auto club and researchers at the University of North Carolina.

The investigation tracked 70 drivers from North Carolina and Pennsylvania. It found that Cellular telephones were not the major distraction. In fact only 30 percent of the subjects used a cell phone while their vehicle was moving compared with 97 percent who leaned over to reach for something and 91 percent who fiddled with the controls on their car’s entertainment system.

The study found all drivers fiddle with their radios or engage in other distracting behavior. This, even when they're being watched as part of a study on distracted drivers. (Science OnLine)

THE ELECTRONICS INDUSTRY: CES PREDICTS GOOD SALES IN 2004

The Consumer Electronics Association -- better known by the initials CES -- says that the wholesale electronics market in 2004 is likely to grow to 100 point 99 billion dollars in sales. That's up 5 percent over 2003 and a major improvement over three years of negative or minimal growth.

CES is a trade group representing audio, video and mobile electronics makers. It says that the U.S. consumer electronics market is seeing a sharp growth in video products, which has helped to offset the decline in stand-alone audio products and in-car consumer electronics. Sales of new technologies such as plasma television screens were expected to generate nearly $1.5 billion in revenues for 2003, nearly tripling from $515 million just one year earlier. Growth in consumer electronics last peaked in 2000, when sales rose 12.7 percent to $96.37 billion over 1999. (Adapted from CES release)

Meantime, there’s a big anniversary coming up for ham radio space operations. March 1st marks the 20th anniversary of the UO11 ham radio satellite on-orbit. We have more in this report:

On the 1st March the UO-11 ham radio satellite, which is also known as UOSAT 2 will have been in space for two decades. To mark the event, AMSAT-UK will be issuing a commemorative QSL card in exchange for listener reports from stations hearing the signals during the month of March. The reports must be made by way of the reporting page on the web site and the QSL card will be in the form of a downloadable "E-QSL".

By way of background, UO-11 was the second satellite to be launched by Martin Sweeting, G3YJO's, group at the University of Surrey in here in England. Its telemetry beacon can still be heard on 145.825 MHz FM using nothing more than a handheld 2 meter rig. There is also a 2401.5 MHz beacon but signal is not very strong and represents quite a challenge.

Depending on the status of the satellite, it sometimes goes into 'safe' mode, and the beacon transmitters are not activate for days at a time. Because of this, University of Surrey ground station controllers will attempt to maximise the number of days the transmitters are active during the month of March.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, Rick Johnson, KA9VZD reporting.

An article and pictures about U O11 and the rules for filing reports are available on the AMSAT-UK website. Its in cyberspace at www.uk.amsat.org (AMSAT-UK)

RADIO IN SPACE: RADIO TELESCOPES DISCOVER NEW GALAXY

Using radio telescopes on Earth and another optical scope in space, a team of astrophysicists says it's detected a tiny galaxy that is the farthest known object from Earth. California Institute of Technology astronomer Richard Ellis says the galaxy is roughly 13 billion light-years from Earth. According to Science On Line, an expert at the Harvard-Smithsonian Center for Astrophysics in Massachusetts says the discovery gives a rare glimpse of the time when the first stars and galaxies began to emerge. CONTEST CALENDAR: THE DIGITAL SKIRMISH

Turning to the contest calendar, "The Skirmish" - that’s the Troy Amateur Radio Association’s digital prefix contest, will be held on April 17. Categories include PSK31, PSK63, MFSK, RTTY, Packet, ASCII, SSTV and others with activity on 160 through 6 meters excluding the Warc bands. You can find additional information at www.n2ty.org/seasons/tara_seasons.html (Via E-Mail)

CONTEST CALENDAR: N3FTI FROM TURKS & CAICOS FOR ARRL DX CONTEST

Steve Kerns, N3FTI, says he will be on the island of Providenciales, Grid Square FL31 in the Turks & Caicos chain for this years ARRL World Wide DX Contest. During the contest, his group consisting of WE3C, KQ3V and himself will be active as VQ5A. This is the first time to Steve’s knowledge this prefix has been activated from the Turks and Caicos and the first time this prefix has been used by any station. During non-contest times listen for Steve operating as VP5 stroke N3FTI.

This contest runs for 48 hours from zero hours UTC on Saturday the 21st of February on all the contest bands between 160 and 10 meters. For more information the VQ5A operation, check www.qsl.net/n3fti on the world-wide-web (VHF Reflector)

In D-X, word that LZ1ZF is celebrating his 35th anniversary of being on the amateur radio bands with the special callsign L35ZF. He is active on all bands and modes. until the 31st of December.

Also, SM0CCM will be active as J73CCM from Dominica through the 4th of March. He will operate on 160 to 6 meters mostly CW, with some RTTY and PSK 31. QSL as directed on the air.

And word that JA2EZD will be traveling in Vietnam and Cambodia through the end of the month. He plans to operate using the calls 3W2B and XU7AAA. Again, QSL as directed on the air.

And QSL Manager José of Jesus Moura Costa, PS8ET tells Amateur Radio Newsline that he has relocated. His new address is Q-25 C-17 Parque Piauí Teresina, PI. 64.025-100 Brazil South América

Lastly, 4X4SIX is an Israeli 6 meter beacon operating on 50.080 MHz. The team of 4X6ON and 4Z5AY built the 5 watt station which announces its call sign around the clock in Morse using a J-Pole antenna.

THAT FINAL ITEM: THE LONG HAM RADIO WALK

And finally this week, the story of a long walk that’s taking ham radio with it. Jim Meachen, ZL2BHF reports:

Tony Whitaker, G3RKL, from Sheffield, in the United Kingdom is off to New Zealand for a short walk. Well not exactly a short walk. More like 750 miles as Whitaker treks from Invercargill to Blenheim, along State Highway 6 up the West Coast of the South Island. And he will operate an Amateur Radio station along the way.

Whitaker will be on the air using the special callsign ZL6SHS on H-F, V-H-F and U-H-F while actually walking. He also plans to use F-M simplex, Echolink and I-R-L-P Internet-linked repeaters in places where they are available. He will use them to keep in touch with his ham radio friends back home in the U-K.

Whitaker’s marathon walk starts in Invercargill on the 21st of February. If all goes to plan he is scheduled to arrive in Blenheim on the 8th of April -- probably a bit tired -- but very satisfied. We will keep you posted on his progress.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline down-under, I’m Jim Meachen, ZL2BHF.

This is not Whitaker’s fist long ham radio walk. He has already made seven others including one in Australia. (GB2RS)

There have been three accidents in the US involving the crew of a manned spacecraft being killed whilst in the spacecraft; two in flight, one in training.

There were two (three?) fatalities inside Columbia before STS-1 - two technicians were caught in an area purged of oxygen - whcih you may or may not feel falls inside your definition. There have also been accidents in preparation of fuel, motors, &c; I don't have information to hand, but they were in the 'manufacturing stages'.

> What seems to be stopping NASA right now is the choice between a non EPA > approved foam that works and an EPA approved foam that doesn't work.

Except... this is a non-issue. The foam which didn't work, and didn't work in a very spectacular manner last year, was the old "unhealthy" foam...

CAB vol 1 pp51:

"BX-250, a polyurethane foam applied with CFC-11 chlorofluorocarbon, was used on domes, ramps, and areas where the foam is applied by hand. The foam types changed on External Tanks built after External Tank 93, which was used on STS-107, but these changes are beyond the scope of this section."
pp54:
"The Board has concluded that the physical cause of the breakup of Columbia upon re-entry was the result of damage to the Orbiter.s Thermal Protection System, which occurred when a large piece of BX-250 foam insulation fell from the left (.Y) bipod assembly 81.7 seconds after launch and struck the leading edge of the left wing."

Later, it discusses the effect of changing the foams:
pp129:
"The cause of the earlier-than-normal popcorning [on STS-87] (but not the fundamental cause of popcorning) was traced back to a change in foam-blowing agents that caused pressure buildups and stress concentrations within the foam. In an effort to reduce its use of chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs), NASA had switched from a CFC-11 (chlorofluorocarbon) blowing agent to an HCFC-141b blowing agent beginning with External Tank-85, which was assigned to STS-84. (The change in blowing agent affected only mechanically applied foam. Foam that is hand sprayed, such as on the bipod ramp, is still applied using CFC-11.)"

[In other words - the foam that was the root cause wasn't changed, and the foam that was changed merely led the events to occur earlier rather than start occuring. They were reduced to previously experienced levels by STS-101]

I was sure there was a specific note about this somewhere, but a cursory read-through hasn't found it.

[It's almost a pity it wasn't the EPA-induced changes that were the cause - it could have made an excellent little parable about hubris]

The problem is that the ecomonics of space flight are skewed by excessive subsidies. Boeing likes getting paid $20 million for a window. Politicians love to have all that money pumped into their state. And NASA works to make it all happen.

NASA micro manages Boeing, but the government also micro-manages NASA, telling it it can't develop this, can't implement that etc. The one potential great advancement for the space station was Transhab, but that got specifically canned by the government.

I am sure some people at NASA know how to modify the existing shuttles so that they cost much less to operate/maintain. But NASA doesn't have the authority nor money to implement this.

So, all space technology is controlled by NASA and the US government who conspire to ensure that no other entity on the planet comes up with cheap space flight??

MAKE THOUSANDS!!!

I found this on a bulletin board and decided to try it: I don't care about the useless pre-fabricated crap this message usually says. All I say is, it works. Continue pre-fab crap.

WELL GUESS WHAT!!!

Within five days, I started getting money in the mail!! I was shocked!! I figured it would end soon, but the money just kept coming in. In my first week, I made about $63.00 By the end of the second week I had made a total of $1873.00!! In the third week I had made a total of $9,612.00 and more mail kept coming in!! This is now my fourth week and I have made a total of $35,165.00 and it's still coming rapidly. It's certainly worth $6.00 and six stamps, and I have spent more than that on the lottery without ever winning!!!
My mailman asked me what was with all the mail , and when i showed him this system he was amazed and got going at it . Everyday he thanks me , it feels good to know your helping make other pepole have more time and money to do the things they care about most .(Dont let this pass you buy , it so easy and it realy does work) also make sure you print this out NOW, so you can get the information off of it, as you will need it. I promise you that if you follow the directions exactly that you will start making more money than you thought possible by doing something so easy!!

Suggestion: Read this entire message carefully!! (Print it out or download it)

Follow the simple directions and watch the money come in!! It's easy. It's legal. And, your investment is only $6.00 (Plus postage) !!!

IMPORTANT:

This is not a rip-off, it is decent; it's legal; and it is virtually no risk - it really works!! If all the following instructions are adhered to, you will receive extraordinary dividends.

PLEASE NOTE:

Please follow the directions EXACTLY, and $50,000 or more can be yours in 20 to 60 days. This program remains successful because of the honesty and integrity of the participants. Please continue its success by carefully adhering to the instructions. You will now become apart of the Mail Order business. You are in the business of developing Mailing Lists. Many large corporations are happy to pay big bucks for quality lists. However, the money made from the mailing lists is secondary to income which is made from people like you and me asking to be included in that list. Here are the four easy steps to success.

STEP ONE:

Get six separate pieces of paper and write the following on each piece of paper "PLEASE PUT ME ON YOUR MAILING LIST." Now get 6 U.S. $1.00 bills and place ONE inside of EACH of the six pieces of paper so the bill will not be seen through the envelope (to prevent thievery). Next, place one paper in each of the six envelopes and seal them. You now should have six sealed envelopes, each with a piece of paper stating the above phrase, your name and address, and a $1.00 bill. What you are doing is creating a service.

THIS IS ABSOLUTELY LEGAL!!!!!

You are requesting a legitimate service and you are paying for it!! Like most of us I was a little skeptical and little worried about the legal aspects of it all. So I checked it out with the U.S. Post Office (1-800-238-5355) and they confirmed that it is indeed legal!!

Mail the six envelopes to the following addresses:

1) G. Burrows
1/264 Tor St
Toowoomba QLD
4350 Australia

2) J. Safian
6950 W. Forest Presrv. Dr., #115
Norridge, IL 60706-1324

3) R. Ansems
Gen. Foulkesstraat 5
4641 BW Ossendrecht
Netherlands

4) C. Milligan
6597 Herry Rd.
Vernon BC
Canada

V1B3T6

5) Foster
39 Poplar Avenue,
Hollins,
Oldham, England

6) Jack Burke
220 Kingsbury Drive
Aptos,Ca. 95003-5003
U.S.A.

STEP TWO:Now take the #1 name off the list that you see above, move the other names up (six becomes 5, 5 becomes 4, and etc.) and add YOUR NAME as number 6 on the list.

STEP THREE:
Change anything you need to but try to keep this article as close to original as possible. Now post your amended article to at least 200 news groups. :
(I think there are close to 24,000 groups) All you need is 200, but remember, the more you post, the more money you make!! This is perfectly legal!! If you have any doubts, refer to Title 18 Sec. 1302 & 1341 of the Postal Lottery laws. Keep a copy of these steps for yourself and whenever you need money, you can use it again, and again. PLEASE REMEMBER that this program remains successful because of the honesty and integrity of the participants and by their carefully adhering to directions. Look at it this way. If you were of integrity, the program will continue and the money that so many others have received will come your way.

NOTE: You may want to retain every name and address sent to you, either on a computer or hard copy and keep the notes people send you. This VERIFIES that you are truly providing a service. (Also, it might be a good idea to wrap the $1 bill in dark paper to reduce the risk of mail theft). So, as each post is downloaded and the directions carefully followed, all members will be reimbursed for their participation as a List Developer with one dollar each. Your name will move up the list geometrically so that when your name reaches the #1 position you will be receiving thousands of dollars in CASH!!! What an opportunity for only $6.00 ($1.00 for each of the first six people listed above) Send it now, add your own name to the list and you're in business!!!

STEP ONE: You do not need to re-type this entire letter to do your own posting. Simply put your cursor at the beginning of this letter and drag your cursor to the bottom of this document, and select 'copy' from the edit menu. This will copy the entire letter into the computer's memory.

STEP TWO:
Open a blank 'notepad' file and place your cursor at the top of the blank page. From the 'edit' menu select 'paste'. This will paste a copy of the letter into the notepad so that you will add your name to the list.

STEP THREE:
Save your new notepad file as a text file. If you want to do your posting in different settings, you'll always have this file to go back to.

STEP FOUR:
You can use a program like "postXpert" to post to all the newsgroups at once.
You can find this program at <http://www.download.com>.

Use Netscape or Internet Explorer and try searching for various new groups (on- line forums, message boards, chat sites, discussions.)

STEP FIVE:
Visit message boards and post this article as a new message by highlighting the text of this letter and selecting paste from the edit menu. Fill in the subject, this will be the header that everyone sees as they scroll through the list of postings in a particular group, click the post message button. You're done.

Hi,

Can someone very involved in "vintage antennas" used by NASA try to identify the frequency of the whip antenna used by Gemini 12 in 1966 that we see on the back on this picture showing Aldrin's EVA. I 'ld need to know to complete an article dealing with the history of ham radio. That looks like an VUF or UHF but 'ld like to know the band used and you have this info, the output power and mode.

Hi,
I have a part of the answer. that seems to be a L-band vertical, thus working on 70 MHz. (4.28 m)
Could someone confirm ? At how was it cut, at lambda 4 or 2 ? From the picture L/4 seems good.
And why is there a central mast + a spiral wire ? Both are radiating ?

233. Torre Bert station - zeus network (Italy 1960-65) ?

Hi,

I am achieving a big file about the history of ham radio.
I would like to know if someone could provide me any information, recording or picture about the "Torre Bert" station and "Zeus" space tracking network that was setup between 1960-1965 in Italy ?
All info is welcome using the form available on my website.

Thanks in advance

Here is a short information extracted from my website (info not published yet).

Torre Bert and the Zeus network

In Italy for example, by the end of 1960, two young Turino brothers fan of ham radio, Achille and Gian Battista Judica-Cordiglia setup the first amateur tracking station "Torre Bert". Their golad was to picked up the first telemetry signals and other downlinks messages from the first satellites launched by Russia then by NASA. A first in all fields !

While Jodrell Bank had invested 1.6 million sterling pounds to track satellites, that USAF spent 15 millions dollars at Tyngsboro, MA, and that a Turino industrial built a parabolic dish at 2 millions lira, our two young amateurs had only 18,000 lira. So the only solution was to build themselves the equipment. With an extraordinary ingenuity they achieved their objective in a couple of years and were able to track any satellite passing nearby. In 1965 they created the Zeus network that counted 17 stations spread over the world. Their installation was so sophisticated that there were able to forecast 12 hours ahead that Lunik IV launched by Russian to the Moon should miss its target from 8000 km. In fact it flew 8497 km from the Moon.

During its short existence, Torre Bert recorded some sensational messages from space. On November 28, 1960 for example they picked up this enigmatic message : "SOS TO ALL WORLD". The message was transmitted from a spacecraft in movement and was sent three times. Amateurs in Germany and Texas received the same message. Three days later, Russian recognized that one of their launches failed, but they didn't make allusion to a human passenger. A similar recording was picked up on May 17, 1961 coming from a crew of several cosmonauts. Nobody will never know what happened as long as Russian will not decide to speak. A third message was recorded on February 1961. Presented to the famous hearth surgeon Dr Dogliotti, he affirmed that we heard the fast beating of a dying hearth. The brothers were convinced that Russian didn't shrink from sacrifying human lifes to affirm their mastering of space.

In 1964, after have won 1,8 millions lira at a TV-game dealing with the space conquest, our young Turino visited the USA and the various space centers of Alabama, Florida, Maryland and Texas, where they did the admiration of American engineers by the extent of their know-how. Slowly hams were preparing their entry in the world of space communication.

Indeed. I knew this info.
Lostcosmonaut if far to be impartial and objective about the recordings....
In the meantime I had the brothers website url too :
http://www.judicacordiglia.com/
I also learnt that they were preparing the publication of a book dealing with Torre Bert, not yet released.
I tried to contact them, no answer up to know.

Thanks.

The data analysis for February from my live radio observation site in SW UK is available online now, in MS Excel 2000 format. Data collection was almost uninterrupted for the whole month.

Data for analysis is collected using HROFFT with reception from three 48 and 55 MHz transmitter sites on 3 discrete frequencies simultaneously. Live FFT plotting for the web page is done using 2 running versions of Spectrum Lab by DL4YHF, producing one 10 minute FFT and scope plot, and one 6 hour per view plot, which are uploaded to the web pages every minute. Uploading of the plot images is now much more reliable than before, with very little downtime, due to improved management of the PC here(!).

Live audio from the receivers is available on request, or during high activity periods, though normally it is off to conserve CPU power.

Hi,

This short message to tell you that I published a short history of amateur radio, 10 pages illustrated...
http://www.astrosurf.com/lombry/qsl-ham-history.htm

It is mainly dealing with the US ham history replaced in its socioeconomic context of the time, most of their invention or discoveries having been re-used by other nations. But to please the non-US hams as well as my ego, I tried to include some other national events from UK, France or Belgium for example. These are those "small" event that I tried to find out and that will be added this study in the future.

It contain of course several links and deal with the space program, a few words about radioastronomy, and more. Even the first satellite tracking station from Cordiglia brothers (Torre Bert) is discussed, but in a specific and separate file due to some alleged claims.

My main radio menu is available at http://www.astrosurf.com/lombry/menu-qsl.htm

Hope this help.
Any additional information or addendum is welcome using the form available on my website.

From various photos that I have seen the antenna is not mounted on the Gemini 12 spacecraft. It is in fact mounted on the "GATV" Gemini Agena Target Vehicle that was used as part of the spacecraft rondevous and docking test on the mission. The photo you have gives the wrong impression of it's position. The actual antenna is a "can" at the top of the pole AFAIK. If it is in fact an antenna.

Amateur Radio Newslin(tm) Report 1385 – February 27, 2004

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1385 with a release date of Friday, February 27, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. Another proposal on restructuring and more on the fight against B-P-L highlight Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1385 coming your way right now.

RESTRUCTURING: A COUNTER PROPOSAL TO THE ARRL

Just as we all thought it was quieting down, restructuring of the United States Amateur Radio Service is front and center once again. This, as a small group that opposes the quantity over quality approach takes a massive counter proposal to the FCC. The group is headquarted in Florence, Alabama and Amateur Radio Newsline’s David Black, KB4KCH, is at our South-East Bureau in near-by Birmingham, with more:

Robin Gist, K4VU, listened to the ARRL’s plan to restructure amateur radio and didn't like it.

--

Audio only: Hear it at www.arnewsline.org on the MP3 audio file of this newscast.

--

Gist and five other hams who make up a group called the Radio Amateur Foundation, drew up their own plans for restructuring ham radio. Their 59-pages of suggestions are now in the hands of the FCC. Gist calls the Foundation's petition a comprehensive plan for progressive and thoughtful restructuring. The group suggests taking the Technician class license, making a few changes, and turning it into amateur radio's entry level license. Gist is not pleased with the League's plans for the Technician license:

--

Audio only: Hear it at www.arnewsline.org on the MP3 audio file of this newscast.

--

The group suggests giving Technician class hams restricted HF privileges. And it strongly advocates keeping the code--5-word-per-minute Morse code proficiency would be maintained for General and Extra class licenses. Keeping Code, Gist says, is important to help amateurs provide emergency communications.

Under the foundation's proposal, the Novice and Advanced licenses would no longer exist. Current Novice and Advanced license holders would automatically be upgraded to the next category--a novice would become a Technician and an Advanced class ham would become an Extra.

Another big change comes in amateur radio testing under the Foundation's plans.

Audio only: Hear it at www.arnewsline.org on the MP3 audio file of this newscast.

--

The Foundation suggests not releasing question pool questions to the public.

--

Audio only: Hear it at www.arnewsline.org on the MP3 audio file of this newscast.

--

Gist believes hams should have to wait at least 10 days before taking a failed amateur radio license test again.

--

Audio only: Hear it at www.arnewsline.org on the MP3 audio file of this newscast.

--

Gist says amateur radio should be quality over quantity. A service of radio operators who have a sense of value and appreciation for amateur radio. That is what Gist says the Foundation's goals are really all about.

From the Southeastern Bureau in Birmingham , Alabama, I'm David Black, KB4KCH, for The Amateur Radio Newsline.

While there are well over a dozen restructuring proposals already before the FCC only one has really gotten any major attention of the ham radio community. That’s the plan offered up by the A-R-R-L and referred to by Gist. As we go to air, no Rule Making designation has been assigned by the FCC to the Foundations regulatory change request. (QRZ.COM, ARNewsline(tm))

THE BPL FIGHT: WHAT HAMS CAN DO

Meantime, the story that refuses to go away has yet some new twists. Of coarse we are referring to the imminent introduction of Broadband Over Powerline Internet access, and the massive interference that ham radio operators believe it will create. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Mark Abramovicz, NT3V, is here with the latest:

Now that the FCC has released the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking in the Broadband Over Powerlines issue, it's time for amateurs to look it over, digest it and begin composing a well-reasoned letter or e-mail.

So says Jim Haynie W5JBP the American Radio League's president. Here are some things in the filing you might consider.

"Noise levels, potential interference both ingress and egress. Those are things that need to be addressed, " Haynie says. "Public relations: What's going to happen when you get on the air on 20 meters and you knock 10 of your neighbors off line all of sudden? They call the local power company, it's a public relations nightmare."

Haynie says once you decide to write that letter, keep in mind it has to be supported with facts.

"I don't see much water being drawn if somebody writes a letter and says, 'Well, this is good for this and it's good for that and it's going to interfere with my ham radio hobby and stuff.' I never, ever use the word hobby to anybody in the Washington. It's the Amateur Radio Service," Haynie says.

"And what you've got to do is use a little bit more fact, a little bit more of concrete-type evidence that you can conclude on your own. And that's pretty simple to do. It's got to be well-reasoned arguments. It can't be emotional argument."

And, once you've finished the letter or e-mail, Haynie says make a copy or print a copy of what you've prepared.

"Put it in an envelope with your QSL card and send it into your local representative at his district office, not in Washington but his district office," Haynie advises. "I'm just amazed how much power that letter has to your local congressman and your local senator when you mail it to one of his local district offices."

Haynie continues to express disappointment the FCC failed to wait for a report from the National Telecommunications Information Agency. The agency oversees radio spectrum use by government agencies and services, including the military. He says its technicians have been busy at BPL trial sites across the country.

"We know that they've done over 18,000 measurements over the last four months in the various (BPL) test areas," Haynie says. "We have gotten actually photographs of their trucks, we've seen them working hard at it. And that's what surprised me that the commission rolled this out before the information was made available.

"We were told by NTIA that it would be available the first part of this year. Now in government-speak, I don't know what that means. I know we got, the League's got petitions sitting up in the commission now since I took office as president in 2000. It is 2004 and they're still sittting on somebody's desk.

"So, FCC and NTIA, I'm sure, have their own timetables and they're not going to worry about what the ARRL or what some ham radio operators think about it. They're going to do their own work in the own way in their own time."

Haynie hopes the NTIA finishes its work soon and gets its report to the FCC pronto. He says it's clear BPL is targeted for special FCC attention.

"I think they'll put this on the fastest of fast tracks and get something going," Haynie says. "Typically, the window, the comment window will be 45-60 days. I'd be really surprised if they gave it 90 days.

"And, once that's done they start the wheels in motion and they'll (FCC) be under tremendous pressure from industry to get this thing out the door."

Haynie says the amateur radio service has allies in this fight and he's confident they will submit comments or speak to their congressmen or senators. Haynie says he's both cautious and optimistic about the outcome.

"I'm very concerned because I've seen the speed at which this thing has happened," Haynie says. "And I've seen the comments that the commission has made and I've seen the denials that the industry has made.

"And it just doesn't make sense. There's something more behind this. And I know people are going to say it's the almighty dollar. And that's true, it probably is. You're looking at millions and millions and millions of dollars of investment here.

"But there's something that just doesn't smell right, I guess, is what I'm trying to say. So, until I get a better handle and the League - our staff people get a better handle on where this is going and trust me we're on top of it every day - I'm just going to be to on the little plus side of a little cautious."

And finally, Haynie says to those who think the ARRL and other hams are overreacting like Chicken Little who cried out: The sky is falling! The sky is falling! He has these sobering thoughts.

"Just because we want, doesn't mean that we get our way. And I'm concerned about that," Haynie says. "And I'm concerned about another possibility that's probably the horror of all horrors.

"And that is if the (BPL) rollout is so big and you get tens of hundreds of thousands of people on, suddenly amateur radio relegates down to the same level as Part 15. That would be the most horrible thing that could happen to amateur radio."

THE BPL FIGHT: A WIN IN 4X4-LAND

Even though the BPL outlook looks a bit grim here in the United States, there has been a big win over in Israel. Hagal International says that equipment for the networking of computers over the A C power mains being sold in the country was found to be causing interference to High Frequency spectrum users. As a result, Israel’s Ministry of Communications requested an explanation from the distributor of this equipment on how to remedy the problem. The distributor did one better. The company replied that it had discontinued the sales of the interfering devices. (Hagal International)

RADIO HONORS: W. VA GOVERNORS FATHER WA8AYP REMEMBERED

Here in West Virginia, Governor Bob Wise strolled into his reception hall last week to present a check to Kanawha County officials. Little did he know that those officials – and some amateur radio operators – had a very special surprise for him.

The money, fifty thousand dollars, was awarded to the county for the purchase of amateur radio equipment for the metro area’s new emergency operations center, and a new mobile command post.

As he usually does when speaking about amateur radio, Governor Wise began to reminisce about his father. He recalled hearing the sounds of CW from his father’s Hallicrafters receiver wafting into his bedroom at night. He even remembered his father’s amateur callsign, WA8AYP. At that moment, his attention was directed to a nearby FT-847 to receive a message.

Audio only: Hear it at www.arnewsline.org on the MP3 audio file of this newscast.

That’s control operator Bill Hunter, K8BS, telling the governor via amateur radio that his father’s callsign is now the club callsign of the Kanawha

County ARES/RACES group. The announcement was not only a complete surprise, the governor appeared clearly touched. After a moment, he quipped, “Hey, do I get a QSL card for this?” He was quickly presented with a specially designed QSL card. After the ceremony, the governor signed copies of those cards, and posed for pictures with the estimated 75 ham operators in attendance.

The surprise was the brainchild of Kanawha County Commission President Kent Carper, W8CHS, who appears to be one politician who can keep a secret.

Robert Wise, Senior became a silent key in 1986. He was active in emergency communications during the 1960’s and 70’s. (ARNewsline(tm))

RADIO HONORS: FCC NAMED TO RECEIVE NCAI LEADERSHIP AWARD

The FCC has been named by the National Congress of American Indians to be the 2004 recipient of it’s prestigious NCAI Leadership Award. The regulatory agency was selected based on its outstanding leadership and ongoing commitment and support to American Indians and Alaska Natives.

The National Congress of American Indians gives only three of these awards annually. One goes to Congress, one goes to the Administration, and one goes to another deserving entity. This year's recipients are House Natural Resources Committee Chairman Richard Pombo of California, the US Commission on Civil Rights, and the FCC. (FCC)

HAM RADIO TESTING: QPC WITHDRAWS A GENERAL TEST QUESTION

The Question Pool Committee of the National Conference of Volunteer Examination Coordinators has announced the withdrawal Question G5B11 from the Element 3 General class question pool. The QPC says that the question deleted asked what would be the RMS voltage if you combined two or more sine wave voltages?

According to QPC Chairman Scotty Newstadter, W4WW, the withdrawal refers to question G5B11 in the new, December 1, 2003, released General pool. It is not referring to the same numbered question in the pool that expires at midnight, June 30, 2004. (QPC, W4WW)

ENFORCEMENT: JACK GERRITSEN, EX-KG6IRO IN JAIL

Californian Jack Gerritsen, the ex-KG6IRO, will be spending time in jail, but not for his alleged interference to ham radio repeaters in the Los Angeles area.

On Monday, February 23rd, Federal Court Judge Carolyn Turchin sentenced Gerritsen to 30 days in jail and ordered him to pay a $2500 fine on a tresspassing charge. In passing sentence, judge Turchin explained that she could not place Gerritsen on formal probation as the U-S Attorney asked, because he was going to spend his entire sentence in jail with no time left for probation. The Judge told Gerritsen that he has until May 15th to pay the fine or a lien will be placed on his home in the city of Bell.

Gerritsen’s alleged harassment of area repeaters had brought numerous letters to the court asking that it bar him from operating any sort of radio transmitter. In a statement to the court Judge Turchin noted that she had read many of the notes sent to her by the amateur community but that she would not be able to take them into consideration for this case. This was because the charges were brought because Gerritsen failed to obey a sign in the Courthouse and entered a door to the roof of the building.

Judge Turchin did say that she she would forward all the letters to the Federal Probation Department to be put in Gerritsen’s file. The ex-KG6IRO was then taken into custody by U.S. Marshals and escorted away. (ARNewsline(tm))

WITH THE ARRL: LEAGUE LOOKING FOR COMMENTS ON VHF+ CONTESTING

The ARRL is looking for input from VHF and UHF contesters to help improve the radiosporting events they take part in. According to a posting top the VHF Reflector by New England Division Director Tom Frenaye, K1KI, for the last year or so the League has been studying ways to increase interest and participation in VHF and above contests and awards. Now its ready to go further and it is inviting the ham community to take part. We have more in this report:

Tom Frenaye, K1KI, heads up the ARRL's VHF-UHF Contest and Awards Subcommittee. He says that changes to the contest rules and awards programs should be designed to do three things. First, to encourage more people to work more other people. Second, to bolster the number of QSO’s made over longer distances. And lastly, to encourage more people to just join in and participate.

Because of this, there are now some recommendations coming from those in the ARRL who have studied the situation. These incclude making changes in the QSO points and rover rules. Also under consideration is limiting the June VHF QSO Party to the bands from 50 to 1296 MHz only, expanding the Microwave contest based on 10 GHz Cumulative and dropping the current UHF contest. Added would be new contest categories in January, June and September.

Frenaye notes that these major recommendations, and a number of minor ones, are still just that -- recommendations. He says that the ARRL feels it is now very important to have further input from the VHF and above contest community before proceeding. He asks all contesters interested in these bands to take an in-depth look at the preoposed changes and then to respond. He hopes that a lot of you will.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Norm Seeley, KI7UP, reporting.

Computer fanatics who also like operating C-W listen up. Radio Currents Online for February 16th says that the International Morse Code is being updated to include a new character for the "at sign". In December, the International Telecommunications Union voted to create the character which will be known as a commat. The commat is made up of dot-dash for the letter A and dash-dot-dash-dot which we all know is the letter C. The two characters are combined with no space between them giving Morse code web surfers an easy way to send an e-mail address or the location of a webpage. (CGC)

HAMS HELPING HAMS: THE MIKE NEWBOLD, K0YO FUND

A fund to help 6 meter rover operator Mike Newbold, K0YO. It was set up by a group of hams who value Newbold's contributions by putting his life on-the-line to get rare grid squares on the air. And late last year it almost cost him his life. Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, has the rest of the story:

According to a posting on QRZ.com made for Phil Krichbaum, N0KE , Mike Newbold, K0YO, was vacationing in Baja Mexico just before Christmas 2003. He was savagely beaten with a pipe, robbed and left for dead. The same thugs also killed two Canadian surfers who were camping about 100 yards away from Newbold and threw their bodies and those of their dogs over a cliff.

Kirchbaum says that Newbold crawled 3 kilometers on his hands and knees through cactus and over rocks to a road where he had a better chance of being located. Some surfers from Los Angeles found him the next day. They took him to a medical facility and contacted the police. They then transported Newbold back to California for further medical treatment. Newbold then went back to Steamboat Springs, Colorado, where his son took him for additional medical care and then home for a Christmas eve dinner. Kirchbaum says he has since visited Newbold brought him a 2 meter F-M radio donated by Bob Ludtke, K9MWM. Thats where he learned that the value of items lost and stolen in Baja easily exceeds $10,000.

To help defray the cost of replacing Newbold's pick-up truck, camper and ham radio gear that he and Gary Yantis, W0TM have established he Mike Newbold Fund. If anyone would care to make a donation to help get Newbold back on the road to rare grids, please contact W0TM or N0KE. Their respective e-mail addresses are gyantis@midtec.com and pfkski@vail.net.

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: HELP FROM DOWN-UNDER IN REVIVING AO-40

The AMSAT Oscar 40 ham radio satellite is still missing in action, but more international help in bringing it back to life is coming almost every day. The latest is from down-under as Brett Dawson, VK2CBD and the team of Australia's Parkes Observatory lend their support to AMSAT Germany in the recovery effort. Q-News Trevor

Teague, VK4BAT, reports:

A 4 MHz wide spectrum with centre frequency of 1097 MHz was scanned with high level technique in order to find the LO frequency of the AO-40 L1 receiver. The fact that nothing was heard of the L1 receiver's LO does not lead to the conclusion that AO-40 is completely dead. The receivers of Parkes are not really fitted for frequencies below 1.25 GHz, and naturally one does not know how good the L1 receiver's LO is shielded or how much of the signal would go through the antenna to the outside world.

As previously reported, the main battery pack that powers AO 40 is believed to have short circuited keeping the auxiliary battery from powering the bird. As this newscast goes to air the rescue effort continuing. (Q-News)

ENFORCEMENT: FCC SEEKING INFORMATION ON ALLEGED FELON HAMS

Back here in the United States, our FCC wants to know if several people on a list it has are felons convicted of an array of very serious crimes. The agency's Daryl Duckworth, N-N-Zero-W, explains:

Duckworth: Seven inquiry letters were sent to individuals thought to be licensees who are incarcerated on felony convictions listed on sex offender registration lists or (who) recently served prison sentences for felony convictions. In these cases, the names match our license records and preliminary information is that the subject is the same person listed in our database.

These inquiries seek first to establish whether that is the case, and, second, to determine what affect the offense has on the qualifications to retain a Commission license.

This has been Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, reporting.

The FCC did not provide names but it did give conviction information and the locations and offenses. The list includes hams believed to have been convicted of offenses ranging from sexual abuse to child molestation and even murder. (FCC, RAIN)

RADIO LAW: JUDGE ORDERS TECHNICAL TESTIMONY IN ALLEGED JAMMING CASE

A Wisconsin federal judge has refused to close the courtroom for testimony by employees of Motorola during the trial of a defendant who allegedly tried to jam police and fire communications. on several occasions last year. In denying Motorola's motion, Judge John Shabaz said on February 27th that the right of Rajib Mitra to a fair trial outweighs Motorola's right to protect its trade secrets.

According to the Madison Capital Times, attorneys for Motorola had argued national and local security concerns as reasons that it did not want public disclosure on how its radio equipment was allegedly jammed by Mitra. The government planed to call five Motorola employees to explain how its Smartnet II radio equipment can be disrupted. Motorola claimed this not only exposed its trade secrets but also placed at risk the lives of law enforcement officers that depend on the proper functioning of their radio communications systems.

But assistant U.S. Attorney Tim O'Shea opposed Motorola's motion, as did Mitra's attorney. Christopher Van Wagner argued that removing the public during his client's testimony would prejudice the defendant. Judge Shabaz agreed with the prosecution and defense. He overruled the Motorola request and ordered the employees to testify noting that no one in the public is coming to his court to find the formula to jam radio frequencies. He noted that this kind of technical testimony can be removed from trial transcripts when they are produced.

Mitra's trial was to began on Monday, March 1st. He faces two charges of using a computer to interfere with police communications. If convicted on both counts he faces up to 20 years in prison. (Capital Times)

THE BPL FIGHT: THE 11 METER CB ANGLE

Over the past several months we have been hearing about the potential interference to Amateur Radio that's expected if the FCC proceeds with the rollout of Broadband over Powerline Internet access. But ham radio is not the only service in the 2 through 80 MHz spectrum where B-P-L will operate. Shortwave broadcasters are concerned that their audiences will disappear if they cannot be heard over B-P-L generated noise. Also, a number of emergency communications networks have told the FCC that their vital communications will negatively impacted as well.

The one service that nobody has talked about is 11 meter Class D CB radio. An unlicensed service at 27 MHz with millions of radios crammed into 40 overcrowded channels with many operators running far more power than legally allowed. This week, Amateur Radio Newsline's Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, looks at CB, B-P-L and the collision between the two that may not be to far away.

If those who want to bring us Broadband Over Powerline thought amateur radio operators were going to be a nuisance to their plans, they may have an even bigger headache on the horizon. Citizens Band radio operators could prove to be the biggest threat to B-P-L.

The FCC defines CB as a private radio service that doesn't require users to have a license. It hasn't for years. The FCC pretty much gave up regulating the spectrum. It asks users to enjoy their radios but to stay within the five-watt power limit of most of the radios.

But since the FCC gave up trying to keep track of those operating on 27 Mhz, problems have mushroomed. A class of CB operator has emerged who likes to use high-power amplifiers to talk with people several states away.

How powerful? If you check out some of the CB websites, you'll find amplifiers being sold that push the envelope well beyond the legal limit - say 500 watts, 1,000 watts, even 5,000 watts and higher.

Many contemporary electronic appliances, because of poor RF shielding, are susceptible to interference caused by overmodulated CB signals.

The FCC could find itself in a real quandry if the B-P-L industry demands help in going after those who push the limit and disrupt their systems. Imagine the complaints.

Because the FCC can't go to a database to help it find abusers or offenders, it's going to be a difficult if not impossible - task to track these illegal operators.

Will the industry end up funding the FCC's enforcement effort? That would be unprecedented.

Let's be clear: Not all CB operators are outlaws.

Many use their 11 meter radios for personal communications on trips, on hikes, on fishing expeditions. And, yes, the truckers are still big users of the spectrum.

But if you search the worldwide web, you will find CB sites with postings from folks who boast of their radio exploits and their amplifiers and contests.

The websites, of course, take no responsibility for the information or material posted in forums or message boards. They describe them as strictly for entertainment or educational purposes.

Some education the B-P-L industry is sure to get; perhaps a crash or will that be clash course in CB radio.

For now, we'll have to watch and wait.

CBers say they're watching, too. And some of them are vowing no one will stop them from operating as they please.

Stay tuned. For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia

THE BPL FIGHT: CINCINNATI WATCH OUT

Meantime, Cincinnati Ohio may be among the first to have Broadband over Powerlines across the entire area. This, as a division of Cinergy Corporation announces plans to offer high-speed Internet service over its power lines.

According a March 2nd release, Cinergy Broadband is pairing with the Maryland based Current Communications Group to offer the service in parts of Cincinnati this year. Plans also call for an expansion into Kentucky and Indiana as the regional system grows.

Cinergy says that it hopes to initially market the service to 55,000 of its 1.5 million customers. A second venture will bring the technology to smaller municipal and cooperatively owned power companies, covering 24 million customers across the United States. The companies are committing more than $70 million to the effort. (ZD Net via Media Network)

ENFORCEMENT: CONGRESSIONAL SUBCOMMITTEE RECOMMENDS HIGHER FINES FOR INDECENCY

A congressional subcommittee has acted to substantially increase the fines assessed broadcasters who break indecency rules. Some legislators also say that repeat offenders should lose their licenses.

FCC officials have maintained for years that the current maximum fine of $27,500 is too small to serve as a deterrent for large broadcasters who view the fines as a cost of doing business. Now, under a bill recently passed by the House Internet and Telecommunications subcommittee, monetary forfeitures issued by the FCC would be increased by a factor of ten to $275,000 per violation. The cap on the fines would go to a maximum of $3 million.

There is yet another possibility being floated among legislators and one that could come up when and if the bill hits the House floor. That would be to hold performers and others appearing in the electronic media directly responsible for their own words, much the same way as is done in other radio services including ham radio.

But one law maker has cautioned to enlarge the scope of the proposed legislation to far. Representative Fred Upton cautioned that lawmakers should be careful not to expand the bill to the point where it might run afoul of free-speech rights guaranteed by the Constitution. If that happens, Upton says that it could very well buckle under its own weight. (Published news reports)

RADIO LAW: FCC SAYS IT TIME FOR LOW POWER BROADCAST RADIO

The FCC says that Congress should lift the restrictions it has placed on the introduction of low power FM broadcast stations. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, is here with the rest of the story:

In a February 20th statement, the FCC said that its inquiry shows that low power FM stations serving highly specific audiences in small areas do not interfere with the operations of large broadcasters. Also, that they will not keep audiences from hearing the higher power commercial stations as the industry claims.

When the FCC first suggested creating the low power or community radio option. commercial broadcasters and public radio stations complained. The argued that low power stations would interfere with reception of their signals Congress responded by setting what amounted to an R-F no-man's land between the low power stations and existing broadcasters. This severely limited the number of tiny stations that the Commission could license.

Lawmakers also told the FCC to study the potential for interference. The agency spent several years doing just that. It has now concluded that stations running between 10 and 100 watts pose little risk to commercial stations whose power levels can be upward of 100,000 watts effective radiated.

Currently, there are about 300 low powered F-M stations on the air. Most are licensed to churches, school districts, youth organizations, highway departments, environmentalists and the like. By comparison, the nation's largest commercial broadcast radio chain, Clear Channel Communications owns 1,200 stations so far.

ON THE AIR: WYOMING STATION DX TEST MARCH 14

Meantime, a full power radio station is in the news and its a good news for hams and S-W-L's who like listening for rare ones on the A-M band. On Sunday, March 14th, radio station KEVA, 1240 kilohertz in Evanston, Wyoming will conduct a D-X test to find out how far its signal can be heard.

According to Lynn Holman reporting over the Broadcast Employees remailer, the test will take place from 12:00 - 1 a.m. Mountain Standard Time and will consist of numerous Morse code I-D's emanating from a C-D created by Doug Smith, W9WI.

For a conformation card please send your reception reports with return postage to Michael Richard, KEVA-AM, P.O. Box 190, Evanston, Wyoming. The zipcode is 82931. (B.E.A.N.)

CONFERENCES: EASTERN VHF-UHF IN CT. IN APRIL

Turning to ham radio meetings of note, the 30th annual Eastern VHF UHF Conference will take place next month, April 16th through the 18th at the Radisson Hotel in Enfield Connecticut. Among the program to be presented will be a special update on the "Status of VHF UHF Contesting & Awards Programs" will be Dan Henderson, N1ND of the ARRL. Also on hand will be Gerry Rodski, K3MKZ of SSB Electronic USA to manage the Preamp Noise Figure Measurement workshop and Chris Fagas, WB2VVV to oversee the antenna gain measurement range.

The conference is sponsored by the Eastern VHF UHF Society and the North East Weak Signal Groups. More information is available from Conference Chairman and Proceedings Editor Bruce Wood, N2LIV. E-mail him bdwood@erols.com or visit http://newsvhf.com on the World-Wide-Web. (VHF Reflector)

CONFRENCES: SVHFS IN GEORGIA IN APRIL

And the 8th Annual Southeastern VHF Society Conference takes place in Marietta, Georgia on April 23 and 24th. Marietta is not far from, Atlanta and this years program highlights include sessions on pre-amp noise figure and gain measurement, antenna gain measurements, a back scratcher antenna competition and judging for the Mini-Circuits Annual Award for Design Achievement. Also expect a flea market, manufacturer exhibits, the annual auction, and card checking for VUCC. For more information on this one please take your web browser to www.svhfs.org (VHF Reflector)

CHANGING OF THE GUARD: BAND LEADER ALVINO REY, W6UK - S.K.

Ham radio's changing of the guard continues. This with the sad news that Alvino Rey, W-6-U-K, has passed away.

Ray was 95 when he became a Silent Key from pneumonia in Sandy, Utah on Tuesday, February 24th. Best known as a swing-band leader of the '30s and '40s he was also an inventor and tinkerer who pioneered development of the pedal steel guitar. This instrument, and his ability to make it sound like it was talking became his musical trademark.

Born Alvin McBurney, in California he grew up in Cleveland Ohio. After beginning his music career in New York he changed his name to Rey in 1929 to capitalize on the then popular Latin music craze.

Rey and his orchestra gained national fame with the 1942 hit, "Deep in the Heart of Texas." Nearly 25 years later, Rey was again in the national spotlight when he was featured for several seasons on ABC Television's "The King Family Show."

Ham radio wise, Ray loved to operate all modes, and, according to posts on the V-H-F reflector, was particularly fond of 6 meters. He was also active on all of the the high frequency bands over his many years in the hobby. (K6LAE, published news reports)

WORLDBEAT - USA: BIG ANTI-PIRACY WIN

A federal judge in San Francisco has ruled that a software program that copies Digital Video Discs infringes on the copyrights of Hollywood studios. Judge Susan Illston ruled that software made by 321 Studios of Chesterfield, Missouri violates the 1998 Digital Millennium Copyright Act. This law prohibits the circumvention of anti-piracy measures such as the Content Scramble System protecting movies on DVDs. Judge Illston ordered the company to stop making or distributing such software within seven days of her February 20th order. (News reports)

WORLDBEAT - BELGIUM: HACKER GAL ARRESTED

Meantime, a Belgian computer hacker who has made an international name for herself as a woman in a male-dominated activity is facing criminal charges. Belgian police have arrested the 19-year-old technology student, confiscated her five computers and shut down her Web site.

A Belgian newspaper says that the woman, identified only by her nickname, Gigabyte was charged with computer data sabotage. Police tell the paper she was preparing to publish new viruses on her Website when she was taken into custody. If convicted, Gigabyte faces up to three years in prison and 127-thousand dollars in fines. (Computing)

NEW HAM PRODUCTS: THE JWM 1152 PHASE LOCKED OSCILLATOR

Looking at products of interest to ham radio experimenters, word that JWM Engineering Group has announced availability of a new phase locked oscillator. One designed to improve frequency control to microwave receivers and transmitters using crystal oscillator local oscillator chains.

According to Jerry Mulchin, N7EME, President of the JWM Engineering Group, the Model 1152 eliminates the frequency uncertainty of most microwave transverter systems. Mulchin adds that Precise frequency control and stability eliminates at least one variable in establishing successful and enjoyable microwave communications. THAT FINAL ITEM: THE ORIGIN OF ELECTRONIC SPAM

And finally this week, a brief lesson on something we dread every time we check our e-mail. You know what it is. Unwanted junk e-mail that people have come to call Spam. Ever wonder why? Here's Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, with some details that probably very few people know:

We all know that Spam is the trade name of a canned meat product. At least I suspect that most of you do. But have you ever wondered where the phrase "spam" in relation to unsolicited junk e-mail came from. Well, blame it on the computer nerds who were fans of one of the worlds greatest comedy ensembles.

It seems that the term began being applied to junk electronic mail in the early 1990's by computer geeks. It was based on a 1970 Monty Python skit in which an exasperated restaurant customer is urged to order the meat until she screams: ''Stop it already. I don't want any Spam!''

And that was it. And now you do know the rest of the story.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline. I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, in the City of Angels.

To which Ill add the rhetorical question: How many of us open our e-mail boxes each day and want yell the same thing? (Tnx to Q-News, CGC, others who sent this item along.)

The problem is that newbies don't understand the modes B, JA etc. etc. That should either be renamed into codes that are easier to understand, or be explained thoroughly on the AMSAT website. Today, it seems that the website has a bit of a myopia. It seems the people at AMSAT think every HAM already knows what the modes mean...

Amateur Radio Newsline(tm) Report 1387 ï¿½ March 12, 2004

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1387 with a release date of Friday, March 12th, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. The FCC says that automatic stations have to avoid willful interference to other hams. Also, a magazine editor speaks out on restructuring. Hear the details on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1387 coming your way right now.

(Billboard Cart Here)

RADIO LAW: AUTOMATIC RESPONSIBILITY FOR ALL HAMS

The FCC says no Amateur Radio stations are exempt from the requirement to avoid unnecessarily interference with ongoing communications. This includes automated operations. Amateur Radio Newsline's Rick Johnson, KA9VZD, is in Antioch Illinois with rest of the story:

According to the ARRL Letter, FCC rules enforcer Riley Hollingsworth says that it is important for all stations, including automated ones, to realize that they are responsible for any interference caused when they come on top of existing communications Hollingswoth told the ARRL Letter that an amateur had written to him alleging that what appeared to be automated PACTOR stations that were routinely starting to transmit atop PSK31 QSO's on 40 and 30 meters.

In response, Hollingsworth noted that there are no exemptions for automated stations. Rather that the Amateur Service rules address interference with other communications. The rules say that no amateur operator shall willfully or maliciously interfere with or cause interference to any other radio communication or signal.

The amateur who filed the complaint reportedly also contacted one of the PACTOR stations in an effort to develop a dialogue to solve the problem. Hollingsworth expressed the hope that all involved in the PACTOR versus P-S-K 31 problem can work things out. He also points out that stations responding to automated interrogations are equally responsible for not causing interference to existing communications.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Rick Johnson, KA9VZD, near Chicago.

Hollingsworth also issued advisory letters to three hams who operate automated stations to remind them of the rules. (FCC, ARRL Letter)

ENFORCEMENT: HAM WHO ALLEGEDLY HARASSED POLICE ASKED TO EXPLAIN OR TURN IN HIS LICENSE

The FCC Enforcement Bureau is once again naming names and it has asked one ham to explain why he allegedly transmitted on a public service frequency to harass law enforcement. Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ, has the rest of the story:

In a February 18th letter to Russel A. Brown, N1KHV, of Palmer, Massachusetts the FCC says that it is considering action based on a February 3rd Incident Report from the Monson Police Department and a February 15th Investigatory Report and a Statement. The latter reportedly was signed by Brown and documents his deliberate operation on Police frequencies without a license. This, the FCC alleges was an attempt by Brown to interfere with police communications and harass police personnel.

The FCC inquiry makes it clear that the information he submits will be used by the Commission in determining Brown's qualifications to remain a Commission licensee. The FCC also has given Brown the option of voluntarily submitting his license for cancellation in order to avoid a hearing on the issue. Brown was told to indicate his preference in his response which was due within 20 days of the FCC letter of inquiry being issued.

The FCC also warned Brown that providing a willfully false or misleading reply would be the subject of a separate enforcement action and could subject him to additional sanctions. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: CHANGING CALL SIGNS BRINGS FCC INQUIRY

The FCC wants to know why a Tennessee radio amateur keeps changing his call sign. And, in a February 18th letter it is asking Donald H. Binkley the regulatory agency is asking the Nashville ham to explain why he has been jumping between two calls for the past six years.

According to its letter of inquiry, Binkley currently holds the call K4WX. The FCC says that license grant was originally made on September 23, 1998. On June 19, 2000 the FCC says that Binkley filed an application to change his call sign from K4WX to N4ZZ. That application was granted on July 7, 2000. Then, on May 15, 2002 Binkley applied to change your his sign from N4ZZ back to K4WX. That application was granted on June 4, 2002. Now, Binkley has applied for the N4ZZ call once again and this time his request appears to have raised a proverbial red flag with the FCC. As a result, the Wireless Telecommunications Bureau has forwarded the latest application to the enforcement folks for follow-up and review.

In his letter to Binkley, FCC rules enforcer Riley Hollingsworth says that these ongoing applications raise questions about apparent abuse of the licensing system. He notes that the Communications Act gives the Commission the authority to request information from licensees and applicants regarding their applications and operation of their radio stations. And that's just what he is doing with Binkley,

He has told K4WX to respond stating his intentions regarding the filing of these applications. He also told Binkley to let his office know which of the two call signs he wants to keep. Binkley was given the usual 20 days from the date of the FCC's letter to respond. (FCC)

RESTRUCTURING: AN EDITOR SPEAKS OUT

The editor of a popular ham radio magazine says that his readers have strong opinions on restructuring, and he wants them shared. In an interview with Amateur Radio Newsline's Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, CQ's Rich Moseson, W2VU, talked on a general level about the various restructuring proposals and about his upcoming C-Q reader survey:

CQ's Rich Moseson says there's been an active dialogue going among readers of the magazine since the latest round of amateur radio licensing restructuring proposals landed at the FCC's door:

--

"We have a whole raft of petitions that have been filed with the FCC over the past several months all proposing various things from radical changes to little tweaks from eliminating the code requirements completely to adding new ones," Moseson says. "It's a great opportunity for discussion and for a forum on what the ham community thinks our hobby should look like going into the future."

--

Moseson says despite the diversity of those proposals, he says there seemed to be some consensus emerging among those who submitted comments to the FCC and other forums:

"It looked like the majority of those people would agree on a restructuring where the code requirement was kept in place at 5 wpm for Extra," he says.

--

And now that the American Radio Relay League has weighed in with its own proposal - a no-code entry license called the Novice - complete with HF privileges, Moseson says CQ wants to know what readers think.

"W5YI's 'Washington Readout' colum is all about the League's proposal in detail and our reader survey for April is also about the League's proposal," Moseson explains. "It's going to be asking our readers what they think of each of the major points of the proposal, whether they agree or disagree or have no opinion. And we'll, of course, be reporting the results of that survey in probably the June issue."

--

Even if you're not a CQ subscriber, you can find a copy at a newstand or bookstore.

Moseson says amateur radio must and has kept in step with the times:

"I'm not sure what we're going to come out of this with or what direction it's going to go to, " Moseson says. "But one of the points that I've always made is that if we are going to keep ham radio as a healthy, vital hobby and service then it has to adapt to changing times and the licensing structure has been doing that over the course of many, many years."

--

As to how soon, we might expect action from Washington. Moseson says it's difficult to predict:

--

"My guess would be the earliest that you'd see any kind of a decision from the FCC would be the end of this year, probably more likely about a year from now in the spring of 2005," Moseson says.
--

--

Moseson also offered his opinion that even if Morse testing was not included as a requirement for any of the license classes that it wouldn't go away. He says CW contest entries have grown in recent years. Thats good news for those advocating long term preservation of the historic mode. (ARNewsline(tm))

CONVENTIONS: THE NAB HAM RADIO RECEPTION IN LAS VEGAS NV.

Its only a few weeks until the National Association of Broadcasters holds its 2004 gathering. One of the major social events that occurs at the NAB convention each year is the `Amateur Radio Reception'. This year will be no exception but for the first time ever this years `Ham Radio Reception' will be hosted by Heil Sound, Limited and its well known owners Bob, K9EID, and Sarah Heil. They would like to invite any and all amateur radio operators who will be in attendance at the NAB show to join them for this annual fun event.

Bob and Sarah are promising a fun time. They are also planning appearances by some of their special friends as well as dozens of attendance prizes that will be given during the two hour reception. This includes several of the new Heil Poline performance microphones autographed by legendary Eagles guitarist Joe Walsh, WB6ACU.

This years NAB Ham Radio Reception takes place Wednesday April 21st, from 6 to 9 P.M. local time. The venue is the Las Vegas Hilton Hotel, Ballrom B. Of coarse, thats in Las Vegas, Nevada. Bob says all that is required to join in the festivities is to bring a smile and your NAB attendance badge for complimentary food and drink.

For more information please feel to contact Bob or Sarah at 618-257-3000 or by e-mail to bob@heilsound.com. The Heil's say that they hope to see you there. (ARNewsline(tm))

CONVENTIONS AND HAMFEST TRAVEL TIPS: TRY FLYING OR TAKE THE BUS

Talking of ham radio social events, its no secret that gasoline prices here in the United States at historically high levels, and the Department of Energy saying to expect prices to go a lot higher. As a result, many hams are asking the rhetorical question: Can I afford to go to a major hamfest or convention this year? Especially one of the big ones like Dayton or NAB. The answer for the most part is yes, but a lot depends on where you live and how far you have to travel to that show. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, explores some alternatives to driving your own car:

If your QTH is several hundred miles away from your favorite hamfest and you drive a gas guzzling vehicle like an S-U-V then you may think twice about going this year. That is, unless you can find an alternative to $3 or more for each gallon of gasoline. Well, there are currently two very good transportation buys available if you are willing to give up the luxury of a personal vehicle.

Lets take a centrally located city like Dallas, Texas. There's a big convention every year in the suburb of Arlington that draws exhibitors and attendees from all across the country. If you live in Houston and plan to attend, its about a 275 mile drive each way. In an S-U-V that gets 10 to 12 miles to a gallon at the projected $3 a gallon the drive one way will cost about $81 each way or $162 round trip. Compare that to the $89 round trip currently being offered between the two cities on Delta and Continental airlines. Want cheaper? Go greyhound, buy your ticket 7 days in advance and it will only cost you $58 round trip.

And what about Hamvention in Dayton Ohio? That's coming up in May. Well, its the same thing here. Using Chicago as your home, the trip is also about 275 miles each way. To drive will cost about the same but make your reservations now and fly out of Chicago's Midway airport and ATA will take you full circle for about $120. Go Greyhound and you can go full circle for only $82

Live further way. Say Los Angeles or San Francisco? Well, you can really get a bargain. Fly United Airlines out of Santa Ana California early in the morning with a connection in Chicago and you can go round trip for $255. By way of comparison, that same ticket a year ago went for about $100 more. And for you Northern California folks, you can do the trip for $283 out of San Jose on American Trans Air.

And the usual disclaimer here,. The prices we quoted we those showing on Sunday March 8th on several travel websites including greyhound.com and orbitz.com. Since the airlines are notorious for changing prices at a moments notice, these could be gone by the time this newscast goes to air.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, reporting.

Two final tips that most frequent flyers already know. First, book early. The best prices for flights are usually sold on-line months in advance. Also, keep an eye on all of the Internet based travel discounters and check their prices daily. You never know when a flight or a bus ride to your favorite hamfest may be a lot less expensive than what it costs to drive your vehicle. And you won't have to hunt for a place to park, either. (ARNewsline(tm))

INTERNET SCAMS: ARRL AND RAC E-MAIL BEING SPOOFED

The ARRL and Radio Amateurs of Canada are warning their members and others about bogus or spoofed messages carrying ARRL.net or rac.ca suffixes. Both organizations say that they have been notifoed by people who have received e-mail messages alleging to be from the ARRL E-Mail Forwarding Service or directly from Radio Amateurs of Canada.

The senders of the e-mail encourage you to open the file or an attachment to the e-mail. Don't do it. These messages are false and are the result of one of the variants on a number of viruses now permeating the Internet. The attached file contains variations of worm viruses, MyDoom, Bagle and Netsky. Opening the file could result in your computer being infected. The bottom line: Delete the message and forget you ever got it. Your computer will be a lot safer that way. (ARRL, RAC)

HAM RADIO ADVENTURE: COMMUNICATORS NEEDED FOR CAVEING EXPEDITION

Gulf Coast United States, along with Caribbean, or South America base station operators are needed for communication on the ham bands with a scientific expedition. This, in July through August time frame.

The 60 day expedition will explore deep caves in the high Andes mountains and jungle in the western Amazon area of South America. Expedition access to the remote areas is via trekking on foot and pack animal. The expedition will use a solar and battery powered 20 Watt backpack transceiver. Antennas will be a wire dipole or vertical. A miniature notebook computer will be along for digital operations.

Communications will consist of position reports, some short messages with families of expedition members, and any possible emergency or medical messages. All operation will be non-commercial.

Operators with good base stations, efficient antennas and low noise locations are needed on the 40 through 15 meter amateur bands. The operations will use SSB, CW and a variety of digital modes. If you are interested, e-mail Bonnie Crystal, KQ6XA, at radioadventure@aol.com. (KC5FM, KQ6XA)

PUBLIC SERVICE: BAKER TO VEGAS FOOTRACE NEEDS YOUR HELP

Also in need of ham radio communicators is the famed Baker to Vegas Challenge Cup Relay race. Baker is Baker California and of coarse Vegas refers to Las Vegas, Nevada.

This year's foot race for teams from Law Enforcement Agencies takes place on April 24 th and 25, starting near Baker, traveling along State Route 127. The race then continues through radio show host Art Bell, W6OBB's hometown of Pahrump, Nevada and finishes up in Las Vegas.

For years, Amateur Radio has played an important role in the annual event. If you or your group is interested in helping with communications, please visit www.bakertovegas.com on the world-wide-web, to sign up. (Via e-mail)

RADIO LAW: CONGRESS ON ITS WAY TO INCVREASING INDECENCY PENALTIES AGAINST BROADCASTERS

Federal legislators are inching closer to increasing the penalties against broadcasters who permit indecent or obscene material to hit the public airwaves. This, as the House and Senate Commerce committees pass bills that would sharply boost fines of television and radio broadcasters who violate indecency regulations.

The U.S. House of Representatives measure increases fines to as much as $500,000 per violation from the current $27,500 per violation level. That version also contains a so-called three strikes provision that would require the FCC to hold a hearing to determine whether a broadcast license should be revoked after three violations take place. It also permits the FCC to weigh heftier penalties against the person who actually utters indecent material on the air as well as the ability to go after the network that broadcast the material in addition to the individual stations. Right now, the FCC can only fine the licensed station that aired the material and has limited ability to penalize the person who said it.

Current FCC rules limit indecent material presented in a patently offensive manner to late night hours, when children are less likely to be a part of the listening or viewing audience. In some past instances the broadcast standard has been applied to obsenity and indecency issues in private radio including the Amateur service.

Newsline attempted to find out if new and higher penalties directed by Congress might be applied to ham radio. We were told that at this point, the FCC's and Congressional actions are directed at the "broadcasters" and not at Amateur Radio. (Published news reports)

HAM RADIO BUSINESS: QRZ.COM HAS T1 TROUBLE

If you tried to access the QRZ.com website late on Thursday March 4th you probably found it down. The sites owner, Fred Lloyd, AA7BQ, reports that around 1800 UTC both of the dual T1 lines that supply the sites 3 Megabit feed to the Internet went down.

According to Lloyd, the sites network is supplier is Cable & Wireless and his location is served by two leased high-speed lines by the local phone company, Qwest. The Qwest lines connect the Arizona based QRZ.com servers to the Cable & Wireless location in downtown Phoenix.

About 2 hours after the outage was reported on Thursday, one of the lines was repaired and brought back up. For reasons unknown to Lloyd, the second T1 line has not been brought back up. Now, however, instead of a Qwest problem, it appears that the second line was intentionally disconnected by Cable & Wireless. Lloyd says that Cable & Wireless is currently pulling out of some of the less profitable market areas. Apparently, QRZ was mistakenly disconnected from the grid even though Lloyd had previously been assured that Cable & Wireless is not pulling out of his market. This put Q-R-Zeds back at 1.5 Megabits. That's the same speed that they were for years before the upgrade last December. (QRZ.com)

WORLDBEAT: TOWARD RESOLVING THE MEXICO - US 560, 780 & 920 KHZ BORDER SITUATIONS

An update on the radio border war developing between Mexico and the United States as we reported a few weeks ago. According to Joseph Berring in a letter to the CGC Communicator, the alleged problems caused by the Mexican broadcasters on 560, 780 and 920 kHz has become a top priority for both the U.S. FCC and the State Dept. as well as for the Mexican Administration.

According to Berring, top U.S. officials recently met with their Mexican counterparts in Mexico City. Berring observes that despite the controversy and problems that have arisen, Mexico's position has been very clear and unwavering. That being existing bilateral agreements are valid and they have not been violated. Additionally, Mexico seems to have some complaints of its own regarding U.S. stations.

The United States position is obviously a bit different. Not only does the US administration feel that there are clear violations, but that there are specific sidebar agreements dating as far back as 1996 that address the issues at hand.

Berring, who is a consultant on United States and Mexico border issues says to stay tuned. It should prove interesting. (CGC)

THAT FINAL ITEM: TRANSMITTING DATA FROM MARS - AND CONSERVING ENERGY

And finally this week, were you aware that the pair of Mars Rovers now exploring the red planet actually have two ways to send data back to Earth? They can send it direct or indirect. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, has more:

As you might expect, direct entails using the rovers own high-powered microwave systems and using up a lot of very precious power reserves. Kind of like making a long distance contact on 2 meter FM simplex. You can do it but you need high power and a very directional antenna.

The indirect method uses low-powered UHF links to relay the data to orbiting satellites. These satellites then use their high-powered transmitters to beam the data back to scientists. Thats not much diferent than working a long distance on 2 meters, but doing it with an H-T through your favorite repeater.

To save energy on the solar powered rovers, the UHF relay method is preferred. As of February 18th, the two rovers had sent 10 billion bits of data from Mars to Earth. Of this, only 18% of that data was transmitted directly. The rest was relayed through the Mars Odyssey and Mars Global Surveyor satellites.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, in Los Angeles.

HI,

My friend Anthony did a new version of the electromagnetic spectrum from 31.2 mHz to 6.52 EHz but this time placing the bands on straight lines instead of tilted ones. Here is the result : http://unihedron.com/projects/spectrum/spectrum_straight.pdf

Bookmark http://unihedron.com/projects/spectrum/ as this version will soon be updated to take into account new corrections (like medical devices at 405 MHz, etc).

A few other bandplans and frequencies allocations are available at this address : http://www.astrosurf.com/lombry/qsl-download.htm

Last night someone donated some WX Sat equipment to our local club

A Timestep Prosat 4.1 Wx Rx
A UKW-Technik (rebadged as Microwave Modules) WeatherSatellite Rx
A Timestep Meteosat convertor

I'm a complete newbie to this but quite like the idea of playing so will build an antenna and try decoding. I'm assuming the Prosat is the best RX to use.

Anyone
got copies of manuals etc for any of the above they would care to share? (I will try emailing Timestep next week) got any recommendations for the best sites to get a newbie like me started (including antenna design, best software etc).

If no-one else in the club is interested I may also offer the gear for sale, so if anyone is interested let me know and if I decide not to buy it myself then I'll look to a private sale possibly, rather than Ebay.

Thanks

THE BPL FIGHT: ART BELL W6OBB VS. BPL.

If it did not know before, a large portion of the American public is now keenly aware of the danger that Broadband Over Powerline Internet access poses to the nation's emergency communications infrastructure. And you can thank radio talk show host Art Bell, W6OBB, and ARRL President Jim Haynie, W5JBP, for bringing it to everyone's attention. Amateur Radio Newsline's Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, had an opportunity to speak with the internationally famous radio talker and has the rest of the story:

From the high desert in the great American Southwest, a call to arms has been sounded.

From his home base in Pahrump, Nevada, W6OBB - better known to millions of commercial radio listeners as Art Bell - has called on America to stand up and fight what he charges is the greatest threat to the nation's security - Broadband Over Powerline.

Bell charges BPL will cripple the nation's emergency communications backbone - striking at the heart of homeland security.

Bell picked up the charge against BPL during his radio show broadcast Saturday, March 20 in which he introduced ARRL President Jim Haynie, W5JBP to his audience.

Haynie and Bell pointed out the BPL interference threat extends far beyond the amateur bands. Both Haynie and Bell warned that many police and fire companies, federal disaster agencies and the FBI and the military would be rendered helpless if BPL is rolled out across the nation.

Bell says he's especially worried about the potential of another major attack against the United States and what BPL would do to our nation's ability to communicate.

"The emergency communications, my God, aircraft, amateur radio, FEMA, any other emergency agencies that are going to have to rely on HF communications," Bell says.

"We certainly can't depend on satellites. As a matter of fact, if we should get into a conflict, some sort of major conflict the satellites will be the very first thing that will go. And minus satellites for communications, we're dependent on the good old-fashioned shortwave bands, VHF, UHF, the whole schmear to keep our nation talking. And in a time of national emergency we need to be able to talk to each other."

Bell says he's appalled at the behavior of the Federal Communications Commission. He says they're acting like cheerleaders instead of regulators. He charges corporate greed is driving BPL and ignoring the studies showing the technology - as proposed on the HF bands - won't work without causing massive interference.

"I've always had the deepest respect for the Federal Communications Commission," he says. "However, I think in recent years, there've been a lot of changes at the FCC that include the fact that there aren't so many engineers at the commission any longer, but there are a lot of bureaucrats."

Bell says he believed after reading the Federal Emergency Management Agency's assessment of BPL that the findings would have been enough to shut it down.

"The FEMA filing was very strong," Bell says. "They essentially said, 'Look, our receivers and transmitters are not going to be able to function with BPL in place.' And, they specified the power levels they would have to go to continue to communicate and suggested the taxpayers can't, wouldn't be able to afford such changes.

"So, with that kind of filing, frankly when it came out I thought BPL was dead. Boy was I wrong!"

After doing more research, Bell says he decided to take the case to his listeners. And he says the only way to do it is to point out the risk to their safety.

"I don't think we're going to combat it by saying, 'Save ham radio." The public doesn't care enough and I'm sorry to have to say that, but that's what I believe," Bell says.

"I love ham radio. It's been my life. I've been a ham since I was 12. But the greater, larger American public just doesn't care enough about ham radio.

"And if they think they can plug in their computer to the wall and have instant internet, that's a more attractive idea to them than the guy down the block with a tower in the air."

Bell says his mission is clear: "I do a radio program on 500 radio stations nationwide, including the top 50 markets in the U.S., " Bell says. "And I'm going to do everything I can to drive this home as hard as I can that communications, and certainly ham radio is part of that emergency communications chain, there's no question about that.

"But emergency communications across the board are threatened by BPL."

Bell says all hams need to wake up and heed his call to action.

"We have to get to the larger media in America and, as hams, we have to make the general public, underline the word general public, aware that our emergency communications are threatened," Bell says. "The American public remembers 9-11. The American public knows what the continuing threat is.

"We've declared war against terrorism and why would we want to turn around and cripple our effective ability to wage war? And that's exactly what BPL is going to do."

Bell says if energized with information about BPL's risks to national security, millions of Americans can quickly become allies.

"We need to get the word out to the general public and begin to have them write to their congressmen, their senator," Bell says. "And that's the only approach that I see at this point with the juggernaut that is presently underway from the Federal Communications Commission and the (BPL) industry, the only way we're going to stop it is to make the general public aware of the threat."

Bell says there are other issues, including interference to TV channels 2 through 6, residual noise to the AM radio bands and virtual loss of CB bands used by the many truckers who listen to his show. He says there are also privacy issues, especially the potential of the government and large companies to track people and their habits and choices on a BPL system.

Bell currently hosts the weekend edition of the Coast to Coast AM. He also indicates that his presentation on Saturday, March 20th was only round one. He is lining up other guests to talk about the BPL issues in the near future. To find out when, keep checking the shows website at www.coasttocoastam.com. (ARNewsline(tm))

THE BPL FIGHT: HAM RADIO VS. THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

Meantime, a story in a recent issue of the Wall Street Journal about Amateur Radio’s stand against BPL is raising the eyre off many in the nations ham radio community. The item appears to take the position that radio amateurs are alone in opposing BPL. Also, that their doing do is holding back the flow of progress in technology.

You can judge for yourself by taking your web browser to http://tinyurl.com/357ye. That is if its still there by the time this newscast goes to air. (ARNewsline(tm))

RFI: ELECTRIC BLANKETS - A NEW CHAPTER FOR AN OLD PROBLEM

As if BPL was not enough, now there's another source of RFI to worry about. Its things that keep us warm.

According to Roy Trumbull writing in the CGC Communicator, RF interference from electric blankets is another problem that can be added to a history of similar events. The ones caused by heating pad thermostats and the class of transformers used for door bells. Turnbull says that RFI from these devices can affect AM reception for quite a distance from the source.

Turnbull also adds this interesting aside concerning electric blanket safety. He says a little noted change in product design took place when there was that firestorm some years ago over magnetic fields from power lines. The electric blanket makers got a jump on things by switching to twisted pair wiring. This says Turnbull solved the problem of the significant magnetic fields that were produced by the earlier blanket design. (CGC)

RESCUE RADIO: REACT AND THE AMBER ALERT PROGRAM

Ham radio appears to be leaving itself behind in the area of responding to notices of kidnapped children called Amber Alerts. Meantime REACT and other citizens radio organizations are taking the point position in spreading word of these vital searches. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, takes a look at how REACT has gotten involved:

Nobody seems to know why hams appear to have no interest in the Amber Alert program, but other civic minded radio services are not standing still. And the April issue of Popular Communications magazine is highliting REACT as being one of those jumping in to providing communications for these alerts and searches.

The magazines Info Central column highlights the activities of REACT teams across Ontario Canada and the northern United States. This, as they responded to an Amber Alert issued by the Ontario police after Cecelia Zhang was abducted in Toronto.

Ron McCracken who is past President of REACT told Pop Comm that they were given details of the alert and were asked to broadcast it on C-B channel 19 to truckers passing along the highways. The alert included details of the kidnap vehicle and the victim along with the suspects.

The broadcasts began at about 5:30 in the evening and went on through midnight. McCracken says that CB radio was combined with computers and e-mail to spread the word far and wide in a very short time. This allowed truck drivers all along the border to keep an eye out for both the little Cecilia and her abductor.

According to McCracken, this was REACT’s first response to an Amber Alert and in his estimation it went very well. You can read the full story starting on page 5 of the April issue of Popular Communications magazine.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, reporting.

The Amber Alert was created in 1997 as a tribute to 9-year-old Amber Hagerman. She was kidnapped and brutally murdered while riding her bicycle in her hometown of Arlington, Texas.

If you want to know more about how you can start an Amber Alert Plan in your area and involve your radio hobby, it can be found by taking your web browser to www.missingkids.com. Then click on the words Amber Plan. (PopComm, ARNewsline(tm))

RESTRUCTURING: SAN MARINO AND NORWAY EXPAND 40 METERS

Two more nations have gained spectrum at 7 MHz. Both are in Europe. Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, in Nottingham in the UK has more:

Two more European countries have gained access to the 7100 to 7200 kHz segment of the 40-metre band. San Marino, T7, has authorised amateur radio operation in the 7100 - 7200 kHz band on a Secondary non-interference basis, with effect from the 25th of February.

The Norwegian Post and Telecommunications Authority has also announced that Norwegian radio amateurs can use frequencies in the segment 7100 - 7200 kHz with secondary status starting from the 1st of April.

This is in addition to the existing segment 7000 - 7100 kHz where radio amateurs have primary status. The maximum transmitter output power in the 7100 - 7200 segment will be 100 watts in Norway, and the maximum bandwidth 6kHz.

Croatia was the first European country to expand its 40 meter band. That happened last December. (GB2RS)

RESTRUCTURING: ARRL AND NCVEC PETITIONS ASSIGNED RM’S

Here in the U-S, our FCC has assigned rulemaking numbers to separate petitions for license restructuring and changes in code requirements filed by the ARRL and the National Council of Volunteer Examiner Coordinators. The ARRL petition has been designated RM-10867 while the NCVEC petition is now RM-10870.

Two other petitions were released for comment at the same time - RM-10868 was filed by the Radio Amateur Foundation, and RM-10869 by Ronald Lowrance of Georgia. Both also seek changes in amateur licensing requirements, particularly with relation to the code exam.

All petitions are available online via the FCC's Electronic Comment Filing System website. The comment deadline on all four petitions is April 24, with reply comments due 15 days later. (CQ, W2VU)

ENFORCEMENT: WARNINGS TO TWO TRUCKING FIRMS ABOUT 10 METER OPS

The FCC has warned the owners of a Bristol Pennsylvania trucking company to get their personnel off of the 10 meter Amateur band or face some expensive consequences. In a letter to Cassidy's Express the FCC says that it has information that one of the company’s tractors pulling a "CAI" trailer on Interstates 476 N and 76W in Pennsylvania, was the source of unlicensed radio transmissions on the 10 meters.

The incident took place last October 9th between 8 AM and 8:30 AM local time. The Commission has informed Cassidy's Express that operation of radio transmitting equipment without a license is a violation of Section 301 of the Communications Act. That it could and will subject the operator to fine or imprisonment, as well as seizure of any non-certified radio transmitting equipment.

For those not aware, unlicensed operation carries a fine of $7,500 to $10,000 for each instance charged. A similar letter was sent to CLR Transport of Saluda, North Carolina warning of unlicensed 10 meter operation from one of their trucks on Interstate 85 between Gastonia and Kings Mountain, North Carolina on July 14, 2003. THE CLUB SCENE: USS HORNET ARC NOT DISBANDED

Contrary to rumors, the Amateur Radio club that supports museum ship U-S-S Hornet has not been disbanded. This, according to Tom McGlinn, KO6HA who is the trustee for the NB6GC callsign and the new president of the USS Hornet Amateur Radio Club.

Writing on the QRZ.com websire, McGlin says the original story of the club being dissolved is untrue. He says that the group is still active and aboard the USS Hornet and that all QSL requests will be handled as in the past. Please direct any inquiries concerning the USS Hornet ARC QSL program to ko6ha@earthlink.net (QRZ.com)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: PROFESSOR SAYS ISP’S SHOULD POLICE CONTENT

A new cyberspace business plan from a legal scholar says that Internet Service Providers should become cyber cops and force everyone to pay a royalty fee for every song, movie or book they download to their personal computers. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, has the details:

Lon Sobel is a professor at Loyola Law School and an expert on copyright and entertainment law. He says that Internet service providers such as America Online and Earthlink must become digital police and send customers monthly bills based on how much copyrighted material they download.

Under Sobel’s plan, consumers who download expensive software such as Adobe Photoshop could pay as much as $600, while someone who grabs a single song could be charged as little as 49 or 50 cents. These charges would be in addition to the usual dial-up or broadband monthly connection fees.

Critics of the plan include computer experts, Internet service providers and -- believe it or not -- the entertainment industry. Bob Blakley, a computer scientist and security expert at IBM, says that a clever hacker could write computer code that would attaches itself to every piece of copyrighted content on the Internet. Then it could funnel some of the cost of the download to the hackers personal bank account.

Blakley and others say peoples attitudes is one of the biggest challenges in digital rights management . That an entire generation of consumers has become used to free music and other content posted on the Internet. He says that they will do anything it takes to get content for free. This includes breaking the law to avoid paying $10 to $20 for a compact disc, DVD or electronic book.

A senior executive at Verizon Communications is quoted as saying that Internet service providers will reject the plan noting that few companies could keep track of every downloaded item or determine the value of every file passing through their system. (Published news reports)

THAT FINAL ITEM: A HAMVENTION 2004 RADIO ROAD INFORMATION SERVICE

And finally this week, if you plan to drive to this years Hamvention, there will be a special service to make your trip a bit more pleasant. This as Information Radio in Dayton, Ohio announces plans to provide Road to Hamvention announcements on Highway Radio 1610 AM. As you might expect, 1610 Kiloherrtz is the frequency and the person behind the idea is Norm Schrein, KA8PGJ.

Schrein" "For Hamvention, we are planning on putting some information in regard to directions to the Hara and hours of the hamfest itself. People coming into town can obviously get information via the ham repeaters, but we may be hitting people who aren't hams at all or who do not have Amateur Radio equipment but who will pick this up in the loop and take in the hamfest."

--

Information Radio is a service provided by the Emergency Communications Center Incorporated. This is a not for profit organization with which Schrein is associated. He says that stations like this are a lot more common than many people realize:

Schrein: "530 Khz is where to find a lot of the stations like this and then about 1610 through about 1700 Khz you will find a lot of these travelers information stations as well. A lot of them tend to be site specific. That is, if you go through Pennsylvania, you may hear something about one of the state or national parks or involving the roadways if its run by the Dept. of Transportation. Where ours is a little unique is that it is kind of all encompassing. It covers everything happening in the Dayton area from local parks and recreationb to people having a parade to events like the Hamvention."

--

Schrein says that anytime you are headed to the Dayton area be sure to tune your car radio to 1610 kilohertz. Whether its trying to find your way into town or heading to the HARA Arena for Hamvention 2004, Information Radio will be there to serve you.

More information on information radio stations can be heard on this weeks Rain Report. Its at www.rainreport.com or landline at 847-827-7246. (ARNewsline (TM)) i have the folded dipole driven elements from a couple of old Satellite antennas that had seen better days so what i want to do is use these driven elements as turnstiles so does anyone have any suggestions or plans they could email me one big question i have is spacing between the 2 folded dipoles on the same band

i have heard to put them as close as possible and others say to seperate them about 1/2 wave lenght could someone who has built these things email me and help me out

RESCUE RADIO: VK HAM BRINGS BOAT TO PORT SAFELY - BY RADIO

A pair of Australian and American hams are credited with being a lifeline to a storm damaged boat with six people on board. The Australian was at his home QTHand the American was at sea on the stricken ship. Q-News Robert Broomhead, VK3KRB, in Waverly, Australia picks up the story from here:

Bernie VK2ABN on March 4 was in QSO with VK2ABT/VK3ACA and heard a weak and distorted signal, KA7MWL Shawn, who was aboard a Ukrainian registered schooner sailing from Wellington NZ to Sydney Aust., sails had blown out and they were making slow progress just on 4 knots.

At that speed they had calculated that they would run out of fuel before reaching port. Bernie VK2ABN ascertained 6 people were on board, BUT NO EPIRB! All this information was relayed to Sea Safety Canberra.

With the schooners satellite communication system also out of action, the Ham aboard, Shawn KA7MWL operating around 5 watts on 7070 Khz was the only contact.

Sea Safety Canberra QSY'd from 8176 kHz to the 40 meter band but as their transmitter was in Charleville, SW Queensland, no contact could be established.

Bernie arranged a for sked in 24 hours time, this time things a lot better, radio and safety wise, the schooner expected in Sydney ahead of previously estimated time.

As Bernie said: "I hadn't realised you can now call MAYDAY on the various DISTRESS frequencies but nobody is listening any more. Since the advent of GMDSS a computer scans the frequencies looking for encoded tones. If it finds one it attracts human intervention."

VK2ABN Bernie says " It was a bit like the Tony Hancock Radio Ham Sketch in retrospect, anyway that's what his wife thought and our telephone sure ran hot for a couple days!"

According to Q-News, the Sydney Australia Water Police stayed in contact with VK2ABN to keep abreast of the situation. With no High Frequency facilities that could hear the stricken craft, they were totally reliant on ham radio. (Q-News)

THE BPL FIGHT: CLARIFYING FEMA'S CLARIFICATION ON BPL

The debate surrounding Broadband Over Powerline Internet access has taken a new twist. Opponents are now raising fears about the contents of a letter recently released in the FCC's BPL public comment files. It was sent by the Federal Emergency Management Agency's top administrator to FCC Chairman, Michael Powell. Opponents say the letter clearly shows FEMA is now reversing course on its vehement opposition to nationwide BPL deployment. Amateur Radio Newsline's Mark Abramowicz NT3V has the very latest

The letter was written by Michael Brown, Undersecretary of Emergency Preparedness and Response in the Department of Homeland Security. That's where the Federal Emergency Management Agency was placed in President Bush's restructuring of agencies related to the security of the United States.

Brown's letter to Powell actually was briefly mentioned in February articles on the FCC's BPL action that were written for two nationally-circulated computer magazines. But it apparently got little notice and its contents were not fully detailed.

Now that the letter is part of the FCC BPL file, its contents are in the public arena.

Brown tells Powell in the letter dated January 8 that FEMA wants to clarify its December filing so it is "not misunderstood or misconstrued."

Brown goes on to say FEMA is aware that some of what he labels "distinct approaches" to BPL may cause interference to FEMA's H-F emergency communications network.

But then, and this is the section that has BPL opponents worried, Brown writes: "However, we continue to study the BPL proceeding and have not concluded there is a material interference problem or that all of the distinct technological approaches to BPL pose risk of interference."

Compare that to the language in FEMA's December 2003 filing on BPL with the commission prepared by Barry West, FEMA's chief information officer.

West writes: "FEMA has grave concerns regarding the interference that likely would be caused to government communications by unlicensed BPL systems."

Or this comment: "This interference will severely impair FEMA's mission-essential HF radio operations in areas serviced by BPL technology."

In an interview with a Philadelphia radio station, a FEMA spokesman insisted there is no material change in the agency's position.

The spokesman says Brown's letter was sent to Chairman Powell to clarify that FEMA is still studying the issue and recognizes and supports the FCC's desire for a greater broadband capability for the nation.

The spokesman says Brown wants to see more studies on the interference issue and is working with other federal agencies.

However, the FEMA spokesman emphasized that any deployment of BPL should not pose an interference threat to the agency's H-F emergency communications network.

Those close to the BPL debate say Brown's letter, has only muddied the agency's position and sections could be embraced by both sides.

We'll let you decide.

THE BPL FIGHT: BIG NOISE IN MANASSAS

BPL has come to Manassas, Virginia and the hams there say that its not fun to listen to:

BPL audio

That's the racket being created by the latest of three Broadband Over Powerline or BPL installations opened in Manassas. This, as provided in a sound file on the www.W4OVH.org website, courtesy of George Tarnovsky, KE2AM. The interference level appears to be such that it would be all but impossible to hear a radio signal through it.

The kicker here is that this is reported to be an underground electrical feed that utilities claim are far less noisy than overhead wiring. However, having the wires underground does not seem to reduce the interference. At least not in this case.

And if you want to know more about the BPL hazard to America's communications, go get a copy of the of CQ. Joe Lynch, N6CL has an excellent analysis article in his "VHF Plus" column in the just out April issue of that magazine. (VHF Reflector, PR Reflector, W2VU)

THE BPL FIGHT: SOUTHERN OREGON GOES GLASS

Meantime, to the West in Oregon there's some good news on the BPL front. It comes from southern Oregon where the obnoxious radio pollution of BPL has lost out to quiet fiber optic delivery.

According to Doug Beck, K6ZX, in the town of Merlin, a private company, forming public and private partnerships with local government has wired the city of Ashland with what's called the Ashland Fiber Network. It has also extended fiber to the city of Medford with some 74 miles of glass cable connecting all schools to provide VOIP audio and video conferencing.

But that's not all. The partnership is also in the process of connecting to Grants Pass and will wire all the local schools and government offices as well. The best part is that all excess bandwidth is being made available to local citizens and wireless last mile technology is being explored to connect rural users.

Beck says over the VHF Reflector that the area is aiming to have a broadband connection available to all rural users without any Broadband over Powerlines in the area. (VHF Reflector)

RESTRUCTURING: SWEDEN GOES CODE FREE

It now looks likely that Swedish radio amateurs with a Class 2 license which is the equivalent of our code free Technician class, will be allowed to operate on the High Frequency bands as of early April. The decision to drop the Morse code requirement for an HF bands license in Sweden had been postponed from the 1st of January. A note in the March issue of QTC, the Swedish national society's magazine, suggested that on or about April 1st is when the change will be made. (GB2RS)

ENFORCEMENT: NO "DELIVER IT" ON 2 METERS

Using an illegal long range cordless telephone to deliver culinary delights is going to cost a New Jersey Chinese restaurant a good part of its profits. This, after the FCC levies a $10,000 against the eatery for operating transmitting equipment on 2 meters without a license. The FCC's Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, has more:

Duckworth: "A Notice of Apparent Liability to Monetary Forfeiture in the amount of $10000 went to Best Wok of Westville, New Jersey. An agent of the Philadelphia office had DF'd the signal on 145.8376 MHz and inspected the base and mobile units. The restaurant manager stated that he had purchased the long range cordless telephone system in another country and brought it to the United States to operate at the restaurant."

--

The FCC citation issued to Best Wok indicated that the telephone in question is not FCC Part 15 certified and is illegal to use in the United States. (FCC, RAIN)

ENFORCEMENT: IT AIN'T USER RIGHTS

A California ham is the latest to be told by the FCC that if he wants to challenge a repeater operators authority to kick him off a system, he will have to do it elsewhere. That the FCC will nor reconsider the matter.

The situation involves Mark A. Glover, KE6TTL of Garden Grove. Apparently, Glover has complained to the FCC about his being banned from using a repeater owned by the Catalina Repeater Association with the apparent blessing of the FCC. This in a letter from the regulatory agency to Glover back on February 2nd.

In responding to Glover's February 26th complaint, the FCC says that its letter of February 2nd explained the right of the repeater association to make such a request. Also, if Glover has an objection to the decision of the repeater owner, that he is free to pursue legal action locally. But says the FCC it won't be involved. There are no Commission hearing procedures are provided in such matters. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: TWO PEOPLE - ONE CALL

The actions of a New York ham in obtaining a call sign have come under FCC scrutiny. Again, the FCC's Daryl Duckworth, N-N-Zero-W:

Duckworth: "A letter went to Frank C. Richards, KG2IJ, of Moers New York concerning an application filed in 1995 where he requested the call KB4VU be changed to the next systematically assigned, to change his address to New York, and to renew the license. Frank C. Richards of Ft. Meyers, Florida, claims that he is the real licensee of KB4VU, and filed no application for a call sign or address changes and has never lived in New York."

The FCC says that this raises questions about abuse of the licensing system and the agency is investigating. It has asked the New York Richards to provide documented information on where he previously lived in Florida, when he moved to New York and all FCC Amateur Service licenses that he previously held. (FCC, RAIN)

HAMFESTS: GAITHERSBERG - RIP

Some news from the hamfest circuit. After struggling to rebuild attendance from two moves the past four years, organizers in Maryland have canceled the 2004 descendant of what was once the popular "Gaithersburg Hamfest." This was a show that dated back to the 1950s. Amateur Radio Newsline's Newsline's Paul Courson, WA3VJB reports from Annapolis:

--

"There appears to be no support for this event from the member clubs of the Foundation or their respective members," according to Dan Blasberg, KA8YPY, president of the Foundation for Amateur Radio (FAR).

The group consists of a coalition of ham radio clubs in the Maryland, Washington, and northern Virginia region, and has used hamfest revenue to fund scholarships. In recent years it co-sponsored the event with one of its member clubs, the Columbia Amateur Radio Association (CARA).

Expressing his dismay that only two people had stepped forward from FAR to help stage the hamfest that had been scheduled for Sept. 11th and 12th Blasburg, said the lack of volunteer help is "not fair" to "carry the burden of a project of this magnitude and scope."

Blasburg concluded "it has been decided by the leadership of FAR and CARA to cancel Fall-Fest 2004 (due) to lack of volunteer participation." His note initially went out on an email reflector and since has circulated widely.

Blasburg this past week was hopeful his note would prompt people to step forward to help, but then, on March 27th, hamfest officials were openly talking about the cancellation and the withdrawal of the site reservation in West Friendship, Maryland.

What used to be the popular Gaithersburg Hamfest relocated to a parking lot outside a baseball field in Bowie Maryland in 1999, struggling as a local fleamarket no where near the size of the original site. A move to the Howard County Fairgrounds in 2002 did not help matters much, with attendance gaining marginally.

With the old Gaithersburg Hamfest now GONE, the successor as the largest in the mid-Atlantic region may now be the Timonium Hamfests at the Maryland State Fairgrounds north of Baltimore, where two clubs sponsor a Spring and a Fall Timonium

Paul Courson, WA3VJB, Annapolis reporting for Newsline.

HAMVENTION 2004: THE FCC WILL BE THERE

Some much more positive news comes from Dayton, Ohio. This with word that two of ham radio's most popular speakers will be back at Hamvention 2004. Of coarse we are talking about the FCC's chief ham radio rules enforcer Riley Hollingsworth, K4ZDH, and FCC rules man Bill Cross, W3TN.

The two were missing from last years Hamvention due to a scheduling snafu. As planners put together this years outing, the duo was among the very first scheduled in. You will find them holding forth from on Saturday, May 15th from 10 a.m. to noon in Hara Arena Meeting Room 1. If you want to know exactly what's happening at the FCC and how it will affect ham radio, this is the event to be at. (ARNewsline (tm), Hamvention(r))

HAMFESTS: THE URUNGA RADIO CONVENTION

And speaking about hamfests, heres on that's a bit unusual. Its the annual Easter Convention scheduled for Saturday the 10th and Easter Sunday the 11th of April at the Senior Citizen's Hall in the city of Urunga, Uganda. Events include a 3.5 MHz mobile hunt, pedestrian on 2 meter T-Hunt, a 2 meter mobile multi transmitter hunt and lots more. Sunday will feature the famous Urunga scramble. A mini contest to see who can make the most contacts in 30 minutes. Its a great show, if you happen to be in Uganda an Easter weekend. (Q-News)

HAM HELP: GET WELL WALLY

Unless you live in the American West where this newscast is produced, you are not aware of the contributions of Wally Foster, N6CDJ. Those who do know that Wally has been a huge contributor to ham radio in the state of California.

Over the years, N6CDJ has been responsible for thousands of hours dedicated to installing the region's packet radio system. He has also introduced many to packet and APRS and volunteers a lot of time to emergency services, fundraising, climbing towers and doing a first-rate job with repeater and station installations.

Wally's in a tough personal battle right now. Please drop him a QSL with a "get well Wally" message top help keep his spirits up during a trying time. You can send your wishes to N6CDJ at his callbook address. (AA6JR)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: MESH NETWORKS RADIO RELAY SYSTEM

On the emerging technology front, Mesh Networks, whose emergency-response devices communicate through each other rather than through a centralized command is expanding its technology. This, to work on other kinds of wireless equipment including radios used by emergency service communicators. Rick Johnson, KA9VZD, has more:

Originally developed by the U.S. military, Mesh system of networking lets individual radios serve as repeaters and relay points. This means that a firefighter too far inside a building to reach his command post can communicate with a nearby firefighter, whose radio will then repeat the conversation to the next closest radio. This is similar to hams using a programmable mobile radio to extend the hand of their 2 meter or 70 centimeter H-T..

And just like hams have been experimenting, Mesh networks can transmit video, data and position information in addition to audio. But heres the departure fronm what radio amateurs are doing. The Mesh technology also has the ability to create super-sized Wi-Fi hot spots. This in itself gives the system wide utility in public service applications.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Rick Johnson, KA9VZD, reporting.

Mesh Networks says that it is recognized as the leading developer of high performance and scaleable mobile ad hoc networking technology. More about the company and its products is on-line at www.meshnetworks.com. (Press release)

HAM AWARDS: THE VP5 YOUNG CONTESTER

If you are age 18 or younger, a licensed radio amateur and have been dreaming about going on a D-X contest, listen up. This next story is for you.

For the second year in a row, a competition has been announced for keen young contest operators with just such a dream. The winner gets an all-expenses paid trip to the Turks and Caicos Islands to operate with the VP5X Contest Group in the CQ World Wide DX phone contest this October.

Applicants must send an essay of 500 words or more telling how they got started in ham radio. It also must describe the person who helped them get started in the hobby and why you should be selected for this contest DX'pedition to VP5.

The winner must have his or her parents' written permission to make the trip on their own. Parents may accompany the winner at their own expense. All entries should be sent by e-mail to contests@vp5x.com by the 31st of August. (GB2RS)

HAM AWARDS: 2004 YHOTY NOMINATIONS BEING SOUGHT

And while we are at it, its time to announce the opening of the nominating period for the 2004 Amateur Radio Newsline Young Ham of the Year Award. This program is open to any FCC licensed youngster age 18 or younger residing in the contiguous 48 states. One who has made a significant contribution to the community, the nation or ham radio though the United States Amateur Radio Service.

As we have said in years past, this award is not a contest for a prize. The person selected "Young Ham of the Year" is judged on his or her contributions to society through Amateur Radio. By way of example, a youngster whose only claim to fame is that of being licensed as an Extra at age four would not necessarily be judge as having made a significant contribution to the Amateur Radio service. On the other hand, a 14 or 15 year old Novice or Technician running a net during a major disaster or crisis would definitely be given consideration.

More information and a downloadable on-line nominating form is at our website. That's in cyberspace at www.arnewsline.org. The cutoff for nominations this year is midnight on Tuesday, June 31st. (ARNewsline (tm))

DX

In D-X, W3EF reports that the 3B9C dxpedition has already made over 110,000 contacts and with any luck will soon be the biggest dxpedition in history. He says that besides the sheer volume, this has also been a carefully planned and executed operation with strict attention to details such as propagation on all bands to all regions. W3EF says it has been an absolute blast with a wonderful team from all over the world. At airtime the 3B9C operation continues. (W3EF)

In other D-X news, word that K5CM, N5KW and W5AO plan to operate portable VP5 from North Caicos island through the 7th of April. The island counts as NA-002 for the IOTA awards. (GB2RS)

Also, F8DVD, will be active slash JW from Svalbard on 80 to 10 meters to the 10th of April. He says that although it will be very hard to make contacts on 80 meters due to the very short night, he will make several attempts to do so. (GB2RS)

Lastly, PA9JJ will be active as C56JJ from Gambia until the 5th of April. Look for him especially on the WARC bands and on RTTY and PSK 31. For all these operations, QSL as directed on the air. (GB2RS)

THAT FINAL ITEM: FCC MAY MANDATE IONESPHERIC DELAY

And finally, a little-known provision of a bill to crack down on indecency on the airwaves may directly affect Amateur Radio. It went into effect at 00:01 UTC on April 1st. Roving reporter Pierre Pullinmyleg, F0OL, reports:

Echolink and ATV on The ISS project

ARISS teams from around the world met in Noordwijk aan Zee, Netherlands from 25 March to 27 March to review progress of the programme, determine future steps, and to review projects submitted to the organization for future use. Various committees updated the international team on their progress, while Chariman Frank Bauer presented an overview of the current status of the programme and previewed the Roy Neal certificate from the special event held late last year. (Certificates will be sent out shortly.)

Projects submitted for consideration include Amateur Television on the International Space Station. This project would allow for the possibility of mounting an ATV camera on the outside of the station.

A proposal was also made to incorporate the Internet Radio Linking Project and EchoLink into school contacts. Further information on this technoligy can be found at www.echolink.org.

Aside from accomplishing general administrative tasks, this meeting gave team members the first opportunity in over a year to meet face to face and discuss the programme. The next meeting will be held in Alexandria, Virginia in October. It will be held just after the AMSAT general meeting on 10-13 October. All interested parties are welcome to attend.

If you would like to propose a project for the ARISS team, please contact Mike Miller at ka5sma@a... for further information.

With all due respect, what's the point? Why not use normal ISS communications channels and re transmit it via Real Player or MS Media Player. The sponsored school could telephone in for the live link.

Echolink is nice, but it is not radio. It is a proprietary VOIP protocol. It has been done, and done better.

I like the ATV idea but think SSTV would have a much larger impact. People around the world could view images using scanners and a Personal Computer.

I've used both a 2m and 70cm eggbeater, both home made, with success.
I've not tried stacked loops.

If you build an eggbeater yourself, I'd get a good SWR meter ... good as in functional at the freq range of interest. After trimming both loops for min. and get the phasing line cut right, you can adjust the distance from the bottom of the loops to the radials/reflector to get the lowest overall SWR. That's what I did anyway. I don't know what the final pattern looked like but it worked for me just fine.

Spam from VoteNader.org? (Or naderexplore04.org)

You may have received spam email recently that appears to come from our campaign, or be about our campaign -- perhaps the "From" and or "Reply-to" addresses look like they are coming from VoteNader.org. Or perhaps you have received a message that appears to come from an individual (if the address is real, the real owner probably did not send this email either) with suppressed recipients. Or maybe you received an email that appeared to come from yourself promoting our site.

These messages are NOT from Nader for President 2004, and these email tactics are NOT condoned by our campaign in any way.

UPDATE: Some of the latest forged emails have been made to appear to be coming from naderexplore04.org. Again, we are not responsible for this unfortunate abuse of email, and there is little in the technical sense that we can do to prevent this as it has nothing to do with our actual infrastructure. We are collecting information.

Welcome to organised terror/ car bomb

Assalam u'Alekum all,

In early April 2002(last year), a car bomb exploded just outside the Australian Embassy in Pakistan. Guess who was behind organising this bomb, I heard a few people died when this bomb exploded. Abu Omar was behind this event. It is said that he followed me, after I had left to go to Pakistan, he had arranged this terrorist act from Australia, special thanks to this "jewish" brothers in Pakistan. I bet every oridnary person in Australia must have though it is Muslims, well now you know.

I have also been told that he traveled a

Spam from VoteNader.org? (Or naderexplore04.org)

You may have received spam email recently that appears to come from our campaign, or be about our campaign -- perhaps the "From" and or "Reply-to" addresses look like they are coming from VoteNader.org. Or perhaps you have received a message that appears to come from an individual (if the address is real, the real owner probably did not send this email either) with suppressed recipients. Or maybe you received an email that appeared to come from yourself promoting our site.

These messages are NOT from Nader for President 2004, and these email tactics are NOT condoned by our campaign in any way.

UPDATE: Some of the latest forged emails have been made to appear to be coming from naderexplore04.org. I personally feel sorry for her, I don't think this should have been her fate. But then again where they have raped entire Christainity and Islam why wouldn't these jews travel all this way to rape my family members. firstly Abu Omar tried to get me killed, probably because I have no feelings and I wasn't like him, then he told the cops who were involved in protecting me that I want to kill them, special thanks to his other brothers like Mahmud Kurchu, Amir Butler, and GG. All of them knew this was going on, they supported each other when and where they could and threatened the cops around me.

I don't think I've ever seen a 5400 go for that little... usually they bring top dollar, even used. If you're looking to do AZ/EL on the cheap, you can mount two inexpensive TV rotors together. There have been several articles in QST and other magazines on building computer control interfaces for them. Those types of rotors can be bought new for under $50 each, and can handle smaller arrays just fine. You need to cover the elevation rotor to keep water out, as it was not designed to be mounted horizontally and is therefore not watertight in that orientation.

Now, if you have a LARGE array, you will definitely want to go with the 5400, 5500, or a hefty azimuth rotor and a screw-drive elevation system from an old satellite dish.

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1391 – April 8, 2004

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1391 with a release date of Friday, April 9th, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. It's ham radio versus BPL in upstate New York. Hear the racket for yourself on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1391 coming your way right now.

THE BPL FIFGHT: HAM RADIO VS. BPL IN PENN YAN N.Y.

If you have been wondering what Broadband over Powerline interference will do to your ability to communicate on the high frequency bands, here is a very graphic illustration. Take a listen:

--
Penn Yan NY Audio - BPL Noise
--

That recording of the 15 meter phone band was recently made by Dave Hallidy, K2DH, operating mobile in Penn Yan, New York and posted to the Rochester VHF Society website. It was made the weekend of the CQ WPXSSB Contest using a Yaesu FT-100D transceiver, a Tarheel Screwdriver antenna and recorded at a time when the band was loaded end to end with high power contest stations. And while you cold detect a few of them, the majority were covered up by the BPL grudge.

--
Penn Yan NY Audio With Signals Covered Up
--

In an Internet posting Mark Hoffman, K2AXX, who is Chairman of Rochester group described it as frightening to hear. He encourages all ham radio clubs and other organizations to contributed to the ARRL BPL Defense Fund as a way of fighting this threat to the ham radio bands. (K0BC, K2AXX, K2DH, QCWA)

THE BPL FIGHT: TIME TO GO TO COURT?

And Hoffman is not alone in his concern. Others on the Internet are circulating a more drastic approach. Some hams advocate taking the matter to court and try to have the interfering BPL providers charged with being a public nuisance or as a threat to our national security. (Various Internet Posts)

ENFORCEMENT: UTILITY WARNED TO CLEAN UP RFI

An electric utility has been told for a second time to locate and fix an interference problem to a ham radio operator. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6ZW, has more:

The FCC has sent a second letter to an energy provider warning it to clean up interference to a ham or face punitive action. The notice was sent directly to Wayne H. Brunetti who is Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer of Xcel Energy based I n Minneapolis, Minnesota.

In his letter the FCC tells Brunetti that the agency notified him back in December of 2003 that it has received complaints of harmful radio interference possibly caused by equipment operated by Xcel Energy. That this interference has been reported by a ham living in Wellington, Colorado and that Xcel had been given 60 days to let the FCC and the ham know what steps were being taken to resolve the problem.

The FCC says that while Xcel did comply with its directive to respond, but as of the date of the latest letter the harmful interference reported to its office still remains unresolved. So the FCC told Brunetti that the company had 30 days to let the regulatory agency know what action Xcel has taken, or intends to take, in order to identify and correct the source of these radio emissions if they are being caused by its equipment. If Xcel fails to comply it could face enforcement action.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, reporting.

As we go to air there is no word if Xcel's Burnetti has responded to the FCC. (FCC, RAIN)

THE BPL FIGHT: OPPOSITION GOES PUBLIC IN SOUTH AFRICA

BPL is also a big concern in South Africa and that nations national ham radio society has voiced its concern to the public about the introduction of Broadband over Powerline Communications in that nation. SARL -- the South African Radio League did this during the program "Technologic" which aired on Africa's D-S-T-V Business Channel.

Society president Graham Harlett, ZS6GJH, was interviewed at the National Amateur Radio Center. He said that the SARL is opposed to Power Line Communication because of its inherent interference to High Frequency radio communication. He noted that the interference is not limited only to frequencies used by Radio Amateurs. That it includes the military, civil emergency agencies and some broadcasting stations as well.

Harlett, says that extensive tests carried out in Europe, the USA and Japan has clearly shown this. A transmission line that carries power will become like an antenna at higher frequencies and render the high frequency spectrum unusable.

Harlett, who is a managing director of a South African consulting company voiced another concern as well. One that has not really been talked about in the United States. That of ingress to Broadband over Powerline systems from other radio spectrum users including hams. Harlett says that radio transmitters in close proximity to users of BPL are likely to cause interference to them because of the antenna effect of the long, unshielded powerlines.

Technologic was broadcast on Monday March 29th and has been repeated twice since its initial airdate. (Q-News)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: SOLVING HAM-SAT INTERFERENCE

Meantime, the subject of interference to ham radio satellite was one of the topics at the recent meeting of the IARU Region One VHF Managers held in Vienna. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, reports:

As a result of research performed by OZ1MY, it now been shown that QRM that is occurring to ham radio satellites. Its primarily but not exclusively to 145 MHz satellite uplinks and mainly occurs when the birds are flying over Africa and the Middle East.

According to AMSAT, IARU Region 1 has a Monitoring Service which has been active for some years but which has, up to now, concentrated on frequencies below 30 MHz. In view of the wide area of QRM that can be caused by satellites and their ability to relay signals across international borders, the monitoring team has now agreed to scrutinize the satellite subbands as well.

Right now, what is needed are regular reports detailing instances of interference to the ham-sats along with audio files to back up each claim. The audio files will enable more precise identification of accents and dialects of those heard interfering. Hopefully, this will be a first step in getting those causing the interference off the satellites and off the ham bands as well.

The IARU Region One Monitoring Service team is said to have good contacts which are used daily to remove intruders from the High Frequency bands. Hopefully they will be able to do the same on VHF and UHF as well. (AMSAT, Others)

CB NEWS: VK CB TELNET NODES ON THE AIR

Some interesting news about C-B -- Citizens Band radio -- down-under. Unlike the United States where C-B operation is hap-hazard with no structure, Australia has a CB Packet Radio System that rivals anything that ham radio has ever set up. And now, it is being linked over the Internet to C-B operations in other nations including many Europe. This is making it possible for Australian C-B'ers to connect with numerous other C-B stations throughout the world using radio and Telnet. Q-News Graham Kemp, VK4BB, has the nodes and the frequencies:

AUS002 Warren reports in Australia there are so far several CB Packet Radio Nodes and BBS's. These are AU4BNE Node 27.225 Usb Brisbane Q'ld, AUS011 BBS 27.225 Usb Brisbane, AU6PER Node 476.950 Fm Perth W.A and AU6BBS BBS 476.950 Fm Perth.

RADIO LAW: CABLE MAKES DECENCY OFFER

The cable television industry says that it will provide free equipment to allow subscribers to block unwanted channels. This in reaction to efforts on Capitol Hill to curb indecent programming.

Robert Sachs, president of the National Cable and Telecommunications Association, announced the plan at a recent gathering of cable industry executives. The offer is directed to about half the nation's 70.5 million cable subscribers who don't have cable boxes that can be programmed to block certain channels or programs.

The companies agreeing to the plan include the 10 largest in the country and reach 85 percent of all cable subscribers. (Published reports)

RADIO ON THE MOVE: WWVA MAY LEAVE WEST VA

Famed AM broadcast station WWVA in Wheeling, West Virginia may soon be heading to a new QTH. This, as Clear Channel Communications confirms that the company has filed an application with the FCC to move long-time 1170 KHz Wheeling radio station out of the state of West Virginia.

According to a report in the Wheeling News-Register, Clear Channel Communications Wheeling Vice President Scott Miller said the company has submitted an application to move the radio station to Stow, Ohio. This is a town located just north of Akron. Miller said it has not been determined whether WWVA will actually be leaving Wheeling, and noted that approval of such applications are extensive.

Broadcast pioneer John Stroebel brought WWVA on the air on December 13th, 1926 using home built 50 watt transmitter set up in the basement of his Wheeling home. By 1929 WWVA had increased power to 5000 watts and became one of the most listened to stations in the East. And, for many years before Clear Channel Communications bought it, WWVA held the honor of being one of the last clear channel coast to coast broadcasters left in the United States. It also helped to make the city of Wheeling famous, worldwide. (Listener reports confirmed by NRCDXAS)

HAMFESTS AND CONVENTIONS: VISALIA INTERNATIONAL DX CONVENTION

On the convention circuit, the 55th Annual International DX Convention sponsored this year by the Southern California DX Club will be held April 23 to the 25th. This is the worlds premiere gathering of hams interested in DX and DXing on any band from DC to light. A show that attracts attendees from Asia, Europe, Africa and Oceania as well as from across the United States.

Scheduled events include a contest forum, antenna forum, DX forum along with seminars for everyone from the newcomer to DXing to the seasoned pro. The top of the line manufacturers will be there on their own display midway where you can talk to the people who design and use the best of DX equipment made.

As in previous years, the venue is the Holiday Inn in the city of Visalia, California. For full details visit www.scdxc.org/visalia/ on the World Wide

Web. (SCDXC)

HAMVENTION 2004: AMSAT EVENTS

Two more special events timed to coincide with Hamvention 2004 to report this week. The Third Annual AMSAT "Pizza 'n' Suds" party will be held Thursday evening May 13th. Again this year the venue will be Marion's Pizza at 1320 North Fairfield Rd. The party will begin at 1830 and go until the last pizza is gone! Food will be ordered from the menu and drinks are available at the bar.

Also, the AMSAT Banquet will be held Friday evening at 1800. Location is the Amber Rose Restaurant at 1400 Valley St. in old north Dayton. As with past years the meal will be a buffet with a price of $25.00 per person. Reservations are required and the banquet is limited to 90 people maximum. Please contact Nancy Makley for reservations. Her e-mail is KC8GYW@amsat.org. (N8NUY)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: ECHO STILL NEEDS $48,000

Turning to ham radio in space, AMSAT reports that as of March 30th it has raised $61,988 of the $110,000 needed to launch the new Echo ham radio satellite. That leaves about $48,000 still needed before the current target launch date of this coming June 29th. Go to www.amsat.org to find out how to donate to this very worthy project. (AMSAT)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: PC-SAT 2 READY TO FLY

Also word that PCSAT 2 has passed its final outgassing tests putting it one step closer to launch. These outgassing tests are some of the most stringent in the space program. They are designed to protest crew members from fumes that might arise out of materials used to construct anything going into space.

Commercial manufacturers who spend millions of dollars to develop space safe materials might want to take a lesson from the hams. All the parts in PCSAT 2 are off-the-shelf ham radio items. The new bird uses Kantronics TNC's and Hamtronics transmitter and receiver boards that include all of the original plastic parts.

PCSAT 2 will go into orbit on the first shuttle when they return to flight next year. Additional information about the PCSAT 2 mission is available at http://www.ew.usna.edu/~bruninga/pcsat2.html (ANS, WB4APR)

THAT FINAL ITEM: HAM RADIO AND THE AMBER ALERTS REVISITED

And finally, an update to our story two weeks ago about AMBER Alerts. We mentioned that for the most part ham radio seemed to have little interest in this important public notification system designed to help find the victims of kidnappings. Now we learn of at least one Amateur Radio club that's at work preparing to handle AMBER Alerts. It's located in Eastern Pennsylvania where our own Amateur Radio Newsline's Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, is based:

Mel Salzman, W-3-M-E-L is the force behind the Dauberville DX Association in Reading, Pennsylvania, getting connected to the AMBER Alert system.

Salzman, Dauberville's president, says he first became interested in AMBER Alert about a year ago and began searching the Internet for information. The system enables law enforcement to issue bulletins to the public about missing or abducted children.

In some states, messages are transmitted by commercial radio stations similar to an Emergency Broadcast System message. AMBER Alert also relies on highway message boards and cable-television systems to get out information.

Its goal: To enlist thousands of pairs of eyes - whether they be motorists or truckers or neighborhood and community residents - to be on the lookout for the kidnapper of a child.

Salzman says he convinced the Dauberville group to put up a "ticker" or scrolling message on the club's website - D-D-X-A dot o-r-g, to display AMBER Alert information.

Salzman also says he has his home computer hooked up to receive instant AMBER Alert notifications, paying particular attention to Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland.

Salzman says his next step in connecting the Amateur Radio service to this effort was getting clearance from the club and the blessing of the FCC to transmit AMBER Alert information as a Q-S-T over the Dauberville group's repeaters.
"We have three repeaters," Salzman explains. "We can link all three repeaters if necessary and actually read the description, license plate number, whose been taken, what the guy looks like, whatever information comes through on my e-mail. That's what I'll put out on the air."

Salzman says the instructions are clear to any ham operator receiving the information and making a possible sighting.

"Call your local police, call 9-1-1 and give them the information," Salzman says. "If you happen to see that car or whatever description is out there, the car, what the driver looks like, call the police immediately."

Salzman says the Dauberville club has a modest, active membership, but many others in the region as well as those passing through the area use its repeaters and are supportive.

"We do have an active membership of, I would say, 20-25, and then people that they talk to," Salzman says. "You know how that could just snowballs. Like I said, the more people hear it, the more people are going to be looking, too."

Salzman says he hasn't publicized the Dauberville club's involvement with AMBER Alert. But Salzman says he's now preparing to reach out to other local clubs in the region as well as the Berks County ARES/RACES unit.

Salzman says he's also working to contact local law enforcement officials in greater Reading area to let them know ham operators are prepared to help by relaying AMBER Alert information.

So far, he says, the AMBER Alert system hasn't been activated much in this region. Salzman says that's a good thing. But, he says, the hams are ready if needed. Salzman says February's abduction and murder of 11-year-old Carlie Brucia in Sarasota, Florida affected him and others. Auto mechanic Joseph Smith is awaiting trial in connection with her death.

"I'd just like to really see this get going because it is extremely important. It just tears your heart out when you see these kids being abducted, especially with Carlie (Brucia), like when you find them and they're gone already. So, the more people involved, the better the results are going to be."

AMBER Alert was created seven years ago in memory of Amber Hagerman of Arlington, Texas. The 9-year-old was kidnapped while riding her bicycle near her home and later found murdered.

If you want to know more about how you can involve the Amateur Radio service in your area in America's Missing: Broadcast Emergency Response - what AMBER stands for - take your web browser to www.missingkids.com. Then click on the words AMBER Plan. Getting a ham-radio assisted AMBER Alert plan started in your town could eventually save a child's life. (ARNewsline(tm))

Hi all,

I emailed Pierre at Rmob last month to point out that his Colourgramme Online page was providing corrupted images from my data. All that happened was that the facility was taken off line - no reply, explanation or anything. I've emailed again recently and again had no reply. Has anyone got contact with him to find out the situation?

I can't believe anyone would vote for a flaming idiot like Nader, especially when his supporters post this junk to a group that has nothing to do with politics. If you're this stupid, then Nader does not deserve anyone's vote.

Look, Nader has a snoball's chance in Hell of being Elected.

We are at War in Iraq =because=, although Nader didn't have a snowball's chance in Hell of being Elected in 2000, he ran anyway, tipping the balance of the vote to Bush [with some 'help' from 'political' shenannigans in Florida], and, despite the fact that Gore won the popular vote.

Every U. S. Soldier who has Died, or been Wounded, in Iraq, and all of the Devastation that's occurred amongst Soldier's Families, Friends, and, in the case of National Guard Units, Employers and their Companies, and the Devastation of Iraq and its Citizenry, including Deaths in the tens of thousands, has occurred because, although Nader didn't have a snoball's chance in Hell of being elected in 2000, he ran anyway.

The man is a reckless opportunist, that cares =nothing= about America or Her Citizenry.

Anyone who supports his 'candidacy' is throwing away their Vote, and 'only' working to assure that there'll be more Idiotic War, Destruction, Death, Devastation.

And the man 'thinks' that he's doing anything Good?

If he 'thinks' he can do anything other than help Bush remain in office, he's Certifiably out of touch with Reality, and so is anyone who Votes for him.

I don't think Nader supporters posted that. The lower half of the message is totally different. I don't recommend voting for Nader, but I think this is a dirty tactic by some Kerry supporters, probably without any knowledge on the senator's part.

And the little general 'Ross Perot' brought us the devastation of the Klinton years.

So what......

'Peace dividend' = World Trade center

"Rock the vote", brought to you by the party gave you the V-chip, Music ratings and other censorship.

The Democratic party is a bunch of corrupt, power hungry dictators.

A) The only "shenanigans" in Florida were the repeated attempts by the Gore camp to have recount after recount until they got the result they wanted. The Supreme Court CORRECTLY ruled that this was illegal. Gore LOST. GET OVER IT ALREADY!

B) Our presidential elections are not based on popular vote: who CARES whether Gore "won" that? It's IRRELEVANT. He LOST the electoral vote, and that's all that counts. It's certainly not the first time it's happened (although it IS the first time that supporters of the loser were still complaining 4 years after the fact...)

C) We are in Iraq, as most experts now agree, because the US was the victim of a carefully orchestrated scheme by Ahmad Chalabi to oust Saddam Hussein and position himself to take power in Iraq, by feeding US intelligence debriefers false information about WMD through Iraqi army defectors, scientists, and other "credible" sources who backed each other up.

Now, can we please get back to SPACE discussions?

Any idea when the 'Colorgramme On Line' will be fixed? I just get a 404 error message when trying to use it.

How do I submit results to this? - I have them going back to Jan 2004.

He was correct on one thing , the big sucking sound was the jobs leaving this country. Well all but one sucking sound anyway.
He had my vote.

I did vote for the independant party in the last election as neither the Dems or Repubs have done anything that seems to have made any differance for the good of this country in the last 15 years.

It seems that way - yet there are new results being posted so Yeah, he had my vote too. But what a mistake. Bush was right, the economy was rebounding, and Klinton rode it and destroyed it, along with allot more.

I do not like this "Homeland Security" crap, but shutter to think what ALGORE would have done (Police State anyone).

I now vote "lesser of two evils". Democrats lose that one hands down....

Later.

A Sad Letter (read the whole thing)

Dear DNC and Candidates:

Thank you for giving me the opportunity to speak my mind. I lost my job this past year.

When Clinton was president, I ran a prosperous enterprise. But in the last year, we had to close our operations.

Far worse, I lost two of my sons in Bush's evil war in Iraq. They gave their lives for their country, and for what? My pain of losing my sons is indescribable. While it is trivial next to the loss of my sons, regret to say that I also lost my homes. I simply have nothing left.

I am a senior citizen with various medical problems. I'm not in a position where I can begin a new career. I was reduced to the point where I was homeless, all because of President Bush.

And when the authorities found me, did they have any compassion for my misfortune and ailments? No, I was arrested. If I had any money left, I would donate it to the Democratic party. If Al Gore had been elected in 2000, I guarantee you, I would still have a job, a home, and most importantly, my sons!

Regards,

Saddam Hussein

Hi,

What you say ? Not radio ? This is a clich&#65533; one year old at least !
Have you ever try to work it using a linked node, a VHF RTX working in the field linked by S.W. or even using a repeater ?
Surely not to say such aberrations !

You should read this : http://www.astrosurf.com/lombry/echolink.htm

March your way into the weekend!

Join Nader supporters in DC, April 24-25, as they rally for justice and equal rights

Washington, DC:

Saturday, April 24th, IMF/World Bank Protest - meet at 11am, 15th & H St, NW.

Sunday, April 25th, March for Women's Lives - meet at 9:30am, Smithsonian Metro Stop.

If you arrive late, ask a volunteer to point you towards the Ralph Nader group.

See you there!

Nader: Oil the Source of Two of Earth's Major Problems:
Wars for Oil and Climate Change

Protect the Environment and the People of Our Planet by Ending Our Addiction to Oil

Washington, DC: On Earth Day 2004, Independent presidential candidate Ralph Nader highlighted as two priorities: ending the Iraqi occupation and facing up to the immediate crisis of global climate change. "Future geopolitical crises involving oil resources and environmental problems will be diminished by finding alternatives to fossil fuels," said Nader.

Nader linked the two issues on Earth Day because he sees them as symptomatic of the corporate oil-based, planet destructive behavior of the Bush Administration. Nader has called for the United States to withdraw from Iraq - including military, private military contractors, oil industry and other corporations. Nader noted: "The war in Iraq is unleashing widening cycles of violence. The potential for escalation of violence increases every day the US military remains in Iraq. The way to reverse the spiral of violence is for the United States to go back home.
The US presence serves as a magnet for the insurrection, kidnapping, terrorism and destruction." Nader released a three-step strategy for withdrawal earlier this week. See www.votenader.org for details.

Amateur Radio Newslineï¿½ Report 1393 ï¿½ April 23, 2004

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1393 with a release date of Friday, April 23rd, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T.

The FCC says its time to look at rebuilding ham radio and a big win

RESTRUCTURING: FCC HOUSECLEANING AND THE BEGINNING OF ROUND TWO

The FCC says its time to begin restructuring the Amateur Service for the 21st century and it has handed the nations ham radio community a 71 page start. Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, has looked it over and has the rest of the story:

Actually, you might call this a bit of housecleaning because the bulk of the FCC's proposal stems from a number of petitions that have been sitting on desks and in drawers at the regulatory agency for months;
some up to three years.

And, we should say up-front that this Notice of Proposed Rulemaking is separate from the latest license restructuring proposal put out for comment by the FCC a few weeks ago.

CQ Magazine Editor Rich Moseson W2VU, is focusing on this new FCC proposal in his "Zero Bias" editorial column for the magazine's June issue.

He tells me the centerpiece is what's known as the American Radio Relay League's "Novice Refarming" petition.

"A couple of years ago, the League filed a petition with the FCC saying: 'You're not issuing new Novice licenses anymore and that these band segments are not being well used. Let's expand the phone bands using some of these frequencies,' " Moseson explains.

Basically, Moseson says, the plan would expand code and data privileges for Novices and Technicians.

"And what they propose, basically, is giving Novices and Technicians with code credit access to the General CW portion of each of these three bands - 80, 40 and 15 and 10 meters as well. But CW only for them on 80, 40 and 15 and RTTY and Data on 10 meters. And then to take part of each of those Novice bands on 80, 40, and 15 and use them to expand the phone bands."

And, Moseson says there are also some big changes proposed for General, Advanced and Extra-class license holders.

"The big winners here are going to be General class hams," Moseson says. "They are going to get an extra 50 khz of phone band on 75 meters and on 40 meters and an extra 25 khz on 15 meters. Advanced and Extra class hams will also get additional space, 25 khz each on 75 and 40.

"But they're going to lose some of the exclusive areas that they have now. The exclusive Advanced class bands are going to be shrunk down by 25 khz or so.

"Of course, since there are no new Advanced class licenses being issued and since a lot of people have upgraded to General since the code-speed requirement was dropped to 5-words-a-minute, this may, indeed, be the right thing to do."

Again, Moseson stresses, this doesn't address the A-R-R-L's proposal to revive a Novice class license that would be a "no-code" ticket with HF privileges. And, he says, it has nothing to do with the raft of petitions on file at the commission to change the code requirements or add an entry level class by some other name.

Another big change in the FCC document centers on a proposal to legalize the sale and use of amplifiers for frequencies in the range of 24 to 35 Mhz.

Moseson says back in the mid-1970s, when Citizen Band radio operators were at the heart of interference complaints due to excessive use of power, the FCC banned the manufacture and sale of the amps that could be used on a wide scale that included 27 Mhz.

Well, Moseson says, that decision hurt the ham community then and causes unnecessary restrictions now.

"It hasn't really had any impact on CB because those people who want to have illegal amplifiers have had no problem continuing to get them," Moseson says. "And the hams who want to abide by the rules have not been able to use the power that's permitted to them on 12 meters and 10 meters.

"So the commission is proposing to do away with those restrictions and once again allow commercial manufacturers to make amplifiers that will amplify on 12 meters and 10 meters and to let you build as many as you want."

And finally, among the major elements, one allowing remote-control access to an HF transceiver using the 2-meter band. It would essentially legalize Kenwood's "Sky Command" system.

"They are now proposing to allow auxiliary operation on 2 meters considering the fact that the loading of the band in terms of actual use of repeaters etcetera is considerably less that it was 5 to 10 years ago," Moseson says.

"So it's not as likely to create interference problems and it's something that could become very important with the advent of things like BPL and more and more antenna restrictions that people may want to have an HF transceiver in a remote location that they cannot operate from home for whatever reason either the environment is poor for it or it is restricted and that they can use their VHF/UHF handheld or mobile rig to communicate back and forth with that remote transceiver."

Moseson says you can find more on-line at the FCC's website. He says copies of the June CQ with more of an explanation will be available at Dayton and in your mailbox or on newstands by mid-May.

ENFORCEMENT: SELL THOSE AMPS AND MAYBE GO TO JAIL

While the FCC says that it may eventually change the rules regarding the current prohibition on the sale of R-F power amplifiers capable of 10 and 12 meter operation, as of today they are still illegal. Anything marketed must be FCC certified and the agency has told a Texas businessman that he could go to jail if he does not stop selling some that are not. The FCC's Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, explains:

Duckworth: "A warning notice went to Donald Hewitt, of Tomball, Texas. It stated that continued sale of non certified equipment would submit him to fine or imprisonment.

This case dates back to the Dayton Hamvention in 1999 involving the sale of WM-300 and WM-600 power amplifiers. We note that at his website these units are again for sale and that he has presented them for sale in the parking lot of the Houston Amateur Radio Supply and at the Smithville, Texas, hamfest this year."

By way of background, Hewitt was issued an Official Notice of Violation of violation of Section 2.815 of the Commission's rules regarding manufacturing and marketing external radio frequency power amplifiers that operated below 144 Mhz. This, after he showed them at the 1999 Dayton Hamvention. He subsequently agreed to stop and the matter was dropped until it was brought to the FCC's attention that he again had them for sale. Now the FCC says that Hewitt had better cease offering the units or he could face time behind prison bars. (FCC, RAIN)

THE BPL FIGHT: NC POWER COMPANY SAYS ITS LICKED INTERFERENCE

I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, with late word on the B-P-L front where a North Carolina power company says that its licked the interference problem. Well almost.

In a letter to the FCC, Progress Energy claims it has solved almost all of the problems to the ham bands created by its test installation near the city of Raleigh. The company says that what remains is interference near the band edges that only affects mobile operators. It also says its still working to resolve this aspect.

Are the hams in the area satisfied? We will find out next week in a special in-depth report by Gay Pearce, KN4AQ. (ARNewsline(tm), KN4AQ)

RADIO RULES: A WIN FOR RFID IN THE 70 CM BAND

The FCC has adopted a somewhat limited proposal to permit deployment of RF Identification or R-F-I-D tags on the 70-cm band. This, at much greater duty cycles than current Part 15 rules permit for such devices.

According to an ARRL bulletin, the Third Report and Order in ET Docket 01-278 which was approved April 15th follows a 2000 petition by SAVI Technology. This, to revise FCC Part 15 rules to accommodate such devices in the band from 433.5 to 434.5 Mhz, instead of the 425 to 435 Mhz SAVI originally asked for. It also prohibits operation of RFID tag systems within about 25 miles of five government radar sites and manufacturers of 433 Mhz R-F I-D systems would have to register the locations of their system base stations to aid in interference resolution.

The ARRL had opposed these changes but the FCC has gone along with it based mainly on national security reasons. Ed Thomas who is the Chief of the FCC's Office of Engineering and Technology said that these devices are designed to increase homeland security at ports, rail yards and warehouses. (ARRL)

RADIO LAW: FCC EXPLORES RULES FOR DIGITAL AUDIO BROADCASTING

The Federal Communications Commission has taken another step toward bringing digital radio services or D-A-B to American consumers. This, as it releases a Further Notice of Proposed Rule Making and companion Notice of Inquiry into changing the rules as part of the broader digital migration that is underway across all media.

Docket No. 99-325 released April 15th and its companion N-O-I seek comments on several topics relevant to D-A-B, including what changes and amendments to the FCC's technical rules are necessary to further its introduction. Specifically, sought are comments on proposals to allow AM nighttime digital service. The FCC also asks questions concerning digital's affect on FM translators. Questions regarding interference are also raised for comment.

Looking at the business side of radio, the FCC wants to know what types of digital services the it should permit stations to offer. Should a broadcaster be allowed to offer a high definition service, a multiplexed service, a datacasting service, or a combination of all of these possibilities? Comment is also sought on whether a radio station should be permitted to offer subscription services.

Comments on Docket No. 99-325 are due by June 16th and reply comments must be dated no later than July 16th. The FCC says that Digital audio broadcasting technology offers the possibility for enhanced sound quality, improved reception, and will offer the public new services such as datacasting along with music and news. ENFORCEMENT: IGNORING THE FCC BRINGS $11,000 N-A-L

A Southern California ham who repeatedly ignored FCC warnings has now been told that he owes the government $11,000. Newsline's David Black, KB4KCH is here with more:

The FCC slaps Daniel Granda, KA6VHC, with an 11-thousand dollar fine for what it says is willful and repeated interference. The Commission says it sent a warning notice by certified and regular mail to Granda in December, 2002 ... but the notice was later returned as unclaimed. The Commission says the letter it sent via regular mail was not returned.

Twice during January, 2003, the Commission sent follow-up warning notices, again, using certified and regular mail. Each of those times, the FCC says the certified mail was returned as unclaimed, while the notice sent by regular mail was not returned.

The fine goes back to a series of events beginning in November, 2002. That's when the Commission says it received a complaint that Granda was causing deliberate interference to two southern California repeaters. But the Commission and Granda had many more encounters. On March 6th, 2003, an FCC agent determined that Granda was retransmitting communications from 223-point-275 MHz onto the input of a repeater operating on 223-point-840 MHz. Just over two weeks later, authorities again caught Granda's station interfering with the same repeater.

The Commission's complaint cites more than half a dozen encounters with Granda. At times, investigators said Granda's station was transmitting signals from various 2 meter frequencies on to the 220 MHz repeater's input channel. In one incident agents using mobile direction finding techniques identified Granda's home as the source of an unidentified unmodulated carrier.

On April 15, 2003, the FCC says agents inspected Granda's equipment at his home in Whittier. The Commission says Granda orally admitted that he received several warning notices from the FCC. Investigators say Granda stated he was trying to prevent anyone from using quote--his--frequency by retransmitting other signals to keep the channel occupied.

Granda's ham license could be in jeopardy. That's because he's in trouble not just for alleged interference, but also for not responding to the FCC. The Commission notes that on three separate occasions, it sent notices to Granda, requiring responses, and that all three times, he failed to answer. That could set the way for the FCC to eventually order Granda to show cause why he shouldn't lose his amateur radio license.

From the Southeastern Bureau in Birmingham Alabama, I'm David Black, KB4KCH.

Granda was given the normal 30 days to pay the fine or to file an appeal. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: TO MANY CALL CHANGES

The FCC wants to know why a Maryland ham keeps changing his call sign. Again, the agency's Daryl Duckworth, NN0W:

Duckworth: "Fredrick Davis, N3BO, of Emmetsburg Maryland has been asked about changing his call twelve times in nine different combinations nince November of 1999. In as much as each time a call sign is relinquished it is unavailable to anyone else for two years, these applications raise questions about apparent abuse of the licensing system."

--

The FCC gave Davis the usual time to respond and he was not alone. A similar notice went out to Thomas Eifert of Greendale, Wisconsin, concerning his switching between NI7V and N9IX. Also hearing from the FCC was William Mc Doniel of Garden Grove, California, was told to explain the six applications he has filed applications involving call sign switches between N6BM and N4EA. (FCC, RAIN)

ENFORCEMENT: CHICAGO DJ SUES LISTENER OVER COMPLAINTS

The Chicago Sun-Times reports a new twist to the indecent language war that's pitting air talent against the FCC, and now, against listeners as well. According to the paper, WKQX morning host Mancow Muller is suing David Edward Smith for complaining about him to the regulatory agency.

According to Muller's complaint, Smith has filed numerous complaints against the jock. This has resulted in $42,000 worth of files being issued by the FCC.

Muller's $3 million lawsuit charges Smith and the watch-dog group Citizens for Community Values with business interference and filing "spurious complaints" that are "repetitive, malicious, untrue and designed merely for the purpose of harassment."

So far, Smith has filed 66 complaints against Muller. If he should win his suit, Muller says that any profit will be donated to the Boy Scouts of America and various other charities. (Published news reports)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: HIGH SPEED INTERNET ACCESS GROWING

Two in five Internet users in the United States now have high-speed Internet access at home. This, as telephone companies slash prices to better compete with cable broadband services, a study says.

A report by the Pew Internet and American Life Project says that most of the growth has been since November from D-S-L phone connections. They now make up 42 percent of the entire home broadband market. That's up from 28 percent in March 2003.

Cable modems still have the lead. Their market share is 54 percent, but they no longer enjoy a 2-to-1 edge.

Although dial-up remains a lot less expensive than high speed access, John Horrigan, Pew's senior research specialist, said Americans are increasingly making a time is money" calculation. If they are spending more time online, they find savings from high-speed connections even if they must pay a little more.

According to the study, 36 percent of home broadband users said they switched because their dial-up connection was too slow or frustrating. Twenty-one percent said they wanted to download files faster, and 10 percent needed it for job-related tasks.

Pew places the adult residential broadband population at 48 million, or one-quarter of all adult Americans. Among college educated adults age 35 and younger, broadband penetration has now reached 52 percent. (Press release)

HAMVENTION 2004: AWARDS WITH PRIZES ON SUNDAY

The planners of the 2004 Dayton Hamvention say that they have a unique new way to present this years Hamvention awards. This, as part of an expanded prize drawing on Sunday afternoon, May 16th.

As in years past, at the close of business hours on Sunday attendees will be directed to the 7000 seats in the grandstands in the main arena for the drawing of the remaining hourly prizes and the big grand prizes. But before the first numbers get pulled the crowd will get a chance to meet the three Hamvention award winners, find out why they were chosen and get to be a part of this very special award presentation ceremony.

As previously reported, this years winners are Barry Sanderson, KB9VAK, whose getting the "Technical Excellence Award," George Wilson, W4OYI, who is the "Special Achievement Award" winner and David Kopacz, KY1V, named as "Radio Amateur of the Year." They will be joined by the President of the Dayton Amateur Radio Association and members of the Hamvention planning committee to make this a special afternoon for the winners and everyone else on hand. (Hamvention(r))

NEW PUBLICATIONS: HAM RADIO FOR DUMMIES

We've all seen those great yellow covered books that have been introducing the public to the world of computers for close to two decades. Books like DOS For Dummies, Windows For Dummies, Excel For Dummies and the rest. And how often have you wished out loud for a book titled Ham Radio For Dummies. You know. A book that you could hand to the next guy who confuses your 70 foot tower and Tri-Bander with a C-B set to talk to Smokey and the Bandit.

Well now you can, but you may want to read it first because author Ward Silver, N0ZAX, has come up with what may well be the best explanation of the hobby ever written:

Silver: "I get a lot of people who come up and say -- `hey I bet you get goof TV reception' -- or that sort of thing. So I go into my 5 minute spiel about what ham radio is. And at some point you can sense that they are kind of glazing over a little bit.

But the familiar yellow and black cover and the brand helps to take the mystique out of buying the book. It makes something that they are familiar with so that they are comfortable in giving it a try."

the experts expert: Joe Moell, KO0V:

Last time I told you about foxhunting -- that's tracking radio transmitters for sport with direction-finding equipment -- and the upcoming USA Championships of foxhunting, which will take place in southern California beginning June 16. Perhaps you would like to attend, but you want to get some practice first. And wouldn't it be great if there were more foxhunting activity in your home town? Well, that's why you should get your local ham club involved in this fantastic form of radio competition, and the National Foxhunting Weekend is the time to do it.

CQ Magazine sponsors the National Foxhunting Weekend each spring. The seventh annual event will be May 8 and 9, 2004. The rules are very loose. Actually, there really aren't any rules, just the suggestion that your club hold some kind of foxhunt on that weekend, or close to it. An on-foot event in the park, perhaps with a barbecue at the end, would be great fun for families. Or you could hold a more traditional kind of hunt, with the competitors in their cars and the hider in an unlikely spot, miles away. Scoring on a mobile hunt can be by time -- who finds it first -- or by least odometer mileage, making it more like a road rallye.

If your club isn't already planning a National Foxhunting Weekend hunt, it's up to YOU to start the fun. Get some ideas by reading the tales of last years hunts in the April issue of CQ Magazine. Report forms and more information can be found at my Web site, www.homingin.com. That's HomingIn, as one word, homingin.com. See you on the hunt! From southern California, this is Joe Moell Kay-Zero-Oscar-Victor for Amateur Radio Newsline.

Radio Fox Hunts are a lot of fun and many of the Newsline staffers around the world enjoy taking part in them.

Thx for reading. I need the software/drivers for the Kansas City Tracker board. Not online that I can find, not at amsat and llgrace.com is a dead link. There are drivers for modified boards and the like, but not the original .drv
Hope that someone with the software will find it in his heart to help!
I've been staring at this board (and the corrupt disk) for a long time
:-(
Thanks!

Amateur Radio Newsline(tm) Report 1394 - April 30, 2004

A Very Important Note: We urge all readers of this report to also download the audio version of this report at http://www.arnewsline.org/quincy and listen to it. Please pat special attention to the words of ARRL President Jim Haynie, W5JBP, and the urgency in his voice as he discusses the latest developments in the fight to keep Broadband Over Powerline technology from encroaching into the Amateur Service bands. There is no way to express in print the very grave nature of this situation. Only by listening for yourself can you truly understand the extreme gravity of the circumstances that our service faces if BPL is introduced nationwide.

The ARNewsline Production Team

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1394 with a release date of Friday, April 30th, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T.

The ARRL takes on the White House over BPL, a power provider says BPL interference to mobile operations has to be tolerated and a ham radio name change. Its called the Dayton Hamvention once again. Find out the details on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1394 coming your way right now.

THE BPL FIGHT: PRES BUSH VS. PRES HAYNIE AND THE ARRL

The ARRL and its president has expressed what they call deep concerns about a speach by United States President George Bush. One where where the leader of the free world says that standards need to be changed to encourage the delivery of Internet access using Broadband Over Poweline technology. Amateur Radio Newsline's Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, is here with more:

In the boldest and most dramatic move yet in the BPL debate, the ARRL's president Jim Haynie W5JBP, directly appealed to President Bush to abandon his support for BPL technology.

Haynie says Bush's speech last week during the American Association of Community Colleges convention in Minneapolis prompted him to action. In that speech, President Bush stated directly:

"...power lines can be used for broadband technology. So the technical standards need to be changed to encourage that."

"I faxed a letter to the White House cause I wanted to make sure they got it and we followed it up again with the regular U.S. Mail," Haynie says. "And, it'll be curious to see what kind of reaction that we get. I think, like I said, it's ill-advised.

"It's so much hype that the broadband industry has been putting out and I'm sorry to say it looks like the president has been suckered into it a little bit."

Haynie says amateur radio has reached a defining moment in its history and he is issuing a call to arms.

"This is the time that amateur radio is going to have to pull together and speak with one big voice," Haynie says. "And, on our website, we put the contact information and I want everybody to go there and look at it (www.arrl.org) and you can write the president, you can write your congressman, you can write your senators you can call 'em.

"Anything like that is helpful because amateur radio has been around for a lot of years and I'd hate to see it end based on a technology like this that any engineer worth their salt would be able to say, 'Well, this sounds fun but it's just not going to work.' "

Haynie says he wasn't blind-sided by President Bush's remarks, but has questions about his fellow Texan's true understanding of the issue.

"If you go back and read his speech he made in New Mexico, I think it was Albuquerque, he alluded to broadband then just as a general term," Haynie says. "Since that time, the actual term broadband over power line has come into his speech and I know he doesn't write his own speeches, other people do."

Haynie says its likely Bush administration advisers believe BPL is an issue that may have some mileage.

"This is an election year and anything that would seemingly stimulate the economy and create jobs is going to be a real political football and this has just got caught up in it," Haynie says.

Haynie says he is now working with the ARRL's Washington staff to arrange a personal meeting with President Bush to lay out the issue for him. And Haynie says he's hopeful that if Bush sees the damaging effect BPL has on radio spectrum - occupied not by just amateur radio - but police, fire, and government services - he may reconsider.

Haynie says he'll also go in with the findings of the National Telecommunications and Information Agency - the president's own advisory arm on radio frequency spectrum management - to make his case.

"When you get into the actual and engineering report, there's some good stuff there," Haynie says. "And I'm glad to see it. I'm also glad to see that they corroborated a lot of stuff that we said in our data.

"And, it gives us more credibility because NTIA has quoted ARRL in there a number of times in this report. But some of their measurements were even more - for lack of a better word - devastating to the industry than ours. They're talking as much as 200 meters. That's a long way!"
Haynie says BPL threatens the future of amateur radio as we know it and it's time to step up and be counted:

"I've been a ham for 32 years, 33 years or something like that and this is the worst, most difficult situation I've ever seen amateur radio in," Haynie says. "And I think whether you're interested in licensing restructuring or you're interested in somebody not identifying every 10 minutes on 75 meters or whatever the case, that all pales. It is insignificant to this particular issue.

"So we need to set all these differences aside in the amateur radio community and come together. This is the time."

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia.

--

Since before the first test installations went into operation, the ARRL has been warning the public about the potential for massive radio disruption to vital radio communications that BPL has the potential to cause. More information is on line daily at the ARRL website at http://www.arrl.org (ARNewsline(tm))

THE BPL FIGHT: NTIA RELEASES ITS BPL IMPACT REPORT

The National Telecommunications and Information Administration has issued its long-awaited report on the interference potential of Broadband over Power Lines. Despite a generally-glowing news release, the report itself identifies significant interference risks from BPL and concludes that the methods currently used for measuring BPL noise levels are inadequate and that more study is needed on such areas as ionospheric propagation of BPL signals.

The full report may be downloaded, either in full or chapter by chapter,from the NTIA website at http://www.ntia.doc.gov/new.html (CQ)

POWER PROBLEMS: INVESTIGATION INTO BLACKOUT FAULTS ENERGY COMPANIES

Power companies may be interested in reeping huge profits by selling high speed Internet access using BPL technology, but a report says that they disregarded voluntary rules that were intended to ensure the flow of electricity. This is what opened the way for last summer's blackout in eight states and Canada, the report says.

The investigators who prepared the report say that there was a clear understanding long before the blackout last August that the Ohio region was highly vulnerable to power distribution grid instability. Ohio is where the problem began.

The report continues that had the situation been properly addressed, the cascading blackout that sped across states from Michigan to New York and into Canada probably would have been averted. In fact, investigators said that something as simple as shutting off 200 megawatts of power an hour prior to the blackout might have kept the problem from spreading.

This is the final report by investigators who looked into the cause of last summers electrical breakdown. They are urging Congress to impliment strict government standards to ward off future outages. (Published reports)

THE BPL FIGHT: NC POWER COMPANY MAKE INTERFERENCE CLAIMS

Meantime, a North Carolina power company says that the interference coming from its BPL system is not harmful to ham radio operations. As reported last week, Progress Energy claims it has solved almost all of the problems to the Amateur bands created by its test installation near the city of Raleigh. But local hams have a different view. Newsline's Gary Pearce, KN4AQ, takes an in-depth look at the claims being made by Progress Energy and what the ham radio community has to say:

The FCC has received its first reply from a BPL system operator to a complaint about BPL interference. Progress Energy, which operates three BPL trials near Raleigh, North Carolina, says that they are in full compliance with Part 15. Their letter attempts to set a mark for "harmful interference" to home stations, and makes a claim that BPL doesn't cause harmful interference to mobiles because they drive by so quickly.

When the Progress Energy trial began in January, Amperion, the equipment vendor, set the hardware up with signals on the overhead lines that covered the 10 and 12 meter ham bands, and most of the spectrum in between. The signals appear as a series of carriers, 1.1 kHz apart, covering 6 MHz of spectrum for each 2000 feet of power line.

Hams complained to the FCC, and Amperion moved the spectrum used. They attempted to operate in spectrum between the 20 and 15-meter bands, with a notch blocking BPL signals across the 17-meter band. They missed the mark a little, with BPL signals starting at 14.3 MHz, 50 kHz inside the 20-meter band. And while the notch at 17 meters did reduce the signal strength, the BPL carriers were still audible, and might be heard by home stations for a block or two, if there were any hams living in the trial area_ but there are no hams living there.

In addition, the BPL signals don't end with a "brick wall" filter at the edge of their spectrum block. They trail off slowly. And those "fringe" signals were still falling inside several ham bands, again expected to be audible to a ham within a block or two of the power line.

After giving Amperion time to correct the apparent errors, hams complained again to the FCC. The result was a meeting between Raleigh hams and a Progress Energy engineer in the trial area on April 6th to review the complaint and the spectrum used. Bill Godwin, the Progress Energy engineer, had arranged to be able to talk to an Amperion technician to make adjustments to the spectrum used in real time - but, the technician was a no-show on the telephone.

On April 13th, hams checked the spectrum used again, and still no changes had been made.

On April 20th, Len Anthony, Regulatory Affairs attorney for Progress Energy, sent e-mail to the James Burtle, Chief of the FCC's Experimental Licensing Division, claiming that after moving the BPL signals off the ham bands, their system "is not causing any harmful interference and is in full compliance with the FCC's Part 15 rules."

Referring to the April 6th observation with Bill Godwin, Anthony says, "These tests revealed a small level of interference at the fringes of certain frequencies. Since that time, further modifications have been made to address this fringe interference. It is Progress Energy's position and interpretation of the FCC's rules with regard to `harmful interference' that any interference that may still exist is not `harmful' as that term is defined by the FCC's rules. This level of interference does not seriously degrade ham radio operation or transmissions or cause repeated interruptions. Importantly" he continues, "since Progress Energy can make modifications to completely eliminate any interference with fixed ham operators, the only impact of any kind upon ham operations is upon mobile operators."

As for mobiles, Anthony continues, "Given that any interference experienced by a mobile operator only occurs within close proximity to the BPL facilities, such interference would be very short lived. Thus, Progress Energy is not causing any harmful interference and is in full compliance with the FCC's Part 15 rules."

An observation of the trial area on April 21st, the day after the e-mail was sent to the FCC, revealed that there had been no changes to the spectrum used. The overhead line was still emitting a full-strength signal on the top 50 kHz of the 20 meter band; signals were still audible in the notch at 17 meters, and the "fringe" carriers were still encroaching on the bottom 50 kHz or so of the 15 meter band.

This is the first claim by a BPL operator that weak BPL signals do not create "harmful" interference by the FCC's definition, interference that "seriously degrades, obstructs or repeatedly interrupts a radiocommunication service." Ham operators, of course, routinely tune through quiet spectrum looking for weak signals, and a series of carriers one kHz apart covering the band might be considered to seriously degrade, obstruct or repeatedly interrupt that activity.

And a mobile driving 35 miles per hour along a BPL-carrying power line can be in the interference zone for a minute or more - and much longer in stop-and-go traffic, waiting at signal lights, or stopping in a driveway or parking lot.

Frank Lynch W4FAL, an ARRL Technical Specialist for North Carolina who has been concentrating on the Progress Energy BPL trial, says that he will be filing another complaint with the FCC, responding to the Progress Energy e-mail. He also says that hams are not opposed to BPL per se, just the interference it causes. And he notes that it should be easy to clear up interference in a small trial area. It's BPL signals buzzing around every power line in town that have him worried.

Reporting for Newsline, this is Gary Pearce KN4AQ in Raleigh, North Carolina.

Once the new interference complaint is filed it will be up to the FCC to investigate it and to take whatever action it deems necessary. (ARNewsline(tm), KN4AQ)

RADIO LAW: PETITION TO PROHIBIT BUSINESS COMMUNICATIONS ON FRS FAILS

A Petition for Rulemaking to prohibit daily business communications in the Family Radio Service has been dismissed by the Commission. Amateur RadioNewsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, has more:

On August 22, 2002, the Industrial Telecommunciatons Association, Inc. -- or ITA -- filed a petition for rulemaking requesting that the Commission amend Section 95.401(b) of the Commission's Rules. This, to prohibit daily business communications on the Family Radio Service frequencies.

In making its case for the prohibition the ITA said that it was concerned about the unlicensed mix of business and personal users. The ITA said that traditional businesses were using FRS units for daily business needs and thereby limiting the ability of others to engage in the personal communications that the Commission envisioned for FRS.

One of those challenging the ITA petition was the Personal Radio Steering Group. This is an advocacy group for General Mobile Radio Service users who share part of the spectrum with the Family Radio Service. According to the PRSG filing, the FCC specifically indicated in the Regulatory Flexibility Analysis for creating the Family Radio Service that small businesses may use the FRS to conduct their affairs. Also, while FRS congestion does exist in and near sports and recreational facilities, theme parks and shopping malls, little of this congestion is attributable to recurrent business or commercial communications.

Based on this and other information provided by the public, the FCC has concluded that day to day business communications is a valid use of the Family Radio Service. That this was intended in the Report and Order creating the service and that there is little merit to the Industrial Telecommunications Association rules change request.

Reporting for the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, in Los Angeles.

In other words, it is okay to continue to use FRS channels for routine business as well as personal communications needs. The full story is on-line at http://hraunfoss.fcc.gov/edocs_public/attachmatch/DA-04-1035A1.doc (CGC, FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: OFFERING NON CERTIFIED CB'S FOR SALE BRINGS CITATION

The FCC has gone after yet another purveyor of non certified CB radio gear capable of operating in the ham radio bands. The agency's Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, explains:

Duckworth: "The FCC's Altanta Office has issued a citation to Jim Norton, the owner of CB Sales and Service in Anniston, Alabama for the sale of non certified CB equipment. Noted in the citation were six different models of non certified exquoipent, five of which had been modified to transmit on Amateur frequencies."

--

The FCC alleges that an investigation by its Atlanta Office revealed that on March 11, 2004, Norton offered for sale at his retail store up to eight models of non-certified Citizens Band transceivers all bearing the Galaxy trade name. According to Commission's records, none of these devices have received an FCC equipment authorization which is required for Citizens Band transmitters marketed in the United States. CB Sales was charged with violation of Section 302(b) of the Communications Act, and Section 2.803(a)(1) of the F-C-C's Rules. (FCC, RAIN)

RESCUE RADIO: CA HAMS SUPPOERT MS WALK

Members of the Huntington Beach California Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service supported the early morning 2004 MS Walk event on Sunday April 18th. The Huntington Beach volunteer radio operators were on hand at each rest stop along the five and 10 kilometer courses, to provide communications and assist state beach rangers and event management in case an emergency occurred.

There were over 1200 walkers on the beach path taking part in the fund raisuing event. Peter Shores, AD6TN, brought his communications van that is fully equipped with communications gear and emergency supplies. It served as a mobile command post. Another volunteer patrolled the entire course on bicycle.

The communications effort continued until about noon. There were no incidents or injuries reported during the event. (KH6WZ)

HAMVENTION NEWS : DARA RETURNS TO THE DAYTON HAMVENTION NAME

When thousands of hams return to Dayton, Ohio for Hamvention 2004, they will find that the "Dayton" has returned to the Hamvention. This, with word that the Dayton Amateur Radio Association which sponsors the yearly event has again remamed the gathering the Dayton Hamvention.

According to General Chairman Gary Des Combes, N8EMO, the change is in keeping with the Hamvention's 'going back to the future' theme. It also goes along with the pledge made to return Hamvention to its roots as the biggest and friendliest hometown hamfest, found anyplace in the world.

Des Combes says that for more than half a century the event has been known to the world, and to the world of Amateur Radio as the Dayton Hamvention. He says that Hamvention's ties are to the entire Dayton metropolitan area, to its economy and to the ham radio community of the region.

The 33rd annual Dayton Hamvention opens on Friday, May 14th and runs until Sunday 16th. During those three days the event is expected to draw about 25,000 people from around the world and bring millions of dollars of sales and business to the Dayton area. (Dayton Hamvention)

HAMVENTION NEWS: THE HAM RADIO TOWN MEETING

And since we are talking the Dayton Hamvention, let me take a moment to invite you to join our producer Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, and an all-star group of guests as we take a trip through time to look at the "traditions" that have made Amateur Radio the great hobby and service that it is today. This, as we at Amateur Rasdio Newsline present the 6th annual Dayton Hamvention "Ham Radio Town Meeting."

This years topic is "IT'S MORE THAN RADIOS -- Keeping The Traditions of Amateur Radio Alive." Bill will be your host and moderator. Joining him will be a whose who group including our leynote speaker Bob Heil, K9EID, of Heil Sound Ltd. Other presenters include Radio School's Gordon West WB6NOA, Worldradio Magazine Editor Nancy Kott WZ8C, Producer/Director Dave Bell W6AQ, Philadelphia newsman Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, to name only a few. Also, if time permits, we will present a screening of the 1990 Icom produced motion picture titled "More Than Radios." This is the story of an "old time ham" who rather reluctantly becomes the Amateur Radio "Elmer" for a teenager thrust into his life on summer.

The festivities begin at 1 P.M. EDT on Saturday, May 15th in Hara Arena Meeting Room 3 and as usual we will have lots of door prizes. If you have the time, we promise you a most entertaining and illuminating two hours reliving the traditions of the hobby and learning that being a ham truly is a lot more than radios. HAM RADIO IN SPACE: CREW CHANGE ON THE ISS

For a time last week there were five astro-hams on board the International Space Station. This as Expedition 9 crew members Mike Fincke, KE5AIT, and Gennady Padalka, RN3DT, arrived at the space outpost on April 21st The trip was made to the Iss using a Russian built Soyuz launcher.

Making the voyage with them was European Space Agency explorer Andr, Kuipers, PI9ISS. The three joined Expedition 8 crew members Mike Foale, KB5UAC, and Sasha Kaleri, U8MIR, who along with Kuipers are on their way back to Earth as this newscast goes to air.

Kuipers may have only spent a bit more than a week on-orbit, but he wasted little time in getting on-the-air. PE1SCW in Deventer in the Netherlands reported hearing PI9ISS in QSO with PI9ESA at 7:50 hours UTC on Saturday May 24th. Bas says that Kuipers signal was very strong signal that was reading 40 db over S-9. A few minutes later Kuipers was in range of Francisco Costa, CT1EAT, in Beja, Portugal. He said that he heard PI9ISS in a scheduled ARISS QSO also at well over S-9.

During their six-month stay on the ISS, Russian Cosmonaut Padalka will serve as the ISS Commander while Fincke will be the science officer and flight engineer. Both are expected on the air before they return home in late October. (ARISS, VHF Reflector, published news reports)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: K6DUE ISS OPERATING EVENT CERTIFICATES

Certificates for those who took part in the K6DUE International Space Station Commemorative Operating Event held earlier this year have been distributed to the international delegates at the ARISS Meeting in the Netherlands on March 26th and 27th. Those picking them up were to forward the certificates to their national Q-S-L distributors who would then distribute them locally.

ARISS International Chairman Frank Bauer, KA3HDO, says that approximately 130 hams will be receiving certificates. The event was held to honor the memory of the late Roy Neal, K6DUE who founded both the SAREX and ARISS programs. Neal, who also served as the Vice President of Amateur Radio Newsline and as a frequent news anchor passed away last August due to complications following heart valve replacement surgery. THAT FINAL ITEM: THE NAB 2004 HAM RADIO RECEPTION

And finally, as most of you know, it was Heil Sound Limited hosted the National Association of Broadcasters ham radio reception on Wednesday night April 21st. It was literally a star studded event. Newsline's Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, and his tape recorder were there:

When Bob Heil, K9EID, and his wife Sarah throw a party, everyone with a ham radio license shows up. And thats exactly the way it was on Wednesday, April 21st when Heil Sound Limited hosted the annual National Association of Broadcasters Ham Radio Reception at the Hilton Hotel in Las Vegas, Nevada. There was food music and lots of prizes. Some were even personalized:

Hate to keep opening an obvious sore spot for you, but if you look at the actual Supreme Court ruling it merely stated that to allow the recount to continue may reverse the fact that Bush had already been labeled as the winner and therefore it was in the best interest of all to stop the count. It was never ruled illegal. Read the ruling. Sorry, but I had to add the truth to your raving.

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1395 May 7, 2004

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1395 with a release date of Friday, May 7, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. The FCC denies a request for more time to respond on BPL, the NTIA report on BPL explained and ham radio will honor the military. Find out the details on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1395 coming your way right now.

THE BPL FIGHT: FCC REFUSES TO EXTEND COMMENT CUTOFF ON BPL

The FCC has issued a ruling denying a request from the ARRL to extend the Commentary cutoff date on the introduction of BPL as outlined in ET Docket 04-37.

The ARRL had asked the Commission to extend the deadline for Comments and Reply Comments by 45 days in the Broadband over Power Line Notice of Proposed Rule Making. The League had argued that this would give it and others the time required for the National Telecommunications and Information Administration to conclude its study at BPL, issue an initial report and give commenters time to evaluate it.

In its April 30th release denying the request the FCC gave no overriding reason for turning it down. Instead the agency said that the now past May 3rd commentary cutoff date stands. It added that those wanting to address the issues raised in the NTIA report can do so during the Reply Comment period. That's open now and ends on June 1st. (ARNewsline(tm))

THE BPL FIGHT: NTIA RELEASES LONG AWAITED REPORT ON BPL

Meantime, as reported last week, the National Telecommunications and Information Administration has issued its long-awaited report on the interference potential of BPL. Amateur Radio Newsline's Mark Abramwicz, NT3V, is here with an in-depth look at the report and the affect it might of on the introduction of BPL technology:

The very title: "NTIA Report Lays Groundwork for Responsible Deployment of Broadband Over Power Lines" doesn't sound encouraging.

But like any package - or the glowing press release that accompanied it - the more than 100-page document contains so much more once you open it.

And, you don't have to go beyond the executive summary that accompanies the report to find the glowing praise by Acting NTIA Administrator Michael Gallagher in the press release is quickly muted. Muted by the facts and some disturbing interference problems the agency's own technical review identified.

CQ Magazine Editor Rich Moseson, W2VU, digested and analyzed the NTIA report and agreed to share his findings with the Amateur Radio Newsline audience.

"It is one of the first really objective looks at the real danger of interference caused by BPL," Moseson says. "As of objective as studies by the ARRL might be, they would be perceived as someone with a certain interest here.

"The NTIA is a federal agency and their engineering study should carry a lot of weight with the FCC."

Moseson says he identified five major conclusions. First, among them, that the methods currently used to measure noise levels and interference potential are not adequate, according to the NTIA. Essentially, he says, there's an underestimation of peak-field strength. And, peak field strength is the leading contributor to high-interference risks.

"As applied in current practice to BPL systems, Part 15 measurement guidelines do not address unique physical and electromagnetic characteristics of BPL-radiated emissions," Moseson says. "That's a quote. That's pretty significant that the Part 15 guidelines do not address the unique physical and electromagnetic characteristics of BPL emissions. So the measurement system being used is not right."

Second, he says the NTIA engineers said noise levels must be measured from power lines carrying BPL as well as the device that couples the signal to the power lines.

"What the NTIA is saying here is that you can be 100 feet down the street from the actual coupling device or up to 300 feet down the street and if the signal bumps into one of these corroded connecters or something, then, it's going to start radiating there," Moseson says. "And you have to measure all along the line as well as at the coupling device."

Third, Moseson says NTIA found interference to weak- or medium-strength signals is likely to affect aircraft operation and the navigational frequencies used by aircraft.

"Interference to aircraft reception of moderate to strong radio signals is likely to occur below 6 kilometers altitude - that's 20,000 feet - within 12 kilometer center of the BPL deployment," says

Moseson, quoting from the report. "Interference would likely occur to aircraft reception of weak to moderate signals within 40 miles of the center of the BPL deployment area."

NTIA's fourth major conclusion, according to Moseson, is that results of BPL tests and implementation in other countries has met with mixed results. And, in some cases, it has been shut down entirely. He cites an example:

"During an emergency exercise of the Austrian Red Cross in May 2003, communication was massively disturbed - that's their words - by BPL with interference levels exceeding the limits by a factor of 10,000," Moseson says.

The fifth NTIA conclusion identified by Moseson is the agency's desire to conduct more testing.

"They proposed some more stringent measurement standards and procedures along with some of the interference mitigation techniques that were mentioned in the FCC's Proposed Rulemaking and others that weren't," Moseson says. "But they're saying here that they're not even sure that those are going to work. They want to do more testing on them and report on it later in the year."

The bottom line: Will the FCC's commissioner take seriously the findings and red flags raised by the NTIA report?

"In this case, I'm not really sure because they seem to have made up their minds going into this as to what they were planning to do," Moseson says. "So, I am not as optimistic as I might be in other rulemaking proceedings."

So, how soon could the FCC act? Moseson says he wouldn't even begin to speculate.

"At this point the comment period is closed. Comments closed on May 3," Moseson says. "There's a two-week reply comment period. And, then it's up to the commission of what they're going to do and when they're going to do it.

"There is no requirement that the FCC issue a ruling in a given amount of time after the close of comments on a proceeding. So, they very well could wait until the NTIA issues its second report. And, I'm sure that it would be accepted into the record as coming from another federal agency."

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia.

RADIO LAW: LEGALIZING AMBER ALERTS ON THE HAM BANDS

Hams worried that they might get into trouble if they relay lost child or AMBER alerts on the air may soon have regulatory relief. This as wording in an omnibus 71-page, Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on a variety of ham radio issues issued in mid-April tackles the problem had on.

One of the proposals in the April 15th NPRM proposes to and we quote: "clarify that amateur stations may at all times and on all channels … make transmissions … which may be instrumental in saving human life and property." In other words, if enacted as proposed, retransmitting AMBER Alerts and just about any other type of live saving communications would become legal under Federal law.

The proposal is part of FCC WT Docket 04-140. The Comment deadline is June 15th. (CQ)

RESCUE RADIO: YOUNG HAM TRIES TO GET AID FOR DROWNING VICTIM

A tragic story from the Great Smoky Mountains National Park near Townsend, Tennessee. That's where a youngster on a field trip drowned at Cades Cove while a classmate with a hand held 2 meter transceiver tried to get help to save him. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, reports:

It started about an hour after the group arrived at the campsite on Friday, April 30th. According to news reports, a group of people including the ill fated teen took to the water. In a short time, the victum, identified only as Chris found himself in trouble. Others tried to save him while teachers using cell phones tried to call for help.

When it was found that there was no cell phone coverage, another student, Jordan Webb, KI4AVG, said he would try ham radio. Jordan had brought along his two meter hand held radio. He found a near-by high location and called for help over the Knoxville area WB4GBI repeater. He was answered by Jim Bond, K6SPY, who notified Park Rangers. Unfortunately they didn't arrive in time to save the victum, but because KI4AVG had the foresight to bring along his 2 meter talkie, his classmate's body was recovered within hours, instead of days.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, reporting.

Jordan Webb, KI4AVG is only thirteen year old and attends the Vine Middle School in Knoxville. He has been a ham for just about a year and serves as net control for the weekly Young Amateur Radio Net on the Radio Amateur Club of Knoxville W4BBB repeater. (K4PZT, KG4UJC, KG4YTT, WBIR.com)

ENFORCEMENT: NET INTERFERENCE FOUND

Authorities in the United Kingdom were quick to act when a propagation net became the target of a jammer. We have more in this report:

Listeners to the DK0WCY Solar Geomagnetic Information broadcast on 75 meters recently experienced interference from an unmodulated carrier on the channel. The interference, which appeared to be deliberate jamming, was reported by the DK0WCY team to the authorities in Germany who founf that the interference was coming from from the United Kingdom.

With support from the Radio Society of Great Britain's Amateur Radio Observation Service and other U-K hams, authorities traced the interference to an amateur station in the Chepstow area. The interference ceased abruptly at 0608UTC on the 25th of March. No explanation was given but it is assumed that government regulators took the station off the air.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Norm Seeley, KI7UP.

No word on who the jammer was or what punitive action will be taken by U-K telecommunications authorities. (GB2RS)

ENFORCEMENT: YOU BETTER STAY OFF THE RADIO

Back here in the U-S-A, the FCC says that a former ham who has been to jail for operating without a license is back on the air and still has no FCC authorization to be there. Again, the FCC's Daryl Duckworth, NN0W:

Duckworth: "Richard A. Burton of Harbor City, California, has been sent a Warning Notice of unlicensed radio operation on 2 meters in the Los Angeles area. Mr. Burton has been convicted in 1984, 1990, 1993 and 2000 of unlicensed radio operation under Section 301 of the Communications Act of 1934, as ammernded, and has served time."

According to Duckworth, the Notice sent to Burton states that additional instances will lead to -- and we quote -- to the same result. The FCC has also designated for hearing a second General Mobile Radio Service application that Burton had filed with the agency. (FCC, RAIN)

ENFORCEMENT: CRANK CALL TO CUBA'S CASTRO LEADS TO $4000 FINE

The FCC says that a Florida radio station should be fined $4000. This, for permitting the hosts of the Morning High Jinks show placed a crank-called to Cuban President Fidel Castro and broadcast the recording.

As previously reported, Joe Ferrero and Enrique Santos of WXJD FM used snippets of an earlier prank call involving Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez get past a Castro receptionist and up the chain of command in a five-minute broadcast June 17th of last year. They then fed pleasantries to Castro before breaking in and calling him an assassin.

On April 28th the FCC concluded that the station should be forced to pay a fine for the broadcast. The agency rejected claims that a rule requiring people to be notified before their voices are used on the air does not apply to people in Cuba.

WXJD was given the usual 30 days to pay the fine or to file a further appeal. (Published reports)

RADIO RECORDS: XL TO UA ON 137 KHZ

Hams in New Zealand and Asiatic Russia have claimed a new world low-frequency distance record. ZM2E at Quartz Hill near Wellington and UA0LE near Vladivostok say that they completed a two-way contact the night of the 20th of March on 137.70kHz. The path length is estimated to be 10,311 kilometers or 6392 miles. (Q-News, GB2RS)

AWARDS: YCCC OFFERS SUBSIDY AWARD PROGRAM

The 400 member Yankee Clipper Contest Club has announced that it's First Annual DXpedition Award Program has been funded for the 2004 through 2005 contesting season. The purpose of the program is to encourage new as well as young amateurs to participate in contesting.

As part of the award program, the Yankee Clipper group will award the winning applicant up to $1,500 to accompany a YCCC authorized Dxpedition and / or Contesting operation any where in the world for up to one week, to operate in one of the four major contests.

This a first time program for the club. The winner will be chosen and announced at the Boxboro Hamfest in August and there are some restrictions on who can apply. More information is on line at www.yccc.org or by e-mail to W1LLU@verizon.net (W1LLU)

THE SOCIAL CIRCUIT: MARC HAMFEST AND COMPUTER FAIR

Turning to the ham radio social scene, the Mid-Atlantic Amateur Radio Club will be presenting their annual Valley Forge Hamfest and Computer Fair, Sunday, July 11th. The venue is the Kimberton Pennsylvania Fire Company Fairgrounds on Route 113. Admission is $6.00 for hams. Unlicensed spouse and children of licensed amateur radio operator will be admitted free of charge. For additional hamfest information, please e-mail MARC at Hamfest-info@marc-radio.org. Information is also available on the club website at www.marc-radio.org. (Via e-mail)

HAMVENTION 2004: THE ARRL PUBLIC RELATIONS FORUM

The ARRL sponsored Public Relations Forum at the 2004 Dayton Hamvention will be held at 8:30 A-M on Sunday morning, May 16th. The venue is Meeting Room 1 at the Hara Arena and those planning it say that this will be a do not miss event for anyone interested in promoting the hobby.

What will be discussed you ask? Well the major items include public service, spectrum protection and of coarse Broadbnd Over Powerline internet access. The session will also explain how to tell the world outside the hobby about Amateur Radio and how to address our concerns to public officials and local media.

Again, that's Sunday, May 16th at 8:30 in the morning for the ARRL Public Relations Fourm at Hamvention 2004. We will see you there. (Dayton Hamvention(r))

HAMVENTION 2004: A NICE PLACE TO LAND

And if you are a private pilot planning to fly your own plane to next weeks Dayton Hamvention, the events planners have a tip for you. Consider landing and tie-down at Greene County Airport in the near-by town of Xenia.

That field is located just south of Route 35 approximately 7 miles east of Dayton and is the closest airport to downtown. Its also among the easiest to get in and out of using small aircraft. Fuel prices are reportedly some of the lowest in the area, and the facility is well kept and capable of handling quite a bit of traffic.

Green County is just one of many airports catering to pilots of small aircraft in the Dayton area. More information about it is on-line at www.gwaohio.co. (Dayton Hamvention(r))

WITH NEWSLINE: MORE THANK-YOU'S FROM N6TCQ

Ladies and gentlemen, here is Amateur Radio Newsline's Support Fund Administrator, Andy Jarema, N6TCQ.

Still playing "catch-up" for our supporters, in the month of July last year we heard from:

The Raleigh, NC Amateur Radio Society, The Ohio-Kentucky-Indiana Amateur Radio Society, The Garland, TX ARC, Monthly contributor William Walters, WA2IBM, of San Jose, CA; Monthly contributor Scott Hensley of the Area Communications Team, also in San Jose and Brad Berryhill, WA6JJB of Anaheim Hills

Thank you to everyone, and we promise to do our best to continue to earn your care and support. A reminder that Newsline is a 501c 3 California non-profit corporation. FCC regulations prohibit us from telling you exactly how to support us, but that information is on our website at www.arnewsline.org. That address will be repeated at the end of the newscast. I'm Andy Jarema, N6TCQ.

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: SPAM LOWERING LEGIT E-MAIL

Meantime, a recent survey finds that Americans are e-mailing less and trusting e-mail less because of the growing flood of junk messages. According to the Pew Internet and American Life Project, 29% of e-mail users have reduced their overall use of the medium while 63% of e-mail users say they are less trusting of e-mail overall because of spam. That's up from 52 percent in June of 2002. (Technology OnLibe)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: SCIENTIST TO BE NEXT SPACE TOURIST

The next space tourist plans to spend his time on-orbit studying environmental issues. Gregory Olsen, the founder of Sensors Unlimited Inc. in Princeton, New Jersey says that he plans to bring along infrared sensors, which detect varying levels of heat, to analyze pollution in the Earth's atmosphere and the health of agricultural systems on the ground.

Olsen told a recent news conference that he hopes to inspire young people with his mission, and want to arrange a video teleconference with Trenton High School in New Jersey and a school at the Crow Indian Reservation in Montana.

The 58-year-old Olsen has hired Space Adventures to get him to the I-S-S. This is the same company that brokered the first space tourist trip of millionaire Dennis Tito's flight aboard a Russian spacecraft in 2001. Olson's eight-day voyage to Earth orbit is currently scheduled for April of 2005. As with all past space station visitors, Olson is expected to be trained in Amateur Radio and operation of the ham gear aboard the I-S-S as well. (Published reports)

WORLDBEAT: NEW RADIO RULES IN KENYA

Visiting hams now have a way to get on the air from Kenya. Ted Alleyne, 5Z4NU, the Chairman and Secretary of the Amateur Radio Society of Kenya sdays that that the Communications Commission of Kenya announced on April a new and more relaxed policy towards amateur radio licensing.

Until now it was "practically impossible" for most visitors to obtain an amateur radio license in Kenya. The previous stumbling blocks for reciprocal agreements, Security and Police vetting, have been dropped entirely. However, applicants' countries must have diplomatic relations with Kenya and 5Z4NU says that the ARSK will be happy to supply the new license application forms. (GB2RS)

WORLDBEAT - GERMANY: PROPAGATION STUDIES WEBSITE UPDATED

Volker Grassmann, DF5AI, says over the VHF Reflector that he recently updated his "Amateur Radio Propagation Studies" web site. Features now include a countdown for the 2004 sporadic E season, a discussion of thunderstorm effects on the ionosphere, notes on the people behind VHF dxing and much, much more. The page is in cyberspace at www.df5ai.net. Volker says come over and spend some time at the site. (VHF Reflector)

DX

In D-X, word that GB5JCT is on the air from the fishing trawler Jacinta moored in Fleetwood dock in the UK. The trawler is now a museum dedicated to the fishing fleet that used to be based at Fleetwood. Over the Easter weekend the station was heard on 40 metros SSB and locally on 2 meter FM. (GB2RS)

Also, G3TMA, G3KHZ and IZ1CRR will activate a couple of Borneo's Islands on the Air during the next couple of weeks. If you work them QSL via G3KHZ. (GB2RS)

Lastly, GW3UOF will be active portable SV8 from Kavos, Corfu, in the Greek Isles through May 17th. Look for him on CW, SSB and various digital modes. QSL as directed on the air. (OPDX)

THAT FINAL ITEM: HONORING THE MILITARY

And finally this week, ham radio will be honoring those serving in the military. Jim Meachen, ZL2BHF, is here with the details:

Amateur Radio Military Appreciation Day will be held world-wide on Saturday, May 29th from approximately 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Central U-S time. According to Emery McClendon, KB9IBW, this will be a day-long operation to talk to troops, and associated groups around the globe in appreciation of their service and personal sacrifice.

The main operating location will be from Johnny Appleseed Park and Wizards Memorial Stadium in Ft. Wayne, Indiana, using Emery's KB9IBW call sign. That station will be on from about 4 p.m. Central Daylight Time through the end of the Wizards game.

Planners say that they know of at least 25 military bases and club stations that will be operating the event. This includes stations in Iraq, Kuwait, and bases around the globe. More information on this event is in cyberspace at www.fortwaneradioclub.org

Again, the website for more information on Military Appreciation Day is www.fortwaneradioclub.org. (KB9IBW)

NEWSCAST CLOSE

With thanks to Alan Labs, AMSAT, the ARRL, the CGC Communicator, CQ Magazine, the FCC, the Ohio Penn DX Bulletin, Radio Netherlands, Rain, the RSGB and Australia's Q-News, that's all from the Amateur Radio Newsline(tm). Our e-mail address is newsline @arnewsline.org. More information is available at Amateur Radio Newsline's(tm) only official website located at www.arnewsline.org. You can also write to us or support us at Amateur Radio Newsline(tm), P.O. Box 660937, Arcadia, California 91066.

Before we go, this word for listeners who use our 661-296-2407 phone line to get the newscast. That line will be down for about a week or so starting on Friday, May 14th as the phone machine that feeds the newscast undergoes repairs. We should have it back on-line by May 21st if not before. In the meantime, please use any of the other lines you find listed on our website.

For now, with Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, at the editors desk, I'm Jim Davis, W2JKD, saying 73, see you all at the 2004 Dayton Hamvention and we thank you for listening." Amateur Radio Newsline(tm) is Copyright 2004. All rights reserved.

Hi,

I have a Uni_Trac 2000 interface for sale. It is the parallel port model, metal box, supported by the updated software. It is configured for the FT-847 with cable, but can be easily used with a number of other rigs. An excellent unit, but I am cleaning out a few excess items which I no longer need.

Included are:

Uni_Trac 2000 interface
Original software CD
CD with the current UT3 software
Original hard copy docs
Interface cable for Yaesu rotator and FT-847
10' parallel cable*
9 V power supply*

* Not included with the original unit.

$150 shipped UPS CONUS.

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1396 May 14, 2004

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1396 with a release date of Friday, May 14, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. Hamvention 2004 is opening and B-P-L is still in the news. Find out the details on Amateur Radio Newsline report number

HAMVENTION COVERAGE

The 2004 Dayton Hamvention is about to open its doors. One of this year's Hamvention themes is going back to the future. Our producer Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, flew in a few days early to find out what it really means for those who will be attending the show.

Bill, Mark Abramowicz NT3V and yours truly will all be at Hamvention to bring you all the highlights on next week's Amateur Radio Newsline report. (ARNewsline(tm))

THE BPL FIGHT: B-P-L EXPECTED TO DRAW ATTENTION AT DAYTON

While the latest in ham gear is certain to be grab the interest of most of those attending this year's Dayton Hamvention, the topic of Broadband Over Power
Lines internet access is likely to be on the lips of many. Amateur Radio
Newsline's Mark Abramowicz, NT3V has more...

--
While not much has happened in the past week on the B-P-L issue, look for lots of discussion on the Dayton Hamvention floor. You can expect to see

American
Radio Relay League President Jim Haynie W-5-J-B-P in the middle of it.

We told you here on Amateur Radio Newsline two weeks ago of Haynie's call to arms and his direct appeal to President Bush to abandon support for B-P-L technology.

Haynie is convinced Bush has been misled by his advisors. He and A-R-R-L's Washington corps have asked for a meeting with the president. There's nothing new to report on that front.

But Haynie says it's important for the ham community to continue to make its voice heard by writing to the White House, your congressman and your senator about B-P-L. Even though the Federal Communications Commission turned down the A-R-R-L's request to extend the May 3 deadline for comments on B-P-L, Haynie says there are still ways to be heard.

The A-R-R-L's website (www.arrl.org) has helpful tips on writing that letter or email or picking up the phone and calling your representative in Washington.

Meanwhile, the FCC is now studying the National Telecommunications and Information Agency report on B-P-L. And while the glowing press release put out by N-T-I-A touted the possibilities of B-P-L, the technical data in the report presents another picture.

And that picture is anything but fuzzy. N-T-I-A cites major interference concerns and suggests the methods used to measure B-P-L interference are inadequate.

It also cites worries B-P-L signals could affect aircraft operations and suggests more stringent measurement standards and interference mitigation techniques need to be explored.

Could that B-P-L fast-track train be slowing? No one is willing to speculate on that, especially since President Bush and F-C-C Chairman Michael Powell appear to be on the same page in their push for deployment of B-P-L.

Could the F-C-C be convinced to wait for the next N-T-I-A report and table the issue for a few months? No one knows how to read the tea leaves in Washington.

Tune in weekly to Amateur Radio Newsline and we'll keep you on top of the issue with the very latest news and views of those close to the B-P-L issue.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia.
--

And look for Mark's report on the B-P-L buzz and other topics from the Hamvention floor during our special program next week produced in Dayton.

RADIO RULES: FCC MKES "MINOR AMMENDMENTS" TO PART 97

The FCC says that it has minor amendments to various Amateur Radio rules. A bulletin from the ARRL highlights some of them including the most significant one. It involved revising the wording of Section 97.307(d), which defines spurious emissions. The updated language imposes a slightly higher standard on newer transmitters or amplifiers of any power level.

The FCC also has redefined what constitutes an Amateur Radio operator to reflect the advent of the Universal Licensing System electronic licensee database.
The current rule defines an amateur operator as "a person holding a written authorization to be the control operator of an amateur station." Under the revised Section 97.3(a)(1) an amateur operator is "a person named in an amateur operator/primary license station grant on the U-L-S consolidated licensee database to be the control operator of an amateur station."

The FCC made these and several other regulatory changes on its own motion rather than in reaction to any petitions. The decision appeared May 5 in the Federal Register. The changes become effective June 1st. (ARRL)

ENFORCEMENT: CONVICTED MURDERER LOOSES HAM TICKET

A ham serving a prison sentence for the murder of his wife has had his Amateur license revoked. Roger Thomas Scaggs, the now ex-W5EBC, had his ticket pulled after the FCC determined that he no longer holds the requisite requirements to remain a Commission licensee.

On March 6, 1996 Scaggs was convicted of murder in the death of Penny Scaggs, his wife of thirty-five years. The court record in that case showed that Scaggs beat his wife to death with a galvanized lead pipe and then stabbed her several times. He was sentenced to a prison term of thirty-two years and fined ten thousand dollars.

The Commission says that its character policies provide that any felony conviction is a matter predictive of licensee behavior and is directly relevant to the functioning of the Commission's regulatory mission. It says that Scaggs conviction mandates the conclusion that he does not possess the requisite qualifications to be or remain a Commission licensee and that his license should be revoked. (FCC)

ENFORCMENT: NO FISHING COMS HERE

The owners of four trucking companies, two seafood companies and one fishing boat have all been cited by the FCC for operating without a license on amateur frequencies. According to the C-Q magazine website, three of the trucking companies are in North and South Carolina and the fourth is in Idaho. They were allegedly operating on 10 meters. The fishing boats are in the Pacific Northwest, purportedly using the 2 meter band. (CQ)

ENFORCEMENT: FCC AGAIN WRITES TO K1MAN

The FCC has again written to Glenn Baxter, K1MAN, and the commissions note has both good and bad news for the Belgrade Lakes, Maine radio amateur. On the positive side, the April 14th letter informs K1MAN that a review of his transmissions indicates that he is complying with the Amateur Service regulations regarding broadcasting and bulletins and station control.

The negative? The FCC alleges that K1MAN is in violation of rules regarding use of his Amateur station for pecuniary interest and those regarding deliberate interference to ongoing communications.

Also, the letter again told Baxter that his "felony affidavit complaints" will not be accepted by the regulatory agency. He was also reminded that all frequencies in the Amateur Radio Service are shared. No frequency is assigned for the exclusive use of any station, and that Baxter's station has no greater rights to a frequency at any particular time than does any other Amateur station. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: CONSERVATIVE GROUP CALLS ON CONGRESS TO REPRIMAND FCC

A faith based group is chiding the FCC for not acting more decisively in getting dirty words off the public airwaves. Amateur Radio Newsline's Jim Davis, W-2-J-K-D, has more:

ENFORCEMENT: FCC CHAIRMAN DOES NOT SUPPORT REVOKING BROADCAST LICENSES

F-C-C chairman Michael Powell says he doesn't support legislation that would pull a broadcast station license after a third indecency violation. He is not opposed to high fines to get the attention of broadcasters who step across the indecency line.

Speaking at the recent National Association of Broadcasters convention in Las Vegas, Powell suggested that he would support extending indecency regulations beyond over-the-air broadcasting to other media, such as cable and satellite broadcasts, but only if the FCC is given approval by Congress.

Powell labels as a "red herring" a proposal by Viacom president Mel Karmazin for more specific decency guidelines. Viacom owns C-B-S. That's the network which aired the controversial Super Bowl half-time show with rock star Janet Jackson. (Published reports)

RESCUE RADIO: EMERGENCY TRAINING IN KANSAS

A day-long program on Amateur Radio emergency communications will take place Saturday, July 24, 9 AM in Kansas. This, at The Salvation

Army, 420 E
Santa Fe, Olathe which is 15 miles southwest of Kansas City.

According to the ARRL Letter, the day begins with "New Ham Orientation," sponsored by Johnson County Amateur Radio Emergency Service. This session will provide an overview of ARES and explain how amateurs can get involved.
Following a lunch break the Kansas Salvation Army Team Emergency Radio Network will sponsor an ARRL Emergency Communications seminar.

Seats are limited. For additional information contact June Jeffers, KB0WEQ, by email to kssatern@att.net or call area code 913-856-8674 during normal business hours, Central time. (ARRL)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: DTV AT A SNAILS PACE

The General Accounting Office has issued a report saying that more percent of Americans are either unaware or only "somewhat aware" of the transition to digital television signals. They are also unaware that Congress

plans to sell the analog spectrum that will become available when TV stations
convert from analog to digital.

Lawmakers are counting on the money to help balance the budget.
However, the digital transition may be years away unless more consumers start buying digital TVs to receive the new signals. Current sales of those expensive digital sets appear to be fairly flat at best. (Science OnLine)

THAT FINAL ITEM: WHO INVENTED THE SCANNER RADIO - REDUX

And finally this week, an update on our recent story of who really invented the first scanner radio. We previously reported that a group of broadcast engineers working at Cape Canaveral during the early days of the space race developed the first scanner radio. This, so that the late NBC newsman Roy Neal, K-6-D-U-E,
could know when a launch was going to take place.

Well, that is quite true but Harvey Cronen, a S-W-L who is one of our listeners in New Jersey has some further information. He says that musician and inventor
Raymond Scott is the person who holds a patent on at least one form of automatic scanning radio.

Harvey sent us a web link to a site that chronicles the life of Scott. While he is best known as the orchestra leader on the early NBC television show
"Your Hit Parade" and as the husband of the late songstress Dorothy Collins, there was another side to Raymond Scott that few in the public knew about. It is all on the website and it is there where it says that Scott actually patented a broadcast band radio receiver which tunes in on stations around the country and changes frequency by itself at any given interval. This, says the website, permitted Scott to catch most of the nations disc-jockey shows in a brief span and find out what tunes are being played.

There is lots of truly fascinating information at this very informative website about Raymond Scott, his life, his inventions that impacted on the worlds of recording and communications as well as his music. It is well worth visiting at www.raymondscott.com. (H. Cronen)

324. TLE question (drag coefficient)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.space
Date: 2004-05-21 18:26:09 UTC
From: jm <"jmfriedt\\@(none)>">
Message-ID: <40ae3b24$0$12754$636a15ce@news.free.fr>
Source record: 2669

I am trying to figure out the content meaning of TLE lines. The data
I am wondering about is the drag coefficient which I have difficulties interpreting.

If I look at the TLE of NOAA 17 (POES, ie 800 km altitude) I find
1 27453U 02032A 04141.47085506 .00000028 00000-0 31630-4 0 9103

now if I look at GOES 12 (geosynchronous sat, ie 36000 km from the surface) I find
1 26871U 01031A 04141.10366189 -.00000239 00000-0 10000-3 0 4830

Now my problem is that for a 800-km orbiting satellite I expect some sort of drag and indeed I find 31630-4 (which I believe is Fortran for a floating point number with -4 being the exponent). However for the geosynchronous sat which definitely doesn't feel any dray from the atmosphere I find 10000-3 which is greater !

Is this a default value meaning "no drag" ? Or how can I explain that a geosynch sat has a greater drag coefficient than a low POES sat ?

Thanks for any answer, Jean-Michel

The value given in the two-line elements is a "drag parameter", which is neither the drag coefficient nor a decay rate (despite mistaken explanations in some references). Its definition is arcane and arbitrary.

Multiply it by 12.742, take the reciprocal, and you get the ballistic coefficient, which is m/(Cd*A), where m is mass, A is frontal area, and Cd is drag coefficient. This is the physically meaningful value. But going from that to the effect on orbital parameters is still complex, including the ugly subject of atmospheric density modeling.

Moreover, the drag parameter in the elements is actually an estimated value based on assuming that drag is the only unmodeled force... which is often a very unrealistic assumption. Maneuvers, lunisolar perturbations, light pressure, etc. can all mess it up... which is why you sometimes see element sets with a negative drag parameter, a physical impossibility if drag was the only force involved.

(Ref: Vallado, "Fundamentals of Astrodynamics and Applications", 2nd ed.)

>Is this a default value meaning "no drag" ? Or how can I explain that a >geosynch sat has a greater drag coefficient than a low POES sat ?

The drag parameter doesn't tell you how much drag the spacecraft is experiencing -- it measures, in principle, how much the spacecraft would be affected by passing through a given atmospheric density at a given speed. It's independent of altitude and orbit.

The geostationary bird doesn't care about drag at all, while the LEO bird's design probably makes some attempt to minimize it, so it's not surprising that if all other things were equal (which they are not), the LEO bird would be less affected.

Note also that all those zeros in the geostationary bird's value are very suspicious. That number is probably only a very rough estimate. And the various disturbing factors are quite significant up there.

Given that two-line elements also directly give rate of change of orbital motion, the drag parameter is best ignored unless you're up to something special.

ok this is the part I had missed. I couldn't understand whether the prediction software had to include a model of the atmoshpere (or rather of its density as a function of distance from ground).

Unfortunately I don't have access to this reference, so I have another question concerning the TLE:
if I plot the evolution of the excentricity of NOAA 17 since launch, I get a nice sine wave with an approximately 100 day period. Is this actually occuring on the orbit of NOAA 17 or is it an artifact in the TLE related to some precession of the orbit of the satellite ?

Thanks, Jean-Michel

Speaking without having looked at the data, I'd guess it's real. There are a number of perturbations which can cause eccentricity oscillations; this tends to be glossed over in simple discussions of orbital dynamics because it's not usually very important except to people doing high-precision work.

(The exception is that in highly elliptical orbits, eccentricity oscillations can be a very serious problem... as the amateur community has known since the loss of AO-13, and as Boeing found out the hard way on Superbird 6 recently.)

THE BPL FIGHT: MR. HAYNIE TO MEET WITH WHITE HOUSE TELECOM ADVISORS

This weeks top story starts in Dayton Ohio and ends in Washington D-C. It was at the Dayton Hamvention that ARRL President Jim Haynie, W5JBP, announced that he would be meeting with presidential advisors art the White House Telecommunications Office to discuss the Broadband Over Powerline situation. Amateur Radio Newsline was there when a horse but upbeat W5JBP thanked the ham radio community for making the meeting come about: Haynie: “When we ran the story about my FAX’ing the President of the United States a powerful letter, what you helped me do with your letters and your e-mails was to get me an appointment Thursday morning, 10 a.m. in Washington. So you helped me to do that. (applause).

--

The meeting between President Haynie and those advising Peresident Bush on telecommunicastions matters was scheduled for Thursday, May 20th. We will have a full report on it, next week. (ARNewsline(tm))

THE BPL FIGHT: HAM TURNS THE TABLE ON BPL PROPVIDER

Still with BPL news, word that a ham attending an industry sponsored demonstration of the technology in Australia came prepared to do battle. From Brisbane, Q-News reports:

--

A presentation was given by Piero Peroni, who is the Business Manager for the BPL trial within Aurora Energy and Adrian Wild who is the Corporate Affairs

Manager within Aurora Energy.

Martin, VK7GN gave an audible demonstration of the interference on his portable HF receiver and I think it would be fair to say by all accounts the Corporate Affairs Manager was quietly horrified at the noise!

Whether or not the ham radio counter demonstration to Aurora Energy will slow down or stop the rollout of BPL down-under is, at this time unknown. (Q-News)

DAYTON HAMVENTION NEWS: A BIG SUCCESS

Back here in the U-S-A, Jim Haynie’s White House meeting announcement was just another layer of frosting on the very sweet ham radio cake known as the Dayton Hamvention. By all accounts, Hamvention 2004 was as good as any of those in the past and maybe better than some. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Mark Abramovich, NT3V, takes us on an audio tour of this years show:

The big buzz at Dayton was the introduction of two new, top-of-the-line HF radios.

Yaesu introduced thousands of visitors to its booth here to the FT DX 9000 - a radio the company has been developing four years. Here's Chip Margelli K7JA of Yaesu - Vertex Standard.

Over at the competition, Icom introduced showgoers to its sleek, new IC7800. It's already been out for more than a month and Icom representatives concede they underestimated the market demand for this high-end radio.

Here's Ron Rotino, W9WL, represting Icom.

In other Dayton news, Alinco announced a new distributor relationship. Evelyn Garrison WS7A tells Amateur Radio Newsline about the new partnership.

Now Amateur Radio Newsline Editor Bill Pasternak WA6ITF also took in the show besides running his annual Town Hall forum. Bill couldn't help himself when he stopped a the U.S. Towers booth where two lovely sales, eh, models were posing for pictures. Here's the exchange between our own California guy and some young ladies who came to the Dayton Hamvention for the first time..

Behind any Dayton Hamvention is the general chairman. This year Gary De Combes N8EMO took on that enormous responsibility. At the close of the show, he summed it all up for Amateur Radio Newsline.
And how did one of the big radio manufacturers we didn't mention yet think things went. Kenwood's Leo Famie was pleased with this year's event…

And, of course, Chip Margelli, summed up what Yaesu Vertex Standard thought.

Finally, there were lots of new friends and acquaintances made during the Dayton Hamvention 2004. And, despite the rain, spirits of those scouring the flea market for goodies weren't dampened.

It was one for the record books, too, in terms of participation.

Hope to see you here, next year.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, from the convention floor at the Hara Arena - home of the Dayton Hamvention.

As of the time this report is being prepared the Hamvention Committee has not announced a final attendance figure, but several vendors told Amateur Radio Newsline that their sales were way up over the past few years. And thats good news for both the United States economic recovery as well as for Amateur Radio. (ARNewsline(tm))

RESCUE RADIO: HAMS TAKE PART IN SIMULATED AIRPORT DISASTER

Over a hundred ham radio operators from seven counties in two Eastern states, provided emergency communications support for the Saturday, May 8th disaster drill at Dulles International Airport. The exercise consisted of a simulated plane crash and fire. The aim of the session was to provide treatment and transport of 200 volunteer "victims" to area hospitals by helicopter, ambulance and bus. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, picks up the story from here:

Larry Hughs, K3HE, is the Public Information Officer for for the ARRL’s Virginia Section. He tells Newsline that the job of Amateur Radio was to provide communications between agencies at the simulated crash site, those providing patient transportation, and the participating hospitals. To accomplish this, hams from a number of the regions Amateur Radio Emergency Service groups set up several portable repeaters in and around the airport grounds. They also provided a live Amateur Television link between the site and the airport Operations Center. This allowed airport management to monitor the progress of the drill.

Hams also accompanied some of the officials at the simulated crash site to provide instant communications to other temporary operational areas. Others rode the buses that transported ambulatory victims to local hospitals. This gave planners voice communications and real-time position data via Automatic Position Reporting System. Meantime, other radio amateurs were stationed at ten area hospitals. They helped to coordinate the arrival and departure of those simulating the victims of the crash.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, reporting.

Dulles International Airport is in Northern Virginia, near Washington, DC.. Its also not that far from where Al Quida terrorists crashed a jumbo jet into the Pentagon building on September 11th of 2001. Back then ham radio was among the first of the “First Responders” on scene and is credited in helping to save numerous lives. (K3HE, ARNewsline(tm))

RESCUE RADIO: SUIT BLAMES MOTOROLA HT’S IN 911 DEATHS

The families of twelve firefighters killed when the World Trade Center in New York City collapsed on 9-11 have sued the manufacturer of the hand held radios the men were carrying. According to Popular Communications magazine, the five billion dollar action against Motorola and the City of New York claims that Motorola failed to warn the Fire Department that its hand-helds could not transmit or receive in a high rise building. Because of this, the plaintiffs contend that firefighters could not hear an order to evacuate. (Popular Communications)

ENFORCEMENT: NC HAM MAY FACE LICENSE RENEWAL HEARING

A North Carolina ham who allegedly interfered with repeater operation in that area may not get his license renewed. This, as FCC chief rules enforcer Riley Hollingsworth writes to Daniel Barrett, KE4NOK of Kings Mountain to tell him that his application to renew his ticket has been referred to the enforcement arm of the agency by the Wireless Telecommunications Bureau.

According to Hollingsworth’s letter, the action was based on information coming to the Commission's attention that Barrett is alleged to have used his station to interfere with various repeater operations on 145.350, 145.450 and 147.120 MHz and that he ignored requests of repeater control operators to refrain from using their repeaters. Hollingsworth’s note also says that Barrett ignored the Commission Warning letter dated December 24th of 2003 regarding use of and interference to the repeaters and that apparently Barrett’s use of, and interference to, these repeaters continues.

Hollingsworth’s letter tells Barrett that his renewal application will not be routinely granted. Rather, that the Commission may need additional information from KE4NOK in order to determine his qualifications to remain a Commission license. The letter also tells Barrett that it may be necessary to designate his application for an evidentiary hearing before an Administrative Law Judge. In such a proceeding Barrett would be required to appear at a hearing in Washington, DC. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: UNLICENSED BROADCASTER CHALLENGES FCC’s AUTHORITY

An unlicensed radio station taken off the air by the FCC last fall has challenged the regulatory agency in federal court. Attorney Mark Vermeulen, representing San Francisco Liberation Radio, says that the seizure of the station's equipment in an October 2003 raid came without proper notice and violated Constitutional protections of due process and the First Amendment.

In an appearance before U.S. District Judge Susan Illston, Vermeulen argued that -- quote -- "It's a bedrock principle that parties have a right to pre-seizure notice and a right to be heard.

But government attorney Sarah Winslow disagreed with Vermeulen's free speech arguments. She told Judge Illston that there is no First Amendment right to broadcast without a license from the FCC.

The FCC had monitored San Francisco Liberation Radio for years. They eventually tracked the station to a laundry room basement in the San Francisco home of James and Charlotte Hatch. The Hatches never made a secret of their operations. They also claim that they had unsuccessfully sought an FCC license to operate legally. (Published reports)

FOR THE BIRDS: FCC RETAINS BIOLOGICAL CONSULTANT

Remember all those stories about thousands of migratory birds getting killed by running into radio towers? Well the FCC has now retained the services of Avatar Environmental Services of West Chester, Pennsylvania as a biological consultant. This, to assist in fulfilling the FCC's role under the National Environmental Policy Act and other federal environmental statutes.

The CGC Communicator reports that Avatar will give the Commission access to the services of experts with training and experience in evaluating the impact of construction projects on animal and plant species.

According to CGC, Avatar has performed similar services for other agencies. The possible impact of communications towers on migratory birds is one of the immediate pressing issues. (CGC)

RADIO CELEBRATIONS: W6RO AT AGE 25

A big celebration out West in the world of Amateur Radio. This as the Queen Mary Ocean liner ham radio station W6RO turned 25 on April 29th.

W6RO is actually the club call sign of the Associated Radio Amateurs of Long Beach, California. Long Beach is where the retired ocean voyager is permanently birthed and open to the public as a tourist attraction. The club operates the W6RO station which is located in the Wireless Room adjoining the ships historic radio museum.

In its two and a half decades of operation, visiting hams from around the world have called C-Q and made numerous contacts using its gear, and its well known call sign phonetics of W-6-Rolling Ocean. (W6RO)

HAM RADIO BOOKS: NEW VHF PROPAGATION BOOK FROM CQ

CQ Communications has announced the publication of a new resource book for hams active on VHF and UHF bands. Its a book for those who want to learn more about long-distance propagation possibilities available to them.

Titled "VHF Propagation - A Practical Guide for Radio Amateurs" the book examine each of the most common long-distance propagation "modes" found on these bands. Topics covered include tropospheric scatter and ducting, Sporadic-E, Aurora, 6-meters and the F-layer, transequatorial and more. The book then explains how each mode occurs and offer tips on making the most of these band openings.

"VHF Propagation - A Practical Guide for Radio Amateurs" was written by Ken Neubeck, WB2AMU, and Gordon West, WB6NOA. It is available from many ham radio dealers or direct from CQ anytime through the CQ online bookstore. To find it take your web browser to www.cq-amateur-radio.com and then click on “Visit the CQ Store." (CQ)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: BEWARE OF FOREIGN PET CHIPS

Heres a communications story of a different sort, but one that affects anyone with a four legged friend around the house. The United States Humane Society and other animal care organizations are cautioning pet owners that the nation's animal shelters may not have the proper scanning devices to detect and read some foreign manufactured pet identification microchip.

The warning comes as a European company has entered the microchip market and is selling its microchips in approximately 440 veterinary clinics housed in one of the nation's largest pet product retailers. But the company has not yet provided many of the nation's shelters, humane societies and veterinary hospitals with compatible scanners needed to read all the microchips currently in pets. As a result, the animal protection groups recommend that pet owners thinking about getting their pets micro-chipped contact both the chip manufacturer and their local shelter. This, to make certain that compatible 125 kHz scanners are present in their community. (Science OnLine)

THAT FINAL ITEM: UP - UP - AND AWAY

And finally this week, we go back to the Dayton Hamvention where Amateur Radio Newsline ran into one of the nations best known experts in Amateur Radio balloon launches. And does Bill Brown, WB8ELK have a story about recruiting new young hams using high altitude ham radio carrying balloons. Amateur Radio Newsline’s David Black, KB4KCH, has the details:

Bill Brown's class is all about going up up and away--and getting college credit at the same time. Brown teaches a course on building balloon payloads at the University of Alabama in Huntsville--and he makes amateur radio a big part of the curriculum.

--

The ham bands get used not just by the students--but by what goes up. Amateur radio experiments are aboard the payloads students assemble.

RESCUE RADIO: TORNADOES ACROSS THE MID-WEST BRING OUT HAM RADIO COMMUNICATORS

Dozens of tornadoes and severe storms hammered the northern Plains and Midwest in the past week. As phone lines went out and cellular systems got overloaded it was ham radio that was again called on to provide storm spotting and other communications. Amateur Radio Newsline's Don Wilbanks, AE5DW, is here with more:

--

More than a dozen tornadoes swept across southern Nebraska the weekend of May 22nd. According to news reports the tornadoes were part of three days of severe weather that knocked out telephone service and power to hundreds of thousands of people from Nebraska to Michigan to West Virginia.

Hardest hit was Hallam, Nebraska. Hallam is located 25 miles north to Lincoln and is where a 73 year old woman was killed from flying debris. Every building in Hallam was damaged or destroyed and all normal communications was cut off. This prompted the activation of local A-R-E-S units under the leadership of Section Emergency Coordinator Reynolds Davis, K-Zero-G-N-D.

In Lincoln, Joe Eisenberg, K-Zero-N-E-B, was active with the local ham radio Stormwatch. He described this as a terrible weather front and said that ham radio played a key role in the emergency:

Eisenberg: "We went out on Stormewatch early in the evening and had spotters throughout the whole county and our spotters in the South part of the county began observing the extremely heavy rain, wind and hale, especially near the Hallem area. One of our spotters saw a semi that had been blown off the road."

Downed power lines and leaking propane tanks littered the Hallam, prompting the Nebraska National Guard to surround the community Sunday to keep people from entering. Newsline spoke to Sandy Ramsey of the Office of Emergency Management in Lincoln who had a lot of praise for the role that Amateur Radio is playing:

--

Ramsy: "The hams out there as storm spotters. They are just invaluable to us. They're our eyes and ears. We are in the E-O-C and they're our eyes in the field and we just couldn't do this without them. They are really an invaluable part of what we do."

--

But Nebraska was not the only place where hams were put on alert or activated. Iowa and central Michigan were also hard hit and the front also caused power and phone outages in southern Michigan, Wisconsin, northern Illinois and Iowa and northwest Ohio. On Monday night the 24th, Iowa was drenched by yet another wave of powerful thunderstorms, even as residents of the town of Independence waited for a flooded local stream to recede.

The wave of storms swept eastward early Tuesday. Illinois had high wind that damaged several structures near Jacksonville. State Police said a twister damaged a home south of Springfield.

And all across the region ham radio operators remained on alert. As we go to air their work is still ongoing and we will have more in future reports.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Don Wilbanks, AE5DW in New Orleans.

A total of 81 tornadoes were confirmed to have touched down in the region on Saturday as a weather front stalled over the area. As we go to air, ham radio is still involved in the aftermath of the storms. (ARNewsline, K0NEB)

THE BPL FIGHT: MR. HAYNIE GOES TO WASHINGTON REDUX

ARRL President Jim Haynie, W5JBP, says his meeting with White House telecommunications advisors on B-P-L issues was both revealing and encouraging. Amateur Radio Newsline's Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, has the latest:

Haynie says he and ARRL representatives met with Richard Russell, the White House associate director of technology in the Office of Science and Technology Policy in Washington D.C.

Haynie knew going in that the Bush administration's policy was clear: B-P-L is something that's good for America. But Haynie says Russell did offer assurances, especially in light of the interference findings about B-P-L contained in the National Telecommunications and Information Administration report.

"He did emphasize the fact that they would address the interference issues aggressively," Haynie says. "And I'm going to take him at his word at that. That they will do that.

"And I'm sure the FCC has taken note of the interference issues that NTIA has raised and as the representative for the amateur radio community, I intend to stay on top of it.

"We're not going to let this thing slide from that standpoint. They have the rules and they're printed and they're there. And we're going to make sure that they abide by those rules."

Haynie says it was clear from the start that Russell is beholden to the political agenda of the Bush administration.

"Mr. Russell heard what we had to say all right, but I think he was already predisposed to the fact that to anybody on the street - and I'm talking about the uninformed person that doesn't know about technology, broadband over powerline, where you can just plug your computer into the wall ,any wall outlet -does sound like a good thing," Haynie says. "And, I understand that.

"But on the other hand, there are issues that have to be dealt with and one of the examples I gave Mr. Russell was the fact that we could all lower our electric bills if we could burn high-sulfur coal.

"And he said, 'Well the EPA wouldn't let you do that.' I said, 'That's my point exactly. The FCC should be standing there, overseeing the rules about spectrum pollution.' I think I made my point."

Haynie says, upon reflection, one reality in the whole B-P-L debate is becoming crystal clear.

"I honestly do believe there's a disconnect between the engineers in the field, the engineers at the commission who actually understand the physics of the issue versus the politicians who are driving it," Haynie says. " I'm convinced now that's what it is. This is no longer a science issue, an issue of facts, it's an issue of politics and that disappoints me."

However, Haynie says in recent weeks certain admissions by utilities trying to work with the amateur community are significant.

"In the beginning, everybody said from the industry side that there was no interference," Haynie says. "Now they're actually saying, 'Yes, there is and we'll try to mitigate it, we'll try to work with you.' That in itself is a big step."

Haynie says there also are admissions that one major interference solution touted by B-P-L proponents - notching - just doesn't do the job across the board.

"Finally some of the people are admitting, 'OK we don't have a point-source radiator anymore, we have a continuous-source radiator such as a power line.' And they're saying that the notching techniques will work and we've actually found out that they don't work that well," Haynie says.

"The notches are not that exact. And, when it says that they notch something about 3db or 6db, that's still not enough. It has to be notched by at least 30 in order to get back down to where the amateurs can function. And that's going to be a big challenge for the industry."

Haynie says anybody studying the issue of broadband technology sees the B-P-L investment is not a good one because of the growing emphasis on creating a wireless network.

"Quite frankly, in my personal opinion, the broadband over powerlines is going to be a real flash-in-the-pan because other technologies are going to overtake it very quickly," Haynie says.

"Whenever people say they want to plug their computer into any outlet in the wall, then my question is: 'Then, why do you have a cordless phone?' And WiFi and WiMax enter that challenge by being able to go anywhere in your house and let your laptop down whether it be on your couch or in your easychair and operate broadband.

"And I think that technology is going to be the real answer to people that need that type of high-speed internet access."

Haynie says the B-P-L battle is far from over. He says the strategy now is to press regulators - especially the FCC - to enforce the interference rules.

"Hold everybody's feet to the fire on the rules," Haynie says. "And the encouraging sign I've seen in the last week or so is the fact that more and more utilities have said that they didn't think it was a viable option for them and have opted out.

"Interestingly enough, the city of Manassas now is advertising for another provider. I found that extremely curious and very interesting."

Finally, Haynie concedes the ARRL has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on the B-P-L issue and it's looking to the amateur community to get behind the league and its work.

"People are working overtime," Haynie says. "We are burning the candle at both ends and all I would ask is the amateurs support the organization and what we're trying to do in this effort."

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia.

RADIO LAWS: CALIFORNIA TO FINE DISTRACTED DRIVERS

California drivers who are distracted for any reason and whose actions attract law enforcement may soon face fines by eating, combing their hair or talking on a cellular telephone. This if a bill passed on May 18th by the state senate and bend to the Assembly is eventually made law. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, has more in this report:

It was called S B 1800 when Senator Kevin Murray introduced it to the California State Senate back in February. It went unnoticed by the Amateur Radio community until about a week ago when the Senate passed it and delivered to the State Assembly for further action.
That's
when news outlets state wide ran banner headlines saying that the state legislature might make it a crime to be distracted in any way -- while operating a motor vehicle in the Golden state. And that is exactly what the measure would do.

As written, the Murray bill would make it an crime for a person to operate a vehicle in an unsafe manner that results from engaging in a distracting activity while driving. What is a distracting activity?

Well according to the Senator it is just about anything. Eating or drinking, smoking, reading or writing, interacting with children, animals, passengers, or objects in the vehicle, adjusting the controls of an audio or other entertainment device, or even talking on a hands free cellular telephone. And it is the last two items that could easily impact on ham radio operators or any other two way radio user that a police officer might regard as distracted just because he or she has a microphone in hand or is changing frequencies on a radio.

The bill does say that a law enforcement officer may not stop a vehicle when a driver is engaging in a distracting activity unless the officer observes that the vehicle is being operated in an unsafe manner. But it is left to the officer to decide what unsafe really is under other areas of California state law.

The proposed law does not single out or target Amateur Radio operators for enforcement, but it does not exempt hams either. In fact, the only exemptions are police, fire and emergency services but even this is limited. The measure states that an emergency service professional would be exempt from these restrictions when using a wireless telephone or other electronic device, but only as part of the course and scope of his or her duties.

What about penalties? The bill would require a first offense to be punished by a fine of $35, and a second or subsequent offense that occurs within 2 years of a prior conviction for the infraction to be punished by a fine of $150.

Also, being permitted to continue driving in California and get insurance means that you have to keep your violation points count low. Any person whose driving record shows a violation count of 4 or more points in 12 months, 6 or more points in 24 months, or 8 or more points in 36 months be presumed to be a negligent operator of a motor vehicle. This bill would prohibit a first-time violation from being given a point value, but would mandate that a 2nd or subsequent violation within 2 years to be given a value of one point. And even 2 points can cost a lot of dollars when you go to renew an auto insurance policy.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, in Los Angeles.

Supporters of the proposed law cite studies blaming distractions for 25 to 30 percent of all vehicle crashes. Opponents say that the bill goes too far in meddling with the civil rights of individuals. This group vows a court fight if the measure gets signed into law. RESTRUCTURING: FCC CHAIRMAN SAYS RESTRUCTURING CONTINUING

FCC Chairman Michael Powell has told U-S representatives Greg Walden, W7EQI, and Mike Ross, WD5DVR, that the Commission will act 'as expeditiously as possible' on Amateur Radio restructuring. This, in response to a letter from Walden and Ross a month ago that urged the FCC to adopt the ARRL's restructuring Petition for Rule Making in its entirety along with rules changes needed to put it into place.

But in his response, Powell said the League's petition was one of many. There are 18 in all. An ARRL bulletin says that judging from the FCC Chairman's letter to Walden and Ross, it would appear as if the regulatory agency plans to address all 18 petitions within the framework of a single rule making proceeding. (ARRL)

ENFORCEMENT: 75 METER IN INTERFERENCE BRINGS FAA REFERRAL

A California ham is under FCC scrutiny for alleged interference to ongoing Amateur Radio communications. The FCC's Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, is here with more:

Duckworth: "AE6QD, Steve L. Wingate, of Corte Madera, California, has been sent a warning letter regarding malicious interference on 75 meters. This consists of jamming, making threats to other operators and to law enforcement officers, and broadcasts in which he appears incoherent."

The FCC warned Wingate that continued incidents of such interference will subject him to license suspension and revocation proceedings, as well as a possible fine of $7,500 to $10,000. And in an unusual twist, the FCC says that since Wingate also holds a pilot's license, this matter is also being referred to the Federal Aviation Administration as well. (FCC, RAIN)

ENFORCEMENT: FINES AFFIRMED AGAINST TWO ALLEGED PIRATES

Fines of $10,000 each have been affirmed by the FCC against Jason Green and Gary Feldman. The regulatory agency alleges that the two are pirate broadcasters in Florida who reportedly operated on 91.9 Mhz. The FCC says that neither filed a responses to the Commission's initial findings in the case. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: A "RADIO SUMMER CAMP" TO TRAIN MORE PIRATES

Now here's one that we know will interest the FCC enforcement folks.
Writers to the CGC Communicator report that budding radio pirates can learn how to buy or build FM transmitters and get on the air this summer. This at four-day "workshop" sessions, at least one of which will be bilingual.

Not only that. CGC readers also report that the event promoters will have transmitter and antenna kits available to attendees. For more on these strange educational check out www.freeradio.org. (CGC)

RADIO LAW: AIR FORCE JAMS GARAGE DOOR OPENERS

A new military radio system is jamming remote-control garage doors in communities near this Florida Panhandle base. During testing of the $5.5 million two-way radio system at Eglin Air Force Base, homeowners in Niceville, Valparaiso and the Crestview area reported that their garage door openers failed to work or went wild by themselves.

According to Air Force officials the contractor, Motorola Inc., will try to minimize the problem. Technicians will run the system on slightly different frequencies from those used by garage door openers when another test is conducted.

But an FCC spokesperson had some bas news for local homeowners. Lauren Van Wazer, said that if the Air Force has been running the system within its licensed frequencies then the users of garage door openers may have to change the operating frequencies of theirs.

By the way, the Navy says that a similar radio system has been requested for Pensacola Naval Air Station and other nearby installations. (Published reports)

NEW PRODUCTS: THE TNC WIZARD

Creative Services Software has announced the release of version 1.0 of the Kantronics and Timewave TNC Wizard. This program searches for your TNC and sound card on both serial ports and TCP/IP networks.

Creative's Rick Ruhl, W4PC, says that the TNC wizard works with built in serial ports in the TNC, USB to serial adapters and TCP/IP to serial interfaces. It also has an option to detect the soundcard in the computer and add that information to the PacTerm or PkTerm startup files without any additional setup needed at install time.

The TNC Wizard requires Windows 98 or later, with TCP/IP installed. There is no cost for the TNC wizard and it can be downloaded from the CSS website at http://www.cssincorp.com (CSS)

WORLDBEAT - IRAN: IARU TRAINING PRESENTED

Turning to international news, word that the I-A-R-U recently presented an Amateur Radio Administration Course in Iran. Amateur Radio Newsline's Jim Meachen Zed-L-2-B-H-F in Auckland New Zealand brings the details:

PKG HERE: In response to an invitation from the administration of the Islamic Republic of Iran, Fred Johnson ZL2AMJ representing the IARU Region 3 and Daniel Lamoureux VE2KA representing the IARU International Secretariat visited Iran to present a three-day Amateur Radio Administration Course, 26 to 28 April 2004. Fred Johnson ZL2AMJ takes up his story:

ZL2AMJ:

Since the early 1980s this course has been conducted by IARU in various forms in countries all over the world and in response to invitations from administrations to train regulators and prospective regulators in the administering of the amateur service and amateur satellite service. Related objectives include managing disaster relief communications and organizing an amateur radio society.

Our recent course in Tehran was arranged by Mr T. Shafiee and Mr M. Zomorodi of the Directorate General of Telecommunications. An excellent training room was provided for us with full support facilities including a data projector and access to a photocopier. Daniel and myself presented our course using PowerPoint displays prepared by IARU and each of the 16 participants received printed copies of the displays and many other documents and two CD-ROMs with documentation about amateur radio.

We had discussions with many radio amateurs in Tehran, some of whom attended the course. The course participants visited EP3PTT, a station established in the Ministry's office premises in Tehran. The equipment in this station was provided for Iran amateurs by from the IARU Region 3 Stars program and may be operated by licensed Iranian operators by arrangement.

There have been amateur radio societies in Iran in earlier years but there has not been an IARU member society. An amateur radio "club", a social meeting group, presently meets in Tehran.

ZL2BHF: ZL2AMJ reported the course as a most memorable experience. He said that Daniel and himself were warmly received.

From Auckland New Zealand I'm Jim Meachen ZL2BHF for Newsline.

Contact between the IARU and the amateurs and the administration of Iran is to continue with further Amateur Radio information to be provided. (ARNewsline(tm))

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1399 June 4, 2004

Amateur Radio Nerwsline Report number 1399 will follow in a few moments. First, this important announcement from our Support Fund Administrator Andy Jarema, N6TCQ:

The following is not necessarilly for retransmission. I guess you already know that if you are hearing my voice on a closed-circuit advisory it means that Newsline is again facing a financial crisis.

Well, you're right. The funds are so low that we may not be able to pay the bills from May. Worse, for the first time in our history, we even do not have the money to send a representative to Huntsville this summer to present the 2004 Young Ham of the Year Award. And in two words --- "that's bad." "Real bad."

The solution to both of these problems really lies with you. Our world-wide all volunteer staff produces these newscasts for you. The all volunteer Young Ham of the Year Committee labors tirelessly each year to select a youngster to receive the Award. Joe Eisenberg, K0NEB, oversees the Newsline sponsored Roy Neal, K6DUE, Amateur Radio Mentoring Project database, doing so at no cost. The list goes on and on.

I too am a volunteer, but I have to be the realist. I'm the accountant who has to look at the bottom line and when it turns red, I have to say -- hold on -- there is no more money to continue. And that's about where we are right now.

So, here's the bottom line. If you want the newscasts to continue. If you want the mentoring program to continue and the Young Ham of the Year Award to continue, we need you to show it now -- right now -- through your financial support of Amateur Radio Newsline.

Remember that Amateur Radio Newsline is a federally chartered 501(C)(3) and California state not-for-profit corporation. This makes your donations tax deductible, whether you're an individual or a club.
The address to send them to is the Amateur Radio Newsline Support Fund, Post Office Box 660937, Arcadia California 91066. If you missed the address don't worry. It will be repeated at the end of this week's report.

For now I thank you for listening, for responding and offer you this weeks newscast which follows immediately.

RESCUE RADIO: HAMS AID AS TORNADOES CONTINUE

Strong storms with funnel clouds raced across Indiana during the Memorial Day holiday forcing thousands of Indianapolis residents and race fans alike to take shelter from tornadoes. Jack Parker W8ISH was tracking the storm that left behind a train of devastation while putting radio amateurs on alert.

For the city of Indianapolis, the Race Day storms could not have happened at a worse time. Hundreds of thousands of people were in town for the 88th running of the Indianapolis 500 mile race and for the NBA Playoff game between the Indiana Pacers and the Detroit Pistons. The rain delayed race was nearing the end when race officials threw out the checkered flag and warned nearly 400 thousand race fans to immediately take shelter.

Accordling to early reports an F3 tornado passed just south of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway and began its destructive path across the south and east side of Marion county. Hundreds of central Indiana amateur radio operators were kept busy from Sunday morning until late Sunday evening tracking the funnel clouds and reporting ground truth observations back to the National Weather Service office in Indlianapolis.

While the Pacers took on the Detroit Pistons, tornado sirens blared outside, motorists got stuck in traffic jams, and tree limbs and debris were tossed into roadways. A funnel cloud described as two blocks wide, tore the roof off a nursing home leaving nearly fifty bed-ridden patients without shelter. They spent over an hour out in the pouring rain as rescue personel attended to their injuries. Downed power lines, flooded streets and massive amounts of debris from damaged homes made it difficult for Indianapolis police and fire personnel to reach those in need.

According to the National Weather Service more than a dozen tornadoes had touched down in 10 Indiana counties. This was the third time in three years that powerful tornadoes have ripped across central and southern Indiana.

Reporting from Indianapolis, for Amateur Radio Newsline, this is Jack Parker W8ISH

Marengo in southern Indiana was hard hit, with at least one fatality, four injuries and numerous homes damaged or destroyed. But Indiana was not alone in dealing with weather related problems. According to news reports several people in Kansas and Nebraska were injured by the weekend's tornadoes which also ripped through parts of those states. Ham radio was on alert there as well. More on this ongoing story in future Amateur Radio Newsline reports. (ARNewsline(tm), W8ISH)

THE BPL FIGHT: REPLY COMMENT DEADLINE EXTENDED TO JUNE 22

The FCC has extended the deadline to file reply comments on already filed responses in its broadband over power line Notice of Proposed Rule Making ET Docket 04-37. The FCC granted the extension based on requests from the National Antenna Consortium and the Amherst Alliance.

The two organizations had sought to have the FCC postpone the filing comment deadline until either September 1 or two months after the public release of the NTIA's Phase 2 study -- whichever was later. The Commission responded that in its view an additional three weeks should be ample time to respond to any NTIA submission.

The FCC does not routinely grant such time extensions, and it denied earlier petitions, including filings from the ARRL. Now it has relented and has set a new Reply Comment deadline of Tuesday, June 22nd. (ARRL)

RESTRUCTURING: MORE COUNTRIES DROP CW

More restructuring has taken place in Europe. The GB2RS News Service reports that Finland has now officially dropped the Morse code requirement for that nations hams to have access to the High Frequency bands. GB2RS says that Finland actually deleted the Morse requirement on the 1st of November of 2003. Now, with the latest rules revisions there are now there are only two classes of amateur license in that European nation.

Also from GB2RS word that former French Class 2 licensees with F1 and F4 callsign prefixes are now being heard on the High Frequency bands.
According to the French national amateur radio society, this change was implemented on May 16th.

But C-W is far from dying or dead on the other side of the Atlantic. In fact the fourth European High Speed Telegraphy Championships take place the 15th through the 19th of September in Montenegro and Serbia.
(GB2RS)

RESTRUCTURING: NEW ZEALAND SAYS GOODBYE TO MORSE

Finland and France are not alone in saying goodbye to Morse code testing. So has a nation down-under.

On June 4th New Zealand's Telecommunications regulators issued a decree that says Morse proficiency testing has ended and thatNew Zealand Limited Class operators will soom have access to the high frequency bands. In fact, regulators have decided to upgrade Limited Class operators to the New Zealand General Class.

According to the notice, operators will not be required change their callsigns or take any other action.. The new rules go into effect on June 17th. (ZL2BHF)

ENFORCEMENT: POLICE JAMMER GETS 8 YEARS IN PRISON

A man convicted of jamming a Wisconsin emergency service radio system will spend the next 8 years behind Federal prison bars. Amateur Radio Newsline's David Black, KB4KCH, is at the south-east bureau with the details:

--

University of Wisconsin graduate student Rajib Mitra faces eight years in prison after being convicted of intentionally jamming public safety radio communications. The 25-year-old Mitra was sentenced by a federal judge as a domestic terrorist under the Patriot Act which punishes substantial disruption of a critical public infrastructure.

The computer science student converted a radio receiver to transmit tones that interfered with the 800 MHz emergency radio system used by Madison police, fire and paramedics. In all, Mitra was accused of interfering with public safety communications 37 times last year. He told a federal judge the incidents were accidental--the result of a loose wire. But the judge likened that to a fairy tale, and increased Mitra's sentence for perjury. The disruptions happened between January and October, 2003.

Assistant U-S Attorney Tim O'Shea says Mitra's crime stems more from immaturity than ideology. O'Shea says the case was about domestic terrorism, not like what happened in New York City September 11th 2001, but by the immaturity of the defendant.

Testimony included reports about disruptions that prevented police officers from communicating with each other while making arrests, keeping paramedics from getting patient information to hospital staffs and decreased safety for firefighters while on calls.

In one incident, Mitra was accused of interfering with communications for three hours on Halloween night. He was also convicted of downloading pornographic sounds from the Internet and broadcasting them over police channels.

Mitra could have been sentenced to two years in prison. He also faces three years probation and has been ordered to pay more than 6-thousand dollars to the Madison Police Department.

From the South-East bureau in Birmingham, Alabama, I'm David Black, KB4KCH, for the Amateur Radio Newsline.

--

Its not known if the government will use Mitra's conviction under the Patriot Act as the basis of prosecution of others acused of the same type of crime. (ARNewsline(tm) from Capital Times, others)

ENFORCEMENT: RESTERAUNT FINED $10,000 FOR USING 2 METERS

Remember the case of Best Wok? The New Jersey resteraunt that was warned by the FCC to stop using an illegal high power 2 meter cordless

telephone to coordinate deliveries but which continued to do so anyhow?

Well, that decision by the store manager is going to cost the company $10,000. Thats the amount of the fine that the FCC has levvied against Best Work for transmitting on 145.8376 MHz without Commission authorization. The resteraunt was given the customary 30 days rto pay up or to file an appeal. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: RIGHT APPLICATION - WRONG BURTON

The FCC admits that it made a mistake when it announced that it had sent a warning letter to a former California ham and designated his GMRS radio service application for a hearing. What happened?
Amateur
Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, tries to sort it all out:

--

The FCC recently announced that it had sent another warning letter to Richard A. Burton, the ex-WB6JAC. This, warning him about operating without a license and designating his GMRS application for review.

Only one problem. The regulatory agency had the wrong Richard A.
Burton.

It turns out that it was a Richard A. Burton in another state who, this time, applied for a GMRS license. It was not the Richard A.
Burton who lives in California.

Complicating thins further the California Richard A. Burton had filed for a GMRS license over a year ago. He voluntarily rescinded his application after the FCC set it aside for review.

So what happened? According to a note in the ARRL Letter, the FCC was acting on the belief that the latest GMRS application had come from the California Richard A. Burton. And mistakenly, the regulatory agency designated it for hearing.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennnant, K6PZW, in Los Angeles.

--

By the way, we did a search on the QRZ.com callsign supersite. We found that there are 12 hams that have the name Richard Burton living in North America. Of these one is a Richard A. Burton but he does not live anyplace near the Richard Burton who was seeking the GMRS license. (ARRL, others)

ENFORCEMENT: TO MANY CALL SIGN CHANGES

The FCC is asking a New York, ham why he has filed over a dozen call sign change requests with the agency in the past four years. Since August 29, 2000, Kiyoshi L. Nakamura of Buffalo has held the call signs K3DJ, KJ6UZ, AD1L, K3DJ again, KH6DJ, AD1L again, K3DJ for a third time, AD2R, AD1L for a third time , AD2R, WH7S, AD1L for a forth time and AD2R for a second time. And on May 4th, he again filed a call sign change request. This time he wants to give up AD2R and get back to K3DJ for the fourh time.

In its letter to Nakamura, the FCC says that his numerous call sign change applications raise questions about apparent abuse of the licensing system. This says the FCC that with limited exceptions, each call sign would be blocked by Commission rules from being reassigned to another licensee for two years.

So, the FCC gave Nakamura 20 days from the date of its inquiry letter to respond. He was told to state his intentions regarding the filing of these applications. He was also told to coose one and only one call sign that he actually wants to keep. (FCC)

RADIO HONORS: AMATEUR RADIO MONTH IN NH

June is now Amateur Radio Month in New Hampshire. This, as Governor Craig Benson issues a proclamation honoring the states radio amateurs for their dedication and the service for its almost 100 year history of contributions to the advancement of communications technology.

First issued by the New Hampshire State Legislature in 1985, each succeeding Governor has recognized the role of the states Amateur Radio operators during the month of June. 2004 marks the 19th consecutive year that these proclamations have been issued. (Via e-mail)

TECHNOLOGY: IS IT BYE-BYE TO VHS?

Home recording using tape as a medium seems to be on its way out. According to the Consumer Electronics Association, in 2003, movie watchers rented more DVDs than VHS tapes. Also, DVD sales increased by 30% while the sale of VHS VCR's dropped by an unexpected 50% in 2003.

Whats replacing the venerable VHS system? Hard disk recorders like TIVO which have been dropping in price over the last twelve months. When combined with satellite or cable TV, these devices make delaying a program to watch later as easy as 1-2-3. (Science OnLine)

RADIO LAW: FREQUENCY COORDINATION FOR THE 2004 NATIONAL POLITICAL CONVENTIONS

Remember a few years ago when the ARRL became the FCC's
"single Point of Contact" or spoc on repeater related matters? Well how about one for this years political conventions? Well that honor has gone to a New York based consulting engineer. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, has more:

At the request of the Frequency Coordinating Committee for the 2004 Political Conventions the FCC has designated Louis Libin, as the single point of contact -- or spoc -- for coordinating broadcast R-F operations. This, under Section 74.24 of the agency's Rules.

Libin will oversee all RF operations for broadcasters in Boston from July 26th through July 29th and in New York City from August 30th through September 2nd. Nor is this the first time for him to do so either. Louis Libin is considered one of the worlds foremost authorities in the area of RF compatibility and has worked on numerous televised events over the years.

For the Amateur Rafio Newsline, I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, in Los Angeles.

RADIO LAW: 811 PROPOSED AS A NATIONWIDE CALL-BEFORE-DIGGING NUMBER

The FCC is asking for comments on a proposal to adopt "811" as a nationwide call-before-digging number. The regulatory agency believes that this will give excavators one simple number to call to avoid cutting buried cables, gas lines and other important infrastructure.

Currently there are 70 nationwide "One Call" centers that serve different geographic areas. They are generally accessed by dialing toll-free or local telephone numbers. The FCC however believes that having one simple number to call like 811 should promote safety and lead to fewer utility outages.

Want to know more? It's all on-line at http://hraunfoss.fcc.gov/edocs_public/attachmatch/DOC-247171A1.doc (CGC)

RADIO LAW: COURT UPHOLDS CABLE RULING

Meantime, the FCC is considering a Supreme Court appeal in cable Internet access dispute. This, after a federal appeals court says that it is standing by its October ruling that cable TV operators should open their lines to rivals who also want to use them to sell high-speed Internet service.

The Federal Communications Commission asked the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to revisit the decision, but the court declined to do. If upheld, the circuit's decision would likely subject cable operators to the same rules as local phone companies, who are forced to lease their lines to rival providers of phone service and D-S-L Internet access. (Published reports)

ON THE AIR: FRENCH RULES CHANGE SPAWNS DX OPERATION

FT1ZL is on Amsterdam Island and is expected to become active soon. This, after the French have change their licensing structure to grant holders of that nations VHF only license operating privileges on the High Frequency bands.

French stations with the numeral 1 or 4 in their prefix can now operate the low bands using all modes except A1A, A2A, F1A and F2A. FT1ZL will use his new found privileges on 20, 17, 15, 12 and 10 meters SSB during his Amsterdam Island stay. (Internet)

DX

In D-X, IK4RUX says that he plans to operate portable IF1 from Favignana. He will be found on SSB and C-W from the June 19 to the 26
th. QSL this operation direct or via the ARI Bureau. (GB2RS)

And K8AQM reports that his upcoming trip to Samoa will take place July 7th to the 21st. He will operate as 5WZ0TR from the Samoan Village Resort on 160 though 10 meters. Modes will be CW, SSB, RTTY and PSK. All QSLs are via K8AA at his callbook address. (OPDX)

THAT FINAL ITEM: BANNED BY ONE WORD

And finally this week, the tale of why hams in Thailand were not allowed to talk to hams in other parts of the world for a number of years. The truth be known, it was all because of a three letter word. Here's Q-News Graham Kemp. VK4BB, with the rest of the story:

AMSAT NEWS SERVICE - Special Bulletin

SB SAT @ AMSAT $ANS-165.07
ECHO arrives in Baikonur

AMSAT News Service Bulletin 165.07 From AMSAT HQ
SILVER SPRING, MD. June 13, 2004
To All RADIO AMATEURS
BID: $ANS-165.07

Chuck Green, N0ADI, who is travelling with ECHO to do the final testing and integration at the launch site, reports that they both arrived safely at the hotel on Saturday, 12 June 2004. Since 12 June is the Russian Independence Day holiday, further work on ECHO had to wait until the following day.

On 13 June 2004 Chuck reports, "This is our first day working on ECHO to get it ready for launch. It is about 40 km to the integration facility. The bus took almost 1.5 hours to get there today. We went slow today because we were carrying lots of satellites. Each day we will go to the integration facility and return to the hotel on the bus so we must manage our work to match the bus schedule. We leave the hotel at 8am and return at the hotel about 7pm. Most days the trip will take about one hour each way"

Once the team arrived at the launch site they were then given a safety briefing. During the briefing the shipping containers were cleaned and placed in the clean room. With the team was dressed in clean room garb and in the clean room, ECHO was taken out of it's shipping case and set it up on our table. The bottom antennas were installed along with the bottom solar panel, magnet, and corner reflectors.

Chuck said, "Then we turned ECHO on and successfully communicated with it over the umbilical from my computer." He continued, "We then went through most of the test procedure and everything looks good so far."

The four two meter receivers and the two 70 cm transmitters were successfully tested. Tomorrow, 14 June 2004, there will be additional testing of the SQRX.

[ANS thanks Chuck N0ADI for the above information]

I have been very interested in sending signals and messages out into space. I feel that it is possible to contact God, or maybe something else doing this. I am not alone in this feeling. There is now even a brand new company that will send messages from average people out into space, the problem is they are charging money for the service. I am trying to organize a free peer directed project of people interested in broadcasting messages to space for the purposes of talking to God or reaching someone beyond this world. Right now I am operating without any equipment of my own, but I have one friend who operates a powerful IR Diode pointed straight up at the sky who is delivering messages for this project. We have recently launched a website where we offer as a free service to everyone, use of the equipment to broadcast their messages into space. If you have any radio broadcasting or similar equipment and would like to get involved in an open project of this sort, I would love to make a special place on the web page for you or link to your own web page. It is not necessary that you have heavy duty equipment that can broadcast clear messages to space. Radio signals propagate forever and who we are sending the messages to does not need to have a very clear signal to receive our messages. I plan on getting some equipment of my own very soon, and the website is still very new. Once people start broadcasting their messages to space from our page, I am going to create some PHP scripts and a mySQL database that handles logging all of the messages on the page so everyone can see them, and has a place where you can input messages into the database. Right now I am simply taking peoples messages through email and manually adding them to the websites code. If any of this sounds like a fun project, you can get involved simply by sending a message through our service. This is a research project and we will broadcast everyones messages for free, but I can not guarontee whoever you want to talk to in space will get back to you... if you are in the mood, you can check us out at

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1400 June 11, 2004

The following is an advisory and not necessarily for air. Ladies and gentlemen, Amateur Radio Newslines' Support Fund Administrator, Andy Jarema, N6TCQ:

This is Andy Jarema, N6TCQ, Newsline Support Fund Administrator, getting caught up with our supporters. In the month of August of last year we heard from The Reading, PA Radio Club, W3BN; Joseph Bartzi, Jr., KC8DKF of Columbus, OH; The North Hills Radio Club in Sacramento, CA; monthly contributor William Walters, WA2IBM, of San Jose and monthly contributor Scott Hensley of the Area Communications Team, also in San Jose

Thank you to everyone, and we promise to do our best to continue to earn your care and support. A reminder that Newsline is a federally chartered 501c 3 California non-profit corporation. FCC regulations prohibit us from telling you exactly how to support us, but that information is on our website at www.arnewsline.org. That address will be repeated at the end of the newscast.

I'm Andy Jarema, N6TCQ.

Thank you Andy. Now, Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1400 with a release date of Friday, June 11 2004 follows in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T.

Australia to make big changes in its Amateur Radio service, Greece will welcome hams at the 2004 Summer Olympics and Amateur Radio Newsline celebrates 1400 weeks of service to the world-wide ham radio community. It all comes your way, right now!

RESTRUCTURING: BIG CHANGES DOWN-UNDER

Big changes are coming to ham radio down-under. This, as Australia announces some sweeping changes that are about to take place in that nations Amateur Radio service. Owen Duffy reports:

The ACA has released their report entitled "Outcomes of the Review of Amateur Service Regulation". The report contains the ACA's intended changes to the Amateur service following stakeholder response to the recent discussion paper entitled "A Review of Amateur Service Regulation."

The key changes are removal of the Morse qualification requirements for all grades of amateur radio license; introduction of a new entry level license (the Foundation License) along the lines of the UK Foundation License, although it will be adapted to suit Australian preferences.

A three tier licensing structure: Advanced, Standard, and Foundation; translation of Unrestricted, Limited and Intermediate licenses to Advanced; translation of Novice and Novice Limited licenses to Standard; a privileges package for the Standard License that is much greater than enjoyed by Novice Licenses today.

A generous privileges package for the Foundation License allows voice or Morse code at low power (10W PEP) using only unmodified commercial transmitting equipment on all of 80m, 40m, 15m, 10m, 2m, and most of 70cm.

Australian participation in CEPT Recommendation T/R 61-01 (reciprocal licensing) is in progress. The status-quo is essentially preserved in respect to higher operating power; interference and interference management built on current arrangements.

Apparatus Licensing as the vehicle for licensing Australian amateur stations (though stations licensed under CEPT Recommendation T/R 61-01 would be class licensed). State significance of callsigns remains.

This has been Owen Duffy for the CQVK project on Q-News Australia.

--

As we go to air, no effective date for these changes to take place has been announced by the Australian Communications Agency. (Q-News)

INTERNATIONAL: THE BIG DISPUTE

Two Asian Pacific nations are embroiled in a territorial dispute and Amateur Radio appears to be caught right in the middle. Q-News Graham Kemp, VK4BB, is in Brisbane with the details:

--

A centuries-old territorial dispute between Japan and South Korea is again escalating with the South Koreans placing a group of amateur radio operators on the rocky islets known in Korea as the Lonely Islands. To the Japanese they are the Bamboo Islands.

The radio station, licensed by South Korea, was seen as a provocation by the Japanese. Some amateur radio operators in JA are said to have interfered with the South Korean stations transmissions.

I'm Graham Kemp, VK4BB, of Q-News for the Amateur Radio Newsline.
--

Kemp says that hams around the world were surprised to hear about the dispute. This is because our hobby stresses development of technologic skill along with friendly international communications. (Q-News)

RESCUE RADIO: THE NEBRASKA TORNADO AFTERMATH

Back on this side of the Pacific Amateur Radio operators were on duty aiding tornado-stricken communities in Nebraska and elsewhere in the Midwest. Norm Seeley, KI7UP, picks up the story from here:

As we reported last week, a May 22nd tornado virtually destroyed most structures in the small town of Hallam, Nebraska. Hallam is located some 20 miles south of Lincoln and one death there was attributed to the storm.

During and after the tornado ham radio was an important part of the overall emergency service effort. The ARRL Letter quotes Nebraska Section Emergency Coordinator Reynolds Davis, K-zero-G-N-D, as saying that Lancaster County ARES and SKYWARN spotters were activated that evening in response to a report of an approaching front. Within a half-hour, W0NWS at the National Weather Service office was receiving tornado damage reports via the Lincoln Amateur Radio Club K0KKV repeater.

The storm severely damaged a high school in Norris, Nebraska, and plucked the tower supporting the K0RPT repeater's south region receiver from the ground. The tornado went on to demolish additional homes to the northeast. Its path of destruction finally ended south of the town of Bennet.

Once the SKYWARN Nets closed, the remainder of the K0RPT system was put into service to support Red Cross communications between the tornado scene, the chapter house and a shelter set up in a Lincoln high school for residents displaced by the storm. Two ARES nets were activated May 23rd to coordinate damage survey and assessment. They logged reports via K0EOC at the Lancaster County Emergency Operations Center.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, Norm Seeley, KI7UP

More news after a break for you to identify your station. Cue the announcer, please:

"From the United States of America, we are the Amateur Radio Newsline, heard on bulletin stations around the world including the K2SBD repeater serving Long Island. New York."

(5 sec pause here)

WITH NEWSLINE: SEND US YOUR ID - PLEASE

The station I-D you just heard was recorded a few weeks ago at the Dayton Hamvention. And it has lead us to an idea.

Would you like to I-D your own repeater or bulletin station here on Amateur Radio Newsline? Well here is how you can do it.

Simply record on a cassette tape the following sentence and include the call sign and location you want to honor.

From the United States of America, we are the Amateur Radio Newsline, heard on bulletin stations around the world including the
"xxx"
repeater serving "yyy zzz." The "xxx" is the call sign. The "yyy"
and "zzz" are the city and state.

Then, take the tape and mail it to Amateur Radio Newsline, Editorial Office, 28197 Robin Avenue, Santa Clarita, California, 91350. As time permits, we will select an audio I-D and include it in the newscast.

All tapes submitted become the property of the Amateur Radio Newsline and cannot be returned.

Again, the address to make yourself a part of this bulletin service is Amateur Radio Newsline, Editorial Office, 28197 Robin Avenue, Santa Clarita, California, 91350. (ARNewsline(tm))

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: FIRST EXPEDITION 9 QSO A BIG SUCCESS

AMSAT reports that the first ARISS contact with the Expedition 9 crew on the ISS took place on Tuesday, May 25th. During his first-ever amateur radio contact, Astronaut Mike Fincke, KE5AIT, answered 18 questions asked by the students who gathered at the Erie Planetarium in Pennsylvania.

The contact used the facilities of telebridge station, VK5ZAI, in Australia to assure high quality space to ground communications. It was deemed very successful as the children applauded and thanked KE5AIT for taking the time to join them from space. We will have more ham radio space related news later on in this weeks newscast. (AMSAT, ARISS)

WORLDBEAT: HAM RADIO AND THE 2004 SUMMER OLYMPICS

If you are planning to attend the 2004 Summer Olympics in Greece, we have some good news for you. Foreign radio amateurs from CEPT countries or from countries with reciprocity can use the special prefix J42004 from August 1st to November 15th without any special license from Greek Authorities.

Not only that. Demetre Valaris, SV1UY, says all hams visiting Athens for the Olympics is more than welcome to give a shout on 145.425 MHz with a 88.5HZ access tone. Demetre says that this is so visitors can hook up with Greek hams and share hospitality.

What about visiting hams from non CEPT nations? They will have to contact Greek telecommunications regulators for special permission to operate. (Via E-Mail)

RADIO RESEARCH: MCRN TO TEST RADIATION ANGLES

The Marconi Radio Club of Newfoundland station VO1MRC will be conducting an antenna comparison experiment on the 19th and 20th of June and you are invited to take part. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PW, has more:

Each day during the experiment from 0000 to 2400 UTC station VO1MRC will operate a CW beacon on 5269.5 kilohertz. Its purpose will be to determine the relative performance of high and low radiation angles. The antenna in use will be identified by a code in each transmission.

VO1MRC will also be open briefly for 2 way contacts with stations authorized to transmit on 60 meters starting 0000 UTC each of these days and will operate simplex on 5260.5 kilohertz CW. Following this it will transmit on 5327.5 kilohertz upper sideband and receive 5346.5 kilohertz upper sideband and 3807.5 kilohertz on lower sideband.

The experiment was proposed by Marconi Radio Club of Newfoundland and is endorsed by Radio Amateurs of Canada. Its operated under an authorization issued by Industry Canada which is that nations telecommunicastions regulatory body.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, in Los Angeles.

ENFORCEMENT: TO MUCH RF

The licensee of FM station KWNZ, located in Carson City, Nevada, has been fined $10,000 by the FCC. This, for creating ground-level radiation in excess of the permissible public exposure level at KWNZ's McClellan Peak transmitter site.

The CGC Communicator says that the various excuses offered by the licensee were not impressive. For example, KWNZ contended that there was no evidence whatsoever of public use of the particularized ten square foot area where the station exceeded the RFR permitted radiation limits.

According to the FCC, it is not necessary to establish actual public use of the particular unfenced and unmarked]area where excessive power density occurs. The regulatory agency says that public use of an area nearby is sufficient.

ON THE AIR: THE COLLINS COLLECTORS NETS

And if you own vintage ham gear, you might want to become a member of the Collins Collectors Association and join one of their monthly nets. The nets are held the first Wednesday of the month on 3.888 MHz beginning at 7:30 PM in the Eastern time zone and 8 PM in the Central, Mountain and Pacific time zones.

These nets draw hundreds of vintage stations from across the country and are anchored by a "tall ship" AM station in each time zone and you do not need to operate Collins gear to take part. For more information. just tune in. Comments go by e-mail to wa9vrh@mtco.com (Via e-mail)

CHANGING OF THE GUARD: LLOYD "SIG" SIGMON W6LQ - S.K.

A ham radio operator who developed a public warning scheme that eventually carried his name, has died. This, with word that 95 year old Lloyd Sigmon, W6LQ, became a silent key on Wednesday, June 2nd, following a long illness.

Known to his ham radio buddies as Sig, in 1955 W6LQ perfected a method that allowed the Los Angeles Police Department to issue emergency warnings over local radio stations. At the time Sigmon was an executive with radio station KMPC and wanted to boost station ratings by providing traffic information.

Then Los Angeles Police Chief William H. Parker permitted use of Sigmon's device but only on the condition that it be made available to any radio station that wanted to use it. He also is dubbed the bulletins as SigAlerts in honor of W6LQ.

The first SigAlert was broadcast on Sept. 5, 1955. It was carried by six radio stations and urged medical personnel to respond to a train derailment outside Los Angeles Union Station. The California Highway Patrol later took over freeway traffic warnings from the Los Angeles Police Department and handles SigAlerts, which now are computerized.

Lloyd Sigmon, W6LQ, was born in 1909 in Stigler, Oklahoma. He was fascinated by electronics and received his first Amateur Radio license at age 14. He died at Green County Assisted Living Center in Bartlesville, Oklahoma, where he had been residing the past four years. (Published news stories)

RADIOS LEGACY: THE HISTORIC KGFJ 1230 KHZ TRANSMITTER SITE HAS BEEN SHUT DOWN

The CGC Communicator reports the passing of a different sort. This with the announcement that on May 24th a historic AM broadcast transmitting site was turned off after 80 years of service.

In 1924, radio station KGFJ started broadcasting from the Odd Fellows Lodge Building on Oak Street near downtown Los Angeles. In more recent years, the station call sign was changed its call letters to KYPA.

Shortly after 4 PM on May 24th, Marvin Collins, W6OQI, turned on the new 1230 kHz transmitter. Its signal is diplexed into a tower at the KBLA 1580 kHz transmitter site.

Collins says that the old KGFJ "flat top" antenna had been in continuous use by since 1924. He adds that the old antenna may well have been the last full-time use of a flat top antenna anywhere in the country.

Marv took photos of the old KGFJ site and the new diplexed setup at KBLA, visit Marvin's web page at http://earthsignals.com/Collins/ and scroll to "KGFJ 1230." You can write to Marv at KFIam640@aol.com

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: BIG LAUNCH DOLLARS RAISED AT DAYTON

AMSAT says that its Launch Fund campaign now has $93,0000 in it. This, thanks to donations received at the recent Dayton Hamvention including one anonymous donor who matched every dollar collected with another one.

AMSAT North America President Robin Haighton, VE3FRH, says that now is the time to make a final push to reach $110,000 goal. He adds four words that seem to come right out of the Mel Brooks musical the Producers. The four words are - "we can do it." And confident that they will.

THAT FINAL ITEM: CELEBRATING NEWSCAST 1400

And finally this week its time for a bit of a celebration here at Amateur Radio Newsline. That's because this newscast marks 1,400 consecutive weeks that we have been bringing you news from the worlds of Amateur Radio and personal communications. With some thoughts on this milestone, here's our producer Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF:

If you get out your calculator and do the math, you will find that 1400 weeks comes out to be 26 point 923 years. Close enough in our book to say 27. And in ham radio news, I guess we can say that's a pretty long time.

Back when we still edited on tape I used to wonder how many splices that we made in a year. One day I sat down and figured out that there were about 30 in an average newscast. That was 120 a month or 1440 a year and an awful lot of Scotch splicing tape. Had we stayed on tape it would mean that we would have cut into a piece of audio tape 38,880 times as of today.

But we stopped putting the newscast together using tape almost 4 years ago. Now its done in the digital world using computers and programs like Goldwave and Cool Edit pro. Becoming part of the digital age early on is something we are kind of proud of. Being on your favorite repeater for the past 27 years and never missing a deadline is another.

As we enter year 27 and begin rolling on toward year 28, we pause and renew our simple pledge to you. The promise we made many years ago and which continues to guide our very being. Amateur Radio Newsline will be here as long as you want us and as long as you support us. We exist to serve you and we all consider it an honor to do so.

Speaking for all of the volunteers who make up the world-wide Amateur Radio Newsline team, I say "thank you." Thank you for sharing your lives with us through the magic of Amateur Radio. Thank you for caring about us through your ongoing support. Most of all, we thank you for being a part of what we like to call the Amateur Radio Newsline family.

To paraphrase a line from the show Chicago. "We simply could not do it alone."

Again, we thank you.

I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF.

Jim.

As one of the anchors who has been here almost from the start, I add my thank-you's as well.

Hi, Laura!

Alas for the LEAST payload (AMSAT's acronym: Lots of Extra Amateur Stuff on the Telescope :-), the AMSAT/NA guys backed out around mid-2001. I recall this was for 2 reasons. One was that MOST was on a tight schedule (aiming for a 2002 launch at that point), and the AMSAT guys behind LEAST weren't comfortable to committing to have their payload ready in time for integration with the ret of the satellite.
The other was that the LEAST team had become involved in another AMSAT flight project (darned if I can remember which, though...perhaps up-front work on Echo?), which was taking up an increasing amount of their time and attention (thus contributing to reason #1).

We tried to find a replacement payload, but between the (then) tight schedule and the amount of time it takes to get anything new scoped-out/funded/done, this also didn't happen. So, MOST flew with an empty tray :-((Actually, this ended up being the tray that got signed by those on hand at that point.)

Ironically, just after irrevocably making the decision to fly the LEAST tray empty, we started running into integration and testing issues, which pushed the launch date out several months. Then, the launch vehicle provider pushed us out another 6 months, due to a slip in schedule for one of their other payloads. Total slip from that point was a year; we would have had plenty of time to sneak in an auxiliary payload, had the impending slip become apparent a couple of months earlier! (However, in hindsight, it's just as well that we didn't...MOST already had enough electronics units in it to make the integration and test process very lengthy, and required a lot from the AI&T staff...if we'd had yet anohter complex payload, it would have almost certainly distracted them from focusing on getting the core elements of the mission tested thoroughly before launch.)

OOh yes the old tin foil hat, and hole in yer scull...
I certainly agree with all of you that you can get in touch with god without radio broadcasting. Still I see it as a much more direct line of communication. All religious churches I know of that believe in a god or gods have at one time been on the record as saying heaven is in outerspace.
Today many still believe in the mystical power of space when it comes to horoscopes and astrology. Broad casting messages to space is just a natural extension of those philosophys... take it as you will though, I have been known to wear an afdb at times before so perhaps I am not the best messanger of this idea. :P

You know there are comercial buisnesses doing this same thing, which is an idea I have had for a long time now.. if you want to see how much people are charging for messages to space check out www.endlessechoes.com
At least i'm not charging anyone. peer directed free projects are always the best.. especially when spirituality is involved. Many people want to send messages to space as well, even for non spiritual reasons.
Broadcasting your love to someone across the entire universe comes to mind.

Hmmmm, one-way broadcasts are not allowed, so God would have to answer you.

If God only has a tech ticket, would a HT work or would we need repeaters on a few planets inbetween?

QSL via?

I think alot of issues need to be worked out here first!

hmmmm, gives me an idea.... (not always a good thing)

If one does the trepnation through the tin foil cap and reverses the hat, so that the concave side is outward facing side is now concave (keeping the hole in the hat aligned with the hole in the head) do you end up with a brainwave "sattelite" dish?

It's very easy to contact to god. No equipment needed.

The procedure is called Prayer.

AT&T claims it will have direct dialing to god by 2005, around the same time it's cellular network will be working well.

I'd suggest an SNMA connector rather than PL259. The concave side needs to be a parabola, of course. Should work.

I am chasing up some accessories for a Kenwood TM-741a, I'm after the DTMF Microphone (MC-45DM) and the 6m Module (UT-50S), the 6m module is also used in other multiband models. I am happy to buy accessories that may need a bit of repair....
Thanks to all that have helped me recently in my hunt for parts :-)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: ECHO PREPARED FOR LAUNCH

The soon to be launched ECHO ham radio satellite has arrived safely at the launch complex in Russia and is being made ready for launch. This, according to Chuck Green, N0ADI, who is traveling with the bird to the launch facility. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, is here with more:

According to Green, once he and the team arrived at the launch site, the satellite shipping containers were opened and placed in the clean room. ECHO was taken out of it's shipping case and set up for completion. The bottom antennas were then installed.. So was the bottom solar panel, magnets, and corner reflectors.

ECHO was then powered on and the team successfully communicated with it over a hard wire connection from a computer. The four two meter receivers and the two 70 cm transmitters were all successfully tested. And that's good news for everyone waiting for the new hamsat to take its ride into space.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, in Los Angeles.

Currently the planned launch period for ECHO is four weeks beginning June 28th. Once in orbit the command teams will be working together to assure everything is working OK and get ECHO into its initial 'normal' modes as quickly as possible. After that it will be open to the users in the ham radio community. (AMSAT)

THE BPL FIGHT: AN UPDATE ON WHAT'S HAPPENING IN THE USA

The fight to keep Broadband Over Powerlines from going nationwide continues. Amateur Radio Newsline's Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, is here with the latest:

--

With summer now here, expect the Broadband over Power Line Internet access issue to heat up - especially as more people get a chance to look over the latest filing from the National Telecommunications and Information Administration.

The federal agency, which advises the White House on telecommunications policies and oversees radio spectrum used by government agencies, weighed in with more BPL comments in a June 4 filing with the Federal Communications Commission.

And the American Radio Relay League and others who've analyzed the comments say it's clear the political considerations are overshadowing the engineering data which raises many questions about the viability of BPL.

In its filing with the FCC, the N-T-I-A's policy makers now call BPL a win-win situation for all and make what some call an outlandish claim - that deployment of the technology could actually lead to reduction, that's right, reduction of power line noise.

Now, the engineering types who've been studying the BPL and doing all kinds of test measurements are really scratching their heads trying to make sense out of that. The N-T-I-A filing also contains this comforting assertion for BPL opponents. It says that the current power line system is responsible for even greater local interference risks than what BPL would bring.

And, it says, B-P-L operators would implement procedures to eliminate any harmful interference.

The stack of complaints about BPL test sites and assertions by a lawyer representing one of the large utilities testing the technology might lead some to question that reassurance.

A source tells Amateur Radio Newsline the FCC has failed to "properly direct" BPL complaints to the appropriate FCC regulatory office for action. And, the source says, commissioners questioned about that haven't offered any explanation.

And a lawyer who has commented in writing to the FCC about some of the BPL complaints his utility company received claimed there was no basis for them, essentially saying the amateur radio operators making them don't know what they're talking about.

One thing the NTIA did suggest in its filing is the exclusion of certain bands and frequencies in specific geographical areas to protect critical government systems.

Does that suggest an agency confident BPL won't be an interference source?

The American Radio Relay League and others who've been vocal in this fight suggest otherwise.

They say BPL is far from a done deal and they're hopeful that the FCC's extension of reply comments to June 22 will net some helpful information. And, they say, they're not giving up or going away quietly.

In the meantime, there is a sense BPL is on a fast-track at the FCC where the majority of the commissioners view it as an engine to help stimulate the economy.

Could the FCC act on the BPL issue before the November election?

Anything is possible. And some close to the BPL debate say if the Bush administration believes it will generate a much-need bump in the public opinions polls or at the ballot box...well, you get the idea.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia.

--

Mark will continue to monitor the B-P-L situation and report back in future Amateur Radio Newsline reports. (ARRL, CQ, Repeater Journal, Published news reports, others)

THE BPL FIGHT: AUSTRALIA REACTS TO THE BPL CHALLENGE

The United States is not the only place planning to introduce this controversial Internet access technology. Proposals for Power Line Communications or Broadband over Power Lines in Australia have become a concern many spectrum users down-under. This includes the Wireless Institute of Australia which is that nations Amateur Radio national society. From Brisbane, Q-News Graham Kemp, VK4BB, reports:

WIA President, Michael Owen, VK3KI has said that the WIA's position in relation to B-P-L is that it supports increasing broadband access and broadband competitiveness in Australia, but in a way that does not cause interference to legitimate users of the High Frequency spectrum. The WIA supports the development by the ACA of policies for BPL that protect existing users.

The WIA believes that one of the problems associated with B-P-L is that trials on a limited basis are not good indicators, and that the full effects of a problematic technology will not be seen with such trials. The WIA considers that B-P-L will not really serve the community's long run needs because of its limited bandwidth. A deep fibber network is to be preferred to using long runs of power lines.

The WIA has appointed a team to deal with this issue. WIA President has appointed Phil Wait, VK2DKN the director responsible for developing and advocating the WIA's position in relation to BPL. He has asked Owen Duffy, VK1OD Barry White, VK2AAB and David Wardlaw, VK3ADW to assist Phil, as the WIA's BPL Team.

A report on a recent small trial of B-P-L in the city of Hobart to some 4 houses and 2 floors of one building is on the WIA website. (Q-News)

RADIO RULES: COMMISSION ADOPTS SPECTRUM SHARING PLAN FOR L AND S BAND

The Federal Communications Commission adopted a spectrum sharing plan for low earth orbit satellite systems in the 1.6 GHz and 2.4 GHz bands. The so-called Big Leo birds. And here's how it will work

In the 1.6 GHz or "L-band," mobile-satellite service operators with satellite systems that utilize code division multiple access and time division multiple access technologies will share 3.1 megahertz of spectrum at 1618.25 to 1621.35 MHz. At "S-band," the Commission allocated the 2495 to 2500 MHz band to fixed and mobile except aeronautical mobile services, in order to provide additional spectrum and to accommodate the relocation of Multipoint Distribution Service channels 1 and 2.

The commission says that its new spectrum sharing plan will further the agency's goal of efficient frequency utilization by increasing the number of providers offering services to consumers over the same spectrum. It will promote the deployment of more innovative services to consumers. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: COUNTY HAS DONE NOTHING WRONG

The FCC says that a complaint that a county is using ham radio for its routine business is without merit. The agency's Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, is here with more:

Duckworth: "A complaint concerning Bell County Communications Center and club license W5BEC was dismissed. There is no showing that this station is operated by anyone other than amateurs, nor is there a showing that it is there a showing that it is used or intended to be used for routine county business."

--

W5BEC is the club station license issued to the Bell County Emergency Operations Center in Belton, Texas. Its also the call sign of a wide area two meter repeater that covers much of central Texas. (FCC, RAIN)

ENFORCEMENT: STAY OFF 10 METERS

Meantime, the FCC's crackdown on 10 meter unlicensed intruders continues. This time the agency acts in a New Jersey case. Again, the FCC's Daryl Duckworth, NN0W:

Duckworth: Auto Elite Transportation of Morristown, New Jersey, has been sent a warning notice about a vehicle of theirs; truck number 2113, as being the source of unlicensed radio transmissions on 28.085 Mhz."

Auto Elite was warned that continued unlicensed operation of radio transmitting equipment without is a violation of Section 301 of the Communications Act. That it could subject the operator to fine or imprisonment, as well as seizure of any non-certified radio transmitting equipment. Monetary forfeitures for this kind of violation normally ranges from $7,500 to $10,000. (FCC, RAIN)

ENFORCEMENT: SAN DIEGO'S 96.9 MHZ PIRATE REACTIVATES

According to a news bulletin from Chris Carmichael appearing in the CGC Communicator, San Diego's 96.9 MHz pirate is back on the air.
Chris says that there is no news on the location of the transmitter, but he believes that will only take the Commission a short time to

ENFORCEMENT: SPAMMER GOES TO JAIL

A New York state man who sent out millions of "spam" e-mails has been sentenced to three and a half to seven years in prison. This according to a May 27th news release from that states Attorney General's office which said that Howard Carmack, known as the "Buffalo Spammer," received the maximum sentence for 14 counts of identity theft and forgery.

A spokesman for New York Attorney General Eliot Spitzer said that Carmack sent out hundreds of millions of bulk e-mail messages. That he flooded inboxes and saddled Internet providers with millions of dollars in costs. But it was his use of stolen identities and forged addresses that caused action by state prosecutors. New York has no state laws specifically dealing with spam. Carmack was found guilty of violating state forgery and identity-theft laws in April.

Internet provider EarthLink Inc. won a $16.5 million judgment against Carmack last year, and EarthLink officials testified in the criminal trial as well. (Published news reports)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: EARTHLINK VS. PHISHERS

Meantime, EarthLink claims that it has developed a program to fight phony websites like this,. The sites, called phishers are those designed to deceive e-mail users into providing personal information such as passwords and credit card or Social Security numbers.

Phisher sites pronounced "fishers" but with a leading "p" are called that because they "fish" for personal information that can be used in identity theft. They work by telling an Internet user via e-mail that there is a problem with the service-provider account and providing directions to a Web site for clarification. The link takes the user to a hoax Web site that may be a perfect copy of a real page used by Earthlink, eBay or another legitimate business. That is where the user is deceived into providing personal information.

EarthLink's anti-phisher program will rely on a list of known fraudulent sites. When a subscriber responds to the e-mail message, he will be linked instead to a special Web page that warns the e-mail is a fraud. The site also will provide a chance to report the hoax attempt.

EarthLink says that it receives about 40,000 telephone calls or e-mails each month from subscribers who have received one of the fraudulent e-mails. (Earthlink)

HAM RADIO BUSINESS: A SEARCHABLE CQ MAGAZINE ARCHIVE

Finding an article or an advertisement in a back issue of CQ Magazine is about to become only a mouse click away. This, as CQ Communications and Buckmaster Publishing announce plans to create a searchable on-line archive of CQ magazines back issues.

Buckmaster, which produces the Hamcall CD has for decades filmed issues of CQ onto microfiche for use by researchers and hobbyists. Buckmaster also provides advanced scanning and searching technology for on-line posting of documents for major corporations. Now this same technology will be applied to back issues of CQ.

As currently envisioned, searches will be free, while access to reading and printing specific pages will require a subscription at a nominal fee. Eventually Buckmaster plans to have every issue of CQ available dating back to the magazine's first issue in January 1945.

A beta test version covering CQ from 1990 to 2002 is already on-line. The archive may be accessed at http://hamcall.net/cgi-bin/cqcgi. (CQ)

WITH ARNEWSLINE: YHOTY NOMINATIONS CLOSE JUNE 30TH

And a reminder that the nominating period for the 2004 Amateur Radio Newsline Young Ham of the Year Award closes midnight on Wednesday, June 30th. If you are planning to nominate a youngster for this years award or, if you want to update a previous years nomination -- and have not yet done so -- you have only about two weeks left to do so.

The Young Ham of the Year Award program is open to any FCC licensed young radio amateur age 18 or younger residing in the contiguous 48 states. He or she must have made a significant contribution to the community, the nation or ham radio though the United States Amateur Radio Service.

More information and a downloadable on-line nominating form is at our website. That's in cyberspace at www.arnewsline.org.

Again, the cutoff for nominations this year is midnight on June 30th. The award presentation takes place in August at the Huntsville Hamfest in Alabama. (ARNewsline(tm))

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: INSTANT MESSAGING EXPANDING WORLDWIDE

Wonder where some of your ham radio buddies are these days? Maybe they are now using Instant messaging instead of 2 meter FM. Norm Seeley, KI7UP, has more:

According to Tech Web News, Instant Message use is growing steadily among corporate workers who use free services from companies like America Online, Microsoft, and Yahoo to send quick text messages to coworkers, family, and friends. And by 2008 closer to 80 percent of corporations worldwide are expected to use either public or private Instant Messaging networks.

A recent study by The Radicati Group says that by 2008 the number of Instant Message users worldwide is expected to reach 670 million. Business wise, this equates to revenues in the $413 million range.

Even so, the percentage of people using public networks and private networks is expected to remain the same. That's at 88 percent public and 12 percent private, respectively. The reason: Its hard to get people to pay for what someone else is giving away for free.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, Norm Seeley, KI7UP, reporting.

ON THE AIR: KY REPEATER NEEDS A NEW HOME

The Repeater Journal reports that the Danville, Kentucky, 146 point 655 WD4DZC repeater is looking for a new site. According to trustee George Griebe, WQ4Z, the tower supporting the systems antenna is to be taken down and will not be replaced.

Griebe says that the Wilderness Road Amateur Radio club which sponsors the repeater plans to keep it on the air from a temporary location with reduced coverage. Meantime the club is continuing its search for a suitable, high level, wide coverage permanent site. (Repeater Journal)

THAT FINAL ITEM: HAM RADIO HONORS THE MEMORY OF PRESIDENT RONALD REAGAN

And finally this week, ham radio finds a way to honor the memory former President Ronald Reagan. Here's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW with the rest of the story:

Two suburban Los Angeles area radio clubs are joing forces to honor the memory former President Ronald Wilson Reagan. This, by operating Field Day in his honor from the Reagan Library in Simi Valley, California.

According to Peter Heins, N6ZE, the two groups joing forces to honor the late United States president are the Ventura County Amateur Radio Society and the Conejo Valley Amateur Radio Club. The Ventura County group has operated Field Day before from the Reagan Library. This year, the Conejo Valley club will be joining with them for the first time.

Heins says that 2004 is the fourth year a special event will have been held at the Reagan Library using the special N-6-R call sign. The previous three were dedicated to all members of the former first family. This years Field Day operation will be specific in its remembrance of President Reagan who died of Alzheimer's disease on June 5th at age 93.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, in Los Angeles.

--

Field Day 2004 is the weekend of June 26th and 27th. Visitors to the Reagan Library will be able to listen in on amateur radio communication, talk to amateur radio stations located in other countries, and find out more about obtaining an FCC Amateur Radio License of their very own.

Also, the complete Field Day rules are on-line at the ARRL website. Its in cyberspace at www.arrl.org (N6ZE)

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1402 June 25, 2004

The following is an advisory and not necessarily for air. Ladies and gentlemen, Amateur Radio Newslines' Support Fund Administrator, Andy Jarema, N6TCQ:

--

This is Andy Jarema, N6TCQ, Newsline Support Fund Administrator, getting caught up with our supporters. In the month of September of last year we heard from Benton Bonney, W4PE of Orlando; monthly contributor Joseph Bartzi, Jr., KC8DKF of Columbus, OH; the St. Charles, MO ARC, WB0HSI; monthly contributor William Walters, WA2IBM, of San Jose; monthly contributor Scott Hensley of the Area Communications Team, also in San Jose and the Anchorage ARC.

Of special mention was support received in memory of the late Roy Neal, K6DUE, by the Brackett family of Cerritos, CA. Our thanks to Sharyn, Jim, KE6FVN, David, KE6OPK, and Lynn, WA6HBS.

Thank you to everyone, and we promise to do our best to continue to earn your care and support. A reminder that Newsline is a 501c 3 California non-profit corporation. FCC regulations prohibit us from telling you exactly how to support us, but that information is on our website at www.arnewsline.org. That address will be repeated at the end of the newscast.

I'm Andy Jarema, N6TCQ.

RESTRUCTURING: A NEW HAM RADIO IN ZED-L

Big changes appear to be in store for ham radio in New Zealand. This, as the current licensing system is replaced by one test and one class of ham radio operator. ,Jim Meachen, ZL2BHF, is in Auckland where its all taking place:

Here's the bottom line. Our current New Zealand Amateur Radio licensing system is being renovated. We now have only one class of ham radio license in Zed-L called the General Amateur Radio License. This is just one of many changes coming to ham radio down-under as New Zealand radio amateurs discover the full outcome of their regulatory authority's review of the Amateur Radio service. It's all good!

The changes started on June 17th when a new revised Schedule attached to the Zed-L license came into effect. A Schedule here in New Zealand is kind of like a new set of rules. That's the first step. Other changes will take effect over the next 18 months or more. Many long standing problems are being eliminated and some of the changes are believed to be world firsts. Under the new structure there will be only one grade of Amateur operator license in New Zealand. That's the General Radio License that I mentioned earlier. One license means only one test needs to be administered.

A newly-licensed amateur will have immediate access to all amateur bands below 5 MHz and to all amateur bands above 25 MHz. After getting experience over 3 months and with at least 50 contacts logged, access is then permitted to all amateur radio bands.

All existing Limited Amateur licensees automatically became General Amateur licensees on June 17th irrespective of what is written on their existing licenses. There being only one license grade, callsigns will no longer indicate a class. There is already an established procedure to request a change of callsign if a licensee so wishes.

All amateur bands remain the same but a newly-extended Low Frequency band 130 to 190 kHz is being listed for the first time as an amateur allocation.

The permitted maximum transmitter power output for an amateur station on all bands is 500 watts P-E-P. With only one figure, the maximum power level in New Zealand is now mode-independent.

How about visitors to New Zealand? Touring hams holding a current amateur certificate of competency, authorization, or license issued by another administration, may operate an amateur station in New Zealand under a General User Radio License for visitors. A licensed visitor will be granted similar privileges to a New Zealand resident station for a period not exceeding 90 days. The present country-to-country reciprocal license agreements will disappear in time as more countries directly recognize the licenses issued by other administrations. This will make cross-border travel by radio amateurs a lot easier than it is today.

There are now minimum rules and restrictions for Amateur Radio in New Zealand and the future is positive.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Jim Meachen, ZL2BHF, reporting from Auckland.

With one license exam, one license grade, and with new and simplified procedures, New Zealand telecommunications regulators say that they have positioned that nations Amateur Radio Service for an exciting future. (ARNewsline(tm), ZL2BHF, Q-News)

RESTRUCTURING: FCC RELEASES NPRM ON 40-METER CHANGES

The FCC says pending changes in the 40-meter amateur band as a result of the 2003 World Radiocommunication Conference will improve spectrum efficiency. It said so in a rule making notice dealing with the 40 meter band. Norm Seeley, KI7UP, has the latest:

The ARRL Letter reports that this remark came in an FCC Notice of Proposed Rule Making in ET Docket 04-139. This is an inquiry that seeks public comments on proposed rule changes to complete domestic implementation of various World Radiocommunication Conference allocation decisions made in 2003. Among them the future of the Amateur Service 40 meter allocation.

The regulatory agency says that it anticipates that administrations in I-T-U Regions 1 and 3 will, in the near future, authorize phone emissions in the 7 point 150 to 7 point 200 MHz band segment. The FCC notes that the ARRL has requested that the United States frequency segment for phone emissions be expanded to 7 point 125 to 7 point 300 MHz. The FCC says that authorizing voice operations in this band segment would permit same-frequency US-to-DX contacts, resulting in increased spectrum efficiency.

The N-P-R-M also addresses the deployment of Earth Exploration Satellite Service-Active spacecraft in the 70-cm band. The Commission says that this operation should not cause harmful interference to, nor claim protection from, any other services allocated in the band in the United States. This includes the Amateur Satellite service as well as any others.

Comments in the proceeding are due July 16, with reply by August 2. Interested parties may view the entire NPRM, file comments and view comments filed in ET Docket 04-139 via the FCC's Electronic Comment

Filing System at www.fcc.gov/cgb/ecfs/ (ARRL)

RESTRUCTURING: NO VANITY CALLS IN THE UK RIGHT NOW

Vanity callsigns 'are unlikely to be introduced in the United Kingdom before March of 2006. This, according to the Radio Society of Great Britain which says that for the last three years it has been in discussion with licensing authorities over the introduction of such a program for U-K amateurs.

The latest word is that telecommunications regulators have informed the RSGB that due to software issues it is unlikely that vanity callsigns can be introduced before March 2006. In other words, the waiting goes on. (RSGB)

THE BPL FIGHT: ARRL JOINS IOWA HAM IN BPL INTERFERENCE STRUGGLE

The ARRL has joined in the fight on behalf of Iowa amateur and ARRL member. This, following complaints from Jim Spencer, W0SR, of Cedar Rapids, that he has suffered severe Broadband Over Powerline interference for more than two months.

According to the ARRL Letter, a formal complaint to FCC Enforcement Bureau Chief David H. Solomon calls on the Commission to order Alliant Energy's B-P-L field trial system to shut down. It also demands that the agency fine the utility $10,000 for violating the Communications Act of 1934 and FCC's Part 15 rules.

Alleging that the ongoing interference is both harmful and willful to one or more licensed radio station the ARRL asked Solomon to intervene on an emergency basis. ARRL Chief Executive Officer David Sumner, K1ZZ, who signed the letter of complaint, said Alliant Energy has been aware since March 30th. Thats the date it installed Amperion BPL equipment in Spencer's neighborhood and the interference began. (ARRL)

ENFORCEMENT: EX-KG6IRO FINED $10000 FOR UNLICENSED OPERATION

A man who challenged the FCC and the southern California ham radio community has been fined $10,000. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, has the latest on a person who the F-C-C has told to stay off the air:

The FCC has issued a $10,000 Notice of Apparent Liability to Monetary Forfeiture -- that's a fancy way of saying a fine -- to Jack Gerritsen, the at least temporarily former KG6IRO. This, for operating a radio station in the Amateur Radio Service without the authorization from the FCC to do so.

In a June 15th letter to the Bell, California, former licensee, the regulatory agency notes his past record of non compliance with, among other things, its orders to keep off the air. It also notes his previous conviction for interfering with police radio communications in 2000 and the November 14, 2001 decision by the FCC to set aside his ham radio ticket based on complaints about the operation of his stations. Kit also raises questions regarding his qualifications to be a Commission licensee in light of his 1999 arrest and 2000 conviction on the police radio jamming charges.

At the time of the license set aside Gerritsen was warned that he has no authority to operate radio transmitting equipment. That doing so would be considered to be a violation of Section 301 of the Communications Act and could subject him to monetary penalties or imprisonment.

But on December 9th 2001, the Bell, California Police Department notified the FCC that it had received complaints against Gerritsen for making radio transmissions. On December 28th of 2001 the FCC's Los Angeles Office issued a warning letter to Gerritsen for unlicensed operation, and basically told him to get off the air. On January 2, 2002 Gerritsen replied and asserted that the set aide of his license was improper. On January 29th, the Bell Police and the California Highway Patrol arrested Gerritsen on a probation violation charge. On May 7th of 2002 he was found guilty of the parole violation and sentenced.

Soon after his release on July 28th of 2003 the FCC began getting complaints of unauthorized transmissions over local Los Angeles area amateur, business band and public safety repeaters. The complaints alleged that the person making the transmissions identified using the call letters KG6IRO. An investigation was launched. This lead to an agent positively identifying Gerritsen on November 6, 2003 as a person holding a transceiver while the investigator recorded the radio transmissions he was making. The investigation continued with the FCC identifying Gerritsen as the interference source on November 7th 2003 and on February 9th of this year.

Now, based on what the FCC cites as conclusive evidence it has levied the $10,000 fine against Gerritsen for willful and repeated violations of Section 301. As usual, Gerritsen was given the customary 30 days to pay up or to file an appeal.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, in Los Angeles.

--

Word is that Gerritsen has responded to the FCC with a demand that the agency rescind the fine. He reportedly claims that his license granted on November 14th 2001 has not been terminated, revoked or in any way modified to prevent him from being on the air. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT VICTORVILLE CA PIRATE STILL ON THE AIR

A pirate broadcaster in Victorville, California, is still operating full time on AM 660 and FM 91.3. This, in defiance of FCC actions to shut it down.

Back on March 31st, the FCC issued a $20,000 fine to alleged station owner Stanley Mark Mayo. This, for willful and repeated violation of Section 301 of the Act for operating radio transmitting equipment without the required Commission authorization.

None the less, the stations remain on the air leading to speculation that another level of enforcement action might be taken. One that could lead to seizure of the broadcast equipment and jailing of those who put the stations on the air.

For a look at the Commission's action on these stations, see www.fcc.gov/eb/FieldNotices/2003/DOC-246123A1.html (CGC, others)

RESCUE RADIO: A 100 WATT TRAVELERS INFORMATION STATION AT LAX

The FCC has granted a request by the managers of Los Angeles International Airport for a ten fold power increase to their Travelers Radio Information Radio service. On December 4, 2002, managers filed the application that asked to increase power from 10 to 100 watts. The reason for the increase was to facilitate the airport's efforts to provide emergency communications to the traveling public in the event of a terrorist attack. The FCC has now granted the 100 watt request, due, it says, to the circumstances involved. More on this story is on-line http://hraunfoss.fcc.gov/edocs_public/attachmatch/DA-03-3843A1.doc (CGC)

AN ARNEWSLINE FOLLOW-UP: MILITARY APPRECIATION DAY

A follow-up to a story we ran several weeks ago. Thanks to the efforts of several amateur radio operators in Ft. Wayne, Indiana a message of hope and appreciation was sent via the airwaves to our military personnel around the world. Newsline's Jack Parker W8ISH has the details:

It's official. By proclamation, May 29th, is officially Amateur Radio Military Appreciation Day in Fort Wayne, Indiana. The event was organized to honor and show appreciation to those that serve and have served in the military and related auxiliary groups. Planning for the event started last spring and quickly grew into a nationwide effort as organizer Emery McClendon KB9IBW spread the word to amateurs and MARS operators in the US and around the world.

The key to success centered on what Amateur Radio could do to let our Military members know that people supported them. Unlike written letters, amateur radio allowed Americans, in their own voice and words, tell the troops how much they care.

To get lots of public input, event organizers searched for a special event location. The Fort Wayne Wizards baseball team got into the game by offering up a spot at their stadium and a home game crowd. The effort grew momentum when radio volunteers from three Allen county amateur radio groups joined the ranks to spread the good word.

The amateurs ran three Echolink stations, IRLP, and two HF stations along with PSK31. The event scored local media coverage from newspapers, radio and network TV stations. Indiana Governor Joe Kernan, a former Vietnam POW and Indiana's senior Senator Dick Lugar both sent proclamations. They were just two of several proclamations read in a special ceremony before the first pitch of the baseball game. Many of the 65-hundred fans on hand, took advantage of the amateur radio connection to express their support to the military stationed around the world.

Reporting for Amateur Radio Newsline, this is Jack Parker W8ISH

THAT FINAL ITEM: D-DAY AND HAM RADIO - NEW ORLEANS STYLE

And finally this week, the story of ham radio helping to celebrate a national holiday, southern style. It took place in New Orleans and Don Wilbanks, AE5DW, is there with the rest of the story:

The weekend of June 5th and 6th the Jefferson Amateur Radio Club, based in Metairie, Louisiana operated W5D, a special event station to commemorate the 60th anniversary of the D-Day invasion at the National D-Day Museum located in downtown New Orleans.

Event co-chairman Keith Barnes, W5KB reports that by all measures it was a rousing success. Just over 600 contacts were made and the station display was very well received by visitors and Veterans alike. The hams manning the booth didn't miss many opportunities to talk up amateur radio.

The display, prominently located in the main entrance hall just past the front door, featured a large collection of World War II vintage military radio gear. Among the visitors to the station were former New Orleans Archbishop Philip Hannan, himself a World War II vet and member of the 82nd Airborne. The Archbishop actually jumped with the 82nd on D-Day.

Also stopping by was Louisiana governor Kathleen Babineaux Blanco. She even sat at the radio and made a contact.

Both Archbishop Hannan and Governor Blanco signed the commemorative poster along with World War II veteran radio operators and World War II veteran hams. The poster will be made into the commemorative certificate for those stations making contact with W5D.

For more information on the special event, along with pictures of the station and vintage radio display, take your web browser to the Jefferson Amateur Radio Club's website at www.w5gad.org. To find out more about the National D-Day Museum visit www.ddaymuseum.org.

A final reminder that the nominating period for the 2004 Amateur Radio Newsline Young Ham of the Year Award closes at midnight Eastern time this Wednesday, June 30th. If you have not yet nominated a youngster this is your last chance to do so for this years judging.

This Amateur Radio Newsline Young Ham of the Year Award is open to any FCC licensed young radio amateur age 18 or younger residing in the contiguous 48 states and who has made a significant contribution to the community, the nation or ham radio though the United States

Amateur Radio Service.

More information and a downloadable on-line nominating form is at our website. That's in cyberspace at www.arnewsline.org. Again, the cutoff for nominations this year is midnight on June 30th.

For now, with Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, at the editors desk, I'm Jeff Clark, K8JAC, saying 73 and we thank you for listening." Amateur Radio Newsline(tm) is Copyright 2004. All rights reserved.

Hi All:

This is somewhat off-topic, but I have posted the NASA TV coverage for the Cassini mission on my web site. It is at:

http://www.spacearchive.info/news-2004-06-24-nasa.htm

Those of you who rebroadcast NASA TV on your repeater might want to carrying some of the above coverage.

ECHO Launched

AMSAT News Service Bulletin 181.01 From AMSAT HQ
SILVER SPRING, MD. June 29, 2004
To All RADIO AMATEURS
BID: $ANS-181.01

Chuck Green, N0ADI, reported by phone from the Baikonur Cosmodrome that the launch of AMSAT Echo and the other satellites occurred on time at 6/29/2004 0630 UTC. He watched the rocket climb out and said it appeared to be flying straight and true. A second phone call from Chuck 18 minutes later confirmed that the launch carrying AMSAT OSCAR Echo was successful and that all spacecraft had separated successfully.

Chuck was assisted in the final integration and checkout process at Baikonur by the team from SpaceQuest which included Dr. Dino Lorenzini KC4YMG, Mark Kanawati N4TPY, and Lyle Johnson KK7P. The SpaceQuest team members are also AMSAT members and volunteers.

A first attempt to turn on Echo will be made during its pass over the US at about 1430 UTC. Initial transmissions will be short, just enough to gather some telemetry and analyze the performance of the power system. Those first downlink signals will be on 435.150 MHz FM at 9600 bps.

The correct callsigns for Echo's Pacsat Broadcast Protocol Digital system are:

Broadcast: PACB-11
BBS: PACB-12

The callsigns reported in ANS-180.01 were incorrect.

A telemetry decode program, TLMEcho, is available for those who would like to view and report data from Echo. It may be downloaded from http://web.infoave.net/~mkmk518/echo.htm

If you record telemetry please send the CSV files to ke4azn@amsat.org. A database for all telemetry has been established and will be tested over the next few days. When testing is complete it will be made available for direct upload of telemetry files as well as queries on any and all data.

Please do not transmit to Echo until checkout and commissioning has been completed and the satellite is made available for general use.

[ANS thanks Chuck, N0ADI, and Jim, WD0E, for the above information]

1 - ECHO
It is with very great pleasure that I acknowledge the ANS news release concerning the successful launch of ECHO and the other related satellites from Baikonur this morning.
This achievement is due to many individuals around the world, who have helped in the design, building, integration, testing and launching of this satellite. Also the members of AMSATs in many countries who have helped us by funding this "Electronic Adventure".
Without your financial support the satellite could not have been completed, and would never have been launched, Give yourselves a "pat on the back" for a job well done. Lee McLamb, KU4OS, Senior Editor of the AMSAT News Service will be issuing up dated bulletins over the next few days to advise you on the progress being made during commissioning.
At the proper time, when sufficient data has been confirmed, Past President Bill Tynan will issue a bulletin giving the AO-XX designation, updated Keplerian Elements will be issued as soon as they are received.
MEANWHILE please DO NOT Transmit to the satellite - commissioning must take priority. A bulletin will be released when the satellite is open for general use.

BPL: SCORE ONE FOR THE GOOD GUYS

A major broadband-over-power line pilot test by Alliant Energy in Cedar Rapids, Iowa is shut down after local hams document the harmful interference and the Federal Communications
Commission gets a formal complaint from the A-R-R-L. We get the details from Amateur Radio
Newsline's Mark Abramowicz NT3V:

It took nearly three months to accomplish the mission, but amateurs in Cedar Rapids - armed with ample data and the muscle of the American Radio Relay League - convinced Alliant to prematurely halt their B-P-L test.

Jim Spencer, W0SR, first discovered the interference on his HF radio right after Alliant launched its B-P-L testing March 30.

Spencer, who quickly mobilized other Cedar Rapids hams to form a technical committee, says the interference was so severe that it wiped out his and others' ability to use their radios.

Spencer says the group worked with Alliant officials to try to resolve the interference
and conducted several test measurements with the utility's cooperation.

Spencer tells Amateur Radio Newsline the group appealed to Alliant to shut down the system and stop the interference on several occasions. But it was clear the B-P-L industry was telling Alliant's managers something else.

"There's a lot of regulatory uncertainty here," Spencer explains. "And that what the hams were calling harmful interference - in my case S-9 signals, you know, every 1-plus kilohertz across the band, they were being told that wasn't really harmful.''

Spencer says communications between his technical group and Alliant officials were civil, but they accomplished little action. He says he and others filed complaints with the FCC.

"I think in 21 communications I received one simple response basically told me to go back to the power company - the operator of the system," Spencer says. "And, of course, I had done that all the time. So, we had been asking the utility company to close it down, we had been asking the FCC to help us and then the ARRL went and escalated that."

Wade Walstrom, W0EJ, is the ARRL's Midwest Division Director. He says the league's FCC complaint finally got the utility's attention.

"The thrust of the complaint was that they were now aware that the system was causing interference and didn't shut the system off so now that makes it willful interference," Walstrom said...

Alliant stopped the B-P-L pilot test on June 25 saying it had gathered the necessary data to make a determination on whether a general rollout of B-P-L would be worth pursuing, according to Spencer. He says Alliant's project leader told him the ARRL's FCC complaint was just one factor in the company's decision.

"Obviously we're happy, but we didn't feel like we had won," Spencer said. "We felt like this was a technical problem and that we tried to communicate some of the technical parameters to them and that they'd made a good business decision."

Spencer says an Alliant representative told him the company has no plans to pursue B-P-L at this time.

"In order to distribute it out to a sparsely-populated rural area with all the equipment it would take, it's not clear that this thing makes economic sense," Spencer says. "And that this really can meet the goals of the rural user which is one of the things that people touted."

The ARRL's Walstrom is cautiously optimistic Alliant's decision might have a ripple effect.

"We would hope that other utilities or other organizations that were looking to possibly use B-P-L as a source of revenue will look and see the decision that Alliant has made and re-think their own plans and hopefully decide that maybe there are other ways to provide broadband internet connections to the population as a whole," Walstrom says.

Walstrom says the Cedar Rapids group led by Spencer has set a precedent.

"All the proof on how well it's going to work isn't there yet," Walstrom says.

"And the proof that we have established here in Cedar Rapids and is coming out from other parts of the country is that it's not an interference-free system by any means and in fact it causes a lot of interference and we've documented that here."

Spencer says his committee, consisting of a group of engineers - most of them retired from Rockwell Collins - stuck strictly to technical evidence in communications with Alliant. But he says its clear B-P-L has taken on a very political tone.

"Obviously the problem has got a lot of political implications, but the thing that hams can do is remain professional and keep it primarily on a technical level," Spencer says.

The ARRL's Walstrom says if he could stand before the FCC panel to make his case, he would strongly urge the commissioners to postpone action on or even walk away from B-P-L.

"I think they need to delay it until they're satisfied that they're able to mitigate any interference problems at all and by mitigate from an amateur radio standpoint that really means eliminate," Walstrom says.

Spencer adds, there are no hard feelings toward Alliant. Spencer says he and members of his technical group still have a good, working relationship with the utility.

"We've had quite a bit of communication back and forth through this whole thing," Spencer says. "I mean I've had many, many e-mails and some phone calls and I would say that it was pretty positive and still is."

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia.

****

In addition to operations in Cedar Rapids, Alliant also provides utility services to customers in sections of Minnesota and Wisconsin, and a small strip of northwestern Illinois

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: ECHO IS UP AND RUNNING

The newest Amateur Radio satellite is now in orbit and doing fine. Chuck Green, N0ADI, reported by phone from the Baikonur Cosmodrome that the launch of AMSAT Echo and the other satellites occurred on time on June 29th at 0630 UTC. He watched the rocket climb out and said it appeared to be flying straight and true. A second phone call from Chuck 18 minutes later confirmed that the launch carrying AMSAT OSCAR Echo was successful and that all spacecraft had separated successfully.

Chuck was assisted in the final integration and checkout process at Baikonur by the team from SpaceQuest which included Dr. Dino Lorenzini KC4YMG, Mark Kanawati N4TPY, and Lyle
Johnson KK7P. The SpaceQuest team members are also AMSAT members and volunteers.

First contact with Echo was at 1452 UTC on June 29th. After collecting a bit of TLM the 435.150 MHz transmitter was turned off at 1500 UTC. The preliminary keps were observed to be pretty close. The first look at Echo’s telemetry shows things are looking good.
The battery was fully charged and the panels were delivering about 950 ma, which is fine.
The panels were supporting the transmitter power adequately at about 2.3W output. The bird appeared to be tumbling as expected. Internal temperatures are around 10 degrees Celsius which is also as expected.

On the second pass the loading of software began and good progress was made.

Telemetry continues to look very good. While fades clearly indicated Echo continues to tumble (as expected), at 2.2 Watts output good bits were received without difficulty.
Rather than turn the transmitter off at the end of that pass, based on a very good looking power system, the power was turned down to about 0.3 Watts.

The hour between passes was spent closely examining the captured telemetry and comparing it to pre-launch testing, as well as tweaking the keps a bit.

During the second set of passes approximately twelve hours later, the command team finished loading the housekeeping software. The housekeeping task is up and running as of June 30th at 0525 UTC. With more data available on the power systems performance the transmitter has now been left at about 1.2W.

The morning passes on June 30th concentrated on gathering telemetry. The evening passes continued with checkout activities.

A telemetry decode program, TLMEcho, is available for those who would like to view and report data from Echo. It may be downloaded from AMSAT.ORG in the Echo project area, http://www.amsat.org/amsat-new/echo/

If you record telemetry please send the CSV files to ke4azn@amsat.org.

Please do not transmit to Echo until checkout and commissioning has been completed and the satellite is made available for general use. Unexpected uplinks may cause delays in verifying the proper operation of ECHO and delay the opening of the transponders to general use.

RESCUE RADIO: VA HOSPITALS SAY YES TO HAM RADIO

Hospitals in Roanoke, Virginia, will soon be ham radio equipped. Mike Knight, K4IJ, reports through the Repeater Journal that a budget of twenty-five thousand dollars has been approved for the installation of Amateur stations at between ten and twelve primary healthcare facilities in the Roanoke area.

Knight says that the system will include a dual band base radio, a mobile radio, a power supply, antennas and full lightning protection at each hospital. Also going on-line will be a pair of commercial grade FM voice repeaters with back-up generators, and a dedicated digital repeater. The voice systems will have IRLP and Echolink tie-ins to communicate outside the local area.

When completed, the Roanoke system will consist of five to six linked repeaters. The base stations will be connected to each hospitals emergency power system to keep them on the air.

RADIO LAW: COURT SAYS NO TO EXPANDED MEDIA OWNERSHIP

A U.S. Court of Appeals in Philadelphia has thrown out most of the Federal Communications Commission's new and controversial media ownership deregulation. Its Thursday, June 24th decision means that for the time being, ownership levels of broadcast properties and related media will remain at current levels.

Back on June 2nd of 2003, the FCC's Republican majority voted to dramatically ease a prohibition barring daily newspapers from buying broadcast stations in their markets.
The agency lifted caps limiting how many radio and TV stations a broadcaster could own in the same area.

But in its 2 to 1 decision the Philadelphia court said that while some relaxation of the ownership limits might be reasonable, the agency had failed to adequately justify the limits it had put in place. The court announced that its original stay on the FCC's media ownership deregulation would continue until the agency fixes the regulations to the court's liking.

(TV Week)

ENFORCEMENT: TOO MUCH MORSE CODE

The FCC is asking a Missouri ham why he is running a Morse code training program smack in the middle of the 40 meter band. The target of the inquiry is Paul D. Westcott, KC0OAB of Purdy who apparently has code practice on the air around the clock.

Its June 21st letter to Westcott notes that the agency had previously discussed this matter with KC0OAB and was given assurances that the transmissions he was making were for Morse Code practice. Since that time the agency has received another complaint which alleges that the purported 40 meter code practice transmissions are 24 hours a day, seven days per week. The FCC says that due to the crowded nature of the 40 Meter Band, it is extremely inconsiderate to take up spectrum in that area for transmissions 24 hours a day. This, even if it is purportedly for “code practice” purposes.

The agency has posed several questions to Westcott to explain his operation and was given 20 days from the date of the FCC letter to provide a very detailed response.

ENFORCEMENT: NO LICENSE - DON’T OPERATE

The town of Reseda, California, is only about 10 miles from the Newsline studio. It’s also the place where the FCC alleges that someone has been operating a ham radio transmitter without the benefit of being a licensed ham.

In a letter to a resident identified as Joseph A. Mosbergen, the FCC says that he or someone in his residence has been operating radio-transmitting equipment on several Los Angeles area Two Meter Amateur Radio repeaters. The agency warns Mosbergen that this is a violation of it rules and will subject him or whoever is proven to be operating to punitive action.
This could include a fine or imprisonment, as well as seizure of any non-certified radio transmitting equipment. It also tells Mosbergern that this is the last warning that he will receive.

HAM RADIO BUSINESS: HEIL TO MARKET CLEAR SPEECH SPEAKER

Turning to the ham radio business scene, word that the NCT Group has appointed Heil Sound Limited as its prime worldwide manufacturer and distributor of the Clear Speech Speaker system. Under the terms of the deal, Heil Sound will distribute Clear Speech speakers to their present amateur radio dealers and commercial broadcast distributors. Also, the Clear Speech speaker will be improved and several new products will be brought to the market using the NCT Group technologies. According to Heil Sound these new product models are in development and will be available for market by the end of July. More is on line at

COMMUNICATIOS NEWS: DUAL-CORE PROCESSORS ON THE WAY

Tech News reports that Advanced Micro Devices plans to begin selling microchips with the equivalent of two microprocessors in one next year. The Sunnyvale, California based company said it plans to offer dual-core processors for data-serving business computers in the middle of next year, and for high-end home computers in the second half of next year.

Dual-core technology combines the power of two processors in one package. This permits the creation of a more powerful computer and increased computation power when multitasking.

Last month, Intel said it would bring dual-core chips to the marketplace in 2005. That’s more than a year ahead of schedule.

HAM RADIO BUSINESS: CW IS GOING STRONG

If you think Morse code is on its way out, the ham radio business community probably disagrees with you. At least that’s the impression one gets thumbing through the articles in the July issue of CQ Magazine.

Not only are the ads for Morse related products holding steady, but the new products area has some reviews of the latest CW related products. And not to be outdone, Dave Ingram, K4TWJ, devotes his World of Ideas column to Morse Keys from around the world.

If you are a Morse lover, this is the CQ edition for you. It’s on your newsstand now.

THE SOCIAL SCENE: COME TO THE TENNESSEE HAM BREAKFAST

On the ham radio social scene, the Middle Tennessee Ham Breakfast takes place at the famed Tennessean Truckstop on the second Saturday of every month. People begin to gather there at about 9 a.m. and it’s billed as a chance to meet the middle Tennessee hams you may have contacted on the air.

Interested in attending? For full information simply send a note to kenbreed@surfmore.net or call Ken, AI4DV at area code 931 – 424 – 9523 during normal business hours.

COLOR TV IS CELEBRATING ITS 50TH ANNIVERSARY THIS YEAR

Now for a bit of a history lesson. Although color TV transmissions were in the development stages many years earlier, the broadcast industry is celebrating its half century mark this year. This is because it was 50 years ago that color broadcasts were initially made available to the public.

Now, National Public Radio has posted a story and some interesting historical resources at its website. It is very interesting reading. That URL is in this week’s printed Amateur Radio Newsline report.

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: NEW DVD PLAYER FILTERS OUT BAD WORDS

Wal-Mart is selling the world's first DVD player that can seamlessly skip over violence, swearing, nudity and other potentially offensive movie content. The $79 unit features technology by ClearPlay and is manufactured by Thomson Inc. under its RCA brand.

The DVD player is the latest development in a legal battle between the Salt Lake City-based software company and Hollywood. Members of the Directors Guild of America filed suit against ClearPlay in September 2002, when the filtering product was available as a computer program claiming it impinges on intellectual and creative rights. Those legal proceedings are still under way in Colorado's 10th District Court. Both sides currently are waiting for a ruling on a summary judgment filed by ClearPlay.

WORLDBEAT - SLOVAKIA: FIRST CELLPHONE VIRUS ANNOUNCED

On the international scene word that a group of underground virus writers have announced what is believed to be the world's first worm that can spread on advanced mobile phones.
According to news reports, the worm named Cabir, was sent to security software firms in the United States and Russia by a member of 29a.

29a is described as a group of virus writers from the Czech Republic and Slovakia who pride themselves in creating proof of concept malicious viruses. Thankfully, Cabir has been found to have no damaging code attached that might destroy files or execute other harmful operations.

Bold has taught every course in the physics department, all courses in geophysics signal processing and network theory. He has also devised and revised experiments and designed the curriculum for many second and third year physics courses. A dedicated C-W enthusiast, in his spare time he writes the NZART Break-In Magazine column "The Morseman."

The presentation was made at the recent 2004 Tertiary Teaching Excellence Awards.
ZL1AN was one of 12 academics from nine institutions presented with awards, each of which brings with it a $30,000 prize.

DX

In D-X, word that several O-H prefix operators will be operational from Aland Island as OH0I during the CQ Magazine and RTTY Journal RTTY DX Contest. This, from September 25th to the 26th. They will operate as a Multi class 2 entry using multiple beams and vertical arrays on the low bands. QSL via OH3BHL.

And keep an ear open in September for RA3AMG from Cyprus. He will also be active in the same contest signing P3B. QSL via his home callsign.

Lastly, ST2DX will be active from the Sudan until the 10th of July. Look for him mainly on SSB, with some CW, on all bands between 30 and 6 meters. QSL this one as directed on the air.

THAT FINAL ITEM – HAMMIN' OLDIES ON WBCQ

And finally this week… who says hams and short wave listeners are nothing but a bunch of stuffy old geezers?

The Peacock Project is a group of Internet broadcasters that have banded together to present a variety of music eras, styles and talk over WBCQ on Saturday nights at 8PM Eastern time, which is Midnight Universal Time, Sunday. Named in tribute to one of their group, Rob Peacock, who suddenly passed away in January, the show features a different host each week with a program that is unique to his own musical preference and personal presentation.

The first weekend of every month will feature Dave Kirby's look back at Old Time
Radio and some non-English language versions of American songs. The second weekend is
The Voice of Savage Henry, a 1960's and 70's "Garage Band" rock show hosted by Steve Evanchuck,
KG8KO. Tim Gaynor is heard directly from Australia on the 3rd week and the 4th week is S teve Coletti, aka “Big Steve Cole”. Four times a year there is a 5th Saturday to the month and on those weekends it is time for "Hollow-State Hound", a show scheduled to feature
big band music with Mike "The DX Hound".

The broadcasters got together in an odd way, and going on WBCQ's 7415 kHz frequency is like going home to where it all started. A few years ago there was a group of ham radio
operators who were also listeners to shortwave broadcasters and utility stations. Under the umbrella organization of the Association Of North American Radio Clubs, (ANARC), they would join into a ham traffic net every Sunday morning on 7240 kHz to compare their station loggings. While the net still has a lot of good memories for those who joined in or only listened in, the group eventually disbanded. The net then moved to an Internet Relay
Chat channel that was already in existence.
To a few die hard members like Dave Kirby, N1DK, the discontinuance of the radio
net was only a minor setback. Dave began doing weekly reports by way of the Cyber Shortwave real audio file that was available for download by anyone. It was at the suggestion of member Pete Costello that Dave began doing his presentations as a live interactive program by way of sending sound via live365.com and receiving typed comments back from listeners via the IRC chat channel.

As loggings and SWL news tapered off, Dave began doing more music and off topic bantering.
This led the powers that be at the chat room to ask Dave to create his own chat room for the show.
The kick in the butt turned out to be a blessing as now the door was opened for others who wanted to do interactive radio using Dave's chat room

We hope that you will enjoy the diversity of programming that these enterprising hams and SWLs have created. The Peacock Project begins July 3rd on WBCQ at 7415 kHz and your fellow broadcasters, hams and SWLs at the Amateur Radio Newsline wish you the best.

When I was about nine years old my Sunday school teacher "explained" to us that the sound waves produced when we speak never ever stop, that they just get weaker and weaker. She had been convinced that technology would soon (and this was in the mid 40s) be able to single out a single voice from the billions and billions (thank you Carl Sagan) of sound waves and that we would then be able to hear the actual voice of Jesus.

Technically true, but they quickly vanish into the noise background created by random motion of air molecules, and are gone beyond all retrieval.

The human ear under ideal conditions can very nearly hear that noise background -- indeed, I'm told there have been one or two reports suggesting that maybe the best ears can -- so the limit is not that far down.

Now I'm curious as to just how long a sound wave can last before being drowned in that molecular clutter.

I've been downloading 9600 baud telemetry 4-6 passes a day on 435.150. Not much to listen to by ear, sort of sounds like noise. The repeater will be on as soon as they test everything out...it's on 435.225.

It would depend on audio frequency, amplitude (volume), air temperature, humidity, pollutant levels, surrounding reflective/absorbent surfaces, and so on and so on.
Suffice it to say, given all those variables and more, that it would be virtually impossible to recover anything even as recent as a few hours old, let alone 2000 years... especially without some reference by which one could filter for a specific voice or other desired sound.

Here's a brief message from Amateur Radio Newsline's Support Fund Administrator Andy Jarema, N6TCQ:

"The following is an advisory. This is Andy Jarema, N6TCQ, Newsline Support Fund Administrator.
We'd like to thank everyone who helped us during our campaign in June, and we'll have the on-air thank-yous in the next week or so. Don't forget that the Young Ham of the Year Award is coming up in the next few weeks, so try to note our support address at the end of the newscast, as we're not out of the woods, yet.

And now, as every week, the latest breaking news of Amateur Radio follows"

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1405 with a release date of Friday, July 16, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T.

The ARRL board of directors discuss BPL and other hot issues, it's still a go with ECHO and a satellite TV company makes a costly move. The details are coming up on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1405 coming your way right now.

BPL AMONG HOT TOPICS FOR JULY ARRL BOARD SESSION

The American Radio Relay League's board of directors sits down for a weekend of critical meetings.
Amateur Radio Newsline's Mark Abramowicz NT3V has the preview...

--

Broadband Over Powerline internet access is one of the hottest topics on the ARRL board agenda.
It is likely BPL has been the subject of committee meetings leading up to the weekend board sessions.

Dealing with BPL issues is priority No. 1 for ARRL President Jim Haynie WB5JBP. Haynie tells Amateur Radio Newsline in a recent interview, he expects the Federal Communications Commission will act soon on the matter. While it's difficult to put a timetable on how soon, Haynie tells us he wouldn't be surprised to see the panel come out with a decision before the presidential election.

President Bush is solidly behind BPL as part of his broadband-technology initiative - this despite Haynie and the ARRL's plea for him to reconsider. Democratic challenger John Kerry's campaign position speaks of a variety of technologies for broadband but does not directly mention BPL.

Haynie concedes the way the political winds are blowing, some form of BPL activity is likely to be approved.

But the 64-thousand-dollar questions are: How much and where?

With the National Telecommunications and Information Administration already raising red flags about interference, and a BPL industry spokesman throwing verbal missiles at the amateur community, Haynie tells us here at Amateur Radio Newsline he's hoping some FCC commissioners might re-examine their BPL positions.

Haynie calls the recent suspension of the Alliant Energy BPL project in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, an important step. And, Haynie says, he suspects the electric utility industry will have to consider any fallout and who could be next to answer an interference complaint at the FCC.

As to complaints, Haynie says the ARRL will be especially vigilant if BPL becomes a reality. He says the organization will be before the FCC to press interference issues with those who are cause them.

And, he has told Amateur Radio Newsline, he will also press the FCC to fully empower those charged with enforcement issues in the agency to go after BPL providers who fail to resolve any interference complaints.

Among the other items on the board agenda, the status of amateur license restructuring which includes provisions for a "no-code" HF license for entry-level hams.

The July board meeting also is where the announcement of the winner of the Hiram Percy Maxim award comes along with host of other ARRL awards.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia.

HAMSATS: ECHO TESTS CONTINUE

Testing of the newest ham radio satellite, ECHO, continues and all is, as they say in the space biz…
nominal. The remainder of this week is expected to be spent loading some new code, testing the S downlink and the UHF B transmitter. Note that the S downlink, when in digital mode, will always be at 38.4 kilobits or higher. It is not capable of 9.6 kilobits due to limitations involved in making it work properly at speeds up to 76.8 kilobits. AMSAT is pleased so far with the strength of the 2.45W S downlink. At times the UHF A transmitter will be off or at very low power. They will also be testing transmitters at higher data rates. Listeners should not be surprised or alarmed if the UHF A transmitter is not on or if they are unable to copy it at 9.6k during some orbits.

The Command Team is carefully checking off the tests and measurements that are part of the commissioning process. They ask everyone to be patient. And again, AO-51 is not yet open for use. Any transmissions aimed at AO-51 by other than command stations will slow down the process and delay the day when it is open for all to use.

The coloradosatellite.com/echo web site was off line for a few hours last weekend due to a data center move. Stations who want to upload telemetry should find it on line now.

SPACE: ARISS SCHOOL CONTACT LIST UPDATED

While we're on the subject of ham radio in space, the list of Amateur Radio on the International Space Station, or ARISS, school contacts has been updated. To check if a school in your area is on the list or to find out how to schedule a contact at your school please visit www.amsat.org or http://ariss.gsfc.nasa.gov. There is no "www" in that last URL. Of course, these addresses will be in the print edition of this week's Amateur Radio Newsline report.

RADIO LAW: MDS & ITFS SPECTRUM RECHANNELIZED - MDS BECOMES BRS

Big changes are coming to the Multipoint Distribution Service and the Instructional Television Fixed Service. These are better known by the acronyms M-D-S and I-T-F-S.

As part of its ongoing effort to promote the deployment of wireless broadband services, the FCC has adopted a Report and Order and Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking dramatically changing the rules governing MDS and ITFS operations in the 2500-2690 MHz band.

For starters, the Order renames the M-D-S service the Broadband Radio Service or B-R-S. It does however maintain the I-T-F-S label for Instructional Television Fixed Service licenses and operations.
The newly rechannelized I-T-F-S slash B-R-S band will group high and low power operations together in spectrum chunks. This, the agency says, will make low power two-way data communications possible in some parts of the band.

Finally, to make all this happen the band will soon become 5 MHz larger. This, as restructuring of other services in the adjacent electromagnetic spectrum permits the FCC to extend the low end of this band down to 2495 Mhz. (CGC)

RADIO LAW: FCC CLARIFIES ITS ROLE REGARDING INTERFERENCE AND CUSTOMER EQUIPMENT

The FCC has clarified its role regarding interference issues, consumer antennas and Part 15 unlicensed equipment. Regarding antennas, we all know that consumers have the right to install and operate - on property they control - antennas for over-the-air broadcast, terrestrial and satellite reception.

Now the regulatory agency has added license-free Wi-Fi antennas of one meter or less to the list of what may be installed. The same one meter size limit also applies to antennas used in conjunction with fixed wireless services that are licensed by the FCC.

In the area of radio frequency interference or R-F-I, the FCC says that it and it alone holds exclusive jurisdiction over the regulation and resolution of R-F-I issues. It adds that regulation of R-F-I phenomena shall be imposed only by the Commission noting that both the FCC and the federal courts have overturned attempts by third parties to regulate RFI matters. This, in light of the FCC's exclusive authority in this area.

ENFORCEMENT: CATV LEAK RESULTS IN $6400 FINE

A cable TV system in Cornersville, Tennessee has been fined for excessive signal leakage in the aircraft communications band. Small Town Communications Partners has been ordered to pay $6,400 for excessive leakage on 121.2625 MHz.

At that frequency a maximum leakage of 20 microvolts per meter at a distance of at least three meters from a CATV cable is allowed. The FCC says that the measured leaks in this case ranged from 255 microvolts per meter to 2080 microvolts per meter.

The Commission notes that excessive cable TV leakage can interfere with a wide variety of communications.
This can include emergency services, aviation, and Amateur Radio.

**

ENFORCEMENT: DIREC-TV FINED FOR UNAUTHORIZED SATELLITE MOVE

The Commission has proposed an $87,500 fine against DIRECTV, Inc.
This for repositioning its

DIRECTV 3 satellite without FCC authorization.

DIRECTV had filed a request with the FCC for special temporary authority to relocate the DIRECTV 3 bird, but admits that its employees began repositioning the satellite the next day, without waiting for Commission approval.

In setting the amount of the fine, the FCC noted that strict adherence to the rules governing modification of satellite authorizations is critical to minimizing the risk of collisions between satellites. (CGC)

ON THE AIR: THE .275 YOUTH GROUP NET

Timothy Little, W-8-L-B-O has announced the start-up of a new 40 meter 275 Youth Group. According to his posting on the Q-R-Zed dot com super site, this is an informal ragchew group that meets every Saturday at 9:00 P.M. Eastern time on 7 point 275 MHz, +/- 10 KHz.

Little says that the main purpose of the net is to promote the use of HF by younger hams so that they can get to know one another. The net also tries to help them perfect their operating skills including Morse code operation and D-Xing.

Anyone young or young at heart is invited to take part. More information about this net is on line at www.275youthgroup.4t.com)QRZ.com)

CHANGING OF THE GUARD: ASCII DEVELOPER NOW S.K.

Bob Bemer, a computer pioneer who published warnings of the Y2K problem in the early 1970s and helped invent a widely used coding system, has died. This, following a battle with cancer.

While not a radio amateur, Bemer played a major role in how the world's computers operate and, indirectly, in how hams communicate today. He began his career in 1949 working at companies including Rand, IBM, and Honeywell. He also helped develop the ASCII coding system that is used to represent letters, numbers and other characters in the data world. He also contributed the escape key and the backslash to the computer language.

Bemer first published warnings of the Y2K computer problem in 1971 and again in 1979. He also made several public appearances to discuss the issue in the years leading up to the millennium.

Bob Bemer died Tuesday, June 22nd at his home some 120 miles west of Dallas, Texas. He was 84. (Published news reports)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: FEW KNOW ABOUT DIGITAL TV

The General Accounting Office says that more than 80 percent of Americans are either unaware or only

"somewhat aware" of the transition to digital television signals. But federal officials have expressed shock and indignation at the survey results.

Congress plans to sell the analog spectrum that will become available when TV stations convert from analog to digital. Lawmakers are counting on the money to help balance the budget. However, the digital transition may be years away unless more consumers start buying digital TV sets and most are not willing to pay the additional cost. (TechBriefs)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: CELL PHONE "WAITING LOT" IN OPERATION AT LINDBERGH FIELD

Following the lead of several other busy airports around the nation, officials at San Diego's Lindbergh Field have opened a convenient "cell phone waiting lot." This is a place where drivers can park for up to an hour while awaiting phone calls from arriving passengers. Airport managers hope that the new lot will cut down on the congestion caused by vehicles circling the airport loop, waiting to pick up passengers. More is on-line at http://tinyurl.com/yplws (CGC)

THAT FINAL ITEM: MUSEUM SHIPS CASTING FOR CONTACTS

And finally this week, dozens of ships from around the world get "radio-active" July 17th and 18th for the annual Museum Ships Weekend Event. Amateur Radio Newsline's Mark Abramowicz, NT3V is back with us and he checks in on preparations being made about the U.S.S.
New Jersey....

--

Dave Burgess, WA2TVS, is chief engineer for the Battleship New Jersey Amateur Radio Station aboard the New Jersey. Look for NJ2BB (New Jersey 2 Big Battleship) to be very active during the event.

Burgess says the weekend was the brainchild of the USS Salem Radio Club, K1USN, in Salem, Mass.
He says it actually started in 1997 as a way to get museum ships at dry-docks around the world to get on the air by way of amateur radio.

Burgess says it's the New Jersey's third year taking part.

"Last year, the number grew to about 87 or 88," Burgess says. "Right now I think the pre-registration right now is about 77. But seems like there's always a half a dozen or so right at the last minute that get their act together and get on the air."

Burgess says the event gives radio operators around the world a chance to contact a variety of these special ships and their volunteer crews.

"One is just to have fun and a reason to get the ships on the air," Burgess says. "Of course, whoever is in charge of taking care of the ship gets some PR out of it, we hope.

"They have an opportunity for the public to see amateur radio which is new to a lot of people. But to advertise the ships worldwide. I never knew there were so many ships out there. Just museum ships that is. It's amazing how many there are out there and what their diversity is."

Burgess says there are tugboats, river boats, submarines and even a midget German submarine left over from World War II. All are part of the museum ship flotilla.

He says there's no contest exchange involved in this one. Ship operators get on the air and look to contact land-based stations as well as other museum ships. It's a chance, Burgess says, to showcase a ship and its history. And, of course, there's an exchange of QSL cards and you can be guaranteed some pretty impressive history and photos of the ship you contact.

For the New Jersey's part, Burgess says he's planning an active weekend with operations through the evening of July 18th.

"We'll be on all HF bands, probably concentrating on 20 (meters), but we have capabilities (with the) ship's antennas to do 160 through 10 meters," Burgess says. "We'll be on all modes. This year we'll be introducing true, green-key operation for teletype. We'll be using the ship's old mechanical teletype machines to get on the air."

Look for NJ2BB, Burgess says, for a memorable QSO and QSL.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Camden, New Jersey, the home of the Battleship New Jersey.

Thanks Mark. This sounds like a great opportunity to collect some very interesting "wall paper" for the ol' shack.

ANDREA HARTLAGE, KG4IUM, NAMED ARNEWSLINE(TM) YOUNG HAM OF THE YEAR

Andrea Hartlage, KG4IUM, has been named 2004 Young Ham of the Year by the Amateur Radio Newsline. And since this is a story about the success of the younger members of the hobby we asked our 2002 Young Ham of the Year, Josh Abramowicz, KB3GWY, to bring us the rest. Josh:

--

It was only a few years ago that I got a call at the Hawk Mountain Scout Reservation in Schuylkill County, Pennsylvania, telling me to call someone from Amateur Radio Newsline. It was during that phone call, that started out as an interview, I learned of my nomination and selection as the Young Ham of the Year.

Andrea, it turned out, was with her grandparents on vacation in Florida at the time she got the call on a cell phone from Amateur Radio Newsline's Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF. Here's her first reaction after getting the news:

"I'm very happy and excited."

Andrea, who earned her Extra Class license at the age of 14 - less than a year ago , was first licensed in 2000. She's 15 years old and going into her sophomore year at Grayson High School in Grayson, Georgia, north and east of Atlanta, where she's an honor student.

Andrea has been quite active since getting her ticket just four years ago.

"I do a lot of public service with parades and different types of marathons and things like that," she says. "I write the youth column for ARRL website. The Youth@HamRadio.Fun column. I'm assistant section manager for youth of the Georgia section and I'm a member of several local radio clubs."

Andrea is proud of her ham radio activity and is promoting the Amateur Radio service among youth.

"I spoke briefly at the Youth Forum in Dayton and I also led a Youth Forum at the hamfest, the local Rockville hamfest, and I also helped put hamfests on with the Alford Memorial Radio Club," she says.

She's also part of the ARRL's Big School Project and serves as a leader and teacher at the Richards Middle School Amateur Radio Club. There, she teaches electronic theory and has come up with a series of fun games to help reinforce the lessons.

So how did Andrea get started in Amateur Radio? She credits her father with kindling her interest.

"My dad interested me, he introduced it to me, Scott Hartlage, KF4PWI and he introduced me to Amateur Radio - I guess it was four years ago," she says. "I just sort of got interested in the public service side and I also serve as net control and I enjoy doing that and all the other things."

Andrea says Amateur Radio and all the opportunities it has given her, also has opened her eyes to some career possibilities.

"I'm possibly thinking about some kind of journalism and writing these (ARRL) columns helps me develop writing skills," she says. "And, I'm also thinking about some type of communication field that I really enjoy, like, for example, serving as net control and learning how to communicate effectively."

Andrea has made quite an impression on hundreds and hundreds of people already. You can bet it won't be the last time we'll hear from her, now and in the future.

From the 2002 award winner - Congratulations, Andrea, the 2004 Young Ham of the Year.

For Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Josh Abramowicz, KB3GWY.

--

Andrea Hartlage, KG4IUM, will get her award at a special ceremony on Saturday, August 21st at the Huntsville Hamfest. In addition to a plaque from Amateur Radio Newsline Andrea will receive a gift of Yaesu brand ham radio gear from Vertex Standard and a week at Spacecamp courtesy of CQ Magazine. Vertex Standard and CQ are both major corporate underwriters of the Young Ham of the Year Award program. (ARNewsline (tm))

ANDREA HARTLAGE, KG4IUM AND JAY THOMPSON, W6JAY, NAMED TO RECEIVE HIRAM PERCY MAXIM AWARD

At almost the same time that Andrea Hartlage was getting word that she had been named as Amateur Radio Newsline's Young Ham of the Year

she was also hearing good news from the American Radio Relay League.
So was our 2003 Young Ham of the Year Jay Thompson, W6JAY.
Here's
Amy Abramowicz, KB3IJW, with more:

--

Both Andrea and Jay learned the ARRL's board of directors had selected them to receive the coveted Hiram Percy Maxim Memorial Award.

The ARRL board was so impressed by the nominations for each that they decided to give both of them the award. That means a cash prize of $1,500 each and a special plaque.

Amateur Radio Newsline spoke with ARRL President Jim Haynie, W5JBP. He says there's no doubt Andrea and Jay are the brightest stars among the young hams today.

"Both are just absolutely stellar examples of Amateur Radio and the young crowd that we're trying to encourage at the League," Haynie says. "You couldn't pick anybody any better than these two. And, I'm just amazed at their accomplishments and how they've managed to be so professional in all the things they've done.

"I've read some of their papers and when we chose them as the HPM award winners, what they had accomplished in their brief careers as amateur radio operators. The only thing I would say to young people is use these two people as examples because they are the best. They are the best of the best. And, speaking as president of the League, I congratulate them both and I admire them both because of what they've managed to do."

Mister Haynie also tells us the 1997 Amateur Radio Newsline Young Ham of the Year, Brian Mileshosky, N5ZGT, is in the same class. Brian was the 1999 Hiram Percy Maxim Award winner. He's now 24, married, heading to grad school in the fall, and still very active in Amateur Radio activities in New Mexico.

"All his work in Scouting and DFing and things of this nature that are the epitomy of Amateur Radio again for young people," Haynie says. "When I first met Brian, I was just blown away by his professionalism and how he handled himself as a young amateur. These three young individuals I think set the example and set the standard which we would like to see Amateur Radio go toward."

Mister Haynie says now that the Hiram Percy Maxim selections have been made for 2004, it's soon time to begin identifying candidates for 2005. You can find out more about the award, the qualifications, and the nominating process at www.ARRL.org.

To learn more about Andrea and Jay's accomplishments, you can also check out our website at www.arnewsline.org

For Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Amy Abramowicz, KB3IJW.

We know that all of you join us in congratulating Andrea Hartlage, KG4IUM and Jay Thompson, W6JAY, on being selected top receive these very special awards. (ARRL S.W. Division Newsletter, ARNewsline (tm))

HAM RADIO POLITICS: ARRL BARD MEETING

The naming of Andrea Hartlage, KG4IUM, and Jay Thompson, W6JAY, as winners of the Hirum Percy Maxim Award was only one of many decisions made at the recent meeting of the ARRL Board of Directors. Many of the Boards actions will impact on all of ham radio for years to come. Here's another Abramovich clan -- Mark Abramovich, NT3V, with that part of the story.

--

In an historic step, the ARRL's board approved the launch of a grassroots lobbying campaign designed to raise awareness among legislators and government agencies about the Amateur Radio service.

ARRL President Jim Haynie, W5JBP, says there was careful deliberation before the board decided to launch the campaign.

"With all the things we have going on right now, such as BPL, our CC&R bill, our Spectrum Protection Act and even the restructuring program that we have it's time to raise our level of visibility," Haynie says.

Haynie says the ARRL board put the directors in charge of appointing volunteers to staff three positions in each division to work as Congressional Action chair, coordinator and assistant.

He says the chair would be someone who has had some experience in lobbying. A coordinator, with the blessing of section managers, would be selected for each state to work with the chair. And, he says, that coordinator would seek assistants to help spread the ARRL's message to congressmen and senators.

"This is a very orchestrated effort and I'm happy to see it happen," Haynie says. "It's something that's been needed to be done for a very, very long time. And it's a good thing, Mark. It really is. It's something we should have done years ago, actually."

Haynie says recent pronouncements by the FCC's chairman clearly pose a threat to the Amateur Radio service.

"I heard Michael Powell say at the NAB (National Association of Broadcasters) conference in Las Vegas this year that everything was on the table," Haynie says.

"All frequencies were on the table for various types of services. "So, Amateur Radio has got to get in there and make sure that it's voice is heard and its importance of the communities that they serve and the people that like to do volunteer work."

Haynie says the league will also ask members to get more active in contacting their representatives in the U.S. House and U.S. Senate to express their views or simply introduce them to the value of the Amateur Radio service in their communities.

"And I'm not asking the league members to do too much, actually, but sit down and write their representatives," Haynie says. "And you don't have to complain about anything. Just tell them about Amateur Radio. Tell them how much it's meant to you and your life and how it may have shaped it or changed it.

"I've said for years some of the finest people I ever met have been through ham radio. But there's many hams out there that have whole careers based on it. And this is too important not to bring the level of visibility to a higher plain."

In other board business, Haynie says there was considerable discussion of Broadband over Power Line internet access and the pending FCC action. Haynie says the board was encouraged that the Alliant Energy BPL trial in Cedar Rapids, Iowa was terminated early because of interference complaints.

He says that move sent a message to other electric utilities exploring BPL.

"It's several dozen utilities now that have looked at BPL and said that it's not something they want to get involved with," Haynie says. "And our message is not economic because they can figure that out for themselves. Our message is the fact that under Part 15, there are certain rules that have to be abided by and we want to make sure that they do that."

Haynie emphasizes the league's position on BPL is clear and consistent and can't be perceived as denying people access to technology.

"We're not against people having broadband access, we're really not," Haynie says. "It's the fact that the interference that this particular technology would bring to the HF bands is going to be a real problem and we've got to hold people's feet to the fire when they say that they're going to mitigate interference. That goes from the White House all the way down."

Finally, Haynie says he is growing cautiously optimistic about the BPL fight and the impact the ARRL's position is having on the industry and some in government agencies.

"I think that our message is beginning to get out, and, like I say, we're not confrontational" Haynie says. "We're just trying to say look at the facts, look at the engineering studies, look at the NTIA studies and draw your own conclusions. If you've got engineers on your staff, they're quite clear."

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia.

A more in-depth report on the actions of the ARRL Board will appear in an upcoming issue of QST Magazine. (ARNewsline (tm))

RADIO RULES: VANITY CALL SIGN FEEE GOING UP

The FCC regulatory fee to obtain an Amateur Radio vanity call sign will rise from $16.30 to $20.80 later this year. According to the ARRL Letter, the FCC announced the new fee in a Report and Order in MD Docket 04-73. Thats also known as the "Assessment and Collection of Regulatory Fees for Fiscal Year 2004" and the FCC says it anticipates 7800 applications for that time frame. The FCC expects revenue collected from the vanity call sign regulatory fees in Fiscal Year 2004 to rise by more than $2100. The Report and Order becomes effective 30 days after it's published in The Federal Register. (ARRL)

ENFORCEMENT: CBS SAYS IT WILL NOT ACCEPT SUPER BOWL INCIDENT FINE

CBS says that it will fight any fines leveled against its television stations over Janet Jackson's startling Super Bowl performance. This, according to a top executive with parent company Viacom Inc. on July 19th.

An FCC staff recommendation did not call for fining CBS affiliates that aired the Super Bowl halftime show but are not owned by Viacom. But CBS itself could face a fine of $550,000 or of $27,500 for each of its 20 owned and operated stations that asired the so called Janet Jackson wardrobe malfunction.

Now, in a recent talk before the Television Critics Association, Viacom co-president and co-chief operating officer Leslie Moonves criticiszed any fine as being grossly unfair. He said that CBS considers the idea of a fine as patently ridiculous and that the company will take the matter into court if such a penalty is imposed. (Published news reports)

RADIO LAW: HAWAII'S GOVERNOR VETOES AMATEUR RADIO ANTENNA BILLS BUT OVERICDE MIGHT BE ATTEMPTED

The ARRL Letter reports that Hawaii Governor Linda Lingle has vetoed two Amateur Radio antenna bills. Both pieces of legislation would have provided limited opportunities for amateurs living under private deed covenants, conditions and restrictions to erect antennas.

HB 2773 would have opened the door for amateurs living in condominiums to make arrangements with the homeowners' association board to install an antenna without having to change the CC&Rs. HB 2774 would have granted similar rights to the relatively few amateurs who live under CC&Rs in agricultural-zoned property.

Lingle, a Republican, invoked the same reason for refusing to sign both bills into law. She said that the bills were objectionable because they amount to an inappropriate and unacceptable governmental intrusion into the contractual affairs of the property owners.

But it may not be over yet. According to word from former Westlink News Production Coordinator Bill Orenstein, KH6QX, there is a move afoot to overide the Lingle veto in the Hawaii State legislasture. Orenstein, who now lives in Hawaii could not say when the overide action might take place or if it had any chance of success. (ARRL with additional information by KH6QX) www.hamblog.com is a new weblog host exclusively for amateur radio operators.

What is a blog you ask? Simply, its a spot in cyberspace where people post their thoughts and ideas on just about any subject. Some blogs let you do just that while others like hamblog.com are targeted to a particular subject. In the case of hamblog.com its our hobby of

Amateur Radio.

Charles Brabham, N5PVL, who administers hamblog.com says that hams have a lot of information to pass on to each other but traditional information systems such as magazine articles or speaking engagements at fests have proven to be unsuitable for. He says that Weblogs are highly flexible and highly individualistic and they hope that hamblog.com will provide a wellspring of knowledge about Amateur Radio that would be impossible to access or distribute by traditional methods.

Oh yes. Charles says that the service is free of charge so go check it out. The URL is simply www.hamblog.com (Via e-mail)

THAT FINAL ITEM: SOMALIA GIVES HAM RADIO INCREASED POWER LIMITS

And finally this week, the ARRL Board Meeting was not the only place where things were ham radio changes were happening last week. Another was the nation of Somalia which has acted to grant its ham radio population a power increase to 3 kilowatts. Thats right. We said 3000 Watts and thats 3000 P-E-P for SSB and 3000 watts average for other modes. Somalia is also letting hams use of the 88 to 108 Mhz band for F-M and permitting Amateur Television broadcasts to be conducted on any unoccupied standard VHF or UHF television channel. WIA newscaster Graham Kemp, VK4BB, has more:

Yes the Ministry of Information, Telecommunication and Culture in Somalia has made these changes and more as part of action to implement the W-R-C 2003 accords.

And the Ministry has also made additional frequency allocations for amateur radio experimenters in Somalia. Radio Amateurs in that nation can operate on additional bands including Zero to 9 Kilohertz, from 70 to 90 Kilohertz and 130 to 190 Kilohertz. On Medium Wave frequencies include 495 to 526 Kilohertz, while on the High Frequencies the hams of Somalia get 5.060 to 5.450 MHz and 26.100 to 29.700 MHz excluding 27.995 the sliver band from to 27.999.

This Ministry is promoting Somalia as the best holiday and research destination for visiting radio amateurs. This, as a way of attracting skilled people to help the local Somali people become ham radio operators. Abdikariim Ali Sulatn in Puntand State Somalia confirmed again that Aussie Amateur Sam Voron, 6OA, will continue to conduct ham radio license qualifying courses and issue amateur radio licenses free of charge "in the name of this Ministry" until a national Somali Amateur Radio Society is formed.

And, oh yes. If you are planning to go there, a Somali Visitors Amateur Radio License is now issued to any class of overseas amateur radio license holder as a courtesy. It is free of charge and issued for life unless canceled by the Somali Government. Talk about an inducement to visit a far off land.

Reporting for the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Graham Kemp, VK4BB, for the WIA News, in Brisbane, Australia.

--

According to a Somali spokesman, as of now, no other country provides radio amateurs with more frequencies or a higher transmitter power output. He added that Somalia welcomes visiting radio amateurs from throughout the world. (WIA News)

432. Andrea Hartlage (KG4IUM) named 2004 Amateur Radio Newsline™ Young Ham Of The Year

Andrea Hartlage (KG4IUM) named 2004 Amateur Radio Newsline™ Young Ham Of The Year

(Los Angeles, CA) She is 15 years old, about to become a sophomore in Grayson High School in Grayson, Georgia where she holds a 96.41 Grade Point Average and has dedicated the last four years of her young life to serving the needs of her community and its youth through Amateur Radio. For that reason and many others, Andrea Hartlage (KG4IUM) has been selected to be the recipient of the 2004 Amateur Radio Newsline™ Young Ham of the Year Award.

Andrea was first licensed in 2000 and currently holds the Amateur Extra class which is the top of the line. She credits her father with kindling her interest.

"My dad interested me, he introduced it to me, Scott Hartlage, KF4PWI and he introduced me to Amateur Radio - I guess it was four years ago," she says. "I just sort of got interested in the public service side and I also serve as net control and I enjoy doing that and all the other things." (A "net control" is the person in charge of a group of ham operators performing emergency or public service communications.)

Andrea has been quite active since getting her FCC license just four years ago.

"I do a lot of public service with parades and different types of marathons and things like that," she says. "I write the youth column for ARRL website...I'm assistant section manager for youth of the Georgia section and I'm a member of several local radio clubs." The ARRL is the American Radio Relay League, the National Association for Amateur Radio, based in Newington, Connecticut.

Among her many achievements, Andrea has served as an instructor at J.E. Richards Middle School Amateur Radio Club as part of the "ARRL Amateur Radio Education & Technology Program." The program's goal is to improve the quality of instruction by providing an educationally sound curriculum focused on wireless communications. The project emphasizes integration of technology, math, science, geography, writing, speaking and social responsibility within a global society. Andrea's instructional work at the J.E. Richards Middle School Amateur Radio Club was part of the pilot program.

But Andrea's work in the area of recruiting youngsters into the Amateur Radio hobby goes far beyond her local community. She is an internationally known writer with a monthly on-line column titled "Youth@HamRadio.Fun" and also authors a similar bi-monthly column for the Young Ladies' Radio League (YLRL) Newsletter, YL-Harmonics. As a public speaker she has appeared at the Dayton Hamvention Youth Forum in Ohio and continues to promote the hobby to youngsters at local hamfests, club meetings, and other public events.

In the area of public service, Andrea has already completed the ARRL Emergency Communications training course and serves as the network control station for several regularly scheduled on-the-air emergency communications training sessions. These include networks sponsored by the Gwinnett Amateur Radio Society and the Gwinnett County Amateur Radio Emergency Service (ARES). Andrea also was the control station of the GEMA/ ARES Net for activation during the G8 Summit Conference. On the technical side, Andrea has already used the skill she learned through Amateur Radio to build communications gear for the September 2003 World Canoeing and Kayaking event.

Andrea is a member of several prestigious hobby radio organizations including the ARRL and YLRL mentioned above, the FISTS Club (an international organization dedicated to the preservation of the historic Morse Code), the Gwinnett County Amateur Radio Emergency Service, the Gwinnett Amateur Radio Society (GARS), the Alford Memorial Radio Club, the A-1 Operator's Club and scouting Venture Crew 73.

As to her future, Andrea says Amateur Radio and all the opportunities it has given her, also has opened her eyes to some career possibilities.

"I'm possibly thinking about some kind of journalism and writing these (ARRL) columns helps me develop writing skills," she says. "And, I'm also thinking about some type of communication field that I really enjoy, like, for example, serving as net control and learning how to communicate effectively."

At the end of her freshmen high school year, Andrea had all A's, placed 7th in her class of 664,. She takes all "Gifted Level" courses and will be taking "Advanced Placement" next year.

The Amateur Radio Newsline™ Young Ham of the Year Award will be presented to Andrea Hartlage on Saturday, August 16th, 2003 at the Huntsville Hamfest in Huntsville, Alabama. The award ceremony will be co-hosted by Bill Pasternak (WA6ITF) of Amateur Radio Newsline™, and YHOTY Award Committee Chairman Mark Abramowicz (NT3V). Also present at the ceremony will be representatives of corporate underwriters Vertex Standard USA, Inc. and CQ Magazine. The presentation of the award as a regular feature of this prestigious Amateur Radio convention has been made possible through the generosity of the Huntsville Hamfest Planning Committee and its Chairman, Walter "Scotty" Neustadter, (W4WW).

As "Young Ham of the Year," Andrea Hartlage, will receive -- courtesy of Vertex Standard USA -- an expense-paid trip to the Huntsville Hamfest, along with a gift of Yaesu ham radio equipment. CQ magazine will treat Andrea to an expense-paid week in Spacecamp Huntsville, and will present her with a variety of CQ products. Amateur Radio Newsline™ will provide Andrea with a commemorative plaque at the award ceremony. The cost of year's plaque has been underwritten by Dave Bell (W6AQ) - President of DBA Entertainment Inc., Hollywood California.

The corporate underwriters of the "Amateur Radio Newsline™ Young Ham of the Year Award" are world leaders in their respective areas of Amateur Radio product support. Vertex Standard USA, Inc. is a trailblazer in the design, manufacture and distribution of high quality YAESU Amateur Radio and commercial two-way radio equipment. CQ magazine is considered the trend-setting publication serving today's modern radio amateur.

The Amateur Radio Newsline™ Young Ham of the Year award program, (formerly the Westlink Report Young Ham of the Year) now entering its 20th consecutive year, is presented annually to a licensed Radio Amateur (Ham) who is 18 years of age or younger and who has provided outstanding service to the nation, his community or the betterment of the state of the art in communications through the Amateur Radio hobby/service.

Past recipients of the Young Ham of the Year Award, all of whom epitomize the heart of dedication to their nation include:

Shawn Alan Wakefield, WK5P, of Bartlesville, Oklahoma (1986)
David Rosenman, KA9PMK, of Muncie, Indiana (1987)
Jonathan Binstock, NK3D, of Potomac, Maryland (1988)
Erin McGinnis, KAOWTE, of Topeka, Kansas (1989)
Mary Alestra, KB2IGG, of Staten Island, New York (1990)

Personally, I think the virus writers are doing our country a great service. If it were not for the virus writers finding these security holes in software that our gov and major corporations use, a terrorist could unleash a whole bunch of viruses all at one time shutting down our country at a critical moment.

In fact the way I see it, there is so much money being made in anti-spam and anti-virus software that MS would be a fool to fix the problems.

All you windoze lusers can keep rebooting and reloading your computers at the same time you spend more money.

Wow.

When I went to school 4.0 was the top.

I'd heard that they'd since increased it to account for AP and Honors classes. But 96.41?!? WOW.

ON THE AIR: GEOMAGNETIC STORM AND HAM RADIO

A huge geomagnetic storm has hit the Earth, wiping out a lot of High Frequency communications. At the same time its making the VHF and UHF bands a veritable D-X playground. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, has more:

According to a propagation bulletin issued on July 25th by CQ Magazine's Tomas Hood, NW7US, the estimated planetary K index reached a level of 8, with the Bolder, Colorado K reading a level 7. Translated into everyday talk, that's one heck of a solar storm and it does odd things to radio communications. All you need do is turn on a 6 or 2 meter CW or SSB radio to hear it for yourself.

Solar storms bring with them an increase in Aurora and Aurora based communications. Reports over the VHF Reflector say that this one was no exception. According to Dave Wenner, K3KEL, in Benton, Pennsylvania, his 150 watts to a homebrew 9 element Quagi antenna made it possible for him to make dozens of 144 Mhz contacts. These ranged from Maine across to Missouri plus Nova Scotia, Quebec, and Ontario Canada. Dave's posting said that he did not work any stations to the South but that they were there. He says that he heard K4QI in North Carolina's grid FM06 very strong toward the end of the session.

Wenner's was typical of the reports posted to the VHF Reflector. Many of them said that this was the best Aurora session heard in years.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, in Los Angeles.

How long does a solar storm like this last? NW7US reports that as Saturday, July 25th progressed, the geomagnetic field again became highly active and reached storm levels. He says that it has continued to get more intense, reaching very high storm levels. As the week progressed more Aurora contacts were reported world -wide with some on the 222 Mhz band and above. (NW7US via VHF Reflector)

PROPAGATION: IS THE SUN HARMING EARTH

Meantime the CGC Communicator cites an interesting propagation report. One that says Greenland's ice cores indicate that the sun is more active now than it has been at anytime in the past 1,000 years.

That report also says this has caused a warming trend here on Earth. As a result of this and other solar observations the pseudo-science doomsayers have been quick to jump on the gloom and doom bandwagon. They are out there predicting dyer consequences for those of us living here on the surface of our home planet Earth. But is any of this based on reality? That's what RAIN's Hap Holly asked CQ's Thomas Hood, NW7US:

Audio report only. Hear it in the MP3 version of this newscast downloadable at http://www.arnewsline.org/quincy

--

Hood says that you should enjoy the radio talk about the phenomena but not to take it seriously. (CGC, RAIN)

ON THE AIR: THOMAS HOOD ON RAIN

By the way, you can learn a lot more about radio propagation and the effects of solar radiation on communications from Thomas Hood on this weeks RAIN Report. Its available right now on-line at www.rainreport.com or on the phone at 847-827-7246. You can read the article referred to by the CGC Communicator at http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/science/nature/3869753.stm (CGC, RAIN)

VHF AND ABOVE: ARRL MULLS CVHF/UHF CONTEST RULES CHANGES

ARRL Director Tom Frenaye, K1KI, has also posted some interesting information to the VHF Reflector. He says that says that the work done by the VHF-UHF Contests/Awards Subcommittee has been completed. That the written report and along with some in-person additional comments were given during the ARRL Board's Program & Services Committee meeting on July 15th. That's just before the ARRL Board meeting that began on July 16th.

Frenaye says that the Program & Services Committee did not take action on the report and will study it during the next several weeks. In the mean time, the committee agreed with him that the report should be posted to the VHF reflector public consumption. It will also be sent to the Contest Advisory Committee for information and possible comment.

What will happen from here? Frenaye says that the Program & Services Committee will work with the Membership Services Department in Newington to take the recommendations any further. He says that some rules may changes and some may not. Except for possible changes to the 2004 E-M-E contest, K1KI does not believe you'll see any major contest VHF changes until 2005. He also notes that some recommendations may have to wait until budget resources are made available. The full ARRL Board does not normally get directly involved in contest rules issues as contest rules are usually not policy matters. (K1KI via the VHF Reflector)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: ECHO ON THE AIR

I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, with some breaking news that hams worldwide have been waiting to hear. This, as AMSAT announces that its new Echo satellite, now renamed AO-51 will be turned on for general use in FM repeat mode on July 30th at about 02:15 UTC.

Echo will be on for a trial period of about three weeks. During that time command stations will be watching the power budget and adjusting the UHF transmitter output as needed for management of the battery supply. Initially, the transmitter will be running at about 1 watt but if all goes well it will be slowly increased during the trial period.

Echo's uplink is 145.920 MHz using FM voice with 67 Hz PL tone (CTCSS) required. The downlink is on 435.300 Mhz, also FM voice. And like many terrestrial repeaters the downlink transmitter will only come on when it hears an uplink signal with a 67 Hz PL tone for about 1 second. After the uplink signals drop away the downlink transmitter stays on for 10 seconds. After that, the downlink signal goes away. You might say that the operation is just like a terrestrial FM repeater with a 1 second kerchunk filter and a 10 second hang time. The only difference is that this one is circleing the Earth in space.

Norm. (AMSAT)

RESCUE RADIO: UK FIRE EVACUATION BRINGS OUT HAM RADIO

RAYNET, the United Kingdoms version of RACES was recently called out during a very hazardous materials fire. Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, has the details:

--

On Monday the 5th of July at 19.55 BST Lancashire Emergency Planning called-out Rossendale Raynet to attend a Rest Centre in Colne. A fire at a building that contained an acetylene cylinder meant that local residents had to be evacuated.

About 40 people went to the Rest Centre but the majority were able to find accommodation for the night with friends or relatives. Social Services arranged accommodation for the remainder. Rossendale Raynet was stood down at 22.08 when the Rest Centre closed for the night.

Im G4NJH in Nottingham.

There were no injuries reported and the ham radio system worked flawlessly. (GB2RS)

ENFORCEMENT: FCC INVESTIGATING 1999 EXAM SESSIONS

The FCC has ordered thirty-seven hams to sit for retests. This, as part of an ongoing investigation of ham radio examination sessions held in Yucaipa, California, back in 1999.

The tests under government scrutiny were administered by a W5YI exam team. The exact test dates involved are those held on February 27th, March 27th, April 24th, May 22nd, June 26th, and July 31st of 1999.

This is one of the largest retest orders issued since the all volunteer testing program got underway in the early 1980's. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: HAM SURRENDERS LICENSE

A now former ham involved in a licensing investigation has turned in his ticket to the FCC. The Agency's Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, explains:

--

Frank C. Richards of Moers, New York, submitted his license KG2IJ for cancellation. In November of 1995 he had requested that the call sign KB4VU be changed to the next availlable and that the address be changed to Plattsburg, New York.

--

The FCC says that the call KB4VU actually belongs to one Frank C. Richards of Ft,. Meyers, Florida. It says that this Richards has never lived in New York and never requested that his callsign or address be changed.

After an investigation that lasted almost five months the New York Richards surrendered his ticket to the FCC on June 23rd. The FCC acknowledged receipt on July 6th noting that the Wireless Telecommunications Bureau has canceled that license and no further enforcement action is contemplated at this time. (FCC, RAIN)

ENFORCEMENT: $11,000 FINE AFFIRMED AGAINST CALIFORNIA HAM

The FCC has affirmed an $11,000 fine issued to a California ham. One whom the agency says caused deliberate interference to repeaters and then refused to accept several certified letters from the Commission.

The target of the now affirmed fine is Daniel Granda, KA6VHC, of Whittier California. As previously reported, back on March 31st the District Director of the Commission's Los Angeles Field Office issued a Notice of Apparent Liability for Forfeiture alleging that Granda deliberately interfered with two different repeaters. It said that when FCC notices were sent by Certified Mail, they were returned as unclaimed. But the FCC says that copies sent by regular first-class mail were not returned by the post office.

The fine is $7,000 for the alleged interference and $4,000 for not responding to FCC notices. Granda was given the usual 30 days to pay or to file an appeal. (FCC)

HAMVENTION: ARRL NATIONAL AND HAMVENTION COMBINE FOR 2005

Turning to the ham radio social scene, word that the ARRL has accepted an invitation from planners of Hamvention 2005 to bring the society's national convention back to Dayton.

According to General Chairman Gary Des Combes, N8EMO, ARRL Great Lakes Director Jim Weaver, K8JE, called shortly after the recent Board of Director's meeting. Weaver told Des Combes the League had accepted the invitation to hold the next ARRL National Convention at the 2005 Dayton Hamvention.

The combined show will take place next May 20th to the 22nd at its longtime home. That of coarse is the Hara Arena in suburban Dayton. (Hamvention©)

CONVENTIONS: K7UGA ON THE AIR FROM ARRL SW DIV CON

And the call sign of the late Barry M. Goldwater will soon be heard again. This, as special events station K7UGA takes to the air from the Southwestern Division Convention in Phoenix, Arizona from August 27th to the 29th.

This will not only be a chance for convention attendees to operate Goldwater's original Collins S-Line equipment but also to take part in an oral history project about Senator Goldwater that will begin recording at the show. Also, Goldwater impersonator Ben Tyler will attend the convention on Saturday afternoon to present his Goldwater "Autobiography".

Again. it all takes place August 27th to the 29th in Phoenix, Arizona. We will see you there. (SW Division Communicator)

CHANGING OF THE GUARD: JOHN KRAUS, W8JK - SK

Some sad news to report. Word that noted astronomer and antenna designer John Kraus, W8JK, has become a Silent Key. According to reports from the ARRL and CQ Magazine, Kraus died on July 18 at age 94.

John Krasus was a member of the inaugural "class" of the CQ Amateur Radio Hall of Fame, a world-renowned radio astronomer and the father of the "Big Ear" radio telescope at Ohio State University. In the world of Amateur Radio he was perhaps best known as an antenna designer. His designs include the famous W8JK bi-directional wire beam as well as the helix and corner reflector antennas often used at UHF frequencies. (ARRL, CQ)

KAHN STILL TRYING TO TEST CAM-D

Broadcast entrepreneur Leonard Kahn opposes the AM HD Radio IBOC system and has long promoted his Cam-D system as an alternative. In his latest filing with the FCC for the IBOC proceeding, Kahn reveals he tested his Cam-D system on Nebraska's 50 kilowatt KRVN at 880 kHz. However, he told Radio World Online that, some employees found the sound unacceptable and the tests were discontinued. HAM RADIO IN SPACE: NEW KENWOOD ISS RADIO PROVES OUT FINE

The Amateur Radio on the International Space Station USA team has successfully completed a comprehensive checkout pass of the new Kenwood D700 radio system with Astronaut Mike Finke, KE5AIT. Utilizing ground stations in Greenbelt, Maryland, Orlando, Florida and Houston, Texas and linking team members in Kansas, Colorado, Maryland, Florida and Texas, the ARISS USA team performed voice and packet radio uplink tests to fully validate the Kenwood D700 system for future school group operations.

During the East Coast pass, the ARISS team were able to perform signal strength measurements and voice quality checks on 2 meters and 70 centimeters using the Kenwood D700 radio and the ARISS-built W A One antenna system. Mike Finke provided the on-board feedback to the team to help them understand how the radio sounds on-orbit. Finke said that the signals from the 70 centimeter uplink signals were especially loud. (ARISS)

THAT FINAL ITEM: THE PHYSICS OF M&M'S

And finally this week the story of how a researcher with a sweet tooth has changed science. Amateur Radio Newsline Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ, has the rest of the story:

Princeton physicist Paul Chaikin's passion for M&M candies was so well known that his students played a sweet practical joke on him. The left a 55 gallon drum of the candies in his office. Little did they know that their prank would lead to a physics breakthrough.

The journal Science says that the barrel full of the oblate little candies made Chaikin think about how well they packed in. A series of studies have shown they pack more tightly than perfect spheres. This is something that surprises many physicists and Chaikin himself. So Chaikin and his colleague, chemist Salvatore Torquato, used the candies to investigate the physical and mathematical principles involved when particles are poured randomly into a vessel.

The report in Science says they found that oblate spheroids like plain M&Ms pack surprisingly more densely than regular spheres when poured randomly and shaken. That spheres occupy about 64 percent of the space in a container. M&Ms manage to pack in at a density of about 68 percent.

But one of the researchers had a more philosophical view of the experiment. Salvatore Torquato said that to him it is remarkable that you an take this simple system with common candies and probe one of the deepest problems in condensed matter physics.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ, not to far from Princeton, New Jersey.

According to news reports, Mars Inc., which makes M&Ms, did not help sponsor the research although it donated 125 pounds of M&Ms to the two scientists. (Journal of Science, Science Online)

It's up there, just so many people are trying to get into it at once, they're canceling each other out - the only guys that are getting through are the high power stations.

Think I'll stick with SO-50 for now, and hopefully they'll be turning AO27

447. AO-51 1.2 GHZ uplink

Howdy from Bill K7MT in Helena, Mt.

Perfect signals on the L/U this evening on the 0400 pass up the middle of the USA. I chatted with N1JZE, WD0EQP, and VE7BPB on the 1.2 GHZ uplink and 70 cm down link. I was able to track pretty close on the 1.2 GHZ uplink but the dopper shift is about 25-30 KCS either way or about 3 times that of 70 cm.

I used 5 watts to a 8 DB circular 1.2 ghz on the uplink with perfect signals down to 5 degrees at a range of almost 3000 km.

You can see my antenna's at:

http://www.mt.net/~k7mt

So far as the one hams comment on working like crap, part of that is several folks are calling but they cannot hear their down link. I hear about 10 or so folks just calling and calling and we answer them but they cannot hear us. So for those calling, be sure you can hear you down link before just calling in the blind.

Cheers Bill K7MT

Actually, I think it's working quite well, considering

A) it's only putting out 1/2 watt of RF;

B) it's still "wobbling" quite a bit, so polarity is constantly changing;

C) it requires constant PL, and with all the RUDE operators trying to out-shout each other, PL "falsing" is causing it to drop modulation.

If people would stop COMPETING for it, and start using it in a gentlemanly fashion, I think you'd be pleasantly surprised at how well it works, even at 1/2 watt. I heard it quite well in my driveway with a 5/8 wave mag mount on the car, until the IDIOTS started cranking up the power and stomping all over each other.....

If everyone reduced their uplink power by the same number of dB, we would still have poor s/n at the receiver because of all the signals clobbering each other.

My point is that on an FM uplink, high power is not the same evil as on a linear transponder. However, with everyone taking turns - it is not necessary, either.

A WORD FROM THE ARNEWSLINE (tm) SUPPORT FUND

The following is not necessarilly for retransmission. I guess you already know that if you are hearing my voice on a closed-circuit advisory it means that Newsline is again facing a financial crisis. Well, you're right.

The solution to the problem really lies with you. Our world-wide all volunteer staff produces these newscasts for you. The all volunteer Young Ham of the Year Committee labors tirelessly each year to select a youngster to receive the Award. Joe Eisenberg, K0NEB, oversees the Newsline sponsored Roy Neal, K6DUE, Amateur Radio Mentoring Project database, doing so at no cost. The list goes on and on.

I too am a volunteer, but I have to be the realist. I'm the accountant who has to look at the bottom line and when it turns red, I have to say -- hold on -- there is no more money to continue. And that's about where we are right now.

So, here's the bottom line. If you want the newscasts to continue. If you want the mentoring program to continue and the Young Ham of the Year Award to continue, we need you to show it now -- right now -- through your financial support of Amateur Radio Newsline.

Remember that Amateur Radio Newsline is a federally chartered 501(C)(3) and California state not-for-profit corporation. This makes your donations tax deductible, whether you're an individual or a club. The address to send them to is the Amateur Radio Newsline Support Fund, Post Office Box 660937, Arcadia California 91066. If you missed the address don't worry. It will be repeated at the end of this week's report.

For now I thank you for listening, for responding and offer you this weeks newscast which follows immediately. (ARNewsline Support Fund)

THE BPL FIGHT: SAN DIEGO CA. UTILITY REPORTEDLY CONSIDERING BPL

San Diego California could be the next B-P-L battleground. This, as an informed source tells the CGC Communicator broadcast industry newsletter that San Diego Gas & Electric is considering the deployment of Broadband over Power Lines in its service area. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, is here with the specifics:

--

According to Gonsett's CGC newsletter, an informed source has told him that San Diego Gas & Electric's communication systems planners met recently and are seriously considering endorsing and sponsoring B-P-L on the unility's power distribution system. The newsletter also says that San Diego Gas & Electric is considering entertaining proposals to partner with vendors for one or more field demonstrations of B-P-L technology.

CGC says that these plans should be of concern to all users of the High Frequeny and low band VHF spectrum. This includes TV Channels 2 through 5 and possibly even Channel 6. The latter because spurious and harmonic energy could reach these higher frequencies.

According to CGC and its unnamed source, San Diego Gas & Electric is aware that deployment of B-P-L in its service arera could cause considerable radio frequency interference. Even so, planners at the utility still appear ready to proceed.

More on this as it develops. I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, in Los Angeles.

Bob Gonsett is known on the ham bands as W6VR. He says that he has a call pending with San Diego Gas & Electric corporate communications department to determine the company's official position on BPL. Bob also says to stay tuned for updates. (CGC)

THE BPL FIGHT: A TEXAS TRYOUT

Meantime, Larry Pollack, of the W5YI VEC reports that Central Texas-based Broadband Horizons has launched B-P-L operations in three Texas communities. The pilot projects were launched in mid-June in the towns of Blanco, Burnet and Weimar. According to Mike Steele, Burnet's City Manager, the community has had great success with the initial start-up. He says the city plans to expand B-P-L service it to additional parts of the municipality. (W5YI VEC)

THE BPL FIGHT: A BIG WIN IN PEN YAN NY

Meantime the B-P-L test is over in Pen Yan, New York and it appears as if ham radfio has won this round. This,, with word that the broadband provider that's been testing B-P-L in Penn Yan reportedly plans to "move away" from that technology.

According to the ARRL Letter, the Western New York community of some 5000 residents has been considering various proposals with Data Ventures to offer broadband service. A B-PL trial had been underway in Penn Yan for several months.

The village reportedly would get 10 percent of the generated revenue. Now, according to an article in the July 28th edition of the Finger Lakes Times Online, the provider is now proposing to employ wireless mesh "WiFi" technology instead of BPL and ARRL C-E-O Dave Sumner, K1ZZ, has already congratulated Penn Yan Mayor Douglas Marchionda Jr and DVI for going with wireless broadband instead of B-P-L. (ARRL)

THE BPL FIGHT: SPOKANE GOES WIDE AREA WI-FI

Spokane, Washington has also opted for Wi-Fi over B-P-L. This as that city inaugurates a wireless Internet access system covering 100 blocks of downtown Spokane.

The wireless zone uses new technology that allows Internet signals to be transmitted more than a mile. This is far beyond the traditional 200- to 300-foot range of previous Wi-Fi systems.

The Wi-Fi area is divided into a private network for use by the city and an open network for the public. Public users can connect for two hours a day at no charge, and subscription plans are in the works for extended use. One Eighty Networks provided the networking for the project. (Published reports)

RADIO RULES: NO MORE "GROUP X" CALLSIGNS

The ARRL reports that the FCC is no longer issue 2 by 3 format vanity call signs that begin with the prefixes WC, WR, WK and WT. The Commission has acknowledged that it erroneously granted more than 150 WR and WC prefix 2 by 3 vanity call signs from 1997 through September 2003, when it began rejecting such call sign requests.

In the late 1970s, the FCC announced a new Amateur Service call sign assignment system. It provided four standard call sign groups, designated Group A, B, C and D, delineated by license class and issued sequentially with no backfilling. The FCC's Bill Cross, W3TN, recently told the nation's volunteer examiner coordinators that the FCC also had a "Group X." These included WC or RACES, WR repeater, WK and WT-prefix 2 by 3 format call signs reportedly reserved for special-use licenses.

The FCC stopped issuing repeater call signs in 1983 and ceased renewing RACES licenses in 2000. After the current vanity program began in 1996, several ham clubs sought new and formerly held repeater and RACES-type call signs. When the Universal Licensing System came along in August 1999, however, the FCC encountered some licensing system programming shortcomings, including the anomalous assignments of WC and WR prefix 2 by 3 call signs as acceptable formats.

When the FCC implemented programming corrections that halted the issuance of Group X call signs in September 2003, it did not advise the amateur community. As a result, several amateurs who filed for 2 by 3 WC or WR prefix call signs had their applications dismissed without any explanation beyond saying that the applicant's call sign choice was unavailable. That remains the case. The FCC has not indicated whether it plans to address the WC and WR prefix 2 by 3 call signs it's already issued.

In a related matter, the FCC's new Amateur Radio vanity call sign regulatory fee of $20.80 for the 10-year license term goes into effect Friday, August 6. All applications received at the FCC on or after that date must be accompanied by the new, higher fee. (ARRL)

ENFORCEMENT: RIS ORDERS REPEATER OFF THE AIR

A 2 meter repeater in the United Kingdom has been ordered off the air after it was involved in an interference issue. The Leicestershire GB3CF system which operates on 145.600 MHz, was closed down on Sunday the 25th of July following a request by the Radio Investigation Service due to an alleged incident of interference.

Service will be resumed as soon as investigations have been completed. The report did not say if the repeater was causing interference to other operations or if it was being interfered with. (GB2RS)

RADIO LAW: FEDERAL COURT RULES AGAINST CALIFORNIA CITY

Meantime, on this side of the Astlantic a big win for radio operations but another major loss for a city in its fight to restrict towers and antennas. Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, reports:

The attorney for a Rancho Palos Verdes California antenna owner says that his client won a clear victory against the city. This, following a recent federal district court decision requiring Rancho Palos Verdes to allow him to operate a broadcasting business from his unoccupied home. The judge also ruled that the plaintiff, James A Kay. Jr., may seek damages and legal costs.

And this is not the first major loss for the city. Earlier this year, the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that another Rancho Palos Verdes antenna owner could seek compensatory damages against the city. As previously reported, Mark Abrams, WA6DPB, said he will file a claim for damage to his two way radio business while he and the city fought numerous court battles over the right to regulate commercial radio frequencies.

--

Abrams has a 52 foot tall antenna tower in his backyard. The city has appealed the case to the U.S. Supreme Court. The full story is on-line at

RADIO LAW: AN ANTENNA FREE ZONE

A real estate developer in Australia has come up with some of the toughest property use restrictions ever dreamed of. W-I-A Newscaster Graham Kemp, VK4BB, joins us with the details:

VK2WI have reported on a story that the Albury-Wodonga Development Corporation has set some restrictions on its new 40 block Thurgoona subdivision, near Albury.

Listeners to this WIA National News service through the 146.75 repeater can shed any thoughts of establishing a shack in the backyard, as the corporation has banned the erection of free - standing garages or sheds. One may also forget about erecting any antenna arrays as the corporation has also banned external TV antennas, any TV antennas should be placed under the roof or be internal.

Satellite dishes are also under scrutiny; you can have one, as long as no one can see it!

For the Am ateur Radio Newsline, Im Graham Kemp, VK4BB.

With these restrictions in place the potential amateur radio activity, using external antennas, is virtually impossible. (VK2GJH via WIA News)

RESCUE RADIO: WX4NHC ACTIVATED FOR HURRICANE ALEX

WX4NHC, the Amateur Radio Station at the National Hurricane Center in Miami was activated on August 3rd. This, in anticipation of the arrival of the first major tropiocal storm of the 2004 hurricane season.

Named Alex, the storm was a catigory one hurricane when the WX4NHC came to life at about 10 a-m Eastern on Tuesday morning. Catigory one means the storm had sustained winds of 75 MPH. It was forecast to strengthen before tracking just off the coast of North Carolina on Tuesday afternoon.

The WX4NHC Group monitored the Hurricane Watch Net on 14.325 Mhz. It also took part in EchoLink and I-R-L-P Skywarn Nets that were operational during the approach and departure of the storm.

WX4NHC has maintained an active Amateur Radio Station at the National Hurricane Center for the past 24 years. Please visit www.wx4nhc.org/WX-form1.html www.voipwx.net for details. (CQ)

ON THE NET: TEENS SET WIFI RECORD

A group of teenage hamss from the Cincinnati area got an ovation at the recent Las Vegas DefCon hacker conference. This, after organizers announced that the winners of this year's Wi-Fi shootout might have broken a world D-X record for ground distance in establishing a 55.1-mile Wi-Fi connection.

Ben Corrado KC8RKO, Andy Meng N8MX, Justin Rigling KC8OIO and Brandon Schamer KG4NVK won the prize for greatest distance achieved for an 802.11b network.

The teens, all 18 and 19 years old achieved the record using an amplifier and homebrewed antennas on both ends. This exceeded last year's distance winner by 20 miles. Then, when they established that record, they turned off their amplifiers and broke the record for an unamplified connection at the same distance.

DefCon, in its 12th year is a gathering of hackers, security professionals and intelligence agents from around the world. The Wi-Fi shootout, held for the second time, is among the most popular contests. Six teams participated but it was ham radio know-how that came in number one. (N0AX)

SPACE SCIENCE: SMALLER ISS PRESENCE ANNOUNCED

NASA and its space partners have approved a scaled-down International Space Station with fewer astronauts and less science. This, so the United States can meet a 2010 deadline for ending shuttle flights.

According to news reports, the space agencies of Russia, Europe, Canada and Japan gave unanimous approval to a NASA plan that means the orbiting platform, now about half completed, will never become the beehive of scientific and commercial research once envisaged. In exchange, NASA will continue with plans to launch research modules owned by its partners, some of them already built.

The agreement means the station will never support long duration crews of seven astronauts, as originally planned. It will however be able to house at least four astronauts starting in 2009.

Phase one of the space-station was put into orbit in 1998. The first astronauts took up residence in 2000. (Published reports)

THAT FINAL ITEM: THE BIRDS ARE BACK

And finally this week, have you ever tuned in an owl? Yes, we said an owl. You know, tne find that go hoot in the night. Newsline's Joe Moell K0OV will tell you how.

--

It's been several months since I've advised you of opportunities for hams and scanner fans to help wildlife researchers tracking radio-tagged creatures. You can monitor these signals from your home or car. If you have direction finding gear, you might make a positive sighting. Right now, there's a need for ham help in the Denton and Collin County areas of Texas, where researcher Jennifer Johnston is releasing rehabilitated orphan Great Horned Owls into the wild. Six birds are on the air near 150 MHz as I speak, and more are expected to follow. We're also standing by for the departure of some young Burrowing Owls from their nesting places in Florida. A biologist from the University of South Florida wants know where they will end up. Nobody knows, but maybe you can help find out.

New amateur satellite transponder project announced

AMSAT News Service Bulletin 221.02 From AMSAT HQ
SILVER SPRING, MD. August 8, 2004
To All RADIO AMATEURS
BID: $ANS-221.02

The Chairman of AMSAT-UK, Professor Sir Martin Sweeting G3YJO announced a new amateur transponder project to be launched as part of the ESA SSETI Express satellite.

Speaking at the opening of the 2004 AMSAT-UK Colloquium at the University of Surrey in Guildford, he expressed his delight that AMSAT-UK has been able to work with the European Space Agency to provide, at very short notice, an S band (2.4GHz) transmitter.

The SSETI Express project is believed to be the first ever pan-European student satellite with over 100 students from more than nine different countries working on it. The project is being coordinated and managed buy the Education Office of ESA.

It is intended that this transmitter will be available for use as the downlink of a single channel FM U/S transponder. The 437MHz receiver is also being provided to ESA by another radio amateur - Holger Eckart DF2FQ.

These frequencies will enable the many amateurs who already have Oscar 40 equipment to use it in an exciting new way.

After integration of the spacecraft, which is due to start at the ESTEC laboratories in the Netherlands next month (August), SSETI Express is intended to be launched into a sun synchronous 680km orbit from Plestek in Russia in April 2005.

The satellite is in the 80kg class and is being designed and constructed by a number of European University teams which include students and teachers.
The onboard experiments include attitude control, a camera and a cold gas propulsion unit.

It is intended that the 2.4GHz downlink transmitter will transmit satellite telemetry and data at 38k4 data rate before being switched over to voice transponder operation after the onboard experiments have been completed.

ESA will shortly be announcing a worldwide competition for radio amateurs who download the data from the satellite and forward it to a website which is under construction. There will be a valuable award for the amateur who provides the largest amount of verified data over the first few weeks/months of operation.

The 2.4GHz downlink exciter, the switched mode power supply and control interfaces are being developed by an AMSAT-UK team comprising of Sam Jewell G4DDK, David Bowman G0MRFand Jason Flynn G7OLD with Graham Shirville G3VZV assisting.

The 3 watt 2.4GHz power amplifier is completed and has been provided by Charles Suckling G3WDG and this unit is already space qualified as it is identical to the one flying in the recently launched Oscar 51 spacecraft.

The S band antennas are three flat plate patches that have been developed and produced by the Wroclaw University of Technology in Poland.

Professor Sir Martin Sweeting emphasized that AMSAT-UK is delighted to have been entrusted with such an important task and that development team will have the organization's full support.

Those interested in finding out more about Amateur Satellites may like to know that AMSAT-UK produce an excellent newsletter called Oscar News which is sent to all members. For further information contact the AMSAT-UK secretary Jim Heck, G3WGM

SB SAT @ AMSAT $ANS-221.03
Echo Experimenters Wednesday for 11 Aug 2004

AMSAT News Service Bulletin 221.03 From AMSAT HQ
SILVER SPRING, MD. August 8, 2004
To All RADIO AMATEURS
BID: $ANS-221.03

The next Exp Wed will test the 9k6 Pacsat Broadcast Protocol, Store and Forward, BBS system on Echo.

Uplink: 145.860 MHz FM 9k6 digital Downlink: 435.150 MHz FM 9k6 digital

Start: 11 Aug 2004 @ 0240 UTC
End: 12 Aug 2004 @ 0340 UTC

The FM repeat mode transmitter on 435.300 will be turned off during this time, and power to the 435.150 transmitter will be increased. Please check the digital downlink for any last minute changes.

This will be the first user access of the BBS system. Please understand that new software will be uploaded to the satellite when we close this first window of user access. At that time, all messages in the BBS system will be lost. Please keep your uploads to messages only. Let's give everyone a chance to upload and download messages from Echo during this one day test.

The large files that are stored in the BBS that begin with "we" are Whole Orbit Data (WOD) files. They are binary data that require a decoding program to extract the information. There is no need to download one of those files. And the "Upload Test" picture files are all the same picture. These were used to test the uploading speed as well as uploading with a CTCSS tone enabled. There is no need to download those either.

Just keep it to messages and give everyone a chance to use the BBS system. And please avoid using ALL in the TO field of your message. Send your hello or introductory message to "ECHO USERS" or just "ECHO" instead.

Enjoy Echo!

In an attempt to reduce the congestion and allow more contacts to be made on Echo, Mike, KE4AZN challenges every user to make only one contact per pass that you initiate with a call. After that point, sit back and enjoy the others making contacts. If someone calls you, then by all means reply and complete that contact. Then go back to listening. Maybe if more of us take up that philosophy everyone will join in and more contacts can be made.

"Shortly after the launch of AO-51 AMSAT held a meeting to review the requirements for EAGLE, and a number of interesting changes were made to the future satellite. Firstly it was agreed that the EAGLE structure and shape as presented by Dick Jansson (WD4FAB) would most likely be maintained, except that to enable a better shape for spin stabilization the height (z axis) would be reduced to 450 mm from 600 mm. The x and y axis would remain at 600 mm. About the Pay Loads I am delighted to report that there will be mode B, available but it will be provided through Software Defined Radio (SDR) techniques. SDR techniques allow the command station to change Frequency, Bandwidth, Mode (FM, AM, PSK, CW, etc) from the groundstation. Thus allowing a great amount of flexibility. The total amount of bandavailable at 2M will probably be restricted to about 20 kHz."

20kHz, about 1/5 of the anticipated bandwidth.

It does make it difficult to personally justify support (AMSAT dues, contributions) for a bird that will most likely stay in single channel FM mode and thus not be useable by more than one high powered station at a time. I won't even try to access AO-51, from listening to a couple passes it just isn't worth playing the 'My Radio is Bigger than Yours' game. I saw the message about only calling once per pass on AO-51, I don't think it'll help.

AMSAT-DL's P3E is looking more like what I'd want in a satellite, 100 kHz linear transponders, microwave up and down links, high orbit... They're much more likely to get a contribution from me for a P3E than AMSAT for something like Echo.

Why. You have to run the thing to catch it. I have the defaults turned off, I use Agent as a news reader, and Firefox as a Browser..

You should see the code in some of these. They are adding Netscape as

I already own a Kenwood TH-F6A dual band HT whose advertisement

And am considering purchasing the Arrow II Handheld dual band satellite antenna for use with it...

Anyone using this combination?

If so, could you please report on the results?

Thanks so much...

I ahve done the arrow/HT satellite coms. Best was when I was in Hawaii in a rare grid and gave out that grid on UO14. It'll work but people with bigger better systems can and will crush you. SO be prepared to not have super success.

Well, last night I worked K6YK on AO-27 with my Alinco 5-watt HT and a hand-held homemade 3-element 2-meter beam (not even as efficient as an Arrow...), and the day before worked KV4T on AO-51 with the same setup, so I don't see why your equipment wouldn't work at least as well.

Hi George

The TH-F6A is not full duplex - ie you can't here yourself to check if you've got in or not, and optimise your signal by pointing your antenna with the feedback on the fly. There's a difference between dual receive and full duplex. I have the TH-F6A and it mutes both receivers when you transmit.

It's difficult to recommend it as 'great for satellites' on this basis, although it is possible to use it.

The Arrow is great. The split boom version is really portable. I have operated AO-51 with the TH-D7A (which is full duplex) several times with an Arrow.

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1409 August 13, 2004

Note: Ladies and gentlemen This weeks newscast is dedicated to the memory of the late Roy Neal, K6DUE who passed away a year ago on August 15, 2003, following heart surgery. Roy was our friend, teacher and served as the first elected vice-president of Amateur Radio Newsline after it became a 501(c)(3) nor-for-profit corportation. We miss him very much. "So Roy old buddy: This one is for you."

de WA6ITF

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1409 with a release date of Friday, August 13th, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a QST. Australian hams ask for a new ham band at 500 kilohertz, lots of news world wide on the B-P-L front, and the FCC talks about license processing. Find out the details on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1409 coming your way right now.

RESTRUCTURING: AUSTRALIA TO SEEK NEW 500 KHZ HAM BAND

The old 500 kHz the international maritime distress frequency could become part of a new ham band down-under. This if the Wireless Institute of Australia has its way. W-I-A News anchor Graham Kemp, VK4BB, joins us from Brisbane with the details:

The WIA will shortly be writing to the ACA to request the establishment of an experimental amateur allocation at 500 kHz. Thats the 600 meter band.

WIA Director Glenn Dunstan VK4DU said "500 kHz was the international maritime Morse code distress frequency for most of the 20th century."

"It was the frequency used by the RMS Titanic to send her plaintive cries for help that April night in 1912. It was the frequency used by thousands of merchant ships to signal their plight in times of peace and war."

"More often than not, 500 kHz was witness to a ship's Radio Officer's last moments. Many Radio Officers literally died at the key as their ship fell victim to enemy action or was overwhelmed by the forces of nature".

Glenn, himself an ex ship's Radio Officer, said. 500 kHz was replaced in 1999 by the Global Maritime Distress and Safety System (GMDSS), which uses a combination of automated terrestrial and satellite communications.

"Since the introduction of the GMDSS in 1999, 500 kHz use has declined rapidly. The last official users of the frequency, China, plan to discontinue operation in 2005. The frequency is no longer used in Australia, New Zealand, the Pacific or the US."

500 kHz has been instrumental in saving tens of thousands of lives in the last 100-odd years. It is thus fitting that the frequency be preserved as a 'spectrum national park' to commemorate those who paid the supreme sacrifice in its use.

"The best way to do this is to establish a small slice of spectrum around 500 kHz - probably 495 to 510 kHz - as an amateur radio band. The band would also provide a unique opportunity for experimentation with antennas, propagation, advanced narrow band modulation techniques and receiver digital signal processing." Glenn said.

It should be noted that 500 kHz is still allocated to the maritime service so any permanent amateur access in Australia or elsewhere is some way off. It is worthy of note that the I-A-R-U Region 1 and various United States Amateur long wave groups are actively pursuing an experimental allocation at 500 kHz as well. (WIA News)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: ECHO ON THE AIR

AMSAT has announced that the F-M voice repeater on the Oscar-51 Echo satellite is on for a trial period. The transponder was turned on the 30th July for about three weeks during which command stations will be watching the power budget and adjusting the transmitter power for good management of the battery.

For those wanting to give Echo a try, its uplink is on 145.920 MHz F-M, with 67 Hz CTCSS tone. The downlink is on 435.300 MHz.

A reminder that this is a trial of the F-M voice repeater only. Please do not send any data through it. AMSAT says that the digital portion of Echo is not yet ready for use. (ANS)

THE BPL FIGHT: ZS AMATEURS SHOULD REPORT BPL TESTING TO THE SARL

Turning to news on the B-P-L front, South Africa AMSAT President Hans van de Groenendaal, ZS6AKV, has now spoken out. He is urging amateurs and short-wave listeners in that nation to report any unusual but consistent interference to the South African Radio League. This as the rollout of Broadband over Powerline continues in that country.

ZS6AKV says that South African hams must continue to be vigilant about any B-P-L testing taking place in their neighborhoods. Hans says that following Pretoria's example several other metropolitan areas have shown an interest and may soon be starting trials. (SARL)

THE BPL FIGHT: FOLLOW-UP ON SAN DIEGO GAS AND ELECTRIC

Back here in the USA, San Diego Gas & Electric has confirmed that it is considering entering the Broadband Over Powerline business, but for now that's about all the utility will say.

As reported last week, San Diego Gas & Electric planners are reported to be seriously considering endorsing and sponsoring Broadband Over Powerline data transmissions on the company's power distribution system. The story went on to state that San Diego Gas & Electric is also considering entertaining proposals to partner with vendors for one or more field demonstrations of BPL. This, this despite being advised that B-P-L will cause considerable interference.

Bob Gonsett, W6VR, whose CGC Communicator newsletter was first to break the story put in a call to the utility to try and get a bit more information. San Diego Gas & Electric response was brief and far from insightful. All that the utility would tell Bob is -- and we quote: "Like many utilities, San Diego Gas & Electric is assessing B-P-L technologies."

W6VR says that while we are all temporarily left in the dark as to San Diego Gas & Electric plans, those plans will eventually surface. As soon as they do, we will let you know. (CGC)

THE BPL FIGHT: NORTH CAROLINA UTILITY ENDING BPL FIELD TRIAL

Meantime, North Carolina's Progress Energy Corporation says it's completed Phase II of its B-P-L field trial in the Raleigh, and will be closing down the experiment. In an August 4th internal memorandum reported by the ARRL Letter, the company said its program to test the viability of providing broadband service to communities it serves will wrap up by the end of August. The company reportedly will shut down the system once it's able to move its BPL customers to other broadband providers. Progress Energy's decision comes on the heels of announced shutdowns of B-P-L field trials in Penn Yan, New York, and Cedar Rapids, Iowa. (ARRL)

RADIO LAW: HAM RADIO EXEMPT FROM CONTROVERSIAL SAN DIEGO WIRELESS SITING ORDINANCE

Wireless communication antennas would be allowed in San Diego, California's residential areas only as a last resort under a new policy recently approved by the City Council. By a vote of 7 to 1, the council has approved a new policy governing the design and placement of wireless antennas, making it more difficult for cellular carriers and others to erect towers in or near residential areas.

Under the new regulations, the process will differ according to location. Some approvals would be made at the staff level, while others would require an okay from a planning group, a hearing officer or the full Planning Commission.

In the past 20 years San Diego has processed over 1,400 applications for cellular telephone towers but the the city has not tracked how many were actually built but there is some good news for hams on this one. ARRL Southwestern Division Vice Director Tuck Miller, NZ6T, reports that amateur radio is specifically exempted from the terms of this new ordinance

More about the ordinance itself is on-line at http://www.signonsandiego.com/uniontrib/20040728/news_1m28wireless.html (CGC with further information from NZ6T)

RESCUE RADIO: COMMISSION SEEKS COMMENTS ON RULE CHANGES FOR EAS

The FCC has issued a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking concerning possible revisions to the Emergency Alert System or E-A-S system. The agency is seeking comment on how E-A-S can become a more effective tool for warning the American public of an emergency. It is also a chance for radio amateurs to suggest new ways that the E-A-S might be interfaced with our hobby to better serve the public in time of need. WITH THE FCC: MANAGING THE DATA PROCESSING OF LICENSES

The FCC has a lot to say about the Universal Licensing System and some of the problems it faces in administering it. Especially those dealing with paper filings from the ham radio community.

Donna Scott, a Program Analyst with the Wireless Telecommunications Bureau in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania. And in a recent interview with Rain, he outlined just one of the most common situations that her office runs into. This one dealing with applicants who faili to provide their FCC Identification Number better known as an F-R-N:

--

Scott: "I believe that one of the biggest problems that we encounter are paper filings coming here to Gettysburg with no F-R-N on the application. The F-R-N is mandatory. This is the registration number that you obtain through the CORES database and without that number wee really can't accept that application. And we do have a high volume of paper applications that still come in without that number."

--

Probably the second highest volume of amateur applications that need to be returned are those from hams who do not read what's right in front of them. These are hams who insist on sending form 605 V-E-C to the agency. This even though the form 605 V-E-C is only for use by those who give the tests and not for the ham in the street filing paperwork with the agency:

--

Scott: "It clearly states that it is a 605 VEC form. It says do not send to the FCC on the top and on the bottom. Yet amateurs continue to send them here to Gettysburg and we cannot accept them."

--

According to Scott, the only version of Form 605 the FCC will accept from the ham community is the one that contains the approval statement from the governments Office of Management and Budget and that carries a current issue date.

This is only a fraction of the information that Donna Scott described about managing the nuts and bolts of the FCC's licensing system. There's lots more with her on this weeks RAIN Report. Its on line right now at www.rainreport.com or on the phone at 847-827-7246. (RAIN)

ENFORCEMENT: $3000 FINE FOR UNLICENSED OPERATION

The FCC has issued Donald Donovan Jackson of St. Petersburg, Florida a monetary forfeiture in the amount of $3,000. This, for operating an FM broadcast station on the frequency 102.1 MHz without Commission authorization.

On November 23, 2002, agents from the Tampa Office observed a broadcast station operating on the frequency 102.1 MHz. A search of Commission records revealed no FM radio station licensed to operate on 102.1 MHz in that area. The agents then used direction-finding techniques and determined that the broadcasts originated from a commercial office building located in St. Petersburg. Field strength measurements taken near the sight of the broadcast indicated that the signal strength exceeded the permissible limits for a non-licensed station.

The agents interviewed the owner of the building who provided them with a copy of the lease for suite. He also informed them that a person named Donald Donovan Jackson operated the radio station from the premisis.

On January 15, 2003, agents from the Tampa Office interviewed Jackson and conducted an inspection of the station after again observing a radio station operating on 102.1 MHz. During the interview, Jackson admitted to leasing the property and operating the radio station from that location. He was given the usual 30 days to pay the fine or to file an appeal. (FCC)

RADIO LAW: DOJ WANTS MANDATED DIGITAL WIRETAP ABILITY

The Department of Justice says that technology companies should be mandated to ensure that law enforcement agencies can install taps on Internet traffic and new generations of digital communications devices. This as the D-O-J and other agencies press for a digital expansion to the Communications Assistance for Law Enforcement Act.

The Communications Assistance for Law Enforcement Act is a 1994 law that requires the telecommunications industry to build into its products tools that U.S. investigators can use to eavesdrop on conversations with a court order. The investigatory agencys are worried that federal agents would not be able to install court ordered wiretaps against criminals who communicate using the latest digitally encrypted technologies. Lawyers for the Justice Department, FBI and Drug Enforcement Administration say that this need requires immediate attention and resolution by the Federal Communications Commission. ON THE WEB: BIG CHANGES AT THE QRZ.COM WEBSITE

Some major changes are taking place at the very popular QRZ.com ham radio website. We have more in this report:

Fred Lloyd, AA7BQ, who runs the QRZ.com website has announced major changes in access to posting access site. This, for registered users whose login user name is not the same as their ham radio callsign.

Basically, Lloyd says that only contributors who have legitimate ham radio calls will be permitted to post material to most areas of the website. To accomplish this Llloyd says that he has created two levels of membership. One called Ham is for those who want to use their call sign as registration login. The other will be the Guest member for those who may not have a call or who simply prefer not to use it.

Those who have a call and use it for login purposes will have full read and write access to all public Q-R-Z forums, plus the ability to make changes and/or additions to listings in the callsign database. Guest level members will be limited to posting on the sites Help Forum, the For Sale Forums, and the Questions and Answers Forum. These people will have no access to callsign database editing functions.

QRZ.com has also instituted several rules to help keep order and decorum at the site to make it enjoyable for the majority of those signing on. Among these are the right to terminate the current and future membership status of any user who engages in the harassment of any other user, staff member, or volunteer of this system or the use of any information derived from the website that contributes in any way to unsolicited e-mail of any kind. Also banned is the posting of obscene or offensive material on the site and QRZ managers say that they reserve the sole right to determine what is either offensive or obscene.

Lloyd says that the site will shortly begin converting current members to the new system. If you are currently signed up using your call sign as your logon I-D you need do nothing. For those who are not, QRZ we will be assigning new login names to those current members who are apparently licensed amateurs. The new logon name will be the same as the callsign that is listed in the QRZ call sign database as the 'Primary Callsign' for that account. Each user who is subjected to a name change will be notified via e-mail at the address we have on file for that user. Names that cannot be associated with a callsign will be assigned to the Guest level of membership.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, in Los Angeles.

Lots more about the changes are on the QRZ.com website under the title QRZ System Announcement. Lloyd and the managers at QRZ say that they hope that these hanges will improve the website for everybody. (QRZ.com)

THAT FINAL ITEM: SIGHTLESS UK NEWSREADER TAKES TO THE AIR

And finally this week the story of a U-K ham who has overcome physical disability to become a news anchor for the Radio Society of Great Britains GB2RS News. Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, in Nottingham has the rest of the story:

Now news about a new GB2RS newsreader. Annick Morris, M0HDE, of Wigan, Lancashire, became a GB2RS newsreader two when she read the news through the GB3MR repeater. What makes this special is that 18-year old Annick has been blind from birth.

She has a specially-adapted laptop computer which accepts Word files, and which has a single-line display consisting of raiseable dots which form characters in Braille. Annick can read Braille fast enough to read out loud from this, although she can only 'see' one character at a time.

In the future Annick will be newsreading on 6 metres, 2 meters and 70 centimetres and it is hoped that she may also transmit on two bands at once.

Jeramy Boot, G4NJH.

This is not the volunteer first job that M0HDE has been successful in. At age 14 Annick attended the "Child of Achievement Awards" in central London after impressing organizers with her determination to overcome obstacles presented by her disability. This award recognizes the efforts of young people under the age of 16 who make special efforts to overcome personal disability or illness while also managing to help others. We at Amateur Radio Newsline welcome Annick Morris, M0HDE, to the worlds ever growing ham radio news reporting teams.

I've been using an Arrow II with my IC-W32 for nearly a year now, and have been having a lot of fun with it - the Arrow is an excellent antenna on both the up and downlinks. Can easily work SO50 down to about 15 degrees, and AO27 (which has a better receiver) down to nearly 5 degrees - most important things are to make sure you have an HT capable of working full-duplex, and good tracking software.

Haven't had much luck on AO-51 yet; can hear it really well, but too many people running too much power on it right now. May be easier once the novelty of it wears off a bit; either that, or it may be time to invest in a 23cm HT for the uplink on Wednesday nights :)

Hi Doug

> Are there any such around? What radio and software will allow this?

Sorry for the delay in my post - I have a high degree of latency at the moment!

As a control op for NO-44, I have commanded the bird dozens and dozens of times from work and elsewhere over the Internet - including from airline lounges and coffee shops. I also had audio and video feedback of the station and antennas via a streaming feed.

I also had the option to telnet into my TNC and control the bird from a cellphone in my car.

The biggest problem I have found when operating (as opposed to commanding) is the latency and reliability of the audio to allow a two-way QSO on analog birds. However newer VoIP technologies are fixing this problem (eg, ventrilo).

I wrote a paper on this a while back.

I heard the ISS talking with a guy on Earth yesterday on a pass over the upper midwest (USA) about 1:15PM CDT. Nice to hear a random voice QSO (at least it sounded RANDOM), albeit one-sided! ;)

Nope, not random... it was a scheduled contact with the Prairie Aviation School & Museum in Illinois. I was also listening to it in my car, in the parking lot at work.
Best shot at random Q's is on weekends and US holidays (also, remember that their schedule on board the ISS is on UTC). There is a link on the AMSAT website to the ISS daily schedule (partly in Russian, but usually useful enough)

I stand corrected. What I heard sounded like short transmissions back and forth. Apparently the ground station would ask a short question, get a fairly short reply and ask another question to clarify the original answer. When I watched a segment on NASA TV on satellite showing them talking to Earth-bound schools, the school kids would ask a question, get an answer from space and then I would hear "Next question" transmitted by the astronaut. I didn't hear that this time...sounded like he was talking at length to one specific person. I only got somewhat short bursts, so it was somewhat difficult to make a whole lot of sense out of it. Anyhow, glad to actually hear voice from above instead of just packet brap...

497. Texas Balloon Launch Team (BLT) to fly ham radio and GPS this saturday 10am

It's time again for the Texas Balloon Launch Team (BLT) to fly their 20th mission.

The Primary GPS APRS transmitter is on 440.950 Mhz FM

The Backup GPS system transmits on: 445.925 MHz FM

There is also a Crossband voice Repeater on the balloon which transmits on 446.000 MHz FM

In addition there will be a Live television Camera transmitting its signal on 1255 MHz FM

The balloon will take about one hour to rise to 100,000 feet where the balloon explodes and the electronics payload parachutes back to earth for another hour. You should be able to hear the balloon transmitting from over 300 miles away.

They will launch from the same airport in Wharton Texas (http://www.airnav.com/airport/5R5) on Saturday morning at 10am and will use most of the same equipment as BLT 19 last year. If the frequencies or launch site change then I will post another message by Saturday morning. The airnav web page shown above has a handy distance calculator where you can enter the code for your local airport and it will tell you the distance from wharton.

The GPS coordinates transmitted from the balloon are used to locate the landing site.

The electronics package is also fitted with a Piezoelectric beeper to help the recovery crew find the payload in "that last 100 feet of tall grass".

See the photos from previous missions at:

http://www.qsl.net/w5acm/b18_1827.html
http://www.qsl.net/w5acm/b19.html

For all the non hams out there:

The GPS data is transmitted in APRS format.

To learn more about APRS click here:
http://www.tapr.org/tapr/html/sigf.html
http://web.usna.navy.mil/~bruninga/aprs.html

Receivers are available from Ham radio stores such as Amateur Electronic Supply http://www.aesham.com/ or Ham Radio Outlet http://www.hamradio.com/ Or you could look on Ebay for a 440 MHz FM receiver. You can also get a police scanner from Radio Shack to do the job. Make sure it receives the proper frequency.

You also need an antenna. I recommend the arrow antenna to get started:

http://www.arrowantennas.com/146-437.html

You will also need a packet modem to decode the APRS audio tones. The Kantronics KPC3 is an example http://www.kantronics.com/kpc3+.htm These units plug into the speaker jack of the receiver and also to the RS232 serial port of your computer.

Or you could try to decode the audio tones with software and your sound card instead of buying the modem above. Check out these web sites for packet software:

What frequencies does the ISS talk on? I would like to give it a try.

John: the ISS downlink is on 145.800 for both packet, a digital signal, and amatuer radio voice communications. The uplink for licensed amateur radio operators is 144.490 mhz. This is FM communications by the way. The astronauts/cosmonauts operate on UTC (Zulu) time and are often on the air on weekends and holidays. You should plan on listening for them on Labor Day for sure. Do a google search for a program called Satscape and install it on your computer so you can have accurate knowledge of when you will be in the "footprint" of the ISS. I last spoke with the American science officer on July 4. I heard him again last week in a contact with school children. I have followed both the space program and amateur radio satellites since the early 60's and it is still a thrill to hear and see the manned flights pass overhead. Good luck. Pat, K4AVO

Echo Schedule-25 Aug 2004

AMSAT News Service Bulletin 238.01
>From AMSAT HQ SILVER SPRING, MD.
August 25, 2004
To All RADIO AMATEURS
BID: $ANS-238.01

The following is the planned schedule for the next week and a half on AO-51.Please remember, we are still it an experimental/checkout phase of the satellite. Events like the software reload last weekend will happen from time to time. The schedule is subject to change. All times are approximate.

25 Aug 0200 UTC to 26 Aug 0300 UTC
Experimenters Wednesday - Mode V/S FM Repeater Test.
S Band TX (2401.200) will be turned ON in FM voice mode, continuous transmission. The 145.920 VHF receiver (RX3) will be set to FM voice mode. No 67 hz Tone will be required during this test.

As this will be the first time the S Band transmitter has been allowed to run for an extended period, the WOD will be checked after the first pass. If all is well mode V/S will continue for the rest of Experimenters Wednesday.

Digial TXA (435.150) will be OFF except to download data over Command Station. FM TXB (435.300) will be OFF.

At the conclusion of Exp Wed normal FM repeater mode on TXB will return. After completing the download of data from the S Band test the BBS will be opened for an extended window of user operation. This will be at the current low power level of TXA. During this time AO-51 will be active in both FM repeat (145.920 FM up, 67 hz tone / 435.300 FM down at 0.60 watts) and 9k6 BBS (145.860 FM up / 435.150 down FM down at 0.40 watts) for the first time. Please check the Broadcast message on Echo, for a notice when the BBS is open.

26 Aug 0300 UTC
Digital TXA 9k6 BBS Closed
FM TXB repeater mode Active (at conclusion of Exp Wed)

26 Aug 0500 UTC to 31 Aug 0000 UTC
Digital TXA 9k6 BBS OPEN (Low Power Output)
FM TXB repeater mode Active

During this time the Command Team would again appreciate any telemetry capture and download to the website that they can get. If you are active on the BBS please take a couple of minutes to get a few Telemetry records during your pass.

[ANS thanks Mike, KE4AZN for the above information]

Having your own predicition program is the best approach.
For "quickie" checks ... assuming you have internet access where you operate your radio http://www.heavens-above.com will also show you where the ISS is. You can get AOS times for the current 24 hour period too.

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1410 - August 20, 2004

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1410 with a release date of Friday, August 20th, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. Ham radio is ready as Hurricane Charley comes ashore. Find out the details on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1410 coming your way right now.

(Billboard Cart Here)

RESCUE RADIO: HAM RADIO AND HURRICANE CHARLEY

Packing 145-mile per hour winds Hurricane Charley slammed into west-central Florida, ravaging oceanfront homes and trailer parks, tearing apart small planes and inundating the coast. More than a half million customers were left without power or telephone service statewide. Damage was especially heavy in downtown Punta Gorda on Charlotte Harbor. Warren Elly, W1GUD, is a Tampa based TV reporter sent to cover the aftermath of Charley coming on shore:

--

Audio report only. Hear it in mp3 audio in the current newscast posted at http://www.arnewsline.org/quincy

Warren's report was filed early Monday the 16th. Since then President George Bush has declared some sections of Florida as a major disaster area. His brother, Florida Governor Jeb Bush, projected damage from Charley could exceed 15 billion dollars, but that estimate was preliminary. (ARNewsline(tm))

RESCUE RADIO RULES: FCC CLARIFIES EMERGENCY DECLARATIONS

The FCC has issued what amounts to a white paper to clarify the rules hams must follow when providing communications during an emergency.

Amateur Radio Newsline's Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, is here to sort it all out:

--

With the hurricane season upon us and wildfires and other severe weather hitting various parts of the nation, the Federal Communications Commission believes now is the time for a clarification on Emergency Communications Declarations.

What is an Emergency Communications Declaration or ECD?

When a natural disaster or accident interrupts or disrupts normal communications systems in a particular area, the FCC - at the request of emergency management officials or an amateur radio operator acting on behalf of emergency officials - issues an Emergency Communications Declaration.

Essentially, the order defines special conditions and special rules to be followed by amateur radio stations providing service during the communications emergency in that particular area.

The FCC says occasionally, it receives requests for Emergency Communications Declarations before a hurricane or tropical storm hits.
The FCC says such requests generally arrive anywhere from 24 to 72 hours in advance of weather predictions citing potential damage to a particular area.

But under Section 97.401(a), emergency communications before an event
CAN be established to meet essential needs of a community or to help prepare relief activities. The commission acknowledges preparations to meet a disaster may overload or damage normal communications systems so it allows amateur stations to make emergency transmissions at any time prior to or even during a disaster.

In essence, the FCC says there's no need for an ECD because the actual event disrupting communications has not occurred.

So, the FCC says such declarations WILL NOT be issued until AFTER the disaster disrupts normal communications in a geographic area subject to FCC regulation.

Speaking of emergencies, it doesn't necessarily have to be a weather-related incident, as we found on September 11, 2001. It can also be a transportation accident such as a railroad incident or a fire or explosion.

Whatever the emergency, once communications are disrupted, the FCC says there are only two sources from which it will accept an application for an ECD. The first is an emergency management official responsible for communications in the affected area. The second is an amateur radio operator acting at the request of an emergency management official.

The FCC says such applications must contain very specific information such as:

- The date the event has taken place.
- The nature of the disaster.
- A description of the communications system disrupted and a contact person who can verify the damage.
- The geographic area affected - city, county, state or region.
- Listing of the VHF/UHF, MF or HF frequencies to be used during the emergency.
- An estimated time the disruption of normal communications is expected to last.

The FCC says an Emergency Communications Declaration will contain an expiration date. However, the commission says that date can be extended at the request of the emergency official or authorized party making the original request.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia.

--

The FCC's Communications and Crisis Management Center is the place where Emergency Communications Declaration requests are sent. You can reach them by phone at 202-418-1122, that's 202-418-1122. FAX requests are handled at 202-418-2813, 202-418-2813. Or, you can make the filing by e-mail to comm(hyphen)ctr@fcc.gov. (ARNewsline (tm))

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: AUTOMATING EMERGENCY ALERTS

A new technology soon to debut in 12 states will significantly extend Amber alerts, reaching cell phones, e-mail and handheld computers. It could also be used to transmit weather and terrorism alerts.

According to news reports the system uses a simple broadcast technology that takes the information from a Web portal and reconfigures it for different types of broadcast. By way of example, a state department of transportation might receive it in one format for its road signs and another for its information number.

More important, people with cell phones can sign up to receive Amber alerts with their local county or with state authorities. The text of an alert can be sent immediately to local TV news stations and Web sites.

RADIO RULES: INTERNET LINKING IN THE UK

Telecommunications regulators are about to make ham radio internet linking a lot easier on the other side of the Atlantic. This, as Ofcom which is the U-K equivalent of our FCC issues new and more liberalized rules. RSGB news presenter Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, has more:

Ofcom has announced the decisions it has taken about changes to the procedure and terms of issuing Notices of Variation (NoV) for Internet Linking Gateways.

Ofcom proposes to pass the Internet-linking NoV process to the RSGB to issue NoVs on behalf of Ofcom. The RSGB will be announcing procedures for NoV renewal shortly and queries on the renewal process should be directed to the Society.

Ofcom's decisions were made following the notification of four proposals which gave those holding an NoV the opportunity to make representations.

RADIO RULES: VANITY FEE REMINDER

Back here in the USA, a reminder from the FCC that the new Amateur Radio vanity call sign fee of $20.80 for the 10-year license term became effective on Tuesday, August 10th. Not on Friday, August 6 as we and and others had announced.

The reason for the last minute change? A management-level staffer in the FCC's Office of Managing Director explained to the ARRL that the Commission was not necessarily bound by the August 6 effective date The Federal Register indicates. That date was 30 days after publication of the order containing the new fee schedule. (ARRL, FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: NO LICENSE - STAY OFF THE AIR

Meantime the FCC has written to a pair of unlicensed operators telling them to stay off the air. The agency's Daryl Duckworth, NNZ0W, explains:

Duckworth: A warning notice went to Rick Shepherd of Crescent City, California for unlicensed operation on 146.515 MHz along the Oregon/California border aboard the fishing vessel Sunset.

David Shoemaker of Sebina, Ohio, also apparently not in the FCC Licensing Database was issued a warning notice for unlicensed operation from a vehicle with license plates registered in his name. The transmissions were on 28.085 MHz near the intersection of I-71 and U.S.
36.

Shepherd and Shoemaker were both told that operation of radio transmitting equipment without a license is a violation of Section 301 of the Communications Act of 1934. They were also informed that continued operation could lead to fine or imprisonment, as well as seizure of any non-certified radio transmitting equipment that they own.
Monetary forfeitures for unlicensed operation normally range from $7,500 to $10,000. (FCC, RAIN)

RADIO RULINGS: FCC PERMITS SAN JOSE STATION TO BUILD SAN FRANSCISCO TRANSMITTER

The San Franscisco Chronicle reports that thousands of people in and around San Francisco will be able to watch NBC television over the air again. This, courtesy of a Federal Communications Commission ruling on Thursday, August 12th, that will let KNTV build a new transmitter to cover the area.

According to the news story, the San Jose based station will be permitted to construct a new transmitter atop San Bruno Mountain which overlooks San Francisco. The station claims this site will reach 400,000 people who lost service when KNTV became the Bay Area's NBC affiliate in 2001. (FCC, San Franscisco Chronicle and other published

ON THE NET: LINUX CONTINUES TO GROW

The use of the Linux operating system especially among experimenters including ham radio operators is quietly growing. One in five servers
sold last year to handle Internet traffic and corporate networks ran on Linux.

Observers say that the economic downturn may be responsible for the Linux move. The Linux operating system was created as the people's software, free and open for everyone to use in an attempt to thwart
the commercialization of all Internet technology. Amateur radio was among tgher first to truly embrace it and may ham radio applications are written for Linux based operation. (Published news reports)

THAT FINAL ITEM: THE BIG T-HUNT: HOW THE U.S. NAVY KEEPS TRACK OF EARTH
ORBITING SATELLITES

The U.S. Navy has built an exotic radar system to track earth orbiting satellites, and the system has been in place for many years. Now, thanks to a couple of sleuths, details of the Navy's system have been posted on the web. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, has the details:

--

The Navy's satellite tracking system appears to consist of multiple transmit and receive sites across the U.S., and one of the receive sites just happens to be located in San Diego County a few miles north of Brown Field. This, according to web-published coordinate data as reported in the CGC Communicator broadcast industry newsletter.

And if think UHF moon bounce antennas have gain, wait until you see the giant array built near Lake Kickapoo, Texas. This two mile long antenna transmits continuously on 216.98 Mhz with an unmodulated carrier and has a beamwidth of only 0.02 degrees in one plane. So powerful is the transmitted signal that when the moon passes through the beam, the return echo is said to be detectable on earth with only a dipole antenna attached to a receiver. Talk about the ultimate E-M-E.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, Im Bruice Tennant, K6PZW, in Los Angeles.

I listened to Mike make a school contact with Pittsburg, Pa. this morning on the 1350Z pass.

I heard him call the ground station three times and finally made contact and I heard him answer three question before LOS here in Montana. Signals were S9 plus the entire pass.

I re-broadcast the ISS locally and several folks enjoyed hearing the ISS.

The balloon was successfully launched last Saturday. It reached 83,000 feet over Texas before the balloon burst and the electronics payload parachuted back to earth. Amateur radio operators were heard talking through the cross band repeater from Galveston, Houston, Dallas, Austin, and Rio Grande. Recovery was as simple as entering the last broadcast GPS coordinates as a waypoint into a hand held GPS receiver and following the arrow to the landing site. Conveniently the package landed only a few hundred feet from a paved road.

ALL POINTS BULLETIN: ARSONIST BURNS DOWN HAMS HOUSE

An arsonist with a grudge against radio has burned down the home of a Vancouver, Washington ham. Amateur Radio Newslines' Mark Abramowicz,
NT3V, has the details:

--

A $10,000 reward is posted and the Clark County Fire Marshal's office is tracking any and all leads it hopes help them capture someone who has been setting fire to communications towers in the Vancouver area since the beginning of the month.

Until recently, investigators say the targets have primarily been state government, telephone company and cellular telephone towers.
But it was an Aug. 20 fire at the home of John Stein AB7F that now has alarmed the ham radio community in Vancouver.

The fire marshal's office says Stein's amateur radio tower was apparently targeted. It believes the fire was set at the base and spread upward along the feed line. Flames fell from the melting cables and spread to Stein's home.

Fortunately, authorities say, Stein was awake when the fire broke out about 11:30 p.m., got out, called 9-1-1 and tried to get a start on putting the fire with a garden hose. But the fire took off quickly and, unfortunately, the home sustained extensive damage in excess of $50,000.

The fire marshal's office says Stein told them he spotted somone running away from his home and he gave them a description.

Clark County Deputy Fire Marshal John Dunaway is leading the investigation into the communication tower fires.

At this point, the fire marshal's office will confirm basic details about the fires. But the fire marshal's office says there is certain information it cannot release at this time because it doesn't want to jeopardize the case it hopes to eventually bring against the arsonist.

Stein's home was not far from the fires at the other communications towers, the most spectacular of them on a more than 200-foot tall tower in Vancouver. That's shared by the Washington State Patrol and the Washington State Department of Transportation headquarters.

Officials say while the state patrol's communications in Clark County were disrupted by the fire, 9-1-1 communications were not affected. Damage in that fire was estimated at more than $100,000.

That blaze prompted the $10,000 reward offer from a foundation. Ham operators in the Vancouver area are very concerned and fear anyone with a tower could become the next victim. They've been transmitting word about what's been happening via repeater, HF radio and the internet across the region. They're urging hams with towers to be especially vigilant and take precautions to protect their feedlines, but more importantly their homes and their lives.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia.

There is general agreement that this anti radio fire bug has to be stopped before someone to loose their life in one of his blazes. If any one has information regarding these fires or the person setting them please call the Crime Information Tip Line at 877 - 274 - 6311 or the Clark County Washington Fire Marshal's Office at area code 360 - 397 - 2186 and ask for extension 3396. ENFORCEMENT: FCC WARNS NEIGHBOR OF HAM OVER INTERFERENCE

A neighbor of a ham radio operator who refuses to clean up interference he is causing could now face a stiff fine. The FCC'as Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, says that the agency is giving the neighbor one last chance to comply:

Duckworth: "A follow-up warning letter went to a resident in Friendwood, Texas, concerning interference to William Cooper, W5ZAF, from a battery charger. The amateur had supplied ferrite beads earlier to the resident which did solve the problem. Evidently, the resident changed his mind and tossed the ferrites back over the fence."

The FCC says that if the interference is not corrected by September 15th, it will have its Field Office investigate the matter and possibly issue the uncooperative neighbor a hefty fine. It also suggested that he consult an attorney regarding the FCC rules that control radiation from unlicensed devices like the battery charger that's causing the problem to the ham next door. THE BPL FIGHT: ARRL ASKS FCC TO CLOSE DOWN AZ. BPL TEST

Some important developments on the B-P-L front. First to Arizona where the ARRL is calling on the FCC to immediately shut down a Broadband Over Powerline field trial in the Cottonwood. This, because it's causing severe interference to Amateur Radio communication in the area.

The ARRL Letter says that Electric Broadband LLC and utility A-P-S have been operating the B-P-L experiment at two sites since June under a Special Temporary Authorization the FCC granted Electric Broadband in March. Michael Kinney, KU7W, filed the first Amateur Radio complaint in June. It cited testing by the Verde Valley Amateur Radio Association in the 1.8-30 MHz range to show that B-P-L interference made attempts at ham radio communication useless. The interference on typical Amateur Radio equipment shows received undesired signal levels in excess of 60 dB over S9.

According to the ARRL, both the utility and Electric Broadband were contacted, and no response was received. The ARRL says that both companies are aware that the B-P-L field trial has been causing harmful interference and neither has taken any steps to either resolve it or terminate the test. (ARRL)

THE BPL FIGHT: BAD NEWS FROM DOWN UNDER

Meantime, Broadband Over Powerline and its introduction in Australia has that nations hams on the alert. This, because little has been known about what has been occurring behind the scenes as power companies prepare to adopt the B-P-L technology and the Australian Communications Agency considers rules to govern it. Now, WIA Newsman Jim Linton, V-K-3-P-C has uncovered an almost terrifying development. One that could mean the end of H-F operations down-under for many V-K hams.

The future introduction of Broadband Powerline Communications (BPL) in Australia could be on the condition that "less significant" HF radio users such as radio amateurs and four wheel driver clubs would not be protected from any interference it causes.

The Australian power industry has a real concern about the added expense required to address interference that could affect amateur radio stations and other recreational radio users. Its arguments include that to remove amateur radio frequencies from a BPL system will add cost and reduce the capacity and potential data rate. The power industry is requesting that the Australian Communications Authority (ACA) outweigh the concerns of recreational or "less significant" HF radio users with the higher community benefit of providing greater access to broadband-enabling technology.

The ACA, in response to the power industry concerns, is now examining the legal possibility of allowing BPL networks to cause substantial interference to "less significant" radio services, while other radio services would continue to be entitled to interference protection. Presumably if this becomes reality the Amateur Service could lose its protection against harmful powerline interference too. After all, were are in the eyes of some just a "less significant" radio service.

This has been Jim Linton VK3PC for WIA National News.

If this does happen it could mean a lot fewer V-K callsigns will be heard on the Hiugh Frequency and low VHF bands. (WIA News)

RESTRUCTURING: ARRL PROPOSES BANDWIDTH DEFINED HAM SERVICE

The ARRL has released a synopsis of its petition to the FCC aimed at restructuring the Amateur service along bandwidth defined lines. While what has been made public is highly abreviated, a drafted, the ARRL's bandwidth petition would preserve double-sideband AM and would stop short of opening the phone bands to digital and other modes of the same bandwidth.

The ARRL's petition also proposes to limit bandwidth in the CW subbands to 200 Hz, which also will accommodate data modes such as PSK31. It also suggests to limit bandwidth in the existing "RTTY/data subbands" to either 500 Hz or 3 kHz, with phone emissions specifically prohibited in certain subbands where 3 kHz would be permitted.

Obviously this will be an ongoing story. More on this next week as reaction comers in. (ARRL)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: HURRICANE CHARLEY WRECKS AMSAT LAB

Hurricane Charlie has also taken its toll on the Amateur Radio space program. This, with word that the storm destroyed the building housing the lab used to assemble the latest series of ham radio satellites.

Hurricane Charlie hit Orlando, Florida at about 8 p m Eastern on Friday, August 13th packing sustained winds estimated at close to 100 miles per hour. One of the places sustaining damage was Orlando Executive Airport. This was home of the AMSAT Laboratory. The place where ham radio satellites have been assembled and tested prior to launch.

Rick Hambly, W2GPS, reports that AMSAT members in the area survived with relatively minor damage but the building that houses that AMSAT Lab suffered severe structural damage from Charley's onslaught.
It
has now been condemned and will have to be torn down.

W2GPS says that the equipment and parts inventory at the lab are in good shape but AMSAT was given less than two weeks to move out and find temporary storage for its equipment. The Amateur Radio space agency also must begin a search for a new building to support development of the Eagle ham radio satellite and future projects.

Complicating matters is that AMSAT's insurance does not cover the costs of temporary storage or of moving to a new facility. So, they are asking the Amateur Radio community to keep ham radio space projects alive by sending a donation to AMSAT's Hurricane Fund. Hambly says that the money collected will be used to get the lab back in operation as soon as possible.

AMSAT North America is a federally charted 501(c)(3)not for profit organization. Any donation should be tax deductible in the United States. Information on the fund and how to donate is in cyberspace at www.amsat.org. (AMSAT-NA, W2GPS, W5DID)

RESCUE RADIO: RADIO STATIONS GET PRAISE IN CHARLEY AFTERMATH

Broadcasters in Florida have been getting involved as the clean-up following Hurricane Charley. One has taken on being the voice of the storm ravaged area.

According to the CGC Communicator, FM radio station Seaview-104.9 in Punta Gorda, Florida and four of its sister stations are all owned by Clear Channel Communications. Seaview-104.9's studios were damaged and the station was knocked off the air by Hurricane Charley, but service was restored within hours. According to a report in the St. Petersburg Times, once the storm had passed, General Manager Mike Moody returned to the building housing his station. The roof was shredded and the ceiling collapsed. But one studio, no bigger than a walk-in closet, was in working order.

Moody said that there was no power but using a generator he got the studio on the air. He also found a phone outlet reserved for a FAX machine operating so he plugged in a phone, put the receiver to the microphone and then let callers unravel their tales of storm survival.

The studio is the only one based in Charlotte County. Because of this it has become a lifeline for residents searching for information to help them cope with the storm's aftermath and listeners like Ron Hall, KP2N, have rallied around the station in support of its vital post storm activities. HAM RADIO ON THE NET: MORE CHANGES AT QRZ.COM

More changes have come to the QRZ.com super site. This, as its owner Fred Lloyd, AA7BQ, announces some policy changes regarding the callsigns that are listed in the QRZ Callsign database.

According to QRZ's Lloyd, the site will no longer accept callsign designators, prefixed or suffixed, as independent callsigns. This would include reciprocal calls such G 3 slash K6PZW -- a call I might be assigned if I were visiting England.

Lloyd says that these listings were problematic for both the QRZ website and the QRZ CD ROM, and they were of questionable value to begin with. As of the latest software update, the server will no longer accept or record such entries. The logic is that anybody wanting to contact the callsign holder could just as easily look them up by their primary callsign.

Also gone will be non ham call signs such as those self issued by individual SWL's, Weather watchers, and others. Lloyd says that Q-R-
Zed will continue to accept SWL listings as long as they are issued by a formal body, and so long as they have an alphanumeric format. But Lloyd says that an SWL callsign cannot be a primary login account name to a website that manages amateur radio callsigns.

The bottom line: Non-amateur callsigns will continue to be excluded from the QRZ CD ROM and will take last priority with server management resource. In other words, they will be listed on a time and space available basis, only.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, reporting.

These changes are in addition to the posting policy changes that Lloyd announced two weeks ago. (QRZ.com)

RADIO LAW: SENATE WARNING ON CABLE RATES

The Senate says that it will consider new regulations for cable television unless the industry addresses soaring prices and allows consumers more channel choices. Members of the Senate Commerce Committee said pressure from angry constituents is leading them to look at ways to hold down cable rates and let subscribers choose individual channels rather than packages set by operators.

Since Congress deregulated the industry in 1996, cable rates have increased by 53 percent while inflation has risen 19 percent. Cable operators said the jump reflected higher programming costs, more channels and system improvements such as rewiring to provide digital TV. (Published reports)

RADIO LAW: BETTER CELLULAR SERVICE

The government says wireless companies are doing a better job of switching customers who want to keep their cell phone number. In the first month after the change took effect, the Federal Communications Commission received 24-hundred complaints. Most were from people who said the transfers were taking too long. In the past month, the number of complaints has fallen to 400. Customers have had the option of keeping their phone numbers when they switch to a new carrier since November. (Science OnLine)

WORLDBEAT: CB SPECTRUM SHARING IN THE UK

There may soon be some new sounds on 27 MHz C-B in the United Kingdom, and they won't be saying 10-4 Good Buddy. In fact they may be very formal sounding. This, as British telecommunications regulator Ofcom proposes to allow local religious and community organizations to operate one-way low power broadcast stations within the U-K Citizens' Band allocation. Our producer, Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, has more:

--

No. Its not a joke. And Great Britain's Office of Communications -- Ofcom -- says that this is how the new shared C-B service will work.

At first a small number of organizations will be licensed to transmit religious services in a limited number of pilot areas. These would be called Community Audio Distribution Systems or C-A-D-S. Their specific purpose will be to allow house-bound religious congregation members -- people unable to travel to a house of worship but who wish to hear local religious community services -- the ability to do so.

If proven effective, Community Audio Distribution Systems would be expanded as a short-range and inexpensive wireless public address systems. The U-K radio regulator says evidence of demand for such arrangements has arisen primarily from within religious communities and this is where Ofcom expects the majority of use to be. But its not making this a religious-only radio service. In fact it is encouraging other community groups could also use the system for other similar purposes.

To test these plans, Ofcom is proposing a closely monitored year-long pilot program in the areas where interest has been most widespread and sustained. This includes West Yorkshire in England and all of Northern Ireland. In those regions C-A-D-S users will share spectrum with the Citizens' Band users in a way that Ofcom says will provide the flexibility required to transmit religious and community service material while protecting other spectrum users from harmful interference. At least it will try its best to do so.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, reporting.

Can something similar happen here in the U-S-A. Not likely. At least not very soon. C-B is still to crowded, unruly and unstructured a band to effectively share. But it is expected that other administrations world-wide will be watching this United Kingdom C-B sharing experiment with an eye to introducing similar services in their nations as well. (RSGB)

DXCC: SOMALIA NOW ACREDITED

Some good news for D-Xers. Effective immediately, the ARRL DXCC Branch will accept QSL cards for operations taking place in Somalia using the 6O / T5 prefix and suffix. This includes the Somaliland which is north-western Somalia and Puntland in north-eastern Somalia. These are autonomous areas but will be accepted along with the southern and central areas of that nation.

The DXCC will also accredit operations possessing written permission from any recognized authority that is acknowledged to be in control of a particular region of Somalia. All cards will count for the Somali Democratic Republic. And says the DXCC, QSL's for past operations will be accepted where proper documentation has been submitted.

THAT FINAL ITEM: ECHO - THE TONE ACCESS HAM RADIO SATELLITE

And finally this week a rhetorical question. Why use continuous tone coded squelch access to talk through a ham radio satellite? AMSAT says that there are several very good reasons and Amateur Radio Newsline's Norm Seeley, KI7UP, has them in this report:

--

Continuous tone coded squelch is better known in ham radio circles under its Motorola trade name of P-L or Private Line. And AMSAT says that there are several good reasons to use it on the new Echo ham radio satellite.

First, and simply, is on orbit power management. The ability to minimize the amount of power used by the satellite.

Recent data collection shows that on average, Echo's tone access FM repeater transponder is on for less than 40% of an orbit. There are orbits where that number is as high as 65%, but the average is below 40%. That means the satellite is conserving over 60% of the power that would have been consumed by the transmitter if it were being keyed up by every random signal passing through its receiver. Since you cannot easily change rechargeable batteries on a satellite like you can on a terrestrial H-T, power management is crucial to the long term stability of Echo or any man made satellite.

The second reason kind of tag's onto the first. Its the idea of minimizing the three letters dreaded by hams world wide: Q-R-M.

In the tone access mode Echo does not have to listen to other traffic on the Amateur bands or any other signal not intended for the satellite to relay. While the satellite still has to compete with these R-F sources to capture the receiver, they are not retransmitted downlink. This means you do not have to listen to taxi cabs being dispatched in some third-world nations where the V-H-F Amateur bands have more business going on than ham radio contacts being made. A problem that the world wide Intruder Watch program has been fighting for years.

Yet another reason for tone access on Echo. By closing the audio path when no access tone is present the ground based user hears a short unmodulated carrier for the duration of the squelch tail. This can be used as a good measure of how well you are actually hearing the satellite.

Without tone access filtering, uplink band noise is heard. And, any ham who has heard a carrier access repeater where the squelch is open knows what that sounds like. Amplified noise that is sometimes difficult to differentiate from the actual band noise. In the case of a ham radio satellite it means not knowing if you are hearing the bird at all.

After Echo's launch there was talk on some terrestrial repeaters that AMSAT had put a private P-L repeater in space. This is far from the case. Without tone access, the lifespan of Echo would be significantly reduced and fewer hams would have their chance to make contacts through it. (ANS)

Forwarded from the SAREX list...

The ARISS program is pleased to announce that the amateur radio equipment aboard the International Space Station is now operating in cross-band repeat mode. We realize that many of you will miss the packet-operating mode. However, cross-band repeat allows further experimentation of the ISS amateur radio system

The downlink for this operating mode remains the same, so listen for the station on 145.80 MHz. The new uplink frequency is 437.80 MHz. All frequencies are subject to Doppler shifting. For further information on working satellites and adjusting for Doppler shift, please review Emily Clark's (W0EEC) excellent presentation on AMSAT's website, http://www.amsat.org/amsat-new/information/faqs/Intro_sats.pdf

ARISS is an international educational outreach program with US participation from NASA, AMSAT (The Amateur Satellite Radio Corp.), and the American Radio Relay League. ARISS offers an opportunity for students to experience the excitement of Amateur Radio by talking directly with crewmembers on-board the International Space Station. Teachers, parents and communities experience, first hand, how Amateur Radio and crewmembers on ISS can energize youngsters' interest in science, technology, and learning. there is an issue with some of the cheaper rotators (cf. radio shack) in that they lack precise position indicators about where the rotators are actually pointing - there isn't a potentiometer being moved internally and read out by a remote control box. This can be added with a specific gear and potentiometer project (IIRC, this was featured in an article in QST as an AZ-El antenna system, so perhaps you can find it on the ARRL website or via QST article indexes?). just an fyi - bobm

Hi All:

After several weeks of work, I have finished extensively revising and expanding the Viewing Vandenberg AFB Launches page on my web site. The updated page is posted at:

http://www.spacearchive.info/vafbview.htm

I would appreciate it if those of you in the western U.S. who are interested in observing Vandenberg launches would read this page carefully for technical accuracy and to identify topics not addressed and other problems.

Once I receive your feedback, I can make any necessary refinements and finalize the page.

Regards,

Brian Webb, KD6NRP

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1412 September 3, 2004

The following is a message from the Amateur Radio Newsline Support Fund. Here's the funds administrator, Andy Jarema, N6TCQ.

Well, here I am again, so theres obviously another financial crisis that Amateur Radio Newsline is facing. And this time its a real doozie. Let me explain it to you.

During the summer many of you are away and donations dwindle to a mere trickle. At the same time, some of our biggest yearly expenses occur during July and August. This includes the Young Ham of the Year Award presentation that we host every year in Huntsville, Alabama. While we had planned ahead, we did not know exactly how much we would need and we were caught short. The price of airfares was up as was the cost of hosting the mini banquet for our recipient, her family and friends.

Added to that were higher than anticipated telephone costs to cover the breaking news stories we brought you over the summer. And right now that leaves us with less than $50 in the bank and several hundred dollars in outstanding bills that must be paid right now to keep Amateur Radio Newsline coming your way.

As we have said before, Amateur Radio Newsline is a federally charted 501(C)(3) and California state not-for-profit corporation. For most United States residents it means that your donation is tax deductible.

So please help keep the news on your local net, on your repeater and on your computer by making a donation to the Amateur Radio Newsline Support Fund. Its address is Post Office Box 660937, Arcadia, California. The zipcode is 91066.

Again that's the Amateur Radio Newsline Support Fund at Post Office
Box 660937, Arcadia, California, 91066.

On behalf of the entire all volunteer world-wide Amateur Radio Newsline team, I thank you for listening to this appeal and for your ongoing support that keeps the news of Amateur Radio coming your way.

I'm Andy Jarema, N6TCQ. Now Amateur Radio Newsline report 1412.

Thanks Andy. Now Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1412 with a release date of Friday, September 3rd, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. The ARRL bandwidth based restructuring proposal causes controversy and maybe some reconsideration. Find out more on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1412 coming your way right now.

RESTRUCTURING: REACTING TO THE ARRL BANDWIDTH PROPOSAL

An ARRL proposal to restructure Amateur Radio along bandwidth lines has caused a lot of discussion in the nations ham community. And it may cause the League to rethink its position. Amateur Radio Newsline's Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, is in Philadelphia, and has the rest of the story:

--

Shortly after the ARRL began circulating the proposal and posted it on its website, the e-mails, phone calls, HF, VHF, and digital-mode traffic took off.

And now, Amateur Radio Newsline has learned the bandwidth proposal may be tabled for more study when the ARRL's executive committee meets next month.

That confirmation comes from W6OBB in Nevada. If the call sign isn't familiar, the name behind it might be. He's Art Bell, host of the weekend edition of "Coast to Coast AM" heard on more than 500 commercial radio stations across the nation.

Bell, who joined the fight against Broadband Over Powerlines several months ago, and featured the subject on his radio program, expressed concern about what he called a Draconian proposal that would over-regulate the ham bands. Bell tells me he relayed that concern in a phone call to ARRL President Jim Haynie W5JBP.

Bell characterizes the discussion as cordial and at the end, he says Haynie related he was re-evaluating the proposal based on many comments he had received.

"He indicated to me and told me I could pass on to you that they're looking into pulling this whole thing back and taking a harder look at it," Bell says.

While Bell says he believes the ARRL had good intentions with the proposal, it may have gone too far.

"What began as an examination by the League of how we could possibly encourage the digital mode, it went a little too far and began to over-regulate," Bell says. "I'd kind of like to see it go the other way and I'd like to see our bands freed up."

Haynie says he's gotten a lot of feedback on the proposal. He says it came from the League's desire to promote - not restrict - innovation and experimentation. He says it was also a response the Federal Communications Commission's desire to see more innovation from the ham community.

"I think we rose to the challenge," Haynie says. "We have demonstrated Software Defined Radio that just knocked their socks off, in my view.

"We have come up with some other stuff - Joe Taylor and some of his things for moon bounce. And I think the Amateur Radio community needed a wake-up call is what they needed and I think that's what we've gotten and were given."

Haynie says it's clear the digital modes like RTTY and PSK 31 need attention.

"Where do we want to go to the future?" Haynie asks. "And, as I mentioned a couple of years ago, I took my model 28ASR and took it to the scrap man. But that's the standard that's used today is 850Hz shift at 45 baud.

"Well, we don't do too much of that. I'm not saying there's not RTTY enthusiasts out there, there are and I appreciate that and I know that and I want to protect their rights to do those things."

Art Bell says he and others don't object to digital innovation. But he doesn't think the proposal hits the mark.

"There are many with differing interests who are not too pleased with the proposal and, on the face of it, it simply does not make sense," Bell says. "I agree that we should encourage the digital modes and development, but we shouldn't try to push something into place that is not techincally ready to happen yet."

Restricting bandwidth, Bell says, won't promote innovation.

"Why do we have to cut and slice and dice and regulate," Bell says. Why not just let anybody virtually go anywhere and let all of us just live together with some gentlemen's agreements which we have now and which work very, very well on most bands?

"So with that in mind, look at the Canadians. The Canadians have a 6khz limit and they can go anywhere on the band they want from the bottom to the top. And I don't see why that would not apply and work well in America."

Haynie says he wants to hear more from hams and he's encouraging all of us to get into the FCC's Part 97 rules and share input on the proposal at the ARRL's website, that's ARRL-dot-org.

"Look at the rule book and see what's there now, "Haynie says. "And, is there something that could be changed that would allow a new technology to be developed, then that's what we want to know."

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia.

RESTRUCTURING: DROPPING CW TESTING IN CANADA

Meantime, to the north, another form of restructuring proposal is being considered by hams in Canada. This as telecommunications regulator Industry Canada publishes a Gazette Notice called "Recommendations from Radio Amateurs of Canada to Industry Canada Concerning Morse Code and Related Matters".

The Radio Amateurs of Canada proposal deals with the WRC-2003 decisions concerning Morse as a compulsory qualification for High Frequency operation in the Amateur Service. Radio Amateurs of Canada has recommended that Industry Canada delete the mandatory aspect of the requirement for Morse testing but leave it as a voluntary qualification. This, because knowledge of code may be required for reciprocal operation in those countries retaining a Morse requirement.

The notice was published on Saturday, August 28th and gives Canadian radio amateurs sixty days in which to respond. Radio Amateurs of Canada recommends that the nations ham community endorse this proposal. (RAC)

ENFORCEMENT: 10 METER INTRUDER WARNED

Here in the United States a commercial business has been warned to stay of the 10 meter ham band. The FCC's Daryl Duckworth, N-N-Zero-W, explains:

Duckworth:"Dandy Service Corporation of Warrendale, Pennsylvania, was issued a warning notice fot unlicensed radio operations on 28.085 Mhz. Two of their vehicles were the source of transmissions on August 5th of this year in Michigan on Interstate 94 at mile-marker 262."

Dandy Service was told to advise its drivers that operation of radio transmitting equipment without a license is a violation of the Communications Act of 1934. That it could subject the operator to fine or imprisonment, as well as an seizure of any non-certified radio transmitting equipment. Monetary forfeitures normally range from $7,500 to $10,000. (FCC, RAIN)

THE BPL FIGHT: IT MAY BE COMING TO SO. CAL.

A heads up warning to hams living in the California counties of Los Angeles, San Diego and Riverside. According to ARRL officials in the Southwestern Division, Broadband over Powerline may be coming your way.

Writing in the latest issue of the division electronic newsletter, Director Art Goddard, W-6-X-D, and Vice Director Tuck Miller, N-ed-6-T, say that power companies in these areas may be considering BPL as a new business venture. The two officials add that the regions Amateur community needs to work together to see if they can head off these B-P-L flirtations before they become entrenched on the ham radio bands.

The report goes on to say that local ARRL Section Managers are already on top of the situation. The S-M's are reportedly forming Local Action Teams to work on all levels in handling the B-P-L threat to the area. (ARRL Southweestern Divisioon Communicator)

OPERATIONAL NEWS: TO PL OR NOT TO PL - THATS THE SERA QUESTION

Repeaters in eight states and the hams that operate through them may soon face mandatory use of continuous tone coded squelch. Then again, they may not. Amateur Radio Newslines Gary Pearce, KN4AQ, is in Raleigh, North Carolina, trying to sort it all out:

SERA, the SouthEastern Repeater Association, ignitied a furious debate when its Board of Directors voted to require the use of tone as a condition for frequency coordination for all repeaters in its territory. SERA is the frequency coordinating group for eight southeastern states: Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North and South Carolina,| Tennessee, and parts of Virginia and West Virginia.

The SERA Board voted at its June meeting that some form of tone access will be a condition of coordination for all new repeaters effective immediately. Existing repeaters will need to adopt tone within two years, by July 2006. The board was acting on a motion by Steve Grantham AA5SG, the Director from Mississippi. The goal of the policy was to reduce the number of complaints that SERA coordinators receive from repeater owners whose carrier access repeaters are keyed up by users of a co-channel neighbor.

In discussion at the meeting, the new policy was softened some when coordinators asked if this meant that repeaters would be automatically decoordinated if they decided not to use tone. The answer, according to an article in SERA's magazine the Repeater Journal, was "no, but…" SERA would not entertain an interference complaint from repeater owners who remained carrier access.

The debate began in earnest when the August issue of the Repeater Journal began arriving and the ARRL published a story about it on their web site. Repeater owners argued the merits of tone itself, along with complaints that SERA didn't poll its members, and non-member repeaters, before making the decision.

The decision may not be final, according to SERA President Roger Gregory W4WRG:

Gregory: I've received, and we have received a lot of comments pro and con about this policy. And all I can say right now is that we're taking a second look at it and it's not really written in stone at this time as to what kind of decision we're going to make one way or the other."

--

SERA's next Board meeting takes place in January, but the group can reach an earlier decision at any time through an e-mail ballot.

Reporting for Newsline, this is Gary Pearce KN4AQ in Raleigh, North Carolina.

So will the hams in SERA coordinated states have to use tone access on every repeater? Right now, the answer seems up in the air. (KN4AQ, ARNewsline(tm))

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: ISS GOES CROSS-BAND REPEAT

Speaking of repeaters. there's a new cross-band F-M system in space and its home is on the International Space Station. This, as the ARISS program announces that the amateur radio equipment aboard the orbiting outpost is now on the air in repeater mode.

The downlink frequency remains 145.80 MHz. The new uplink frequency is 437.80 MHz and all frequencies are subject to Doppler shifting.

ARISS leaders say that they realize that many hams will miss the packet station that the cross-band F-M voice repeater replaces. Burt the groups leaders say that the cross-band repeater will allow further experimentation of the ISS amateur radio system.

For further information on working satellites and adjusting for Doppler shift, please review Emily Clark's (W0EEC) excellent presentation on AMSAT's website, http://www.amsat.org/amsat-new/information/faqs/Intro_sats.pdf (ARISS)

RADIO LAW: FCC ADOPTS RULES TO ENHANCE NETWORK OUTAGE REPORTING

Back on mother Earth in Washington, the Federal Communications Commission has adopted new rules requiring wireless, wireline, cable, and satellite telecommunications providers to report information about significant disruptions or outages to their systems to the Commission. The FCC says that these reports must be filed electronically. The Commission also ruled that all sensitive information collected as a result of these new rules will be protected from public disclosure. The full story is on-line at http://hraunfoss.fcc.gov/edocs_public/attachmatch/DOC-250543A1.doc (FCC)

RADIO LAW: FCC REDEFINES DTV CONVERSION SCHEDULE

The FCC has also taken steps toward deciding exactly which channels broadcasters will end up with when they switch to digital television. By unanimous vote, the Commissioners have set up a timetable that will decide by June 2006 which channels people will tune in on to see their favorite programs. .

FCC chairman Michael Powell says that the vote signals that substantial progress has been made in switching television from its current analog transmission system to digital. He adds that the national dialogue has shifted from wondering if the DTV transition would ever end to exploring when it should end. (FCC)

RADIO LAW: CANADIAN GROUPS CHARGE THAT HD RADIO WILL HARM RECEPTION

Meantime, Canada charges that High Definition or Hi Fi digital Radio will harm reception of Canadian stations inside its own border. At least that's the headline from the August 30, 2004 edition of Inside Radio.

According to the story that follows, both the Canadian Boadcasting Corporation and the Canadian Association of Broadcasters have asked the country's technical regulatory agency to protest iBiquity's In-Band On-Channel digital radio system. They allege harmful effects on current A-M reception, especially during nighttime hours. The whole story is on-line at http://tinyurl.com/6uubn and www.insideradio.com (CGC)

HAM AWARDS: THE RCC IS BACK AND ITS FREE

Some good news. The Rag Chewers Club or R-C-C award is back, but it will not be sponsored by the American Radio Relay League. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, has the details:

Its the Society for the Preservation of Amateur Radio -- better known by the acronym SPAR that will be sponsoring the new R-C-C. The group has announced that as of September 1st it will adnminister this fun award and will do so following the old ARRL rules.

According to SPAR, all a ham has to do to get an R-C-C is to present evidence of having had an actual one on one Q-S-O that lasted at least 30 minutes. The QSO can be made on any legal amateur frequency.

In early 2004 the ARRL announced it was discontinuing the Rag Chewers' Club Award due to a lack of interest. Conversations SPAR held with hams seemed to indicate that the lack of interest was due mainly to the cost of the award. So SPAR says that the award will be available free of charge to all licensed radio amateurs.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, in Los Angeles. Jim.

--

All certificates will be distributed by e-mail as Adobe P-D-F files that you can print and frame. The awards are numbered and endorseable by mode. Complete rules and an on-line application are on the SPAR website at www.spar-hams.org. (SPAR, QRZ.com)

NAMES IN THE NEWS: HAPPY 104 BIRTHDAY TO KJ6KQ

And less we forget, a belated birthday greeting goes out to Bill Diaper, KJ6KQ who turned 104 on August 12th. That's right, we said

104, and probably making him the oldest living radio amateur in the United States, if not the world.

According to a posting on the Q-R-Zed dot com by Tom Ferguson, N6SSQ, website, Bill is a member of the Pacific Amateur Radio Guild and these days resides in the Masonic Homes in Union City, California. Tom says that there is a radio shack in the basement that Bill used up till a year ago but is very difficult for him to access now. That's because the station is in the basement next to the laundry room. Bill says it is dark and damp down there and must get assistance to get there and have someone tune and adjust the frequency on the rig for him.

N6SSQ adds that the Pacific Amateur Radio sent Bill a flurry of letters and cards on his birthday and that he was very pleased to get them. (QRZ.com)

HAM FAIR JAPAN ATTRACTS 30000 ATTENDEES

Turning to the ham radio social scene, Japan's largest hamfest, the JAIA Ham Fair, was held the weekend of August 21st and 22nd. The venue was Tokyo's Big Sight International Convention Center. Among the highlights of gear being shown were Yaesu and Icom both showcasing their high end $10,000 H-F transceivers. Kenwood did not match in the super high end radio category but had a well attend ongoing demonstration of their ARCP-480 Radio Control Program.

But the manufacturers and dealers were only a small part of the show. Over 170 radio clubs also had booth space at the show. These ranged from large organizations like JAMSAT, the Japan Shortwave Club, and SEANET down to local organizations who use their booth for flea market sales.

Also present were a wide variety of organizations promoting every aspect of Amateur Radio. This included mountain-topping operators, microwave activity enthusiasts and antenna construction experimenters. Operations represented included facsimile, SSTV, ATV, RTTY, 10M FM, 6 Meters, CW devotees, QRP, homebrewing, classic rigs, military surplus and even a contingent from the A-M community.

Ham Fair is Japan's largest annual gathering of radio amateurs from the Pacific Rim. An estimated 25,000 to 30,000 attended this years event. (WIA News)

HAM RADIO NEAR SPACE: UK BALLOON LAUNCH LICENSED FOR SEPT. 12

G3ZHI reports that a license has been granted for a United Kingdom high altitude ham radio balloon flight. The project is now authorized for operation on 2.500 GHz on Sunday, September 12th. The license has special permission to operate at up to 50,000 feet instead of the usual flight ceiling of 2,000 or 5,000 feet.

The launch is scheduled to take place at about 1.30. Plans are still afoot to relay pictures via the new 13 centimeter GB3FT repeater if the system is completed and on the air in time for the flight. More information on this experiment as it becomes available. (G3ZHI)

WORLDBEAT - NORWAY: HACKER DEFEATS AIRPORT EXPRESS

Meantime on the European mainland the same Norwegian hacker known for developing D-V-D encryption-cracking software has apparently struck again. This time his target is the security system that protects Apple Computer's wireless music streaming technology.

Jon Johansen has released a hacking system on his website that provides a key to unlock the encryption Apple uses for its AirPort Express. The unit lets users broadcast digital music from Apple's on-line iTunes Music Store on a stereo that's not plugged into an Apple computer. This permits other software applications from competitors to work with the proprioritary AirPort Express codec. Apple is reportedly considering taking legal action in the case. (Published reports)

RADIOSPORTS: HOST STILL NEEDED FOR 2005 ARDF GAMES

Turning to the world of radiosports, a reminder from Joe Mell, KZ0OV, that a group is still meeded to host the fifth U-S-A Amateur Radio Direction Finding Championship games. This, in the summer of 2005.

Some prerequisites for being the host include having suitable sites for 2 meter and 80 meter hunts along with the ability to provide foxhunting courses. There are also the organizational aspects to consider. These include providing registration services, housing for the contestants, meeting rooms, transportation to and from the hunt areas and lots more.

If your club is interested in hosting this event, please contact Joe by e-mail before September 15th to homingin@aol.com. Full details about the games and how to become the 2005 host is on line at www.homingin.com (ARNewsline(tm))

I think most folks use a smaller coax that drops down to the tower-mounted pre-amp, and then the heavier coax run from there to your shack.

Belden 9913_F_ (be sure to get "F") is pretty flexiable RG8U style stuff and is low loss and double shielded. The only problems are: 1) you need to make sure the connectors fit the center conductor strands as they are a little large, 2) the stuff doesn't weather as well as other types even though it is supposed to be a UV resistant rubber coating. But this is mostly a cosmetic issue.

Dont use small stuff and wreck your noise figure.

Use the 400 ultraflex. Every joint is a point for water intrusion, and all the cable loss between the antenna and preamp gets added right to your noise figure. It's worth the extra effort, the antennas and rotor will handle it....

i thought it was a pretty good warning when it came in an unsolicited message on a news group. NEVER visit a site that you don't know what you are going there for. and NO, seeing fake pictures of osama is not a good reason.

Hey dumbass, stop re-posting the virus url with your lameass warnings.

Oh, and lose the HTML in these text groups. -sheesh-

Which birds send images, what frequencies, and when?
I'm curious to see what image quality I can decode.

I've never done this before, so please forgive the simplicity of the question...

Thanks,
B.

Hey noodnick, if you looked at it you would have seen it has been changed
so it won't connect to anything.
Maybe you should post warnings to the new internet users instead of bitching about mine!

Hey dumbass, stop re-posting the virus url with your lameass warnings.

hey guys
since you where such great help with my coax question lets see how you do with this one i have the KLM set of LEO antennas and i need a nonconductive ridged boom to mount them on i cant afford to buy the fiberglass boom that M2 has for sale so does anyone have a suggestion on what to use and where to find it?

Also need an AZ/EL rotor but not willing to pay $400 for a used Yaesu G5400 any ideas?

For the boom use some pvc pipe and while at the store go over and look at the wood closet poles and find one that will just fit inside the pvc pipe. You may want to paint or varnish the wood before putting it in the pvc pipe.

Look for a used U-100 rotator . If you break off a piece of it the pipe will go all the way through it. YOu may have to use some samller pipe through the rotator for a foot or two on each side and the slip that in the pvc and wood pipe.

I have used both methods in the past to hold a KLM 22c and the smaller 435 beam whatever the number of that is.

Have not tried this myself but have read on this group in the past that a quick visit to a high school track coach can solve the problem with a discared pole used for pole vaulting. Check the 2nd hand sporting goods stores too. Also know I saw a fiberglass boom on ebay yesterday under "amateur radio antenna." K4AVO

Dennis,

Read this... http://www.g6lvb.com/fibermetalboom.htm

Then get over to Lowes and pick up a 10$ 10ft antenna mast. The fiber booms are a royal pain in the ass. They shed fiberglass after a while, the antenna clamps slip pretty easily, and they shudder and bounce like a dandelion in the wind. My 30 element 435 beam, 20 element 2m beam, and 3ft dish just went thru Frances with absolutely no problem.

Good Luck.

For the fiberglass boom http://www.mgs4u.com/fiberg.htm it is only $60. When you get it paint it flat black then white to uV protect it. As for the rotor, there are cheap alternative using TV antenna rotors but you will be much happier with a real syste. SO I suggest you break out the crowbar and pay $400 which BTW is a good price. I have the G5500 and paid almost double that.

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1413 – September 10, 2004

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1413 with a release date of Friday, September 10th, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T.

Hurricane Frances strikes Florida and ham radio is prepared. Hear the ham radio first responders in action on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1413 coming your way right now.

RESCUE RADIO: HURRICANE FRANCES VS. HAM RADIO

Hurricane Frances pounded Florida with high wind and heavy rain after it smashed across the state's East coast. Close to 4 million residents lost power and telephone service. Cellular phone networks that survived Frances’s gale force winds quickly became overloaded. Enter ham radio. Amateur Radio Newsline’s David Black, KB4KCH has been following the story from our South-East bureau in Birmingham, Alabama:

When Hurricane Frances hit Florida on Labor Day weekend, the storm ripped roofs off buildings, toppled trees and cut power to about 4 million people. Also lost was part of the states telephone and cellular service. This created a communications vacuum.

But hams affiliated with SATERN - the Salvation Army Team Emergency Radio Network, A-R-E-S, and the Hurricane Watch Net were expecting Frances. Radio amateurs had been tracking this storm as it ravaged its way across the Caribbean. And it was ham radio that let the world know of the destruction the giant storm had caused as it hit some of the islands:

“Roger roger. On Elutheria Ill say about 40 percent of the structures have damage. In the Rainbow Bay area where I live I would say about 70% of the hhomes here have structural damage. Over.”

--

Once a Category 4 hurricane with winds of 145 mph, Frances had weakened to a Category 2 storm as it neared Florida. Winds dropped to a peak of 105 mph as it made landfall at Sewall's Point, north of Palm Beach, around 1 a.m. Eastern Daylight Time on Saturday, September 4th. Ham radio operators affiliated with the Hurricane Watch Net tracked its approach:

“This is KA5E with the Hurricane Watch Net. We are currently taking measured weather reports out of the affected area for Hurricane Frances. Do I have any stations on with pdates or signifigant weather reports. KA5E, over.”

--

The powerful storm hit Florida with ferocious winds and sheets of rain. The hurricane was so large and slow moving that its western outer edges had began arriving on the east coast on Saturday morning. On Sunday morning its eastern edges were still pounding the coast from which 2.5 million people had been told to flee. Repeaters interconnected using I-R-L-P and Echolnk were pressed into service to help coordinate the latest round of evacuations:

--

“KC4PNC KB1CYO net control. Go ahead sir,”

“They have called for mandatory evacuation for Hillsboro county for manufactured homes and also mobile homes. They have not ordered a mandatory for low lieing areas but they are strongly recommendng it.”

--

And as evacuee’s poured into shelters, communications volunteers were needed. A call was put out over the interlinked repeater network and the hams responded

--

“We are looking for any volunteerr Amateur Radio operators to help with shelters. We have eight shelters open right now. Those are being manned. However, since its a declared evacuation all of the other shelters will be opened and we are looking for vlunteers to man those shelters. KC4PNC.”

--

As Frances path of destruction hit Florida's central Atlantic coast counties, blinding rain squalls drove clouds of sand into the air. At the same time high waves thundered onto the beaches. One ham watched as his rain gage was torn away and white caps pounded ashore:

--

“Any kind of rainfall accumulation?”

“No, that gage blew away but I can tell you that we are in a high tide area right now and I can see the tides up about a foot and a half and I have water coming over my seawall. But its not a problem. We are still at a much higher elevation. The water is over the seawall along the Intercoastal Waterway.”

--

As palm trees rained coconuts and then toppled over and buildings suffered extensive damage there was also a tragedy at sea. And the U-S Coast Guard turned to Amateur Radio for help:

--

“I want to remind the net that the Coast Guard has asked us to lend assistance in the search for the Anna Marie. It is a vessel that went down off the coast of Sarasota this evening about 10 to 12 miles out. Any assistance or any information on the Anna Marie that went down with the crew 10 o 12 miles out of Sarasota, the U.S. Coast Guard would appreciate your assistance.”

--

At airtime its not known what happened to the Anna Marie nor the fate of its crew. But as the search continued, there was yet another threat. Early on Sunday the 5th, the massive weather system spawned a tornado, and the warning went out over the I-R-L-P ham radio network:

--

“The tornado is expected to be by Bostwick by by 2:45 Eastern, Forholm by 3:00 a.m. and thats all I have.”

--

As that twister touching down the National Weather Service office in Jacksonville issued a tornado warning for Northern Clay County including the city of Orange Park. Also affected were St. Johns, Clay, and Putnam Counties. And as dawn was breaking radar picked up a developing tornado near Doctors Inlet moving West at 45 mph. Only some damage to roofs was reported.

But reporting weather was not the only chore radio amateurs were involved in. Another as health and welfare. Letting worried relatives and friends know about those stuck in Frances path. Many like this central American station who was happy to hear that the hurricane was headed away from his daughters location:

“OK. Great. Thank you very much. I appreciate that information. We are here in a location where we do not have any TV or any other communication. We are on the beach on the West coast of Panama. So thanks very much I do appreciate it. This is HB1XRO and the handle is Bob.”

--

By Monday afternoon, Frances had crossed the eastern Gulf of Mexico and made its second landfall in Florida's northwest Panhandle section some 20 miles south of Tallahassee. Now it only a tropical storm with sustained wind near 65 mph. Damage was mainly to power and telephone lines. At that point the forecasters were predicting the storm would move north-northwest at about 8 mph, and was not expected to regain hurricane strength.

Frances soaked Georgia, dumping 11 inches of rain in a 24 hour period in the town of Patterson.

Media reports blame Frances for at least seven deaths in Florida, including two people who were killed Saturday when the roof of he building they were in collapsed. There were also two deaths in the Bahamas. One of these was a teenager who was reportedly electrocuted when he tried to hook up a generator to a power mains that was still on.

With thanks to the hams who supplied the storm audio over the Internet used in this report, I'm David Black, KB4KCH at the South-East bureau in Birminham Alabama for the Amateur Radio Newsline. (ARNewsline(tm))

RESCUE RADIO: HAM RADIO PREPARES FOR IVAN

And its not over yet. As we go to air Hurricane Ivan is making its way cross the Caribbean and could strike the United States. CQ's newsdesk reports that Amateur Radio at the National Hurricane Center, WX4NHC, was to be reactivated for Hurricane Ivan at 2 PM EDT Thursday, Sept. 9, and will be active on Friday-Sunday 8 AM-11 PM EDT. The Hurricane Center will be on the Hurricane Watch Net on 20 meters as well as the VoIP Hurricane Net,. The latter is a combination of IRLP and Echolink stations.

The Cayman Islands and Jamaica are the next locations in the path of this extremely dangerous Category V Hurricane which now has maximum sustained winds of 160 MPH per the latest advisory issued at 5 AM EDT Thursday morning.

VoIP Net Control Station Rob Macedo, KD1CY, says they are trying to coordinate with the IRLP node owners on the Cayman Islands and Jamaica on usage of their nodes and liaisons to those affected areas. Currently there are no Echolink or IRLP nodes in Cuba.

National Hurricane Center advisories indicate that the path of Hurricane Ivan is not clear after it passes over Cuba on Sunday. Residents in the affected area should monitor the situation closely. There is a possibility that the hurricane's forward progress could slow and emergency nets may be activated for an extended period of time. It also means that ham radio communications volunteers could have a lot more to do in the coming days. (CQ)

RESCUE RADIO: FIRST RESPONDERS SAY THEY NEED INTEROPERABILITY

Meantime, three years after the nine eleven terrorist attacks, thousands of police and fire divisions in cities and counties across the United States still do not have coordinated communications capabilities. So says the First Response Coalition and Amateur Radio Newslines Norm Seeley, KI7UP, has the details:

The First Response Coalition calls this lack of interoperability an unresolved national crisis and it has decided to take on the FCC and big business to solve it. This as the organization reaches out directly to more than 43,000 local police and fire officials to solicit their help.

First Response wants Congress to overturn the FCC decision to award spectrum to Nextel in favor of a plan that deals both with interference problem and the interoperability crisis. Gene Stilp, who is the First Response Coalition coordinator says that the FCC plan involving Nextel is wrong for police officers and firefighters. This is because it only takes on only part of the interference issue. Moreover, it does not do anything about the lack of interoperability between emergency response groups.

The First Response Coalition says that this outreach program is getting a very favorable grassroots response. So far over 17 fire chiefs have joined ranks with the group in opposing the FCC's current plan for what they call a give away of taxpayer-owned spectrum.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Norm Seeley, KI7UP.

About the only emergency responders these days who have full two way radio interoperability are radio amateurs. Hams had voluntarily set world-wide communications standards many years ago. (First Response Coalition release)

RESCUE RADIO: AMBER ALERT LINKS UP TO THE WEB

The nation's Amber Alert system has become a web available tool. This, thanks to a portal made available by the E2C company of Scottsdale, Arizona.

Until now, Amber Alerts have been a primarily radio based technology. This meant that messages had depended on the nation's Emergency Alert system for relay and delivery. The new Web-based system can process and transmit the same emergency information more quickly and make it available to a wider variety of devices. It also comes with software that pinpoints the location of a child abduction and sends out emergency notification targeted to that geographic area.

As of now, Amber Alert managers in 11 states have access to the new portal. Use of the system is expected to expand to the 49 states that have statewide Amber Alert systems. Hawaii has no statewide system but has several local alert networks. (E2C)

THE BPL FIGHT: VK 4-WHEELERS JOIN BPL FIGHT

A Four Wheel Drive hobby group has joined the fight against BPL. Its happening down-under. WIA Newscaster Phil Waite ,VK2DKN, reports:

--

The VKS737 4WD HF Radio Network, joined the fight against BPL last week, following the recent WIA news broadcast by Jim Linton, VK3PC, highlighting the BPL industry's attack on interference protection for so called `recreational radio services' and an approach from WIA Director, Glen Dunstan, VK4DU.

VKS737 are currently circulating their members with information about the threat BPL poses to their activities, and encouraging their members to lobby politicians on the issue.

The VKS737 network is used extensively for emergency communications in remote areas, as well as serving the communications needs of outback travellers. Their current membership is around 7,000 and they potentially reach 250,000 Australian 4WD owners.

Many of their network base stations are in urban areas potentially affected by BPL and VKS737 members are rightly concerned about the threat presented to their HF communications. Their organisation is also associated with the Australian Citizens Emergency Radio network, who provide similar services on citizens band frequencies.

Phil Waite, VK2DKN, for the WIA National News.

The Wireless Institute of Australia is discussing ways the two organizations can assist each other in the fight against BPL. (WIA News)

INTRUDER WATCH: STRANGE SIGNALS AT 7238 KHZ

According to Bob Gonsett, W6VR, for the past three weeks, hams in the southwestern U.S. have been reporting a mysterious signal in the 40-meter band. One party described it as a "mechanical sound." Another speculated that it was "data."

Engineers at Communications General Corporation in Fallbrook California took a quick look at the situation on Septeember 6th. And at 3:20 P-M Pacific Daylight Savings Time the company found several close-spaced CW carriers. The four strongest signals at CGC's lab were on 7238.063, 7238.150, 7238.237 and 7238.412 kHz. The signal on .237 was the strongest of the group and the frequencies reported should each be accurate to better than plus or minus 30 Hz.

Communications General says it is not sure if the signal was coming from one specially modulated transmitter or from transmitters at different locations. Bob Gonsett adds that it will be interesting to learn the source or sources of these transmissions. (W6VR, CGC)

SAFETY: RADIO ENGINEER ELECTROCUTED WHILE WORKING ALONE AT TOWER SITE

The hazards of working near power lines has been brought front and center again. This with word that a Wyoming broadcast engineer has killed while working at a transmitter site in Colorado.

Thirty nine year old Robin Bradley Thomas was killed while working alone, trying to install a radio transmitter. The accident happened about 18 miles northwest of Red Feather Lakes in northern Colorado. Indications are that Thomas of Cheyenne died when he accidentally came in contact with high-voltage and was electrocuted. Thomas was described as an experienced engineer who contracted out his services. (CGC)

RADIO LAW: CELLPHONE PROVIDERS SUED OVER LOCKED PHONES

A consumer watchdog group sued three cellular telephone companies. This. for "locking" their phones to make it harder for customers to switch carriers.

The Foundation for Taxpayer and Consumer Rights is the group that filed the suit in Los Angeles. It accuses AT&T Wireless Services Inc., T-Mobile USA Inc. and Cingular Wireless, of using software in their handsets that prevents them from being used on a competitors' network.

All phones in question use Global System Mobile communications, or GSM technology which effectively limits a handset to a specific carrier using a non interchangeable SIM card. The lawsuit complains that this is an unfair and deceptive business practice under California state law.

The phone companies are defending their policy. They say that they routinely subsidize handset cost and would loose substantial revenue if they allowed customers to easily use those phones with another carrier. (Foundation for Taxpayer and Consumer Rights)

REPEATER COORDINATION: METROCOR MORITORIUM TO END DECEMBER 15

Attention repeater owners in the New York metro and surrounding area. An impoerant deadline is aproaching.

You may remember that your new area frequency coordinator MetroCor had put in place a two year moritorium on new co-channel coordinations when the group came into being. It had also asked existing repeater operators who have documented proof of expired coordination from the now defunct Tri State Amateur Repeater Council to update their coordinations with MetroCor.

In a posting to QRZ.com, MetroCor's Mario Sellitti, N2PVP, says that this moratorium had minimized the possibility that new coordinations might inadvertently displace longstanding users of the spectrum. It also helped to avoid creating disputes where none previously existed.

Now, says Sellitti, this period must now come to an end. He says that MetroCor will be terminating the moratorium as of midnight, Saturday, December 15th.

But he adds this qualifier. Sellitti says that anyone in the area having a repeater or knowing of one belonging to another ham, and that repeater qualifies for this exception, to please refer to MetroCor's on-line F-A-Q in item No. 11. This will give you or the person with the other machine the information needed to gain new coordination through MetroCor. Those in need will find it on-line at www.metrocor.net/faq.htm. HAM TECHNOLOGY: HAM DREAM DIGITAL VOICE QSO

What is believed to be the first two-way digital voice contact in South Africa took place between ZS1AN and ZS1AU on August 10th. Contact was made on 15 meters with both amateurs using Ham Dream software for the QSO. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW has the details:

Ham Dream is an open-source version of the Digital Radio Mondiale broadcasting standard. It was adapted for amateur use by HB9TLK and gives hams the ability to talk almost noise free. Here’s how.

Speech is converted to digital data using a low-bitrate vocoder analog to digital converter. The data is then transmitted using a high-speed modem. At the receiving end the data is decoded to recover the audio at the receiver. Although still in the evelopment stages, there is worldwide interest in Digital Voice, which can deliver very high signal-to-noise ratios over medium quality narowband S-S-B channels.

For those who want to experiment, HamDream software can be downloaded free of charge from the South African Radio League's website at www.sarl.org.za.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, Im Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, reporting.

Further information on digital voice in ham radio is available on HB9TLK's website. Its in cyberspace at www.qsl.net/hb9tlk (GB2RS)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: TiVO OVER THE NET

Federal regulators have approved technology allowing TiVo subscribers to send copies of recorded shows over the Internet. In its decision, the Federal Communications Commission said the new feature by Alviso, Calif.-based TiVo has enough protections in place to prevent mass distribution of copyrighted material.

The technology would allow a TiVo subscriber to download broadcasts to a computer and send copies of recorded shows over the Internet to an office or home or to a small circle of friends, as long as they are on the subscriber's registered account. The Motion Picture Association of America, the National Football League and others complained that the new service would allow the 1.6 million TiVo subscribers to redistribute shows over the Internet to virtually anyone, anywhere. (Published news reports)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: FCC TAKES NEXT STEPS TO PROMOTE DIGITAL TV TRANSITION

Its full speed ahead with the conversion to digital television. So says the FCC as it issues a Report and Order that it says implements several steps necessary for the "continued progress of the conversion of the nation's television broadcast system from analog technology to digital television.

The paper covers almost every aspect of the conversion process over the next several years. It also highlights the coming events and should be considered "must reading" for those interested or involved in the future of digital T-V. WORLDBEAT: NEW UK REPEATER SERVES LONDON AND KENT

And if you are planning a trip to the UK, don't forget your reciprocal license and your HT. And be sure to try out a new repeater serving the needs of hams in the North Kent and South East London England area.

Its call is GB3OK and it is sponsored by the Bromley Repeater Group and it went on the air on the 16th of August. It transmits on 145.650 MHz with the standard 600 Kilohertz input offset and requires a 103.5Hz tone to access the receiver. The trustee of GB3OK or repeater keeper as the British call them is Tony Ravelini, G1HIG, in the city of Kent. (GB2RS)

DX

In DX, HA3JB tells the Ohio Penn D-X Newsletter that he will operate as SU8BHI from Cairo, Egypt. This, from September 21st through December 20th. Activity will include CW, PSK, RTTY, SSTV and some SSB. QSL direct to HA3JB. (OPDX)

And UA9OBA, has been active as JT100M. This is a special callsign being used until September 13th during the Mongolian leg of the Altay-Himalaya Transasian off-road expedition. Activity has been mainly on 20 meters SSB around 14.180 Mhz. QSL via UA9OBA. (OPDX)

THAT FINAL ITEM: THA FINAL ITEM: A KEYLESS T-HUNT

And finally this week, a Michigan ham radio operator from the Ford Motor Company was part of a two man team that has solved the mystery of malfunctioning remote keyless car door openers, garage door openers and other such devices in Las Vegas, Nevada. A problem with R-K-E devices that had baffled many residents since a massive outage began last February.

Las Vegas resident Bill Zawistowski was one of those complaining. He and others vented their frustration to anyone who would listen including the FCC. Ford responded by flying in two R-F detectives. Earl Morse, N8SS, represented the auto maker and Nabil Hachem was from Alps Automotive, which makes the keyless car-door devices. And it did not take very long for Morse and Hachem to figure out what was happening:

Morse: "When we got there we discovered a signal in the paassband of the RKE receivers which was actually strong enough to keep the RKE from activating its own receiver in the vehicles. We investigated further and found it to be a stuck repeater. We can leave it at that."

--

Morse says it was not much different than a ham radio T-hunt except for the frequency:

--

Morse: “Having experienced Fox Hunting first hand. the only difficult art was shifting all my equipment to that frequency. All of my antennas were relatively useless because they were cut to 2 meters an 440 so we had to make some new antennas for the 315 Mhz. band.”

“We did have one advantage in that the RKE group had purchased a Doppler direction finder and we utilized that a lot.”

Morse tells Amateur Radio Newsline that once they found the transmitter it only took a few phone calls to get it turned off. The problem did surface again a week later but this time one landline call got it to go QRT for good. (ARNewsline (tm))

hey guys
i have the KLM 22C and 18C and wondering how long of a crossboom i should use i understand from the one responce i got about crossboom material that i can get away with a steel boom but need to know if i need a 10 footer or a 5 footer?
thanks

also does anyone know if its possible to stack a pair of those KLM 18C 70cm yagis?
if so how would you handle it with the circular polarization?
thanks

I would not use a metal boom with circularly polarized antennas... it will seriously skew the radiation pattern. I use a 6-foot fiberglass boom with a 1-foot length of dowel inserted in each end, to help avoid crushing the boom when tightening the clamps.

Yes, it is possible to stack the 18C's... I believe that they need to be fed in-phase and physically separated by at least 1/4 wavelength to maintain polarization. I think that M2 sells a stacking kit for their CP antennas. You could use theirs with the KLM's just fine. Or, build your own: use a T-connector with 1/4-wavelength of 75-ohm coax to each antenna. That will give you an impedance of about 62 ohms at the input to the T... certainly acceptable.

i dont know where you shop at probably AES thats why you paid so much for the rotor
texas towers has the G5500 for only $599
thats why i couldnt see paying $400 for a 5400B but i did get the guy down to $385 shipped so we both made out okay now for the fun part of collecting the small stuff one needs to erect the arrat
the cross boom the preamp for 70cm rotor cable coax antnenna switches and so on boy my wife is going to kill me...grin

Either will work, but the 10 fter gives you some room for other small antennas like L band or S band, plus the extra seperation helps with Mode J desense as well.

PS
You can stack the UHF beams, but a better investment would be a preamp mounted at the feedpoint.

new 2m repeater on space station a new 2m repeater is now operating on the international space station 24 x 7 the uplink is on uhf 437.800 and the downlink is on vhf 145.800 no tone burst or ctcss is required the radio is a kenwood tmd700 operating in remote crossband mode it just retransmits on vhf what it hears on uhf so if you are getting through you can hear yourself on the downlink

anyone can work it using a co-linear to see where the space station is 'live' check

http://science.nasa.gov/temp/StationLoc.html

for 3 days in advance predictions download the pcsat decoder program

http://www.ui-view.com/uiview32/pcdec242.msi when the iss repeater is being worked the audio may be streamed in the amsat conference server on echolink so anyone anywhere in the world can listen in

http://www.ifwtech.co.uk/g3sek/stacking/stacking2.htm is quite a useful reference.

The main thing to note when phasing any antennas is that unless you have a good match at each individual antenna, the benefit of stacking or phasing is much reduced as one antenna will take significantly more power than the rest. http://www.g6lvb.com/images/stacking.gif

FWIW if we're splitting hairs I make that 56.25 ohms - from Z0=SQRT(Zs * Zl) where Z0 is the 1/4 wave transmission line impedance, Zs is the source impedance and Zl is the load impedance. Gives Zs of 112.5 ohms, so two in parallel gives 56.25 ohms. Or is my math misguided - quite possible of course?

Probably the best one is at NASA:
http://science.nasa.gov/RealTime/JPass/20/and the current location is at http://science.nasa.gov/temp/StationLoc.html

Nope, you're right... the math error was mine (that's what I get for using the Windows calculator instead of a real one, with real buttons.....). Either way, though, you'd get an entirely acceptable SWR.

Like Steve I use WXtoimg but another good one is Wxsat. Take a look on http://www.hffax.com/index.html there is a lot of information on programs to decode and track weather satellites.

Take a look at the Satscape documentation. There will be a list of interfaces it supports. That might be a good place to start.

RESCUE RADIO: HAM RADIO VS. HURRICANE IVAN - IN THE CARIBBEAN

Last week it was Frances. This week it's Ivan. Bother killer storms that took lives and destroyed property across the Caribbean before making landfall on U-S shores. And as has been the case s many times this year, ham radio was ready. Our team coverage starts here:

--

I'm Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ:

--

" The eye center of hurricane Ivan was located near latitude 17.9 North and longitude 78.7 West, or about three-zero, thirty miles or five-zero, fifty kilometers South-West of the Western tip of Jamaica and 190 - one hundred and ninety miles or 305 kilometers East-South-East of Grand Cayman"

--

That was a warning relayed over ham radio in the Voice over I P Hurricane Watch Net. Hurricane Ivan had hit Jamaica with wind speeds near 155 mph. And as the storm approached, hams involved in the Hurricane Watch Net relayed up to the minutes reports to the National Hurricane Center in Miami:

--

"...wind speed sustained at 80 miles per hour. Gusts to 100 miles. Is getting horizontal ran. Skies are darkening rapidly..."

--

The killer storm had already been blamed for at least 64 deaths in the Caribbean, including 34 in Grenada. It hit Jamaica on Saturday, September 11th packing winds close to 165 mph. In downtown Kingston, 20-foot-tall trees were uprooted, some flung onto the roofs of cars, and twisted metal roof panels strew the streets. At least 11 people were killed as the storm blew across.

Now on Sunday the 12th, reports were coming in from Ivan's next stop.
From the few hams in the Cayman Islands who were riding out the storm on the air using whatever gear they had that would run on emergency power:

"Zed-F-one kilo oscar has come up a couple of times reporting flooding in areas that have never flooded before in a hurricane. They have some intermittent cellular telephone service. The land line phones are down and a lot of flooding. VP5DB with the Hurricane Watch Net."

Then there was this dramatic report to the Hurricane Watch Net from a crew member of the British Royal Navy ship Richmond that was anchored not far off shore. The Richmond had cut short her visit to Curacao to standby to assist islands devastated by Ivan:

--

Audio only. Hear it at http://www.arnewsline.org

--

Category 4 and 5 hurricanes can cause buildings to collapse, destroy mobile homes and flatten trees and road signs. Such storms are accompanied by a surge of sea water and require evacuation of low-lying areas within 5 miles to 10 miles of the shore. Normal lines of communications are almost always cut and this was the case with Ivan. And broadcasters in the Caribbean who were able to stay on the air had their reports passed to the outside world using ham radio. Stations like Wenty Bethune, 6Y5IC, who had survived Ivan' rampage on Jamaica and was on the air from Kingston using battery power:

--

"We cannot confirm it, but we understand that there are people in the Caymans standing on their roofs shouting for help. Sounds like a traumatic situation in the Caymans. This is coming off FM radio about an hour ago. QSL?"

6Y5IC said that he was also handling traffic into and out of the storm ravaged area. He added that he could probably operate for about to weeks using batteries.

Now Ivan was on a direct path toward Cuba. This, as Florida residents braced for a third storm to hit the state in a month. And on Monday the 12th a strengthened Hurricane Ivan headed toward the tip of western Cuba with winds in excess of 160 miles per hour:

Ivan bombarded western Cuba with the full fury of a category 5 hurricane. It damaged hundreds of homes and swamped at least two towns. The storm was so vast that its clouds simultaneously covered Cuba, the Florida Keys, the entire Florida peninsula and parts of the Bahamas, Mexico, Belize and Honduras.

Florida expected the worst. But after passing Cuba Ivan kept traveling West into the Gulf of Mexico. And even as Cuba was being hit hams on Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula like Juan Berndes, XE3AAF, were checking into the Hurricane Watch Net to report that Ivan was being felt:

--

"Roger, OK. I can only tell you that we have been having squalls
--
intermittent squalls all throughout the morning, and that's about it.
That's the information I can give you at the present time.
Over"

Now, a hurricane watch was in effect the entire Florida panhandle and as far west as Louisiana, including New Orleans. Ivan, still a category 4 killer storm was on his way to the U-S mainland. I'm Henry
Feinberg, K2SSQ. (ARNewsline(tm))

RESCUE RADIO: HAM RADIO VS. HURRICANE IVAN - LANDFALL

I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, continuing our coverage of Hurricane Ivan.

Packing gale force winds, Hurricane Ivan slammed ashore near Gulf Shores, Alabama in the wee hours of Thursday, September 16th. Anticipating the storms arrival, Alabama, Florida, Louisiana and Mississippi had declared states of emergency a day earlier. A last minute shift spared New Orleans a direct hit but some 360,000 homes and businesses were without telephone service or power in Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi. And throughout it all, ham radio operators did their part by passing health and welfare traffic, damage assessments and those very important storm position reports:

"Repeating the 4 a-m CDT position: 30.9 North, 87.7 West.
Movement toward the North near 214 miles per hour. Maximum sustained winds near 115 mph. Minimum central pressure 947 millibars."
--

Notice something interesting about that audio? The station reading that report is not in the continental United States. In fact he's thousands of miles away in Australia. But thanks the latest technology developed by hams -- a service called The Internet Repeater Linking Project -- Amateur Radio operators anyplace in the world can pitch in to help when there is an emergency like hurricane Ivan.

But long before the storm made landfall residents of the Gulf States and the nations ham radio community were preparing for the its arrival. On Wednesday the 15th, some highways were converted into one-way evacuation routes. This, after authorities from the Florida panhandle to Louisiana ordered wholesale evacuations of low lying areas. Everyone from New Orleans east to Apalachicola, Florida was on alert because even the tiniest change in the storm track now could move the location of the storm's landfall by hundreds of miles. And after taking a day off to regroup, the Hurricane Watch Net on 14.325 MHz again sprang to life. Some of those checking in were directly involved in storm relief efforts:

"Kilo Delta 5 Golf Golf Lima north of the Coast. I'm operating the

--

Even though the storm was still well out to sea, it did not take long for reports from hams in Ivan's target area to begin flowing in.

--

"Kilo Charlie 5 Romeo Fox Uniform. What is your traffic?
Over"

"Thank you very much. The name is Paul and I am in Ft. Walton Beach,
Florida. Ill give you the coordinates. Latitude 30.44 North.
Longitude 86.62 West. And the Barometric Pressure is 29.79 and falling. The winds are estimated at coming from the East-South-East."

--

Now it would be a waiting game for residents along the gulf coast as they waited and watched as hurricane Ivan roared toward them with.
When Ivan did make landfall it lashed southern Alabama with 135 mph winds and threatened much of the Gulf Coast with surging flood waters.

--

"This is K5PSB with the Salvation Army Team Emergency Net looking for stations with traffic in the affected areas of the Caribbean or the Gulf Coast. Ill take anybody that I can hear. K5PSB."

"W-A-0-Lima Sierra Bravo."

And the latest advisories from the National Hurricane Center show that Ivan still has a lot of destructive force left. The latest storm track as of noon, Thursday September 16th shows Ivan heading North-North-East through parts of Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky and Ohio as it downgrades in intensity and begins to fall apart. But falling apart may be a bit of a misnomer because even then a hurricane can continue to be a destructive force.

But even as Ivan is weakening, yet another storm is gaining strength.
Hurricane Jeanne intensified as it made its way to the Dominican Republic after hitting Puerto Rico on Wednesday. Jeanne is moving west at about 9 miles per hour with maximum sustained winds of 80 mph and will likely be the big ham radio story, next week.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF.

--

The hurricane, one of the strongest on record to hit the region, has killed at least 65 people. With the hurricane season not yet over these hams could be kept busy for some time to come. (ARNewsline)

(Note: Audio of Hurricane Ivan communications was recorded off-air and from Internet relay feeds. Our sincere thanks to the may hams world-wide who supplied them.)

RESCUE RADIO: SOCAL SHADOW DRILL

Out on the U.S. West coast, twenty-five city of California's Huntington Beach Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service volunteers participated in a simulated city-wide Emergency 911 system crisis on Saturday, August 28th. Called the "Shadow Drill," radio volunteers received 9-1-1 calls and dispatched fire department equipment and personnel for an eight hour shift.

The objective of the drill was to provide an alternative dispatch communications system to all Huntington Beach Fire Department resources, including hazardous materials, ambulance and fire response apparatus. This was the third year in a row that Huntington Beach RACES performed the Shadow Drill for the city. (KH6WZ)

THE BPL FIGHT: PHILLY MAY GO NON-BPL WIRELESS

Philadelphia says it's looking to have wide spread Internet access available over the next few years, but it likely will not be B-P-L. This, as the City of Brotherly Love looks to create a 135-square-mile wireless network instead. Amateur Radio Newsline's Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, has the rest of the story:

Philadelphia's Mayor John Street has a vision to turn this community of historic and diverse neighborhoods into a Digital City. And, he's not looking at Broadband Over Powerline Internet Access to do it.

Instead, Mayor Street, a big fan and user of technology - he carries his own Blackberry everywhere - sees the wireless world as the way to go. And, he's committed a task force to explore an estimated $10 million investment in the idea.

Mayor Street's chief information officer is Dianah Neff.

"Outdoor wireless has come on the scene and has presented an affordable entry point to create a dense, cellular mesh network that would act like an umbrella over the city," Neff explains. "And it's a transport, it's an outdoor transport that would allow wireless access that then goes to the Internet for all people in the city."

Neff says users of the system would have easy access. She notes one test site near City Hall is being getting great reviews.

"You can access it through a lap top, through a PC tablet through a hand-held device," Neff says. "You would log on, put in your code to the system. And in the case of Love Park - which is a hot spot now - it's free.

"All you have to do is go on and register. And then you get a connection out to the Internet."

Neff says the plan proposes to attach transmitters/receivers atop light pots.

"The best place to mount these in the outdoors is on the light posts because you need a power source," Neff says. "You could mount the radio antennas actually on the light posts which reside in the public right-of-way which is owned by the government.

"And that's why this has to be a public-private partnership and there's limited space on there you can't put a dozen companies' wireless device.

"But if you had this infrastructure that anybody could either pay to connect in for profit or ride for free, based on criteria that will be established, you would be able to do it."

Neff says the system would be "hot" for outdoor use. But there is equipment available to bring the signal indoors.

"There are devices that can be placed in your window to bring outdoor wireless," Neff says. "If your proximity is close to a fixed-wireless outdoor point, you may be able to get it in your house.

"And, so we see that there's a great opportunity to be able to go either out onto your front porch and log on into a wireless environment outdoors, or through a device, if you want to bring it into your home, to all rooms in your home.

"That may be one of the fee-services that would allow us to sustain the system."

Neff says the task force is looking at a couple options in terms of fees.

"The mayor is committed to providing some level of free access whether that's in public outdoor areas or as a low cost to everyone," Neff says. "There has been a committee that's been formed - the Wireless Philadelphia Executive Committee - they're looking at fees, roles and responsibilities in the investment and the sustainability of the system."

Neff says the committee will deliver a report to Mayor Street by December. After that, bids will be sought and Neff says she'd like to see several neighborhoods up and running a few months later.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia.

ENFORCEMENT: LETS MAKE A DEAL - FCC STYLE

The FCC has accepted an offer from an Iowa ham to turn in his Amateur Radio license in order to avoid having to pay a $12,000 fine. It did so in a September 7th Memorandum, Opinion and Order that partially granted a June 6, 2003 Petition for Reconsideration filed by Scott E. Kamm, N0UGN, of Sioux City.

Back on May 7, 2003 the FCC issued a $12,000 Forfeiture Order to Kamm for what the agency said were willful violations of several sections of its Amateur Service Part 97 rules. The Commission said that the offenses involved intentional interference to communications on 146.31 MHz, the transmission of music on an amateur station, and failure to identify an amateur station by call sign.

The FCC says that in support of his Petition for Reconsideration that Kamm offered to immediately withdraw his pending application for renewal of his license. He also offered to refrain from applying for any other license for a period of five years.

The FCC says that it agrees to this offer. As such it concludes that cancellation of the $12,000 forfeiture was warranted. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: $10000 PAGING FINE AFFIRMED

The FCC has affirmed a $10,000 monetary forfeiture to Jeffrey Amedro of Morgantown, West Virginia. Amedro does business as Cell Page and the FCC says he has racked up a number of violations. Cathy Anno, KB0FDU, reports:

The FCC says that it issued the fine for what it calls willful and repeated violation of Section 301 of the Communications Act by Amedro's company Cell Page. This, by operating radio transmitting equipment on the frequency 157.740 MHz without FCC authorization to do so.

On September 5th, 2003 the District Director of the Commission's Columbia, Maryland Office issued a monetary forfeiture in the amount of $10,000 to Cell Page. Cell Page did not contest the violation. Rather in its October 16, 2003 response, the company requested a reduction or cancellation of the proposed forfeiture.

Presumably, intending to claim its inability to pay Cell Page stated that it had been in contact with a certified public accountant to complete its tax returns. Once completed, Cell Page states that it would forward three years of tax returns to the Enforcement Bureau by approximately October 31, 2003.

The FCC says that as of its decision to affirm the fine, neither Amedro nor Cell Page has submitted the company tax returns. Without the appropriate financial documentation, the FCC says that it can not consider Cell Page's claim of inability to pay. So it is now denying the request by Cell Page for reduction or cancellation of the fine.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Cathy Anno, KB0FDU.

--

The fine against Cell Page was affirmed on September 7th. Amedro was given the usual 30 days to pay or to file an appeal. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: CLEANING UP INTERFERENCE

The FCC has written to Andrews Cleaners in Andrews, Texas. This to tell proprietor Andrew White that he regulatory agency has received complaints that equipment at the business may be causing harmful radio interference to a local ham radio operator.

In its letter, the FCC tells White that the agency has the responsibility to require that such problems be rectified within a reasonable time if the interference is caused by faulty consumer equipment. It also suggests that he might want to contact the ARRL for guidance about radio interference that involves Amateur Radio operators. (FCC)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: SIGNALS BOUNCED OF THE GENESIS RE-ENTRY

A group of ham radio operators have successfully bounced signals off the ionized trail of the Genesis space probe. This, as it re-entered the Earth's atmosphere on September 8th.

According to Robert Brown, KR7O, several stations trying to be heard off the probes fiery trail were monitored at his QTH from 1552 to 1600 UTC. This is part of what Robert heard:

Backscatter audio

Robert says that all signals heard were on 144.200 MHz in the 2 Meter band. Among them were KC6ZWT and WA6KLK who were using voice. There were also others trying to make the path using CW. K7RO adds that KC6ZWT reported hearing Robert's signal over the same backscatter ionized path. All of the stations involved in this test were located in California. (K7RO)

DX

In D-X, BB2RS reports that a group of Japanese amateurs are operating from Sri Lanka as 4S7DUG from September 18th to the 23rd. Activity is on 160 to 6 meters with an emphasis on the lower bands. They plan to have four stations active simultaneously. (GB2RS)

And F4DZY is active from Corsica stroke TK through the 22nd of September. Look for him on the High Frequency bands using SSB and QSL as directed on the air. (GB2RS)

THAT FINAL ITEM: HAM RADIO, HURRICANE FRANCES AND THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

And finally this week, the story of hurricane Frances, some ham radio operators who helped to keep a local commercial station on the air after the storm and two who met with President Bush on his recent tour. Joseph Lenartiene, KD4BTD has the rest of the story:

Pres Bush: "I want to thank the Emergency Operations Centers all across the state of Florida, the first responders, Police and Firefighters, the people working long hours here, I want to thank the Red Cross"

--

While President George Bush did not mention Amateur R radio Operators in his national Press Conference held on Wednesday, September the 8th, He did the next best thing while visiting Florida's Treasure Coast that day when he shook hands with Bruce Reid, K9SHT and Lee Kaufmann KG4BYG at the St. Lucie County Emergency Operations Center in Ft. Pierce Florida.

Kaufmann: "Well we had two special visitors today, we had The President and the Governor both came in. The one nice thing is that he greeted everyone here: He didn't just walk by. He came in, said hello and saw the ham station in the shelter here and even was aware of what we were doing."

Other than the President stopping by, thing were pretty normal at the EOC Ham Station according to Lee.

--

Lee: "I was running communications between the EOC and the shelters and today was a little bit calm but yesterday was busy sending messages. I think we had somewhere in the number of a hundred messages back and fourth between the shelters."

Not the most glamorous work but as expressed by St. Lucie County EC Ernie Marques, KF4IHX, very Satisfying.

KF4IHX: "We had a busy last 6 days. We've handled over 350 pieces of traffic during this emergency and we're very pleased because for a brief period of hours, ham radio was the only link between our shelters and we proved a point that Amateur Radio can get through when nobody else can."

--

While Frances stayed awhile to visit St. Lucie County, The Special Needs Shelter felt the wrath and when the need came to find a new QTH for the evacuees, (Sound of a Nextel) not Nextel but N9SRO answered the call.

--

N9SRO: "The Special Needs Shelter needed someplace to relocate because they had sustained some damage during the Hurricane. Nextel's were a no go after the storm but I was able to facilitate communications via the ham radio to get that move started."

--

Hurricane Frances officially made Landfall in a town called Sewall"s Point in Martin County Florida. The next County south St. Lucie. While Amateurs down there did much the same from their EOC, A few did more. Louie Delonoy, K4LOU, Helped put Martin Counties Radio Station, back on the air.

--

K4LOU: "Martin County had been telling people all day Friday on their Billboard to tune to WSTU for the latest news. Now there comes Monday Morning and they're off. I called Ben, N4BG and he tells me chances are they took a major hit. I come up, he takes me around to the back, and here's their tower on top of the dish with the two STL feeds

on them. You know, sitting on the roof. So I go up there and inspect it moved everything around and Boom, they're on the air."

--

And Port St. Lucie Broadcasters Vice President Greg Wyatt couldn't be happier.

--

Wyatt: "We now have the Louie, Ben, and Jerry show here at WPSL, WJNX, and WSTU. Between the three of em, they managed to get two radio stations on the air in 5 hours and now the third one today. I tell you, its mind boggling."

Although it was far from over for Florida thanks to Hurricane Ivan, Amateur radio on Florida's Treasure Coast has returned to what it was before the storm. The major lesson learned here was the need for relief after the storm. And that's what Treasure Coast Hams are ready to do for those affected by Ivan.

For Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Joe Lenartiene, KD4BTD, in Ft.
Pierce
Florida.

--

Joseph Lenartiene, KD4BTD, is with WQCS FM in Ft. Pearce, Florida.

573. Dish diameter for space comm. ?

Hi,

Dummy question about parabolic antenna

The diameter of a dish suited to capture space comm in S or K-band depends on what parameters ?
Or say in another way, why use a large dish of a few meters of diameter instead of a small one like TV (1m) ?

Is this depending on the frequency (S, K band...), the beamwidth of the transmitter, the expected gain, all three, not of them (I doubt), or additional parameters have to be taken into account ?

Is tere a formula to calculate the optimal gain vs. some input parameters ?

Thanks in advance

Thierry

THE BPL FIGHT: SHORTWAVE VS. DIGITAL SHORTWAVE

Amateur Radio has another friend in its fight to stop the world-wide rollout of Broadband over Powerline technology. This, as a European short-wave broadcaster say that B-P-L and digital radio will have a lot of trouble co-existing. Fred Vobbe, W8HDU, is here with an update on digital radio and an explanation of why the two do not mix.

--

Jacob Freedman, N2MPN, found an interesting story on BBC News Online and thought he would share this news with A.R. Newsline listeners. In the link to the story, titled "Fears for new digital radio system" written by By Chris McWhinnie of BBC Monitoring in Amsterdam, the warning came from Peter Senger, the chair of the Digital Radio Mondiale (DRM) at the International Broadcasting Convention in Amsterdam.

DRM is a standard agreed by world broadcasters for a completely new short wave radio system. The new internet power line distribution system has been evaluated by engineers, including the BBC, and has been found to affect short wave in particular.

Short wave is mainly used to broadcast internationally and the AM bands have been used since radio first started in the 1920s. The DRM system uses existing AM broadcast frequencies to deliver near-FM quality digital sound. It uses compression to squeeze clear digital sound into the narrow radio channels that currently carry crackly analogue signals.

The DRM technology has the potential to make digital radio available in places that Digital Audio Broadcasting (DAB) radio or even FM will probably never reach. As for the hardware required to hear these stations, there will be a new consumer DRM radio in the shops by Christmas 2005 and a tiny PC-only DRM set is already on sale.

DRM is not being used by many radio stations yet. However a number of radio stations have seen the potential for new cross-border radio stations.

A Germany-based music station is believed to be in the planning stages. BBC World Service and its counterparts abroad already have some regular DRM programmes and are backing the system.

DRM is being seriously considered in many countries where the FM radio band is full. China sees DRM as the answer to pushing digital radio across its vast territory.

The UK is not planning to use DRM for domestic radio. The UK has pinned its digital hopes instead on DAB, which offers stations like BBC 1Xtra, 6 Music, Oneword and Core. More digital radios have been sold in the UK than any other country.

Switching-off analogue FM and AM may take years and making millions of much-loved analogue radio sets useless will no doubt be controversial. If power line internet transmission is introduced, then international broadcasting on shortwave may also be consigned to history due to the interference from data travelling over mains electricity cables.

For Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Fred Vobbe, W8HDU

As we go to air, the proponents of Broadband Over Powerline have not yet challenged the Digital Radio Mondiale findings. (W8HDU, N2MPN)

PRESERVING THE BANDS: LEAGUE KICKS OFF 2005 SPECTRUM DEFENSE CAMPAIGN

Meantime, the ARRL has kicked off its 2005 Spectrum Defense Fund campaign and its slogan id that this is a lot more than just BPL. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, has more:

ARRL President Jim Haynie, W5JBP, appears to be the point man in this important effort to preserve our operating bandspace. He says that while interference from broadband over power line technology is the most prominent and immediate threat to amateur spectrum, donations from ARRL members and supporters make it possible for the League to face it and other spectrum challenges as well.

According to the ARRL Letter, in 1985, the League spent perhaps $200,000 on advocacy and spectrum defense. Today the annual outlay is close to $900,000.

Haynie says that he is aware that this work is something that hams cannot see, touch or feel, but it's just as important as those things that they can. This is because we would not have all those other things if it were not for the fact that we have a place to operate.

Haynie notes that not all of the ARRL's advocacy efforts necessarily involve taking defensive measures, such as with BPL, but all of them are essential. The popular ARRL leader says that, as he sees it, the League's job is to look out for the best interests of all of Amateur Radio. This includes making sure that we have places in the ether to go on the air.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, in Los Angeles.

--

The ARRL says that the Spectrum Defense Fund depends on membership support and is essential to the League's continued success in this AREA. Contributions can be made on-line at the ARRL's secure donor Website. You will find it at https://www.arrl.org/forms/fdefense/fdefense.htm Those contributing at or above the $50 level may request a gift as a token of the League's appreciation. (ARRL)

BIG DX NEWS: NCDXF MAKES $100,000 GRANT TO UPCOMING OPERATIONS

Some big news in the world of DX. This as the Northern California DX Foundation announces some big money sponsorship grants for the 2005 D-Xpedition season.

The awards were announced at the recent W9DXCC DX Convention in Illinois. The recipients are the upcoming Kerguelen Islands FT stroke X and the Peter One 3YZ0X operations. These are two of the rarest and most wanted locations on every hams most wanted list.

Northern California DX Foundation president Len Geraldi, K6ANP, says that that these awards are substantially higher than normal amounts provided to aid major D-Xpeditions. Together they exceed $100,000, and represent the largest made in the foundations history.

Geraldi noted that these exceptional grants made in light of the rarity of operations from these locations and the significant individual contributions being made by the participants. He also noted the very high cost of mounting D-Xpeditions to such remote locations.

The Northern California DX Foundation not only funds DX operations. In cooperation with the IARU, the organization also maintains a worldwide network of high-frequency radio propagation beacons that help amateurs estimate the current condition of the ionosphere.

The Northern California DX Foundation was founded in 1972 to assist worthwhile amateur radio and scientific projects with equipment and funding. More about the group is on-line at www.ncdxf.org and we will have more D-X news later on in this weeks newscast. (N4GN)

RESCUE RADIO: HURRICANE IVAN IS BACK AND JEANNE ON THE WAY

A reincarnated tropical storm Ivan has made landfall a 2nd time. This, near the Texas-Louisiana line on Thursday evening, September 23rd. The one-time hurricane was expected to dump up to ten inches of rain over the coming weekend.

The 22-day-old former hurricane broke apart after hitting the U-S, but a piece spun back out to sea and reformed as a separate tropical storm. It them made its way back into the Gulf of Mexico before again making landfall.

Forecasters say Galveston, Houston and College Station Texas will be under a flood alert. C-Q Magazine's Bob Josuweit, WA3PZO quoting sources at the ARRL says the Texas Office of Emergency Management has requested activation of the Amateur Radio Emergency Service Net. The net will switch between 7.285 and 3.873 MHz depending on propagation and time of day for as long as its needed.

Meantime, along the Eastern seaboard, ham radio operators are preparing for the arrival of Hurricane Jeanne. This as the killer storm appears to be zeroing in on the southeast U.S. coast, with forecasts putting Florida firmly in the storm's sights with landfall possible on September 24th or 25th. The Hurricane Watch Net on 14.325 MHz announced plans to begin operations Friday, September 24, 2004 at 10:00 a.m. Eastern and continue till until 11:00 p.m. or until the 20 meter band closes .

As we go to air news reports say that Jeanne is responsible for at least 1,100 deaths in Haiti. 1,250 are still missing and the toll continues to rise. More ham radio storm coverage next week. (WA3PZO, CQ, ARRL, ARNewsline(tm), others)

RESCUE RADIO: HURRICANE IVAN IN NJ

Hurricane Ivan left its mark all along the Eastern U-S before it finally disappeared from that area. From the Carolina's through New England, there were daily news stories about Ivan spawning tornadoes and severe flooding. One area hit by the remnants of the storm was the state of New Jersey which is the home on Amateur Radio Newsline's Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ.

Mercer County, New Jersey, ARES and RACES was activated at about 5 PM on Saturday, September 18th. This, to staff the radio room at the Mercer County Emergency Operations Center.

Heavy rainfall caused by Hurricane Ivan remnants in the Catskill and Pocono Mountains Friday night was forecast to cause the Delaware River to reach flood stage in Trenton at 6 AM Sunday and to crest at record levels Sunday night.

The original crest forecast was for 8 feet above flood stage which is 18 feet above normal river level. That was later reduced to 3 feet but was still the highest level on the Delaware River since the catastrophic floods of 1954.

In Mercer County, Amateur Radio Operators staffed the E-O-C radio room continuously in four hour shifts until Monday morning. The radio room is licensed as W2MER and has H-F, 2 meter, 220, 440 and APRS ham gear permanently installed. It also has capability on all public safety and Red Cross frequencies used in the county. Extra radio amateurs were on call over the W2ZQ Mercer County ARES and RACES 146.67 Mhz. repeater. This, if additional communications was needed at shelters and other locations.

Hams used the New Jersey Office of Emergency Management's statewide NJ2EM 220 MHz repeater and the statewide 2 meter APRS digital messaging network to maintain links with the Hunterdon County and Warren County EOC's further up the river. Per the Mercer County EOC protocol, the hams also were the operators of the public safety radios in the EOC to maintain contact with the sheriff officers coordinating the evacuations along the river.

Amateurs participating as EOC Radio Officers included N2GJ, N0YMV, K2GW, W2SRH, W2QOB, N2JV-P, and WA2KM.

For he Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ, in New Jersey.

--

Gary Wilson, K2GW, is the Section Emergency Coordinator for Southern New Jersey Section. He says some 1500 people including 180 residents of a nursing home were evacuated to near-by shelters and hotels on Sunday the 19th. (K2GW)

RESCUE RADIO: XM SATELLITE RADIO TO ISSUE EMERGENCY ALERTS

There will soon be yet another source of emergency alert information, and you might say that this one is out of this world. Well kind of. Norm Seeley. KI7UP, has the details:

X-M Satellite Radio says that its getting into the emergency alert business. This by making available the X-M Emergency Alert channel to its more than 2.1 million subscribers, nationwide.

According to a September 10th press release the satellite radio provider will dedicate its Channel 247 to what it calls X-M Emergency Alert. The service will be dedicated to providing updated critical information before, during and after natural disasters, weather emergencies and other hazardous incidents to listeners across the country. The channel will also provide key survival information such as evacuation routes, shelter locations and updated weather emergency information for impacted areas.

Information sources of the broadcasts will include the Federal Emergency Management Agency, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, the National Weather Service, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services and the American Red Cross. Also included will be local police and fire departments and eyewitness reports making the service about as all encompassing and up to the minute as it can get.

X-M hopes to have this new service fully operational fairly soon. (XM)

ENFORCEMENT: FCC QUESTIONS 40 METER MORSE PRACTICE OPERATION

The FCC has some questions for a Missouri ham who claims to be running Morse Code Practice on 40 meters. And in a September 2nd letter to Paul D. Westcott, KC0OAB, the regulatory agency also sets some pretty tough ground rules for him to carry on. Amateur Radio Newsline's David Black reports from our South-East bureau in Birmingham Alabama:

The FCC contacted Paul D. Westcott, KC0OAB, on June 21st of this year. The Commission told Westcott it was receiving complaints about high speed one way Morse code transmissions from his station on the 40 meter band. The Commission says it has complaints alleging that the ongoing transmissions interfere with normal amateur communications.

Westcott replied July 11th, saying his transmissions are indeed code practice, and he indicated that they are computer controlled. But the Commission now says Westcott's code transmissions are sent at an unvarying speed of about 30 words a minute. That they are sent continually, 24 hours a day, on 7.030 MHz. The Commission says the constant speeds casts doubt on Westcott's claimed motive for sending the code transmissions.

The Commission reminds Westcott about amateur radio service rules requiring that a station be under the direction of a control operator during all transmissions. That means a control operator must be on duty at all the times Westcott's station is transmitting...and that he's responsible for preventing harmful interference to other stations.

The Commission tells Westcott to provide the dates, times and frequencies of all code practice sessions. And the FCC says that information is to be furnished by Westcott by either telephone or FAX at least one week in advance of any given transmission.

The Commission also wants Westcott to submit the name, address and telephone number of the control operator for all operation of KC0OAB when sending code practice. The FCC says the telephone number Westcott provides must be one at which the Commission can reach the control operator during the transmissions.

Finally, the Commission warns Westcott that enforcement action against him is coming if there are valid complaints that his transmissions continue to interfere with ongoing communications.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm David Black, KB4KCH, at the South-East bureau in Birmingham Alabama.

Westcott was given twenty days from the date of the FCC's letter to respond with the required information. (FCC)

INTRUDER WATCH REDUX: STRANGE SIGNALS AT 7.238 MHZ DISAPPEARS

And that strange unidentified signal that Bob Gonsett W6VR reported to us on two weeks ago. The one being heard by hams in Western states on 7 point 238 Mhz? Well guess what. It has disappeared as mysteriously as it showed up and nobody is very sure of exactly what it was.

According to several Newsline listeners and our own monitoring, the last time the raspy buzz saw was heard it was late on Wednesday September 15th. By the 16th it was gone without a trace and has yet to pay the 40 meter phone band -- or any other ham band for that matter -- a return visit. (ARNewsline(tm) from listener reports)

THE SOCIAL SCENE: SWL'S MEET IN CALIFORNIA IN OCTOBER

Turning to the social scene. the 2004 Radio Fest gathering of SWL's is slated for Saturday, October 16th. This, in the Community Room of the F&M Bank in Seal Beach, California.

Radio Fest is sponsored by the Southern California Area DX'ers group. Doors open at 9:30 Pacific Coast time. This years speaker list include Radio School's Gordon West, WB6N0A, plus representatives from the broadcast and short-wave sectors of the listening hobby.

Interested? Well, for more information please contact Stewart MacKenzie by e-mail to wdx6aa@earthlink.net or phone 714-846-1685 during normal business hours on the U-S west coast. (SCADS)

WITH THE HANDIHAMS: 2005 CALIFORNIA RADIO CAMP ANNOUNCED

And the Handihams have announced that the 2005 California Radio Camp will be the week of February 27th through Sunday, March 6th. If you are a member with a disability and want to attend, please contact Handiham headquarters for a camp application package. You may either call the office toll-free at 1-866-426-3442, or e-mail hamradio@courage.org. (HandiHams)

RADIO EDUCATION: ARRL TEACHERS INSTITUTE

And a quick note on the highly successful ARRL sponsored first Education and Technology Program Teachers Institute held the second week of August. During the week long program Mark Spencer involved the teachers in hands-on activities for integrating wireless technology, Amateur Radio, Amateur Radio on the International Space Station and other space-related activities into their math and science classroom curriculum. And word is that at the end of the week the teachers had enjoyed themselves so much that some said they weren't ready to go home. (ARRL, ANS)

ALL POINTS BULLETIN UPDATE: $25000 REWARD OFFERED TO CATCH TOWER ARSONIST

An update to our story three weeks ago about a fire bug who seems to hate radio. A $25,000 reward is now being offered information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person setting fire to radio towers in the Clark County and Portland, Oregon during the past six weeks including a blaze that burned down a ham radio operators home.

The most recent fires, set close together occurred on September 9th in Portland. This, only 12 hours after a federally led task force asked for the public's help in finding the man they think might be a serial arsonist working alone.

John W. McMahon, a supervisor with the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives told the press that a task force was offering a top reward of $10,000 for information leading to the suspect's conviction. Comcast, whose service was interrupted by one of the fires, added $15,000 to the reward. This raises the bounty on the fire bugs head to $25,000.

The fifteen member task force investigating the incidents has concluded they were linked to 12 communications tower fires set since July 29th. The most recent fires will raise the estimated damage done by the arsonist to more than $250,000. The 11 previous fires had targeted communications towers or equipment and one private Amateur Radio tower.

As previously reported, the ham-radio tower fire, which was set August 20th. At that time it was the seventh incident and spread to an adjacent rental house, leaving it badly damaged. The resident, John Stein, AB7F, cut his hand trying to put out the blaze before firefighters arrived.

And a group of Public Safety organizations that is trying to help capture the serial arsonist has published a wanted poster complete with pictures. You can find it as a PDF file of it at www.sbe124.org (Portland SBE, others)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: KE5AIT COMPLETS CONTACTS WITH 7 CONTINENTS

Yet another ham radio record has been set . On Saturday September 11th, Mike Fincke, KE5AIT became the first crew member of the International Space Station to talk to all 7 continents using amateur radio. This, when he made contact with Palmer Research Station Amateur Radio station.

During the contact Fincke spoke with Chuck Kimball, N0NHJ, while a packed radio room at the center listened in. Fincke and Kimball compared life in the two stations, discussed time zone differences and the experiments involving fluids that Fincke was working with.

Fincke is believed to be only the third astronaut to accomplish this all continent feat. The last such occurrence was in 1992 aboard STS-45 when astronauts David Leetsma and Kathryn Sullivan also talked to Palmer Station to complete their continent contact list.

Fincke will be finishing his tour in the middle of October when Expedition 10 Astronaut Leroy Chiao, KE5BRW, and Cosmonaut Salizhan Sharipov will come aboard. (Courtesy of Kenneth Ransom, JSC)

NAMES IN THE NEWS: G3YJO NAMED VISIONARY AND INNOVATOR

And word that Space News International on the Space dot com website has honored a UK ham. This as it names Professor Martin Sweeting, G3YJO, as one of the top space visionaries and innovators.

In a recent article the news service said that Sweeting turned Surrey Satellite into the world's microsatellite builder. Also that under his guidance this British company has trained a new generation of spacecraft builders throughout the world helping countries like Turkey, Thailand, Korea and Chile enter the space age. HAM RADIO NEAR SPACE: AMATEUR RADIO HIGH-ALTITUDE BALLOONS

Attention East Coast hams. The first SimSat engineering test balloon flights are targeted for launch on Wednesday, September 22, in the Maryland and Virginia area. These two experimental exercises are designated SimSat-1A and SimSat-1B. This is a good opportunity to show a local students how to receive the balloon's simple telemetry beacon. (ANS)

WORLDBEAT - CANADA: NEW CALLSIGN OROPOSAL

The Canadian national ham radio society Radio Amateurs of Canada has submitted a proposal on Amateur Radio Call Signs to Jan Skora. He is Industry Canada's Director Genera for the Radiocommunications and Broadcasting Regulatory Branch.

The Proposal, as approved by the Radio Amateurs of Canada Board of Directors, makes recommendations on changes to Call Sign Policy and Special Event Prefixes. This, all comes as the result of the WRC-2003 decisions amending the ITU International Radio Regulations to permit call signs in the Amateur Service to have up to four characters in the suffix. In D-X word that HA0HW and HA4DX are active as J45HW and J45DX respectively. This, from the isle of Rhodes through the 3rd of October. Activity will be on 40 through 10 meters using CW, SSB, RTTY and PSK31. QSL as directed on the air. (GB2RS)

And TA3J will activate the special callsign TC2K4J. This, from September 24th to November 2nd in memory of 40 Turkish Radio Amateur Silent Keys. Activity is on 160 to 2 meters using all modes. (GB2RS)

THAT FINAL ITEM: PART OF THE BEEB ON THE BLOCK

And finally this week it look as if a piece of radio history may be up for grabs. This with word that part of the world renowned B-B-C World Service is for sale.

The United Kingdom's publicly funded British Broadcasting Corporation has reportedly approached Germany's Bertelsmann Corporation along with U-S media giants Time Warner and the Walt Disney Company as potential bidders for BBC Worldwide. BBC executives expect the division, which includes BBC America, BBC Prime channels and 26 magazine titles could be worth up to 3.5 billion dollars of needed revenue.

The U.K. government is currently reviewing the BBC's funding and license. One report said that the broadcasters internal review of its options appears to be timed to coincide with the government's evaluation as well. (W8HDU, Bob Ulm, WDOH-FM)

Wavelength, desired gain, desired beamwidth.

Because the small one may be too small to be effective at some frequencies.

Because the small one captures less energy (less gain), and may not capture enough signal to be receivable.

Because the small one has too wide of a beamwidth, and also captures signals from other sources, making it difficult or impossible to separate out the desired signal.

The transmitter beamwidth doesn't matter much.

No. Optimal depends on the application.

Thanks Alan. I suspected well the influence of these factors.
But is there a way to calculate the diameter of the dish as a function of the expected gain maybe, working QRG ?
or are there some simple rules, and which ones, to apply knowing such or such parameter ?
Application : simply listen to weak space signals, maybe earth satellites between 0.5-3 GHz. with a winradio card.

There are some calculations for effective area and gain in connection of aperture and aperture efficiency.
One important aspect is to know about style specifications.
Don't forget to think about path attenuation in different areas and frequency.

Ralf

I'd have to do some serious math review to catch the numbers again;
however, there are two ways to answer your question:

1) the sharpness of your dish's major lobe, depends upon its diameter in wavelengths. The sharper the lobe (assuming it's not too sharp to find your signal unless excessive effort) then the less noise comes in with the signal. So the less signal you can get by with, if your electronics are sufficiently low-noise.

2) But (and this is a big but), the watts of signal you get, well, watts preceded by a decimal point and several to many zeros) is approximately your dish size in square meters times the signal intensity in watts per square meter. Followed by loss numbers for your antenna, transmission line, and other factors. At high frequencies this loss can be surprisingly large.

So the best answer anyone can give to your question is, it depends.
But probably, the larger your dish, the better. Cheapness in dish construction and mounting is not an economy. It can help a lot to have some idea how expectably strong your incoming signal is, vs your incoming noise, i.e., the Milky Way can be pretty noisy.

Hello,

To celebrate the 4th birthday of my site, I propose you a riddle : who am I ?
Four years ago was born a multidisciplinary French-speaking educational web site which dared to approach very original topics like the theory of relativity, quantum physics or the philosophy of sciences. In complement the autor being impassioned for astronomy, meteorologist, photographer and computist, he reserved a large part of his site to astrophysics, bioastronomy and amateur astrophotography, and did recently a digression to meteorology and ecology.
Eclectic in his opinions, prolific and verbose, wanting to touch even more readers, he opened new English pages devoted to amateur astronomy (astronomical optics, image processing, technical comments, software review), radioastronomy and amateur radio, as many activities that he practices with assiduity. But where does he find all this time wondered readers ?...
Today this site acquired its maturity and does propose you not less than 1200 educational pages, more than 7000 images and hundreds of animations and audio files. It even includes a translation module. It becames a reference as testify his guest book. Childs 12 years old connect to it as well as professors at university. One connects to it from all over the world, and to be accurate from 155 different countries. 40% of readers are English-speaking whose 12% come from the USA (6% from Can., 3% from the U.K., 1% from VK) ! To wonder what magnetism comes out from this site !...
But you will judge by yourself. Have you recognized it ?

Indeed, it's LUXORION, already 4 years ; -)

RESCUE RADIO: HAM RADIO MEETS HURRICANE JEANNE

Making landfall near Stuart, Florida, early on Sunday, September 26th, Hurricane Jeanne blew across that state with 120 mph wind and drenching rain. News reports say that the storm hurled debris into the air, tore rooftops off buildings and sent monster waves onto the shoreline. And as Jeanne's wrath played out on television screens across the nation, it was the calm voices of ham radio operators of the Voice Over I-P Hurricane Watch Net that signaled it was about to arrive:

--

"At 11 PM, the center of Hurricane Jeanne was located near Latitude 27.2 North and Longitude 80 West, or about 15 miles East of Stuart Florida. Jeanne is moving slightly North of West near 13 Miles Per Hour."

--

Hams also relayed a stark warning from the National Hurricane Center. One that said -- stay out of Jeanne's way:

--

"...with maximum sustained winds of 115 MPH with higher gusts, Hurricane Jeanne is a is a dangerous Catagory 3 hurricane on the Saffer-Simpson Hurricane Scale."

--
Over two million residents had been urged to evacuate. State officials said more than 42,500 stayed at shelters. Many of these were staffed by ham radio operators associated with A-R-E-S and RACES groups.

As Jeanne made her way across Florida, many residents were without telephone service and more than a million people lost power. But ham radio operators using all kinds of emergency power sources were on the air. In fact they were the ones who relayed word of some of the major outages:

"KA4EPS in Deerfield Beach passing on some information you might be interested in. Have some numbers passed along by the local utility company. Dade County has 2900 without power. Broward County 71,000 and Palm Beach County 487,000 without power."

"QSL Lou, Thanks."

The Category 3 storm became the fourth hurricane to pummel Florida in a single season. The three other hurricanes - Charley, Frances and Ivan - have all hit within the last six weeks. And hams like Paul Goodell, KG4GOQ, in the town of Lake Worth might not have sounded that great through all of the radio links, but he did get the word out:

--

"Estimated winds in excess of 100 miles per hour. Trees bent and laying over."

--

Then for a while there was a period of calm. This as the eye of the storm came ashore. It gave first responders a chance to assess the damage done so far:

--

"KG4YQK at the Port St. Lucie E-O-C W4SLC. We are in the eye of the storm presently. We had sustained winds of well over 110 miles an hour. We received substantial damage here locally. Trees down. Powerlines down. Flooding as well."

hurricanes. As it did, even public service communications took a hit:
--

"Net control is listening. Go ahead Paul:

"I just heard second han that the communications tower for Riviera Beach has collapsed. Probably not something for the national hurricane Center, but just as a note to anyone else out there listening to hear how bad these winds are going."

By late morning, Jeanne had weakened to a Category 1 storm with 75-mph top sustained winds, but its 400-mile diameter covered most of the central part of the state including Tampa and Orlando. As Jeanne proceeded to fall apart while heading North-East over Georgia and the Carolina's she dumped torrential rain and spawned close to a dozen twisters. THE BPL FIGHT: PERTH INTERFERENCE NOT BPL RELATED

A widespread interference problem in Perth, Australia, that sounds like B-P-L has to be something else. This, after the city's Power Authority tells Dennis Muldownie, VK6KAD, that it is not using Broadband Over Powerline technology to monitor its electrical network.

There is now some supposition that noise that wiping out free to air TV channels 2, 7, 9 and 10 may be coming from some home network gear which uses the power mains to connect the various pieces in a home Local Area Network. But the noise is so widespread that it has to be more than one installation causing the problem. This, by radiating back out over the local Perth power grid. (WIA News)

THE BPL FIGHT: FCC TO RELEASE R&O ON BPL ROLLOUT

Meanwhile, back at home the ARRL says that an initial Report and Order on the rollout of B-P-L could be on its way out of the FCC this month. Amateur Radio Newsline's Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, has been following the story and has more:

--

The ARRL says that an initial Report and Order on the rollout of B-P-L could be on its way out of the FCC this month. Amateur Radio Newsline's Mark Abramowicz, NT3V has been following the story and has more…

As predicted almost on cue, the Federal Communications Commission appears ready to render its decision on Broadband Over Powerline Internet access.

And despite thousands of comments on the subject, many of them raising concerns about the interference potential of the technology, the ARRL says it has learned the panel is ready to act.

As one high-ranking ARRL official has told Amateur Radio Newsline, it's not a question of whether there will be BPL. There will. The question is in what form will it be rolled out and how effective will the safeguards be to protect other services.

In its recent bulletin, the ARRL advised it had learned the FCC's Office of Engineering and Technology would have its draft order on BPL ready for the commission's Oct. 14 meeting.

The ARRL has mounted a vigorous information campaign to raise awareness about the threat BPL poses. And, it has also tried to lobby at various levels to change some minds about the benefits the BPL industry says the technology will bring.

But it appears, based on the ARRL's BPL bulletin, that the organization is pessimistic about what will be coming out of the FCC's technology arm.

In fact, the ARRL's Chief Executive Officer David Sumner, K1ZZ, in a letter sent as a follow-up to a recent meeting with FCC commissioner Jonathan Adelstein sums up what the League is expecting.

"…the ARRL has no confidence that the draft report and order will be based on sound engineering and believes the rush to adoption is unwarranted and premature. " That excerpt of Sumner's letter from the ARRL's Bulletin.

In interviews with Amateur Radio Newsline, ARRL President Jim Haynie W5JBP says there was little doubt in his mind the issue would be decided BEFORE the presidential election. Haynie contends the issue is being driven by business interests who have the ear of the president and his technology advisors.

Haynie has told Amateur Radio Newsline of his concerns about the FCC's apparent lack of interest in following up on the many pending BPL complaints - filed as a result of system tests. He has told us he fears when the commission finally acts, it may bow to BPL interests that are seeking to weaken the impact of any interference complaints.

So the question many amateurs may be asking themselves as we await the FCC's order is where will this leave me? Is it time to put my radios up on Ebay and turn my focus to my computer and EchoLink?

The answer: Not so fast!

The National Telecommunications and Information Administration still has a card or two to play. Its technical people have raised interference issues and are continuing studies and plan to release more results in the next several months.

Will the FCC wait for the NTIA? Will the FCC table BPL? Not likely to both. Is there room for an appeal of any FCC BPL decision? If so, it would likely wind up tied up in the federal courts.

With the planned rollout out of Wireless Internet access here in Philadelphia and other cities across the nation, do the economics dictate a utility recovering its investment in BPL technology at a pace investors are willing to wait?

The questions are many and the debate is likely to continue for the next several days.

From our perspective, it seems unlikely the FCC decision - if it goes against amateur radio interests - will stand without a challenge. Too much time and talent has been invested in preparing the data showing what BPL can do to the amateur frequencies and our ability to operate.

We'll stay on top of it for you. And, once the FCC order arrives, we'll have the first reaction and what it will mean to you.

Stay tuned!

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia.

THE BPL FIGHT: BPL COMES TO CENTRAL VIRGINIA

Still with news on the B-P-L front, Charles Rivelle, K3FT, has some news about one electric company's future. He says over QRZ.com that the Central Virginia Electric Cooperative has completed testing of its B-P-L system in Nelson County and the company is now serving customers on 40 miles of operational lines.

The K3FT posting provides a link to a two-page advertisement that has been sent to thousands of customers throughout central Virginia. The ad alerts them to look forward to B-P-L service in the area noting that line crews are now installing the equipment needed to deliver Broadband over Powerline services. Up to 4000 homes and businesses will be eligible to participate in the first phase of this program. Central Virginia Electric Cooperative says its "always on" 256 kilobaud per second broadband connection is priced at a very competitive $29.95 a month.

THE INTERNET: US FALLING BEHIND IN BROADBAND ROLLOUT

Meantime, the FCC insists that the United States is making progress in rolling out high-speed Internet service. This, despite facts showing that the nation is falling further behind other countries.

A new Federal Communications Commission report found that U.S. high-speed Internet lines had tripled to 28.2 million by the end of 2003 from June 2001, but the country at best was 10th place in international rankings down from fourth, lagging nations like Canada and South Korea.

FCC Commissioner Michael Copps criticized his own agency over the disappointing news. He says that the agency had failed to establish a coherent policy for broadband, sacrificing the nation's rank. Copps also noted that service was as cheap as $10 a month in Japan for 8 megabits a second versus $30-$50 for 1-3 megabits in the United States. (Published news reports)

CHANGING OF THE GUARD: STAN BURGHARDT, W0IT - S.K.

The changing of the guard in ham radio continues with word of the passing of two well known radio amateurs. The ARRL Letter reports that Stan Burghardt, W0IT of Watertown, South Dakota, died on August 22nd at age 93. Burghardt was the founder of Burghardt Radio Supply Inc. which is now known as the Burghardt Amateur Center. He was first licensed in 1931 as W9BJV and became W0BJV in 1946. Burghardt remained active on the air -- especially on 6 meters -- until his death. (ARRL)

CHANGING OF THE GUARD: ROGER BAKER, G4IDE - S.K.

And ham radio software writer Roger Barker, G4IDE, has passed away. Baker died on September 9th following a long bout with cancer. Baker was the author of UI View, PSK31SRV and a host of other digital mode software and was recently named as the first recipient of the 'Lifetime Achievement Award' by the Tucson Amateur Packet Radio for his services to digital communications.

Baker's packet radio program Winpack is currently in use by tens of thousands of radio amateurs around the world, while his UI View program is now considered to be the benchmark by which all other APRS Raster Mapping software is compared. (KB7TBT, G3ZHI, others)

ENFORCEMENT: KEEP OFF 10 METERS

The FCC has written to five trucking and transport companies warning them to keep their drivers from operating radio gear on 10 meters.

The letters went to Con Way CWX Trucking of Long Beach, California; Dowell Express, Inc. of Lavonia, Georgia; K & K Cartage, Inc. in Sunbury, Pennsylvania; Teeberry Trucking LLC whose home base is Charlotte, North Carolina and United Van Lines of Fenton, Missouri. Divers for these companies were heard operating radio gear without licenses on 28.085, 28.115 and 28.215 MHz

Each letter carries a stern warning that continued operation could lead to confiscation of the radio gear as well as a prison term and a hefty fine and for the unlicensed radio operator. These monetary forfeitures normally range from $7,500 to $10,000. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: A DEAL A PIRATE COULD'T REFUSE

And there appears to be two ways to get someone to stop rebroacasting your radio station. You can complain to the FCC or you can take another and apparently much quicker route that one station has. Norm Seeley, KI7UP, explains the unique and effective approach:

An unlicensed broadcaster is off the air in San Diegio, California. This, after a licensed broadcaster in San Clemente kind of took matters into its own hands and made the pirate a deal he could not refuse. Legally speaking that is.

When KWVE was recently advised that its signal was being rebroadcast by apparently unauthorized translator station in Lakeside, California, the station dcided to act. Rather than wait for the FCC to investigate and politely ask the pirate to cease and desist, representatives of KWVE paid the party a visit. The station also threatened in writing to seek legal injunction if the unauthorized rebroadcasts continued.

And you can call this approach as being very effective. The translator fell silent in short order and has not been heard since.

While this system is seemingly a lot faster it also means having to hire a lawyer and pay his fee. (CGC)

RESCUE RADIO: FCC PARTICIPATES IN COUNCIL ON EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS AND INDIVIDUALS WITH DISABILITIES

The FCC has participated in the first meeting of the Interagency Coordinating Council on Emergency Preparedness and Individuals with Disabilities. This, at the Department of Homeland Security in Washington D.C..

The FCC was represented by K. Dane Snowden, the chief of the FCC's Consumer & Governmental Affairs Bureau. At the meeting, Snowden announced that the FCC has issued policies and will launch outreach efforts. This, to ensure that facilities that provide telecommunications relay services for persons with hearing and speech disabilities are designated priority for restoration of service in cases of emergency. Snowden also described a rulemaking by the FCC to improve the emergency alert system to make it more accessible for people with disabilities.

The Interagency Coordinating Council on Emergency Preparedness and Individuals with Disabilities was established by Executive Order on July 22nd. Its purpose is to address the safety and security needs of people with disabilities. (FCC)

HAM RADIO ON THE INTERNET: BIG DATABASE UPGRADE AT QRZ.COM

The QRZ.com website call sign system is running a lot faster these. This as the result of a major an upgrade to a new and more powerful server.

The new database engine is a Sun E280R. This is a 64-bit industrial strength machine with dual 900 MHz processors, 4 GB of RAM, and a pair of 36 gigabyte 10,000 R-P-M Fibre channel disk drives.

Fred Lloyd who runs QRZ.com says that these new disks are really impressive. Fred says that he has clocked them at speeds of up to 64 megabytes per second. That equates to an entire C D ROM's worth of data being moved internally in only 10 seconds.

Lloyd adds that this new server only handles the call sign database. The main QRZ.com web server remains a 450 MHz Sun E420R with 2 gigabytes of RAM. (QRZ.com)

RADIO HERITAGE: NAVY TO CLOSE SUB COMM CENTERS

The United States Navy says that it will dismantle two extremely low frequency radio transmission centers used to communicate with submerged submarines. The Navy says that the 400-million submarine-communications system, which has been in use since 1989, is outdated and no longer needed.

Two transmitter sites are involved. One is in northern Wisconsin and the other in Michigan. They will go out of service on September 30th but could take up to three years to disassemble and close down permanently.

Each system consists of a transmitter and an antenna strung on 600 12 meter high poles. The navy has used these extremely low frequency transmitters to maintain secure communications with submarines at sea but now will use 12 smaller transmitters, sited worldwide. (Pulished reports)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: ISS REPEATER ON AGAIN

The FM Repeater and BBS on board the International Space Station was again open for general ham radio contacts on September 27th and 28th. During that time voice contacts were available on by transmitting up to the I-S-S on 145.920 MHz with a 67 Hz CTCSS tone while listening for replies on 435.300 MHz. The Bulletin Board used an uplink of 145.860 F-M and a downlink at 435.150 MHz. This operation was followed by a PSK-31 Experimenters Wednesday Test on September 29th.

The system will be on periodically and ARISS will announce the dates and times in advance. Check with the I-S-S Fan Club web page at www.issfanclub.comto see what the latest status is.

Also, keep in mind that the radios on board the space station are not able to correct for Doppler as the frequencies are channelized. It is up to the ground station to do the Doppler correction. For 2 meters, the Doppler shift is about +3kHz at the beginning and goes to about -3kHz at the end. For 70 cm, the Doppler is about +10kHz at the beginning and goes to about -10kHz at the end.

The 70cm Doppler is roughly 3 times the 2m Doppler. Many of the tracking programs have the ability to calculate the frequency shift. (ARISS)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: MIKE FINCKE ON THE AIR

And as his time on board the I-S-S begins to wind down ham astronaut Mike Fincke, KE5AIT, has been on the air quite a bit. Not only to talk to school students in pre-scheduled contacts, but also to any ham who wants to chat a bit. One of those who had the opportunity to talk recently with the intrepid space traveler is Scott Avery, WA6LIE, in Salinas, California, who had had his recorder running:

--

Contact audio here. Hear it at www.arnewsline.org

--

Scott says that his QSO with KE5AIT space mobile took place at about O2:15 on September 28th. Needless to say that signals were 5 by 9 and full quieting both ways.

Fincke and Commander Gennady Padalka, RN3DT will be finishing their tour of duty on the ISS in the middle of October. They will be replaced by Expedition 10 Astronaut Leroy Chiao, KE5BRW, and Cosmonaut Salizhan Sharipov. WA6LIE's full contact with the I-S-S can be heard on line at www.qsl.net/wa6lie (WA6LIE)

DX

In D-X word that Crete will be coming on the air in October. This as SV9FBM and SV9FBZ become active as active as SY9Y in the CQ World Wide DX SSB Contest on the 30th and 31st as a Multi- Single entry. QSL to Stelios Aggelakis, P.O.Box 113, GR 72200 Ierapetra, Crete Island, Greece. (OPDX)

And EA1QF and EB1AA will be on the air from Cuba from October 12th to the 25th. The pair will be working on a "Radiosolidarity" project, but will also be operational on the H-F bands from several station locations as T42R. QSL to EA4URE at his callbook address. (GB2RS)

THAT FINAL ITEM: THE ARDF REPORT

What do Burrowing Owls and 80-meter transmitters have in common? They are both targets of hams who like to do radio direction finding. Newsline's Joe Moell K0OV tells us more:

There's lots happening in the world of radio direction finding this summer. More young Burrowing Owls are leaving their nests in western Florida, so hams in that state who aren't busy with hurricane communications are by their receivers, listening for the radio tag signals to see where these critters will go. If you can help, please join them -- I'll tell you how in a moment.

Also, a 21-member delegation of ARDF Team USA competitors, trainers, jurors, and family members went to the Czech Republic and the World Championships of radio foxhunting, September 7th through the 12th. These World ARDF Championships take place every two years. USA's 2004 team members were OMs and YLs ranging in age from 19 to 62. Among them was Jay Thompson W6JAY, Newsline's Young Ham of the Year for 2003 and recent winner of the ARRL Hiram Percy Maxim Award. Each competed once on 80 meters and once on two meters, looking for three, four or five transmitters, depending on age and gender category.

USA began attending the World Championships in 1998, but European and former Soviet countries have been holding ARDF events for over 30 years. So it's no surprise that they dominated in the final standings. Nine of these nations garnered all of the individual and team medals. The total medal count was led by Czech, Russia, and Ukraine with 34, 28 and 26 respectively.

USA, Australia, and Great Britain were among the 19 nations that won no medals. But we're getting better every year. Two Team USA members had top-ten individual finishes in their categories. Nadia Scharlau of Cary, NC took 6th place out of 22 on two meters. She might have won a medal on 80 meters, but the battery fell out of her receiver and she had to find the last fox transmitter with just the bearings that she already had on her map, losing about ten minutes. Bob Cooley KF6VSE, age 62, of Pleasanton, CA placed 9th out of 34 on his two-meter run.

All of our team members earned their spots by taking medals in the USA National Championships. This year's were in California in June, and a site is already being sought for the national championships in 2005, 2006 and beyond. As USA's ARDF Coordinator, I would like to hear from you if your club is interested in putting on the championships.

You can read all about the ARDF championships, Team USA, and volunteer wildlife tracking -- and find out how to get involved -- at the usual place, www.homingin.com. That's homingin, as one word, homingin.com.

From southern California, this is Joe Moell K-zero-Oscar-Victor, for Amateur Radio Newsline.

Again, that website Joe mentioned is www.homingin.com. And homingin is one word. (K0OV, ARNewsline(tm))

587. Re: Dish diameter for space comm. ?

From "Engineering Considerations for Microwave Communications Systems", published buy Lenkurt Electric (now out of print), p.90; the approximate gain of a parabolic dish antenna, assuming a 55% efficiency factor is G= 20log B + 20log F + 7.5 where B = dish diameter in feet, and F = frequency in GHz. Note that this formula deteriorates above about 11 GHz due to roughness factors in the face of the dish.

The half-power beamwidth (i degrees) of a parabolic dish antenna is approximately:
HPBW= 70/FB

I know what you mean. A few years back, there was a pass of Mir flying

Take note that there will be a crew exchange in the next few weeks and with the arrival and departure of those crews, depending on your location and the time of day and the host of other factors that must be considered, there will be the possibility I suppose of some of us seeing the two spacecraft fly in tandem. Expedition 10 will arrive at ISS on 15 October 2004 and depart on 23 October. Pat K4AVO

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1417 October 8, 2004

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1417 with a release date of Friday, October 8, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. A New Jersey radio club makes a big donation to the local community and hams in Great Britain may get more privileges on 40 meters. These stories and more on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1417 coming your way right now.

PUBLIC SERVICE: RADIO CLUB DONATES $400,000 TO NJ PARK

A radio club has donated $400,000 to Essex County, New Jersey. This, to pay for renovations already made to Irvington Park where the club has its headquarters. And there's more money on the way. Amateur Radio Newsline's Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ, has the rest of the story:

According to a story in the September 29th edition of the Newark Star Ledger, the $400,000 donated by the Irvington Amateur Radio Team came from the states Green Acres program. It will be used to pay part of the $1.1 million in renovations that included new tennis courts, basketball courts, benches and a track.

The club, a nonprofit organization that volunteers as keepers of the park. It is expecting another $500,000 in Green Acres funds to pay for the second phase of the parks upgrade. Phase I of the $2 million overall was completed during early summer. Phase II, scheduled to begin next year, will include a second floor addition to the field house, where the radio club has its headquarters.

Phase I was completed during early summer. Phase II, scheduled to begin next year, will include a second- floor addition to the field house, where the radio club has its headquarters. The funds obtained by the club have been matched by Essex County.

Charles Freeman, N2JGC, is the clubs president. He says that the park renovations have boosted community pride.

Freeman: "Its all volunteerism. Its a bunch of wonderful people who dedicate their time and service to I-ART - the Irvington Amateur Radio Team, the Office of Emergency Management, CERT, and any way we can get involved in helping out our community."

--

Feeeman says that this has helped get some of the children off the street by getting them involved in computers and amateur radio.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ.

The club brought its headquarters to the park in 1998. Soon after, members became the primary caretakers of the facility. (Star-Ledger, ARNewsline(tm))

RESTRUCTURING: VICTORIA VK HAMS LOOSE LOWER HALF OF 70CM

The bottom half of the 70 centimeter band is no longer available for amateur radio in most of Australia's Victoria state. This, as the result of a new exclusion zone that has just become law. W-I-A reporter Jim Linton VK3PC explains:

--

The ACA has prohibited all amateur radio activity on the 420-430 MHz band within Victoria in an area of up to a 250 kilometre radius of the Melbourne General Post Office. That band will now be used for a new state-of-the-art digital radio system to replace the current analogue systems of the Victoria Police, Metropolitan Ambulance Service and Metropolitan Fire Brigade.

The exclusion zone has been anticipated and comes after other permanent Exclusion zones were imposed for similar purposes around Perth and Sydney, including the Australian Capital Territory. The band 420-430 MHz has been used for amateur fixed links and amateur television. The WIA has assisted with the timely closure and migration of those links in Victoria in liaison with the Bureau of Emergency Services Telecommunications and the ACA.

The new digital voice and data radio system now being installed for Emergency services will also provide common coordination channels to support multi-agency response to major incidents and events. The aim is to have it fully operational well in advance of the Melbourne Commonwealth Games in 2006. This has been

Jim Linton VK3PC for WIA National News.

Where else the A-C-A will impose these exclusion zones is not known as we go to air. (WIA News)

RESTRUCTURING: MORE 40 METERS FOR UK HAMS

Meantime there is much better news coming from the U-K. That's where Ofcom -- the Office of Communications -- says that it might change the rules and give that nations hams more access to 40 meters. Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, is in Nottingham with more:

Ofcom is proposing to vary the Foundation, Intermediate and Full amateur radio licenses to permit UK amateurs to operate in the band 7,100 to 7,200kHz.

The band would be allocated to the Amateur Service on a Secondary basis, and would be available on the basis of non-interference to other services, inside or outside the United Kingdom.

Ofcom announced a one-month consultation period beginning on 23rd September and all license-holders are invited to make representations to this proposal in writing or by e-mail.

Jeremy Boot, G4NJH

--

The cutoff date for U-K hams to comment on this proposed Notice of Variation to the nations Amateur Service rules is October 23rd. (GB2RS)

RESCUE RADIO: SATERN IN THE PUBLIC INTEREST

Ever hear of SATERN? Not the planet but a group of true helping hams that are always ready to serve the public need.

In our reports on the numerous hurricanes that hit the United States mainland the past few weeks we have often referred to several high frequency service nets. These include the Hurricane Watch Net, the Maritime Mobile Services Net and of coarse SATERN - the Salvation Army Team Emergency Network. You heard a lot of audio from the Hurricane Watch Net and the Maritime Mobile Services Net in our reports, but little of SATERN. That's because it was not really audible at our studio here on the U-S west coast. But we recently caught it being relayed on the Internet by K-A-4-E-P-S audio website and grabbed a few minutes of it in operation. Sometimes it takes nothing more than a referral to help out. Take a listen:

SATERN Net Audio. Hear it in the audio report at www.arnewsline.org.

--

Some of you may say that it sounds a little boring to just sit there hours on end, taking messages or directing people to a website. But that's an important part of the Salvation Army's job and the SATERN Net is one of its most important tools.

Major Pat McPherson, WW9E, explains it all on the SATERN website. He says that the Salvation Army Team Emergency Radio Network provides emergency communication support to the Salvation Army wherever needed. As a result, SATERN members have found themselves in tornadoes, floods, hurricanes, fires, aircraft accidents, bombings, earthquakes -- just to name the more expected types of emergencies.

In short, SATERN is not your ordinary radio club or net. Maybe not the most exciting to listen in on but it is ham radio in service to the public, at its very best. (ARNewsline(tm))

ENFORCEMENT: ENNIS COMMUNICATIONS IN $300,000 CONSENT DECREE

Turning to enforcement news, word that Emmis Communications has reached a $300,000 settlement with the Federal Communication Commission. This, after admitting that it broadcast indecent material on the airwaves.

Emmis owns 27 stations nationwide. The settlement comes in part from comments made by a nationally syndicated Chicago shock jock named Mancow Muller. Muller is an air personality at WKQX-FM and has been the source of every previous FCC fine issued to Emmis. To date that totals $42,000.

Besides the $300,000 payment, Indianapolis-based Emmis has also agreed to implement a company-wide plan intended to prevent future violations. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: ONE LAST CHANCE FOR K1MAN

The FCC appears to be giving Glenn Baxter, K1MAN, one final chance to strictly conform to the agency's Part 97 rules. This, before taking action against the Belgrade Lakes, Maine ham. The FCC's Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, explains:

Duckworth: "A warning letter went to Glenn Baxter, K1MAN, of Belgrade Lakes, Maine. Back in April of this year the Commission notified him of two areas of operation that would lead to enforcement action and / or designation for a hearing to determine his qualifications to remain a licensee. This is regarding deliberate interference to ongoing communications and using the station for pecuniary interest.

Copies of the warning notice were also went to the United States Attorney in the United States Department of Justice, District of Maine.

This is Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, reporting."

In the September 15th Warning Notice the FCC's Riley Hollingsworth tells Baxter that the Commission has received approximately a dozen complaints that K1MAN Amateur Radio transmissions started on top of ongoing communications of individual operators, as well as on top of ongoing communications of the Salvation Army Team Emergency Radio Net. Hollingsworth says that this is a net that has been handling health and welfare traffic for this season's hurricane victims.

As to the pecuniary interest allegation, the FCC says that this is because Baxter's website lists a bulletin service transmission schedule and items for sale on the same pages. The FCC says that this is in violation of Sections 97.113(a)(2)and (3) of its rules.

Hollingsworth ends the letter by saying that failure to correct the violations will subject Baxter to enforcement action against his station and operator licenses. Baxter was given twenty days from the date the warning notice was issued to resoind. (FCC, RAIN)

ENFORCEMENT: FINE "KIND OF" REDUCED FOR GOOD BEHAVIOR

And a follow-up to a story we reported some time ago about a few unauthorized transmitters coming on the air in California. This, in 2003 around the time of Super Bowl thirty-seven. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, is here with an update:

As listeners may recall, Global Radio, Inc. had requested that the FCC issue authority for it to operate on transmitters 89.1, 92.9, 93.7, 96.9, 104.1 and 106.9 Mhz. This, in conjunction with the Super Bowl thirty seven activities at Qualcomm Stadium in San Diego. T he FCC granted operation on 93.7 and 96.9 Mhz under the call sign WN3XFL, but it specifically denied Global's request to use 89.1, 92.9, 104.1 and 106.9 Mhz. This based on possible interference to existing stations in Mexico and the U.S. as outlined under bi-lateral agreements.

But on January 26, 2003, an agent from the San Diego FCC field office was listening to the FM band. He observed that WN3XFL was active and operating, without authorization, on 88.98, 104.1 and 106.9 Mhz. This, in addition to its permitted operations on 93.7 Mhz and 96.9 Mhz.

Global's willful violation of its operating authority initially resulted in a fine of $12,000. In its reply, the company claimed it could not pay that amount but the Commission didn't buy that argument. Global also argued that its otherwise unblemished compliance record should be taken into account.

Well, the FCC did just that. Well, kind of. Because of the unblemished record, the Commission reduced the fine by $1200. If you do the math, that's now a fine of $10,800 that Global has been told it has to pay.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, in Los Angeles.

THE HAM BUSINESS WORLD: A HEALTHY C3I

Turning to the ham radio industry, C3I says that it is not out of the ham radio business. In fact, following a short pause to reassess the current business climate, the concern is shipping out products and its business as usual according to company owner Owen Wormser, K3CB.

Wormser: "We are fully operational. We have built up a good stock of out standard antennas. We have taken special orders the last two weeks. So, we have been able to recover in about two to two and a half weeks time."

--

C3I is a unique company that manufactures printed circuit board modules, VHF, UHF and Super High Frequency, high-performance Yagi antennas and related accessories for the Amateur Radio and land mobile market. RALPH WRIGHT (MIKE RIVERS), W5JVI - S.K.

More sad news to report with word of the passing of Ralph Wendel Wright, W5VJI. Better known to his many fans as Mike Rivers, Wright dominated the airwaves at radio station CKLW from 1967 to 1970.

Wright suffered a cerebral bleed in May from which he never recovered. He passed away at his home in Antioch, Tennessee on Monday night September 13th.

In addition to being a top rated air personality W5JVI was also a gifted musician, jingle writer, a master at radio production and a very active ham radio operator. No public memorial service was planned. (W2JKD)

THE CHANGING OF THE GUARD: FRANK TUREK, DL7FT - S.K.

Also, noted D-Xpeditioner, Frank Turek, DL7FT, became a "Silent Key" on August 17th. Over the years Turek traveled to many rare locations to hand out new country contacts to many operators worldwide. He is survived by his wife Siegrid, DL7CN, who will be handling QSL duties and will continue to keep the DL7FT Post Office Box open. (OPDX)

NAMES IN THE NEWS: RAC LEADERS RESIGN FOR HEALTH ISSUE

Two key officers of Canada's national Amateur Radio Society have stepped down for health related reasons. According to an RAC bulletin issued on October 5th, President Daniel Lamoureux, VE2KA, and First Vice-president Bob Nash, VE3KZ have resigned after having been hospitalized with heart related problems.

The bulletin says that the Radio Amateurs of Canada Board of Directors will convene a special meeting as quickly as possible. This, to deal with the vacancies created by these resignations. No date for the meeting has yet been announced. (RAC)

RADIO HEALTH: KOREAN RESEARCHERS CLAIM CANCER CONNECTION TO HIGH POWER RADIO TRANSMISSIONS

Korean scientists sat that they have found that regions near some A-M radio broadcasting towers show 70 percent more leukemia deaths than those without. This, according to Wired News which reports that the study, to be published in an upcoming issue of the International Archives of Occupational and Environmental Health, also found that cancer deaths were 29 percent higher near such transmitters.

Two years ago an Italian investigation found death rates from leukemia increased dramatically for residents living within two miles of Vatican Radio's powerful array of transmitters in Rome. The Koreans looked at the death rates in 10 regions with AM radio transmitting towers broadcasting at more than 100 kilowatts and compared them with control areas without transmitters.

The substantially higher cancer mortality in those who lived within two kilometers of the towers led researchers to conclude that more investigation was needed. However, they also said their study did not prove a direct link between cancer and the transmitters. (Published news reports)

HAM RADIO NEAR SPACE: A NEW ALTITUDE RECORD BY SIMSAT 1B

Pat Kilroy, N8PK, reports a new altitude record of over 112,900 feet was set by the SimSat-1B mission when it flew last week. Pat says that while the VHF telemetry failed early in the flight there are numerous clues as to why and the group is piecing the puzzle to help improve for future operations.

The Simulated Satellite or SimSat project is an education and outreach activity being developed by N8PK at the NASA Goddard Space Flight Center. A SimSat spacecraft uses a small high-altitude weather balloon platform to fly experiments designed and built by students to near-space altitudes.

In this case, a tiny CricketSat transmitter on UHF was also on board as a last minute hitchhiker. Powered by a standard 9 Volt alkaline battery and producing under 20 milliwatts, it operated all the way through splashdown and saved the day for tracking the flight.

More information and the part ham radio plays is on line at www.patkilroy.com/simsat on the World Wide Web. (N8PK)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: MICROSAT ON DISPLAY

And some news from Dr. Perry Klein, W3PK, who says that The Smithsonian National Museum of American History has put a Microsat Mechanical Test Model on display in time for AMSAT's 35th Anniversary meetings. The satellite is suspended from the ceiling outside the NN3SI Smithsonian Amateur Radio Club station. That's located at "The Information Age" exhibit on the first floor at the West end of the American History Museum. (ANS)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: SOLDERING ON-ORBIT

Meantime, the ham astronauts on the International Space Station have been trying to solder in zero gravity, and the results are intriguing. The NASA website says that the solder, heated, became a molten blob with a droplet of rosin clinging tight to the outside. As the temperature increased, the droplet began to spin, round and round, faster and faster, like a miniature carnival ride. THAT FINAL ITEM: ITS JOTA TIME

And finally this week, its time for scouts around the land to get together and take to the ham bands in the annual Jamboree on the Air. Amateur Radio Newsline's Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, is also a parent involved in the scouting program and has this inside look at the big event:

It's one of the best operating events of the year.

Why?

Because it showcases the best of our hobby to thousands of young people across the country and around the world.

For me, and others, it also gives us as operators a chance to reach out in brotherhood and friendship to young people. We get to serve as a bridge with our radios to other children and teens who share similar interests in Scouting.

Charlie Beck, chairman of Venture Crew 59, sponsored by the Frankford Radio Club and based out of Kutztown, PA is excited about his group's plans.

He says they will be operating KC3BSA from the Hawk Mountain Scout Reservation in Summit Station in eastern Pennsylvania.

"We're going to set up a couple stations in our science and tech center," Beck says.

At this point, he says you'll find Crew 59 on the HF bands on phone, CW and PSK 31. He says there are also plans to set up a VHF station and an EchoLink position.

Becks says the best part of the weekend event is getting visitors to the operation involved.

"I know we have some Girl Scout units and Cub packs and Boy Scout troops that will be stopping by," Beck explains. "They'll all get a turn to get on the air and try to make a contact with another Scout in another part of the world."

Beck says some get mike-shy, but that quickly dissolves with the help of a Venture Crew member sitting beside them.

"They'll be giving their name, their rank and talk about their hobbies and tell them where they're calling from which would be Schuylkill County in eastern Pennsylvania," Beck says.

Beck says the special part about JOTA is its diversity.

"There are Girl Scouts and Girl Guides. There's the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts that are invited to join in the JOTA," Beck says. "There's also a patch that the Girl Scouts can earn just like the Boy Scouts can earn for making contacts."

And, he says, for those who are a little shy about grabbing the microphone, there's also a keyboard.

"It's interesting to find the quiet Scout or the quiet boy to come in and sit down and get behind PSK 31 and really get in there and spend an hour chatting with different people around the world," Beck says.

Beck says Scouts across the country and around the world will be camping out and working radios from field conditions. Others will be going to stations of operators who've invited them in to take part.

Operators play a big part in making it happen and whether you've been a Scout in your lifetime isn't a factor. It's simply sharing the joy of the Amateur Radio service we've all come to appreciate.

Hope to hear you on the air during JOTA weekend.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia.

601. Update: "Will amateur radio astronomers be the first to directly detect extrasolar planets?"

This news release reported on the creation of a "virtual telescope" to combine the radio signals from widely separated radio telescopes in real time over the internet:

Date Released: Friday, October 08, 2004
Source: Jodrell Bank Observatory

Something like this would be required to implement the method of detecting extrasolar planets from their radio emissions using very many widely separated dipole arrays, as discussed below. The report noted the data was transmitted over the high-speed internet networks that most universities world-wide are connected to.
The idea would be for thousands of universities world-wide to set-up dipole arrays with several thousand dipoles each. The dipoles are quite cheap consisting simply copper wire, so there is no problem of the cost of the arrays for each university, and any empty athletic field would do to hold the arrays.

The existence of extrasolar planets has been inferred from the wobbling seen in some stars. Their actual light still has not been detected or distinguished from that of their parent stars.
The long wavelength radio bursts that emanate from Jupiter have led to suggestions that extrasolar planets might be detected by searching for such bursts in the vicinity of stars:

Opening a New Window on the Universe:
High Resolution, Long Wavelength Radio Astronomy, 2.5.2 Extrasolar Planets,
by Joseph Lazio
http://rsd-www.nrl.navy.mil/7213/lazio/decade_web/node34.html

However, sensitive searches have so far failed to detect them. This is undoubtedly due to distance attenuation for such planets light-years away. The distance to Jupiter ranges up to 9 x 10^8 km. A star 10 light-years away is at 9 x 10^13 km, a factor of 10^5 larger than the Jupiter distance.
The Jovian radio bursts have been detected by amateurs with simple dipole antennas:

try instead NASA Radio JOVE Project Home Page, http://radiojove.gsfc.nasa.gov/

PROJECT P5-2. JUPITER-IO MAGNETOSPHERE RADIO NOISE

With its Radio JOVE project NASA also distributes low-cost dipole kits to schools:

How To Hear Radio Signals From Jupiter
http://www.spacetoday.org/SolSys/Jupiter/JupiterRadio.html

Radio JOVE
http://spacescience.com/headlines/y2000/ast22may_1.htm?list

The proposal is for amateur radio astronomers to set up arrays of such low cost dipole antennas world-wide. The T-shaped dipoles have the advantage of steerability, but the vertical dipoles have the advantage of simplicity and low cost for setting up large arrays. An example of a steerable dipole array is the one that first discovered the Jovian decametric emissions:

The Discovery of Jupiter's Radio Emissions
How a chance discovery opened up the field of Jovian radio studies http://radiojove.gsfc.nasa.gov/library/sci_briefs/discovery.html

The signals from the various arrays would be combined digitally to form a world-wide radio telescope. The large-wavelengths being detected simplify the task of combining the signals interferometrically. GPS transmitters are now available that can give locations to within inches:

NASA satellite technology goes down on the farm http://www.spaceflightnow.com/news/n0105/11farm/

The clocks in such transmitters also provide timing at better than nanosecond resolution.

The signal strength for Jupiter at 10 light-years would decrease as the square of the distance, so would be smaller by a factor of 10^10. However, the extrasolar Jovian planets detected so far have been close in to their primaries and are expected to produce stronger radio emissions than Jupiter, perhaps, 100 to 1000 times more intense. Using the optimistic estimate of 1000 times greater intensity would require 100,000 separate arrays with 100 dipoles or 10,000 arrays with 1,000 dipoles to detect such emissions.

602. ISS Crossband Help

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.space

Howdy from Bill K7MT,

I hear a lot of stations trying to get in to the crossband repeater on the ISS and due to doppler shift many are causing a lot of interference.

Suggestion : Download the satscape program

http://www.satscape.co.uk which is free for tracking the ISS. When your in the 2D display select ISS under graphical views, go to controls, then radio and rotor controls. Enable the DDE with a check then type in the uplink 437.800 and downlink 145.800. This will show you the doppler shift for both up and down links for the ISS. The uplink is critical and as you will see it can be from -10 kcs to + 10kcs. With handhelds or mobile fm radios you can only shift in 5 kcs steps so if you match up the uplink close to your step you will have a much better and clearer signal into the repeater.

Hope this will help some folks see how much doppler is involved and let them get into the crossband repeater on the ISS a lot better.

Cheers all.

Bill: I hope you posted this to the Amsat bbs also. It was a great and timely tip. I usually use Nova for tracking and looked again this weekend for the same type of support but my version doesn't have it. I used Satscape on the morning pass today just monitoring and followed the doppler as you suggested. I have made my one QSO via the ISS repeater and will let the others have at it. I am still looking for Nevada on any bird. 73, Pat K4AVO

Hi I am getting an ICOM IC-DELTA 100 mobile radio from Japan. I am looking for the frequency mod for this radio because it will arrive with a restricted 2M and 70CM band. I know there are diodes on the control board for various markets. Can anyone provide details of the options?

I plan to use it mobile for the FM satellites, but would like to open the rest of the US 2m allocation for repeater use..

Also interested in hearing reports about this model from others.

Thanks in advance!

FYI,

Jodrell Bank tested a VLBI using the Internet : the Global Internet Telescope.
Working at 1.6 Ghz, in spite of the weakness of signals (10^18 times weaker than a common cellular phone) using a VLBI between Europe and Porto-Rico (8200 km) they reached a resolution of 20 mas (milliarcsec), 5x better than HST.
Pr Garnett from JIVE is interested in the project.

George,

The FT-847 tracking function has nothing to do with Doppler shift. It works, somewhat, with linear transponders. You find yourself, and then lock the TX and RX frequencies. Then when you change say the RX frequency, the TX frequency shifts the correct direction. If the Doppler shift is constant, this works fine. However, the Doppler shift is always changing, and since it is proportional to the frequency, the tracking function will rapidly fall out of step. There are some freeware or relatively inexpensive programs on the AMSAT-NA web site which will do this tuning exactly.

I checked, they have the Delta 1 which is a portable (similar) but not the mobile. The diode matrix is unique to the mobile.

On the FM birds adjusting uplink to compensate for doppler generally isn't needed.

On the ssb birds normally the higher band is adjusted for doppler whether it's uplink or downlink. You'll find different ops do it different though.

AUDIO AVAILABLE OF FCC DECISION TO PROCEED WITH BPL

The FCC has acted to approve the implementation of Brodband Over Powerline technology (BPL) for widspread Internet access in the United States. We were able to get in and record part of the October 14th proceeding which is now posted as a downloadable MP3 file at our website: www.arnewsline.org/quincy under the title of "EXTRA".

The speakers you will hear inorder of their appearance are FCC Commissioners Michael Copps, Kevin Martin, Jonathan Adelstein and FCC Chairman Michael Powell. The presentation concludes with the actual vote to proceed with the implementation of BPL

Nope, tracking is only needed for the linear transponders. As other posters have suggested, a rule of thumb is that in practice only the 70cm side of mode B (U/V) or mode J (V/U) needs adjustment for Doppler.

Good luck!

Note that these "virtual telescopes" have been created for something like 60 years, or if one restricts attention to global telescopes, for 40 years. What's new (and impressive) about the work reported in the above press release is the real-time aspect.

Since I wrote some of what is described below, allow me to comment. :)

RC> 10^8 km. A star 10 light-years away is at 9 x 10^13 km, a factor RC> of 10^5 larger than the Jupiter distance.

That's the real problem. A real-time network of globally distributed telescopes sounds neat, but it may be a bit of overkill for this idea. What is needed is sheer collecting area, i.e., lots and lots of dipoles. Resolution (which is what one obtains from a global telescope) is nice, but for a project like this, a telescope about 100 km across would be more than enough. The objective is not to resolve or separate (in an angular) sense the planet and the star. The objective is to have enough collecting area or sensitivity so that one can have a reasonable hope of detecting these planetary emissions, given their large distances from us.

Indeed, there are some existing searches underway using both the VLA and the GMRT. Neither of these telescopes is more than about 30 km across. The real problem is that their collecting areas may not be sufficient. The proposed Long Wavelength Array (LWA) might be able to detect extrasolar planetary emissions, but it will have (we hope!) something like 13,000 dipoles (and even that may be a bit lower than one would like). If one wanted a rough number, I'd say 15,000 to 20,000 dipoles would be a good number.

The democratic FCC seat members are trying to kill BPL which is being pushed to benefit the energy companies. Read the Oct 14th meeting notes

Just a reminder that Clinton put this guy in a FCC seat in the first place. Unfortunately, it really does not matter, he needs yanked. He is a poor steward over a natural resource.

There is no money to be made here. ISP's have been dying due to distribution and relay costs not last mile problems. The whole thing flies in the face of reality.

The best we can now hope for is to wait around listening to interference on the HF bands till each business venture goes bankrupt.

Sigh...

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1418 October 15, 2004

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1418 with a release date of Friday, October 15, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T.

The FCC acts on B-P-L amd the IEEE readies a standard for Broadband Over Powerline hardware. Find out the impact on ham radio on on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1418 coming your way right now.

THE BPL FIGHT: THE FCC RELEASES ITS BPL REPORT AND ORDER

The FCC has acted to make Broadband Over Powerline a part of the telecommunications landscape. Amateur Radio Newsline's Paul Courson, WA3VJB, in Washington and Mark Abramovich, NT3V, in Philadelphia take an in depth look at the FCC decision and its impact on Amateur Radio:

FCC Michael Powell: "Would all members in favor of the item signify by saying aye? All those opposed? The item is adopted, thank you very much (sound of gavel banging down)"

(WA3VJB report) Although several took note of interference concerns, none of the Commissioners voted against the proposal, and only one Commissioner voted any dissent at all. His issue was thet utility companies might improperly try to raise your light bill to help pay for BPL. The measure passed, and BPL can now be built and marketed to real customers nationwide.

The system thet's been in the prototype stage for a while now uses the power lines as a way to transmit and receive telemetry with computers such as those used in the home. In sending that data over the wiring in a house or on the poles outside, small amounts of signal radiate and can cause interference to users of the same frequencies BPL uses on the power grid.

The ham radio community, led by the research of ARRL laboratory manager Ed Hare W1RFI, documented the potential for electrical noise during this prototype and testing phase. The League submitted what many consider alarming findings to the FCC as a protest and challenge to the BPL proposal on ham radio's behalf.

FCC Commissioner Michael Copp addressed that point before he voted to approve:

--

FCC Commissioner Michael Copp: "I remain concerned with the question of interference to amateur radio users. I take the concerns of this community very seriously, and I believe the FCC has an obligation to work hard to monitor, investigate and take quick action to resolve harmful interference. "

--

When Copp voted approval, his dissent focused only on whether there were safeguards to keep utilities from using electricity revenue to help pay for BPL.

The proposal from FCC technical staff calls for interference mitigation procedures, including an online public database to help identify by zip code where BPL might be a source of interference, The database also will name a contact person at the company running the system in that zip code, to negotiate and resolve complaints.

Commissioner Copp said he hopes the processs will be quick:

FCC Commissioner Michael Copp: "If an amateur radio user makes a complaint, and an agreement between the BPL provider and the amateur radio user cannot be reached, the FCC should step in and resolve the matter. These cases must not take years to resolve. I hope we'll have some really effective rapid-turnaround procedures here in place..."

--

FCC Chairman Michael Powell has been an early flag-waver for BPL, and spent time leading up to the vote praising its potential as a competitive force against existing high-speed data distribution systems. The noise made by those concerned about BPL noise must have reached the top desk, because Powell took time to acknowledge BPL's potential negative impact, although he never said the word interference in his remarks:

--

FCC Chairman Michael Powell: There are users of spectrum that are affected by this. We've taken that seriously from the very beginning. I want to particularly say to all those wonderful amateur radio operators out there. They're still an important resource to the American communications landscape. They're ones that we continue to care about, continue to want to foster and prosper. And we have taken great care to ensure that the protections in this item are necessary to allow that service to continue. We will continue to be vigilant about it, and put the tools in place for that.

But then Powell returned to his celebration that BPL would soon provide another way to bring high-speed data to the masses, citing advantages for homeland security, the reliability of the nation's power grid, and the U.S place in the world.

--

FCC Chairman Michael Powell: "Let me underscore that the potential for America, and the American economy is too great too enormous, too potentially groundbreaking to sit idly by and allow any claim, or any possible speculative fear keep us from continuing to drive this technology drive America into the broadband future."

For reaction to the FCC's approval of Broadband over Power Lines, we turn to Mark Abramowicz, NT3V:

--

(NT3V report) For the American Radio Relay League, the FCC's decision in the BPL proceeding wasn't a surprise.

The ARRL's leader says now, more than ever, amateur radio operators will have to be vigilant about any BPL interference that appears and be prepared to act with a complaint that could go all the way to the FCC.

ARRL president Jim Haynie W5JBP says there were some encouraging comments from commission members about the value of the Amateur Radio service. And, for the first time, an admission from the panel that BPL technology is far from perfect.

Jim Haynie, W5JBP: "You go back a year, a year and a half ago, there was all this talk about: What interference? There is no interference," Haynie recalled. "And fully half of the meeting was how to deal with the interference issue.

"So the commission now has finally realized that what we've been saying all along does exist and I'm sure the N-T-I-A had a lot to do with that, too."

Haynie says among the restrictions the FCC placed on the BPL providers is establishing a database of utility and system operators who will be accountable for neighborhood interference complaints.

He says it appears that provision may have come out of the ARRL's direct lobbying of commissioners.

Jim Haynie, W5JBP: "We've actually had personal meetings with a number of the commissioners," Haynie says. "And Commissioner (Michael) Copps is one of them. Kevin Martin was another. Ms. (Kathleen) Adelstein was another one.

"And these were all held in the past couple of months so it's fresh on their mind. They know where we're coming from. That's what the league has been doing on a direct basis rather than just file a written petition or comments, which we did."

Haynie also credited the direct lobbying efforts aimed at members of Congress - many of whom look favorably on the Amateur Radio service.

--

Jim Haynie, W2JBP: "They've made their feelings known to the commission and while they support inexpensive broadband for America, you know, on the other hand they understand the infrastructure that's involved with Amateur Radio and public safety," Haynie says.

--

Finally, while Haynie says he'll reserve additional comment until reading the full FCC document, he feels some sense of relief at what finally emerged.

--

Jim Haynie, W5JBP: "I know there's some detractors out there that for whatever reason think the league probably lost and sold them down the river. And that's not the case at all," Haynie says. "When we look at what happened at the commission meeting and actually read the details of the report and order, I think what the league has been doing for the last couple of three years will be quite evident.

"So I think we did a good job. Did we get what we want, no - not entirely. But we also knew going in that you can't just say: 'I don't want BPL at all.' It's going to be done in some form or fashion, now the only question is how much?"

Over at CQ Magazine, Editor Rich Moseson, W2VU, is feverishly studying what the FCC has done and what impact it will have on Amateur Radio.

He tells me the FCC's press release on the subject seems to contradict the commissioners' assurances that interference mitigation should be done in a timely fashion.

Moseson notes that in the same sentence such resolution of interference problems would be done without disruptions of service to BPL subscribers.

Rich Moseson, W2VU: "So, in other words, the users of this non-licensed service have priority over licensed users," Moseson says. "This is what we were afraid of to begin with."

--

Moseson says he's also concerned about the closing comments of FCC Chairman Michael Powell that were not included in the public statement released on the commission's website.

--

Rich Moseson, W2VU: "He starts out practically pandering to hams and then turns around and tells us not to stand in the way of progress," Moseson says.

--

While sounding pessimistic, Moseson says we'll have to wait and see what's in the actual FCC report and order.

With my colleague, Paul Courson in Washington, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia.

--

By the way, you'll find the audio comments made by some of the commissioners as a Web Extra feature. You can find them by pointing the browser on your computer to our website, www-dot-arnewsline-dot org. (ARNewsline (tm))

THE BPL FIGHT: IEEE READIES BPL STANDARD

The Institute of Electrical and Electronics and Engineers -- thats the IEEE -- it has begun to develop standard 1675 for Broadband Over Powerline hardware.

According to immformation at the organizations website, the scope of this standard will be to provide Utilities and Manufacturers standards for the commonly used hardware for BPL installations. Also to provide standard installation, maintenance and operation methods to ensure the safety of both Utility and Non-utility personnel working on BPL equipment.

This project will not cover data transmission, protocols, or other aspects of BPL related to the internal workings of this technology. More information is on-line at http://grouper.ieee.org/groups/bop/ (IEEE)

THE BPL FIGHT: HAMS AND CB'ERS UNITE - DOWN UNDER

Still with Broadband Over Powerline issues, word that ACREM, the Australian Citizens Radio Emergency Monitors, have joined the fight against B-P-L. WIA Newsman Martin Howells, VK2UMJ, reports:

Following reports that the ACA may be considering the removal of interference protection for some HF radio users, ACREM New South Wales forwarded an official written protest to the ACA, the Minister for Communications, the Shadow Minister for Communications, and the leaders of both major political parties.

This was followed up with a further submission lodged by e-mail outlining the Japanese report that showed interference from BPL as high as 300 MHz. Although ACREM is primarily a CB emergency monitoring group, the interests of all radiocommunications users, including amateur operators, is also a concern especially given the potential safety-of-life issues of widespread interference to HF and VHF frequencies. ACREM New South Wales will continue to play an active role in the BPL fight, alongside the WIA and other groups.

This has been Martin Howells, VK2UMJ, for WIA National News.

Asn B-P-L looms in more and more places, users of many radio services are banding together to fight it. The joint efforts of hams and CB'ers in Australia is just one example of what's happening, worldwide. (WIA News)

ENFORCEMENT: $10,000 FINE AGAINST JACK GERRITSEN, Ex-KG6IRO, AFFIRMED

The FCC has affirmed its earlier tentative fine of $10,000 against unlicensed Los Angeles area radio operator Jack Gerritsen, the former KG6IRO. This for operating radio transmitting gear after the agency set aside his license.

As previously reported, on June 15th of this year the Commission's Los Angeles Field Office issued a Notice of Apparent Liability for Forfeiture to Gerritsen in the amount of ten thousand dollars. This, for Gerritsen's apparent, willfull and repeated violating of Section 301 of the Communications Act by operating a radio station in the Amateur Radio Service without authorization from the Commission to do so.

Gerritsen sent in a response to the notice on July 13th. In his filing Gerritsen claimed that he has a valid amateur license that permits him to operate on all of the radio frequencies detailed in the Notice of Apparent Liability and that that the FCC's earlier action to set aside of his amateur license and KG6IRO call sign was unfounded. He also claimed the set aside did not prohibit him from transmitting on the amateur radio bands given his claim that his amateur license was valid. Also, that any possible suspension of his license is also pending a hearing before an Administrative Law Judge and that it makes the Notice of Apparent Liability moot until any suspension occurs.

Well that might be Gerritsens interpertation of the FCC's decision but its not shared by the agency. In affirming its decision to require him to pay the ten thousand dollar fine the FCC says that Gerritsen has no license. Just a pending application. Therefore there is no license for the Commission to suspend that the correspondence sent to Gerritsen from the FCC informed him that his amateur license had been set aside. As such the FCC did not grant him an Amateur license nor any authorization to use the amateur frequencies.

In closing, it found that Gerritsen is fully liable for a monetary forfeiture of in the amount of ten thousand dollars. It gave him 30 days fropm the October 5th release of its decision to pay. If he fails to do this in thr alloted or the FCC says it may be referred to the Department of Justice for collection. The full story is on line at http://hraunfoss.fcc.gov/edocs_public/attachmatch/DA-04-3183A1.doc (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: TO MANY CALL SIGN CHANGES

The FCC wants to know why a California couple has been requesting and then cancelling call signs. The agency's Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, explains:

Duckworth: "NN6AA, Edward Beluso, of Redding, California, has been asked to provide information on about a dozen licenses that have been granted and canceled since June of 1999. These filings raise questions as to whether these are being filed in order to block future assignments of the call signs and the legitimacy of those that were issued for clubs.
At the same address, WA6JAN, Janet Beluso, has also been asked to supply information regarding five call signs."
This is Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, reporting."

--

The FCC gave the Beluso's the usual amount of time to respond.

RESCUE RADIO: KKOB TOWER HIT BY HOT AOR BALLOON

KKOB-AM radio in Albuquerque, New Mexico, had to shut down its 50,000-watt transmitter for several hours on Sunday, October 10th. This, after a hot air balloon got tangeled at the top of the stations 700 foot high broadcast tower. Amateur Radio Newsline's Norm Seeley, KI7UP, has more:

--

According to news reports, Bill Chapel was flying the hot-air balloon when it blew into the tower near a park where the Albuquerque International Balloon Fiesta was being held. The lines supporting the airships canopy got wrapped around the triangular shaped tower.
This left the gondola resting up against the antenna structure with the straps securing it to the balloon tangled in the antenna structure.

Chapel, and passengers Aaron Whitacre, 10, and Troy Wells, 14, successfully got out of the gondola and onto the tower. They then began the long climb down the antenna structures ladder.

At the 100 foot level they were met by a group of trained rescue worker. The rescue team secured the trip with safety gear, and helped them into a utility truck bucket for the last of the trip back to mother Earth. Tower maintenance crews then got to work removing the remainder of the balloon from the antenna structure.

Nobody was hurt in the incident and the station resumed normal operation once the remnants of the balloon were removed.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, Norm Seeley, KI7UP, in Scottsdale, Arizona.

The Federal Aviation Administration and National Transportation Safety Board are reportedly investigating the incident. The Albuquerque International Balloon Fiesta has been flying since 1972. (Published news reports)

RESCUE RADIO: WAYS TO WARN

Scott Marks, KI4GGU, says via the WIA News that Israel has developed an emergency public notification system called Silent Radio. This is a regular FM station that remains silent until some kind of emergency situation takes place. Once it receives an alert, it takes to the air to issue any required information to the Israeli public which already knows where to tune in. Kind of the the old Emergency Broadcast System we had here in the U-S-A before the 1990's upgrade to E-A-S that is supposed to warn a lot more people but is also requires special decoding equipment and is very complex. (WIA News)

RESCUE RADIO: WAY NOT TO WARN

Meantime, over in the U-K, Bob Sayers, G8IYK says the Emergency Planning community in the that nation has tried to have something like the Israeli alert system established for many years. Unfortunately, they always get the same response from government officials ewho say that it would be prohibitively expensive.

In fact not so long ago the nation-wide warning siren network, set up in World War 2 but retained and improved upon throughout the Cold War period, was scrapped. The reason was the same. No money to maintain it. (WIA News)

RADIO HEALTH REDUX: IS THERE A CANCER CONNECTION TO HIGH POWER RADIO TRANSMISSIONS

A follow up to last weeks story on the risks associated to R-F exposure from living near a high power broadcast station. Bob Gonsett, W6VR, points a report in his C-G-C Communicator that discused the same subject. Amateur Radio Newslie's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, reports:

Two years ago an Italian study found death rates from leukemia increased dramatically for residents living within two miles of Vatican Radio's powerful array of transmitters in Rome. Now, as reported last week, Wired Magazine says that Korean researchers have looked at the death rates in 10 regions with AM radio transmitting towers broadcasting at more than 100 kilowatts. They compared them with control areas without transmitters, and claim to have found substantially higher cancer mortality rates among those who lived within two kilometers of the high power transmitters.

But says the CGC Communicator, the problem with the Vatican study is that it was relatively small in the size and lacked exposure data. Also, the new Korean study has not even been published. As a result, this is all speculative and based on some rather sketchy pre release information.

Clouding the picture is the statement of Epidemiologist Mary McBride of the British Columbia Cancer Agency also reported in Wired magazine. It quotes Mc Bride as saying that there have been many studies like these, and they just are not very convincing.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, in Los Angeles.

The bottom line to all this. Its going to take more than just scientific speculation to know foe certain if there is any affect at all from living close a a high power broadcast transmitter. (CGC)

RADIO ON THE NET: NEW 2 METER SIMPLEX REMAILER

Interested in 2 meter simplex operation? Well you might want to join a new remailer and discussion group in cyberspace. Located on the popular Yahoogroups hosting service the sponsores describe the new remailer as one for everyone who is a ham and who has a two meter rig of some sort laying around and a lot of time not being used much of the time.

Through the group you should be able to set up contact attempt schedules with other members. If your looking for a way to put that 2 meter fm rig of yours to good use go to http://groups.yahoo.com/group/2fmsimplex and sign up. (Repeater Reflector)

NAMES IN THE NEWS: AMSAT ELECTIONS RESULTS ANNOUNCED

Some new names and some old will be running AMSAT North America the next year. This, with word that Rick Hambly, W2GPS, has been elected President of the Amateur Radio space authority at the organizations October 7th Board of Directors meeting.

Hambly replaces Robin Haighton, VE3FRH, who has headed up AMSAT North Ameriuca the last seveal years. Also elected or re-elected are are Lee McLamb, KU4OS as Executive Vice President, Mike Kingery, KE4AZN as Vice President Operations, Stan Wood, WA4FNY taking the task of Vice President of Engineering, Barry Baines, WD4ASW as Vice President Marketing and User Services, and Frank Bauer, KA3HDO as Vice President Human Sapceflight. Gunther Meise, W8GSM, will be taking the Treasurers spot for the coming year as well.

Also at the meeting status reviews were presented of several undertakings. These including ongoing projects such as the Echo satellite and the launch of future hamsats including Eagle. The Board also had continuing discussions on regulatory matters, most importantly the impact of FCC Report and Order 04-130 which deals with the subject of Orbital Debris. (ANS)

RADIO IN SPACE: MESABA THE IRANIAN SATELLITE

SpaceDaily reports that Iran intends to launch its first satellite in April 2005. The bird named Mesbah is said to be a tewenty in square cube weighing in at 132 pounds.

Plans are to put it int a Low Earth Orbit at about about 560 miles. The satellite will be used to identify natural resources, control the nations electrical and energy network and can also be used by communications and crisis management teams the press reports said. (ANS)

WORLDBEAT: SA HAMS DID NOT LOOSE 2.4 OR 5.6 GHZ

South African Amateurs have not lost access to either the 2.4 and 5.6 GHz band. Its just a government typo. At least thats what South Africa Radio League president, Graham Hartlett, ZS6GJH, is saying ane he should know. Thats because he set out to investigate why both pieces of spectrum were not listed to that nations ham radio community.

Now Harlett says that he has in hand a communication from the nations radio regulatory body. It tells him that the 3.4 and 5.6 GHz allocations for amateurs had been accidentally omitted from the last publication of the band plan in the Government Gazette. Harlett was assured that this will be rectified in the next band plan

publication. (WIA News)

SPECIAL EVENTS: KØAIR/KØGRL TO CELEBRATE VETERANS DAY

To recognize Veterans Day and the birthday of the legandary General Curtis E. LeMay, the Strategic Air Command Memorial Amateur Radio Club will be operating K0AIR and K0GRL on Thursday, November 11th. The stations will be on the ait 1200 to 2400 hours UTC in the general phone bands on or near to the following frequencies ending in 47. Thhis 3.947, 7.247, 14.247, 21.347, and 28.347 Mhz depending on propagation and time of day. Six and two meters will also be activated 51.47 and 146.46 Mhz. For QSL information please visit www.sacmarc.org on the World-Wide-Web.

DX

In D-X, word that a group of seven German operators is active from the Chesterfield Islands for eight days beginning about the 16th of October depending on weather conditions in the area. The Chesterfield Islands are located between Australia and New Caledonia. Once on the air, activity will be on 160 to 6 metres using CW, SSB and RTTY. The callsign will not be announced before operations start. QSL as directed on the air. (OPDX)

And YT1CS is active portable 5Z4 from Kenya until 18th of November. He orks only SSB on 20 and 15 metres. Previously he was signing the rather convoluted call of 5Z4YT1CS until the Kenyan licensing authority re-inserted the 'stroke' mark in the callsign. (RSGB)

Lastly, seven operators from Germany and Poland are active as TJ3SP and TJ3FR through October 20th. They have four stations on all bands and modes, except 160 and 6 meters. These two bands are not licensed for use in Cameroon. (OPDX)

THAT FINAL ITEM: THE HISTORY OF JOTA

And finally this week, its the time of year for Jota -- the scouts annual ham radio Jamboree on the Air. Last week we told you about the event as it is today. Now we take a look back in time to the beginning of the Jamboree with John Williams, VK2BUI.

Jamboree On The Air is the largest annual international event in the Guides and Scouts event calendar, when thousands of Girl Guides and Scouts from all over the world gather for a weekend to contact each other by radio, share ideas, participate in many activities, make friends and learn new skills.

Like a lot of successful ventures, JOTA had a small beginning, and whilst Scouting utilised radio in its program in some areas for a number of years, it was not accepted as an official part of the Scout program until the 1957 Jubilee Jamboree at Sutton Park Coldfield, near Birmingham in the United Kingdom.

It was here that a very successful amateur radio station was set up, but amongst the sixty plus operators present, only two were in uniform, one of whom Mr Les Mitchell G3BHK.

As this was the only activity at the Jamboree not conducted with a full Scouting Staff he was rather disappointed, feeling that in the true spirit of such a wonderful international Scout activity all Scouters should have been involved in the manning and operation of this station.

His concern led him to call a meeting of overseas Scout radio Amateurs present at the Jamboree and during one of their meetings they decided to keep in touch with each other on air and ensure their availability, if possible, as station operators at future World Jamborees.

Initially one day a year was proposed, but thinking this over later Their nominated Organiser Les Mitchell suggested they consider inviting amateur radio operators throughout the world to join them instead in a special weekend each year for a Jamboree on the Air at which, hopefully, Scouts and leaders would be able to talk to each other throughout the world

THE BPL FIGHT: AUSTRALIAN HAM DEVELOPS ON-LINE BPL IMPACT EVALUATION TOOL

A new tool to help hams evaluate the impact of Broadband over Powerline has just been made available on the Internet by an Australian radio amateur. Its based on the work of a European consortium that's trying to set a world standard for B-P-L radiation limits. Owen Duffy, VK1OD, is the ham who made it happen:

--

Current BPL technology works by conduction of signals in the radio frequency spectrum up to about 100 MHz. Existing power lines networks are not ideal RF transmission networks, they will radiate radio frequency energy causing interference to radio communications services, and they will be susceptible to interference from nearby transmitters -- radio or otherwise.

The European Committee for Electrotechnical Standardization, CENELEC, are developing a standard for "Electromagnetic emissions from access powerline communications networks". Access powerline communications networks are commonly termed Broadband over Power Lines or B-P-L.

The proposed CENELEC standard does not automatically apply globally, though countries like Australia draw heavily on international standards, such as CENELEC's for their own jurisdiction.

This proposed standard would set limits for the conducted energy and radiated energy of B-P-L systems. The radiation limit is specified for example as a field strength in dBuA/m in a measurement bandwidth at a specified distance on particular frequency, and its impact will not be immediately apparent to most radio users.

Do you know what the impact of +4dBuA/m in 9KHz at 3m is on your receiver?

The B-P-L Interference Evaluation Tool allows evaluation of the impact of B-P-L interference under the proposed CENELEC standard given a set of location / application specific parameters.

Go to the BPL Interference Evaluation Tool at www.vk1od.net/bpl and enter the details for your site and discover the impact. The URL again is www.vk1od.net/bpl .

Again, the VK1OD B-P-L Interference Evaluation Tool is on the web at www.vk1od.net/bpl. (WIA News)

THE BPL FIGHT: FCC RULE CHANGES TO PROMOTE BROADBAND

Back here in the United States, very little attention appears to have been paid to two other FCC actions amid last weeks FCC decision on BPL. But both are designed to help promote different forms of broadband Internet access. This is important because they will be giving Broadband Over Powerline a run for the corporate dollar profit. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, has more:

In another vote taken at their October 14th meeting, the FCC loosened restrictions on fiber-optic networks built by local phone companies, encouraging them to make greater investments in so-called "fiber-to-the-curb" and "fiber-to-the-home" networks. According to the Commission, and as reported in a bulletin from C-Q, the ruling will encourage deployment of fiber optic broadband networks capable of delivering advanced data, video and voice service" by local telephone companies.

Prompted by the decision, several big telephone companies said they would move more rapidly to build fiber networks to homes. S-B-C says it now plans to provide 18 million households higher speed Internet services in two to three years, rather than five years as previously announced. . So far, Verizon Communications has been the most active in building residential fiber networks.

And there is more. The day after the BPL vote was taken, the FCC's Wireless Telecommunications Bureau announced a joint effort with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Rural Utilities Service. This, to advance the deployment of broadband wireless telecommunications across rural America.

Its called the "Rural Wireless Community VISION Program. Its purpose is to bring experts from both agencies into rural communities selected as models to help provide technical, financial and other assistance in launching wireless broadband services in those areas.

All of this adds up to a lot of competition for B-P-L from the day it gets going.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, in Los Angeles.

--

As we go to air, it is unclear whether either of these actions are efforts to promote multiple types of broadband, or, possibly a no confidence vote in the long-term potential of B-P-L.

More information on the program is available online at http://wireless.fcc.gov/outreach/ruralvision/index.html. (CQ)

RESTRUTURING: NEW UK INTERNET LINKING RULES

Across the Atlantic, some new procedures have been announced by United Kingdom radio regulator Ofcom. This, for the issuing Internet-linking Notices of Variation for U-K hams. Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, is in Nottingham with more.

--

Following a period of consultation, the following new procedures have been agreed between Ofcom and the RSGB. All current Internet linking NoVs will expire on 31st December 2004. Existing NoV-holders and new applicants will be able to apply for new NoVs from 1st October. The three-month period between 1st October and 31st December will allow for the continuity of the present network to be maintained.

If you currently hold an Internet linking NoV and you wish to continue providing an Internet gateway beyond 31st December now is the time to apply for your new NoV. If you do not apply for a new NoV, the service you currently provide to the amateur radio community must cease on 31st December.

The method of application is totally web-based, and further details and a series of 'FAQs' can also be found on the RSGB website.

Here in the U-S-A we take Voice over I P interconnects for granted. In most other nations hams are required to get special permission to connect their stations to the Internet. (GB2RS)

RESCUE RADIO: HAMS SUB FOR PHONES IN SOCAL HOSPITAL OUTAGE

Its ham radio to the rescue once again. This, when a construction accident takes out telephones, faxes, Internet and all other outside wireline communications at a southern California hospital. Amateur Radio Newsline's Joe Moell K0OV has the details.

--

Imagine that you're a nurse in the Intensive Care Unit of a hospital. You need to contact a doctor at his home or office, but you can't get an outside line on the phone at your nurses' station. That's what happened on October 6 at Tustin Hospital Medical Center in southern California. At a construction site next to the hospital, earthmoving equipment dug up 50 feet of telephone trunk lines, severing a 400-pair cable and damaging a 200-pair cable.

Following its previously-drilled procedures, the hospital's Director of Safety contacted the Hospital Disaster Support Communications System -- HDSCS -- an ARES group dedicated to the support of medical facilities in Orange County. In 30 minutes, the first ham had gotten through rush-hour traffic and arrived at the hospital to set up a communications link to the outside.

As more hams arrived, they deployed to the emergency Command Post, switchboard, Medical/Surgical unit, Pediatric unit, Intensive Care Unit, and the new Emergency Department. Meanwhile, the group's leader, April Moell WA6OPS, and two other base station operators prepared to make and receive phone calls in behalf of the THMC. Message traffic began to flow immediately after the operators got on station, as hospital staff members re-established links with their patients' physicians on the outside.

WA6OPS: "Go ahead, W6KOS."

"Please advise ICU, I got the service, it was a message machine. I put a message on that machine to call the number that you gave. I also gave it my number. If there's any other way they want us to try to get hold of him, we'll do it. Please advise them that we have called."

W6KOS: "Will do, W6KOS."

When phone company workers stated that repairs would take at least six hours, HDSCS began calling more members to provide relief to the first responders. By 9:30 AM the next morning, when the last telephone pair was spliced and the outage was declared to be over, four shifts of HDSCS operators had worked within the facility. Twenty-four hams participated in all.

This was the 85th time that HDSCS has activated to provide support when telephones failed or overloaded at hospitals, for reasons ranging from equipment failure, to cut cables, to natural disasters such as earthquakes, floods, and wildfires. It was the fifth activation so far in 2004. Each of the 80 members has his or her own Go-Kit, ready to take to any of the 34 supported hospitals to establish communications.

For more information on HDSCS -- and how hams in your community can organize to provide rapid response like this to hospitals -- point your Web browser to www.hdscs.org. Those are the initials for Hospital Disaster Support Communications System, followed by dot-org. From southern California, this is Joe Moell K-zero-Oscar-Victor, for Amateur Radio Newsline.

Among the hams responding to this emergency were Newsline's 2003 Young Ham of the Year Jay Thompson W6JAY and his father Richard, WA6NOL. They, and all of the others who volunteered are another good example of Amateur Radio ready and able to step in when commercial lines of communications fail. (K0OV, ARNewsline™)

RESCUE RADIO: STUDY SAYS THAT CELL PHONES IN HOSPITALS MAY PRESENT RELATIVELY FEW RFI HAZARDS

Cellular telephones may not pose the big risk in hospitals that was once thought. At least according to Dr. John Halamka who is the chief medical information officer for the Harvard Medical School.

According to Dr. Halamka, three years ago the school held a conference on the subject of hospital versus cellular telephone RFI issue. Attending were some 100 engineers, the Food and Drug Administration, wireless providers and businesses.

At that meeting the group determined that cell phones only pose a threat if they are within three feet of medical equipment. So, says Dr. Halamka, the current widespread hospital restrictions on cell phone use are probably greatly overblown except at locations where phones may audibly disturb patients or staff.

So will this report ease restrictions against cellular phone use in hospitals? Probably not because no study can cover all eventualities and most hospital administrators feel it better to safe than sorry.

COORDINATION: SERA RESCINDS MANDATORY TONE POLICY

According to the Repeater Users Internet remailer, the South Eastern Repeater Association has rescinded a controversial mandatory tone access policy enacted last summer. One that would have required tone receive and transmit on all new FM voice repeaters now, and on existing repeaters by July of 2006. Postings to the remailer say that numerous complaints lead the SERA Board of Directors to repeal the policy at a meeting on October 4th. (Repeater Owners / Users Remaler)

ENFORCEMENT: FLAT SCREEN TV FOOLS RESCUE SATELLITE

An Oregon resident has been told he could face a $10,000 fine if he continues to use a new flat screen television set that is radiating a high power spur on the International Distress Channel of 121.5 MHz. This, after an October 2nd visit by a contingent of local police, civil air patrol and search and rescue personnel.

Chris van Rossmann of Corvallis owns the year old Toshiba flat screen T-V. Unknown to him, the set was radiating a signal that was strong enough to be heard by the orbiting Sarsat Cospas search and rescue satellite. From there it was relayed the Air Force Rescue Center at Langley Air Base in Virginia which activated a search.

Van Rossmann found out about his broken television set when the search team knocked on his door. They were expecting to find a malfunctioning portable emergency transponder like those carried on boats and in light plans. Instead their T-hunting gear lead them to the college students T-V.

This is not the first time that an errant piece of ground based electronic gear has fooled the Sarsat Cospas rescue satellite. About 12 years ago the crystal oscillator in an inadequately shielded broadcast graphics machine brought a similar response to a production studio in New Jersey. In that case the Ampex Digital Optics unit was quickly retired from service.

Van Rossmann is faring a lot better. Toshiba has contacted him and offered to provide him with a replacement set, for free of charge. (Published reports)

ENFORCEMENT: SANTA CRUZ PIRATE SHUT DOWN BY FORCE

Government agents have shut down another unlicensed broadcaster. On September 29th agents of the U.S. Marshals Service served a warrant on a Santa Cruz, California pirate radio station.

The target was Free Radio Santa Cruz, an FM station running 35 to 40 watts of power while offering round-the-clock music, activism and other local programming.

The marshals, along with agents of the Federal Communications Commission, dismantled the station's equipment and carted it away in a pickup truck. The warrant bore no names, listing as defendant any and all radio station equipment used in connection with the transmissions.

Those running the station face the possibility of further punitive action in the form of hefty fines and even time in jail. The search warrant gave the station operators 20 days to respond in court. The value of the equipment seized is estimated at $5,000, including the antenna agents removed from the roof.

COMMUNICATIONS LAW: TELEMARKETERS LOOSE IN SUPREME COURT

The Supreme Court has turned away a challenge to the federal do-not-call registry. The ruling came on Monday, October 4th and upholds the lower court ruling that says the list does not in any way violate telemarketers rights to freedom of speech.

Under a federal law passed in 2003, telemarketers face fines of up to $11,000 if they call people who sign up for the registry unless they have recently done business with them. Charities, those conducting polls and callers on behalf of politicians are exempt. (Published reports)

ALERT: POSSIBLE E-MAIL SCAM TARGETING HAM RADIO

If you get an e-mail with a subject line saying Golden Trust telling you that you have won a lot of money, and its from hamemergency at some unknown dot com, toss it. It may well be another Internet scam targeted to Amateur radio.

Ray Shatzel, W2XC, says over the Internet that he received such a solicitation recently. It told him that he had won $1,500,000 in the Lottery Winners International program held on the July 7th of this year.

Curious, Ray checked it out on the fraud watch international dot com website. There he found out that it is nothing more than another of the many e-mail scams aimed at getting people like you and me to part with personally identifiable information that could be used in an identity theft scheme. They will also ask for payment of taxes, legal fees or other charges before the winnings can be released. People who fall for it loose what they send in and maybe a lot more.

Our thanks to W2XC for posting this warning to the Internet . He's one of the good guys who took the time to find out and to pass along the information so that nobody in the ham radio community gets stung. (via Internet)

HAM RADIO HELP: ARRL JOINS HOLIDAY TOY DRIVE

The ARRL is joining with the United Way in a project to brighten the lives of kids who lost everything in the recent hurricanes that ravaged Florida.

--

Thats right Don. The ARRL is joing forces with a special United Way drive aimed at brightening the coming holidays for kids in central Florida who might not otherwise be able to enjoy the season. They are the youngest victims of the fall hurricanes that ravaged the area. Suddenly living out of a tent or car.

To help these kids, hams nationwide are being asked to purchase a new child's toy and send it to this special United Way campaign. Be sure to include a QSL card or 3x5 file card showing your name and callsign.

Send your donated toy before Thanksgiving to Ham Radio in care of the The United Way White Dove Project at 50 Kindred Street, Suite 207 in Stuart, Florida. The zipcode is 34994.

As we have often said, children are the future of the nation and the world. They, more than any others, really deserve your support.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF.

--

Again, between now and Thanksgiving, purchase a new child's toy. Send it with a QSL card or 3x5 showing your callsign to Ham Radio, in care of The United Way White Dove Project, 50 Kindred Street, Suite 207, Stuart, FL 34994. We will and we hope that you will too. (ARRL)

ON THE AIR: HZ1AB PERMANENTLY QRT

The Dhahran Amateur Radio Club has been permanently shut down. This, as the result of telecommunications regulatory changes in Saudi Arabia.

For close to sixty years the Dhahran Amateur Radio Club operated station HZ1AB. Club Secretary Thomas Carlsson, AB5CQ reported that due to revisions made in Amateur Service licensing requirements by the Saudi Arabia Communications and Information Technology Commission, operations were no longer possible.

The HZ1AB callsign has already been reissued to Bandar Salah AL-Harby. Carlsson says that the clubs QSL manager, Leo Fry, K8PYD still has all the logs and will process any outstanding QSL card requests. (WIA News)

THAT FINAL ITEM: HAMVENTION 2004 THROUGH TEENAGE EYES

And finally this week, its the Dayton Hamvention as you have never seen it before. This is because its through the eyes of the young. And while we can't show you the pictures here, we can bring you some of the sound:

Sara K3OOO: "So you are probably thinking, OK I'm into this, but how do I get my license? Well, there lots of stuff. There's study guides. Real cheap. Real easy. You go home. You study for a while and do take your test and you pass and you get your license. No Internet. No wires required."

That's 15 year old Sara Saeger, K3OOO, who, along with 18 year old Trevor Conroy, W7TDC, are hosts of a new video about Hamvention 2004 produced for Icom America by of John Webb, W7NWH. But this show is not a commercial for Icom brand ham radio gear. In fact, its as if John borrowed a bit from Cole Porter's grand old Broadway musical.
The one whose title is "Anything Goes":

Trevor W7TDC: "Right over here we have DX Engineering, a manufacturer of components that actually allows you to build your own antenna. Antennas can be big. Antennas can be small. But theres one thing thats true about all of them. They all get your signal in the air."

--

Thats the other half of the anchor team and if Trevor sounds excited about building antennas it's because he knows just how much fun it can be. And while Sara and Trevor are our guides, they are not only young people in the new Icom show. Meet Rebekah Dorff, WG4Y, of Alabaster, Alabama:

--

Rebekah W4GY: "Ive been a ham since I was 8. I got my Tech when I was 8, my Extra when I was 9 and then I got my DXCC when I was 10 and then I got appointed as the Assistant Section Manager this year."

--

The bottom li
T. This is a new world of Amateur Radio and a lot of young people are getting excited about it once they find out just how much fun it can be. Thats because it gets you away from a computer screen and gives you new friends all over the world:

--

Unidentified youngster: "Hopefully I will get my license today and I will finally be able to talk to Russia."

--

If you are one of those who really care about the future of ham radio and want to see what it looks like through Sara and Trevor eyes, then go to www.icomamerica.com/amateur/video and have a look for yourself. Better yet, have your kids -- or your friends kids watch the show with you. Once you do, we guarantee that none of you will ever view ham radio the same way -- ever again.

Our thanks to Ray Novak, N9JA, and the fine folks at Icom America for funding this important new ham radio video and making it available online. Again that URL is www.icomamerica.com/amateur/video on the

Hi,

NASA will broadcast on oct 26, 21h30 EST (01h30 UT) the downlink signal of Cassini passing near Titan.
The video signal can be received on S-band at 3880 MHz on AMC-6 at 72° West (audio on 6.8 MHz)

Does someone knowns what modulation uses this satellite for the video and audio ?

Thanks in advance

Thierry

That's a standard NTSC television satellite broadcast, but it's C-band, not S-band.

Thanks.
That means that AMC send thus 2 signals and only one mixing video:audio :
one NTSC on C-band another one in FM audio on 6.8 MHz.
That also means that you need a second antenna to capture its FM monaural audio transmission...
No easy at all... (excepting listing to it via the Internet!)

Thanks for the info

You don't need two antennas to capture over the air television broadcasts.
You don't need two antennas to capture a video and audio from a satellite transmission.

In analog satellite signals, when they give a frequency in the 5 - 8 MHz range for the audio, they are referring to the FM SUBCARRIER frequency.

I am trying to see if I can use some surplus 1/2 inch hardline
"feeder" for my 2m ssb loops and 440 sat antenna.
So far I can use my ssb loops from 144 to 145.4 under 2 to 1 swr.
And again from 146.5 to 148 as well. Keeping the Resistance at about 50 Ohms. The antenna SWR is 1.7 to 1 without the hardline.

Anyone else using CATV hardline for above HF freq.

there are many hams using cable TV hardline for VHF/UHF work you just need to keep in mind that its 70-75 ohm feedline not 50 ohm like typical hardline used for ham radio and you also need to check the fall off freq some CATV hardline doesnt pass UHF freq thru
good luck

Amateur Radio Newsline(tm) Report 1420 - October 29, 2004

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1419 with a release date of Friday, October 29, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T.

The ARRL Executive Committee meets to discus the future of ham radio in the U-S-A and the next Solar Minimum may be a lot closer than you think. Find out more on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1420 coming your way right now.

RESTRUCTURING: ARRL EC MEETS TO DISCUSS BANDWIDTH AND BPL

A draft of a petition to the FCC dealing with bandwidth regulation and the latest on the B-P-L front dominated a recent meeting of the ARRL Executive Committee held October 16 in Dallas, Texas. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, takes an in-depth look at what was discussed:

At the Texas gathering, ARRL Executive Committee -- better known as the E C -- devoted much of its fall session to a discussion of comments received on the League's draft FCC petition seeking regulation of subbands by bandwidth rather than by emission mode. The E C also authorized the filing of a Petition for Reconsideration in response to the Broadband over Powerline Report and Order in ET Docket 04-37, which the FCC adopted October 14. But the E C acknowledges that the drafting and filing the petition must await release of the actual Report and Order, which should happen in a few weeks. It did however authorize ARRL General Counsel Chris Imlay, W3KD, to prepare to pursue other available remedies regarding procedural and substantive defects in the B-P-L proceeding.

Responding to a synopsis of the bandwidth petition and proposed rule changes posted on the ARRL Web site, several hundred League members and others in the ham radio community offered comments and suggestions. The good news says ARRL Chief Executive Officer David Sumner, K1ZZ, is that the Executive Committee found considerable support for the concept of the petition. It also was happy to see some constructive suggestions to reduce both the impact of the changes on current amateur operations, as well as possible unintended consequences.

By way of background, earlier this year, the Executive Committee decided to make a synopsis and explanation of the petition available before filing it with the FCC. At the Dallas meeting, the E C agreed to submit several recommended amendments to the proposed rules changes to the ARRL Board of Directors for its consideration when they meet in January. These include such items as retention of rules permitting automatically controlled digital stations including packet and other digital modes in narrow H F subbands. The draft petition had proposed dropping these provisions.

Also in the digital domain the E C addressed a rule prohibiting so-called semi-automatic digital operation on frequencies below 28 MHz where phone is permitted. This addressed a concern that ''robot'' digital stations might take over the phone bands. And a segment for 3 kHz bandwidth with no phone emissions at 10.135 to 10.150 MHz to accommodate existing and planned digital operations was included.

Another item adopted was the deletion of the word "continuous" from the description of test transmissions authorized on most frequencies above 51 MHz. Lastly is simplification of proposed changes to Part 97.309 of the Commission rules. This, to clarify that FCC-licensed amateur stations may use any published digital code as long as other rules are observed.

The Leagues Dave Sumner emphasized that the recommendations address major issues raised to date but are not necessarily the last word on the draft petition.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, in Los Angeles.

--

The ARRL's bandwidth proposals take into account the League's prior ''Novice refarming'' petition to expand some High Frequency phone bands--included in the ''omnibus'' FCC Notice of Proposed Rule Making in WT Docket 04-140. (ARRL)

RESTRUCTURING: UK HAMS GET EXPANDED 40 METER PRIVILEGES

Hams in the U-K have been granted expanded privileges on the 40 meter band. Jeremy Boot, G4NJH, is in Nottingham, England, with more:

Ofcom and the Radio Society of Great Britain are pleased to announce that all necessary procedures required for early access to the 7.1 to 7.2MHz spectrum for all UK radio amateurs have been finalized and that access is allowed from 01.00 UTC on Sunday 31st October 2004. Early access is granted on a Secondary (non-interference) basis using a maximum of 26dBW (400 watts) PEP.

Notices of Variation for the U.K. Foundation, Intermediate and Full licenses have been published on the Ofcom website at http://tinyurl.com/4tuud. It is recommended that for the time being only voice and Morse code modes are used between 7.1 and 7.2MHz. Band planning issues on MHz will be kept under regular review and will be dependent on the number of administrations granting early access to this band prior to full Primary access on 29th March 2009.

Jeremy Boot, G4NJH.

Thanks Jeremy. (GB2RS)

RESTRUCTURING: AUSTRALIA LOOKS AR VOIP RULES

The Australian Communications Authority -- the A-C-A -- says that it is reviewing telecommunications regulations to cover fast-emerging voice over Internet protocol services. In a discussion paper released about a week and a half ago, the A-C-A says that it aims to identify any regulatory challenges resulting from the increased availability of VoIP services and recommend to the government how those challenges might be met. What affect any changes might have to ham radio VoIP interconnects in Australia is to early to assess at this time. (WIA News)

THE FUTURE: SCIENTISTS PREDICT EARLY SOLAR MINIMUM

And some possible god news for hams tired of the rather poor High Frequency band conditions these days. It comes from the GB2RS News Service which says that American physicist David Hathaway believes that the next solar minimum could arrive sooner than previously predicted.

GB2RS News quotes on an article on the 'Science at NASA' website. It predicts that the next solar minimum could occur in late 2006. That's about a year earlier than previously thought

Dr. Hathaway bases his prediction on data from the last eight solar cycles, which show that solar minimum follows the first sunspot-free day on the sun by 34 months. In this solar cycle, the first spotless day was on 28th January this year and more recently, on 11th and 12th October, there were two more spotless days.

Hathaway goes on to state that the next solar maximum might also come early. He is quoted as saying that solar activity intensifies rapidly after solar minimum. That in recent cycles, the Solar Max has followed Solar Minimum by just four years. If that is the case, the next solar maximum could be not all that far away in 2010 and a Solar Max is good news for D-Xing. (GB2RS)

ENFORCEMENT: CB AMP SALE BRINGS $7000 FINE

A North Jackson, Ohio equipment retailer has been dinged with a heavy fine. This for allegedly selling those illegal 11 meter amplifiers that the C-B crowd calls footwarmers.

The noted violations involve Paladen Communications sale of external Citizens Band radio frequency power amplifiers. In it's October 21st Forfeiture Order the FCC alleges that Paladen, which does business as the CB Shop, did willfully and repeatedly violate Section 302(b) of the Communications Act of 1934 and Sections 2.815(b) and 2.815(c) of the Commission's Rules by making these units available to the general public.

Paladen was issued the $7,000 fine back on May 27th. The FCC says the company never responded to the notice. Its now been given 30 days to pay or face collection proceedings. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: CB OPERATOR FINED $10,000 FOR UNLICENSED OPERATION

And using an illegal C-B amplifier will cost a Washington state operator some really big bucks. This as the FCC fines Robert A. Spiry of Tacoma 10,000 for what the FCC say was operating a radio station without Commission authorization. Amateur Radio Newsline's Norm Seeley, KI7UP, has the details:

In its letter to Robert A. Spiry, the FCC claims that it found the amplifier as part of a follow-up investigation. This, after receiving numerous complaints from Spiry's neighbors.

On March 13th, April 2nd, October 29th and November 5th of 2002, agents from the Commission's Seattle, Washington Field Office concluded that the interference resulted from 11 meter transmissions originating from Spiry's residence and from his mobile station in his vehicle. During station inspections conducted on April 2nd and November 5th, 2002, the Seattle Office agents determined that Spiry was operating transmitters that were not FCC certified and that he was operating with a linear amplifier attached to his CB radio transmitter.

Spiry was advised that his use of unauthorized and non-certified equipment voided his blanket authority to operate his CB station. Nevertheless, the FCC says that he continued to operate the unauthorized equipment at the expense of his blanket authorization to operate his CB radio station.

On December 30th, 2002, the Seattle Office issued a Notice of Apparent Liability for Monetary Forfeiture in the amount of $10,000 to Spiry. In other words, a $10,000 fine.

In his January 15, 2003 response Spiry did not dispute the facts that lead to the fine. Instead he stated that he had ceased CB radio transmissions and had obtained an amateur radio license. The FCC database lists him as holding a Technician class license with the call sign KD7TRB. He also claimed to have removed his CB radio antenna and asserted that he was unaware that the amount of the forfeiture could be so high. He told the FCC that he was unable to pay that amount.

But in affirming the fine the FCC refers Spiry to Section 301 of the Communications Act. It says that no person shall use or operate any apparatus for the transmission of energy or communications or signals by radio within the United States without a proper license. The FCC says that Spiry's 2002 operation of his CB radio station with transmitters that were not FCC certified and use of a linear amplifier constitutes repeated violations. It also notes that his taking down the C-B antenna and getting a ham radio ticket are not sufficient actions to negate the punishment for the original offenses.

The FCC says that Robert Spiry has not provided it with adequate financial information from which to determine his ability to pay the forfeiture. Based on this lack of information cancellation or reduction of the $10,000 fine is not warranted and that it stands as is.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, Norm Seeley, KI7UP, Scottsdale, Arizona.

Spiry was given the usual 30 days to pay. If he fails to do so the FCC says that the matter may be turned over to the Department of Justice for further action. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: BROADCASTER FINED

The FCC has also issued an $8000 monetary forfeiture to Crown Communication, Inc. Cowner is the owner of an antenna structure in Hobbs, New Mexico. The FCC says that the fine is for willful and repeated violation of Section 17.50 of the Commission's Rules involving Crown's failure to maintain good visibility of the tower. The situation dates back to August 13, 2002, when an agent from the Denver Office inspected antenna structure and observed that unpainted cables attached to it precluded good visibility . (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: NO LICENSE - STAY OFF THE AIR

The FCC has warned an unlicensed operator to stay off the air or face some heavy consequences. This, in a September 30th letter to Travis Lee Dameron of Stuarts Draft, Virginia.

In its warning to Dameron the FCC says that it has information indicating that he has been operating radio equipment without a license on the Two Meter Amateur Radio Band. It tells him that transmitting without a license is a violation of Section 301 of the Communications Act and will subject him to fine or imprisonment, as well as seizure of any non-certified radio transmitting equipment he may have in his possession.

Dameron was also requested to call the FCC's Riley Hollingsworth to discuss the matter. If Dameron fails to stay off the air, the fine he could face would range from $7,500 to $10,000. (FCC)

RADIO RULES: FRAUDULENT STATION APPLICATIONS FILED WITH FCC

Bob Gonsett's CGC Communicator reports that a number of fraudulent Form 301 applications have been filed with the FCC this month. CGC says that the agency has even accepted for filing a number of these fake applications, and has assigned them file numbers.

One application in question was for a conventional, non-grandfathered Class B FM station. The petitioner was asking for a transmitter power level of 105 kilowatts E-R-P. This, in a Class B zone where only 50 kilowatts is allowed without a waiver request. And says CGC, there was no waiver request.

CGC adds that it appears as if the Commission is not screening these incoming Form 301 applications. This, even when there are blatant defects in some. (CGC)

NAMES IN THE NEWS: W1BKR INDUCTED INTO BROADCASTING AD CABLE HALL OF FAME

And congratulations to Bill Baker, W1BKR, on his election into the Broadcasting & Cable Hall of Fame. Bill is the chief executive of New York Public Television, which includes WNET Thirteen which is New York's flagship public television station.

Bill Baker has been head of New York Public Television since 1987. During his tenure WNET has grown and prospered, creating new program standards such as Charlie Rose, Wide Angle, Religion and Ethics NewsWeekly, and the children's math mystery series Cyberchase. Baker also established the station's Educational Resources Center, which has become America's most prolific teacher trainer in multi-media techniques, and developed its first cable channel known as MetroArts Thirteen.

Ham radio wise, W1BKR was a co-producer of the ARRL video Amateur Radio Today and his article titled Amateur Radio is Part of New Media Task Force appeared in the May issue of QST. The induction ceremony honoring W1BKR will take place on Monday, November 8th at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York City. (Adapted from Shoptalk)

NAMES IN THE NEWS: N4MC "VANITY HQ" WEBSITE GOING AWAY

Also, Michael Carroll, N4MC, has announced that as of Thursday, October 21st he is no longer supporting the Vanity H Q website. Vanity H Q was, and for the moment still is, a point in cyberspace where you can go to research availability of United States vanity call availability or simply find out the latest issued.

According to a posting at the site, at some point in the near future the www.vanityhq.com domain will itself become inactive. N4MC says that this is not an action based upon lack of funding. Rather, its because of a shift in his personal priorities. (K2GW)

THE ARNEWSLINE SUPPORT FUND REPORT

Now with some good news here's Amateur Radio Newsline's Support Fund Administrator, Andy Jarema, N6TCQ.

In the month of August we heard from monthly contributor Joseph Bartzi, Jr, KC8DKF of Columbus, OH; From Indiana, the Huntington County Amateur Radio Society, K9HC: The Southwest Michigan Amateur Radio Team in Portage, K8KZO: Dean Carothers from the W4HPL repeater in Cookville, TN; Johnny Wallace, K5POP of San Antonio, TX; Albert Toering, N6TEZ of Anza, CA; Monthly contributor William Walters, WA2IBM, of San Jose; Monthly contributor Scott Hensley of the Area Communications Team, also in San Jose; Harold Hackman, W6HVH of Riverside, Brad Berryhill, WA6JJB of Anaheim Hills, The Westside ARC of Marina Del Rey and the Catalina Amateur Repeater Association, AA6DP.

A big thank you to everyone. Through your help we've been able to take care of all of the Young Ham of the Year award expenses, but of course, the newscasts go on. A reminder that Newsline is a 501c 3 California non-profit corporation. Information on how to support us is on our website at www.arnewsline.org. That address will be repeated at the end of the newscast.

I'm Andy Jarema, N6TCQ.

ON THE NET: JUNO FOLLOW-UP

An update now to our recent story on Internet provider Juno cutting out most of its free services using off-line mail handling software. And it comes thanks to some really intensive digging by one of our listeners who happens to be a Juno subscriber.

After hearing our story, John Vander Stel, WH6LY, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, took it upon himself to find out more. He says that contrary to our original story free account users will not have to go through another ISP to access their Juno E-mail after December 1st. He says that this was only made clear to him by digging into the F-A-Q about this change and then calling back to talk to another Juno phone rep. He says that the even the first one he spoke with was not well versed in this change and provided improper information.

But all of John's work paid off for those of you who use Juno. The good news is that Juno access software will still allow the free account user to access the Internet and go to the Juno Webmail site to access their E-mail on-line. However, the time using that connection will be counted against their 10 free hours of connect time.

We have often said that you are all an important part of the Amateur Radio Newsline team. Our sincere thanks to John Vander Stel, WH6LY, who proves this once again. (WH6LY)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: WORLDS LARGEST NANOTUBES

The University of California at Irvine announced what it calls a breakthrough engineering discovery that is expected to have supercomputer and health care applications. This, as researchers at the Henry Samueli School of Engineering said they have synthesized the world's longest electrically conducting nanotubes. Nanotubes that are ten times longer than those previously created.

For those not aware, a nanotube is a memory unit made from carbon and consists of a graphite sheet seamlessly wrapped into a cylinder only a few nanometers wide. A nanometer is one billionth of a meter or about the size of 10 atoms strung together. The scientists who made them say that this discovery may lead to the development of extremely strong, lightweight materials and ultra dense nano-memory arrays for extremely powerful computers, ultra low-loss power transmission lines, and nano-biosensors for use in health care applications. HAM RADIO IN SPACE: ISS HAM STATION TEMPORARILY QRT

Ken Ransom, N5HVO confirms that the ham radio station on board the International Space Station is back on thr air in packet mode. It had been off for several days without explanation but on Wednesday, October 19th, Astronaut Leroy Chow, KE5BRW, was able to check on the radio first thing today and resolved a minor setting discrepancy. Information on its operation is on-line at www.ariss.net and www.issfanclub.com. (M5HVO)

WORLDBEAT: HAM RADIO SAILING THE ANTARCTIC

Call this one ham radio across the Antarctic. It started back on September 14th, when the famed yacht "Apostol Andrey" started out to circumnavigate the area while carrying an operational ham radio station.

During the trip the yacht will travel around the shores of the Antarctica without going further to the North beyond the 60th parallel which is the border of the Antarctic region in accordance with the International Agreement. The crew will try to establish a record for penetrating sailing yachts crossing the 70th parallel of the south latitude.

And for ham radio here's the best part. The skipper of the "Apostol Andrey" is Nikolay Andrey, R3AL. He plans to be on the air from the Antarctic area starting this December and continuing through March of 2005. Andrey has the QSL cards already printed for this expedition and the ship also has an official Russian postmark onboard and a special postal stationary envelope for this expedition.

For details on the World-Wide Antarctic Program and the expedition, go to the World-Wide-Web. The spot is in cyberspace at www.ddxc.net/wap (Via E-mail)

In D-X, word that VA6JWT is now in Somaliland. He says that he expects to be there for at least six months and plans to operate as 6O0JT. (RSGB)

And F5PSA is in Cameroon until February of 2006. He is operating as TJ3SL in his spare time. (OPDX)

Lastly, G4JAG, is now active from Thailand as HS0ZFP. Chris can be found on 20 meters most evenings and says the best time for contacts back home to the U-K is around 18.00 UTC. For all of these stations, QSL as directed on the air. (RSGB)

THAT FINAL ITEM: HAM RADIO HISTORY - A ZL MILESTONE QSO

And finally this week, a bit of history from right here, down-under. Its the story of the first ever two-way radio communication between New Zealand and England made on the 18th of October 1924 by Frank Bell of Shag Valley Station, Otago.

Back then, Frank held the callsign Z4AA and on that date, using some rather primitive home-brew ham radio equipment, he made contact with Cecil Goyder, G2SZ at the Mill Hill school in London. The CW QSO lasted for about 1 hour and dealt mainly with issues of signal quality. It was also the start of the first scheduled contact -- or sked -- between hams in the two nations. For several nights after the historic contact the two radio amateurs kept in touch.

Further details of the activities leading to the historic QSO can be found on pages 40-41 of the NZART publication Ham Shacks, Brass Pounders & Rag chewers, A History of amateur Radio in New Zealand. Detailed information on the actual QSO, complete with a transcript, can be found on the web pages of the Otago, Branch 30 of NZART. To read them, just point your browser to www.qsl.net/zl4aa/ and follow the index for more. (NZART News)

No '2nd' ant system required.
Just a 8-10ft dish with a clear sight to the SSE.

The audio is 6.8 MHz above the Video freq.
This is the 'standard' offset.
All 'TVRO' C-band receivers can tune to this.

Also, if that's the standard NASA TV channel then it is rebroadcast on many cable systems around the USA in addition to being available on both of the satellite cable systems that use the "little dish" - Direct TV and Dish Network.

If you want a big C-band dish to receive the signal then here is a good place to buy the equipment

651. IC706MKII (G) Satellites

Howdy from Bill in Montana,

While I was on the road to Minnesota to watch the Vikings with a good friend, I discovered that you can use the Icom 706MKII(G) for satellites. I made contacts on AO-51, FO-29, SO-50 and AO-27. This might be old news to some but here is what I did.

Ex: AO-51

Set the B VFO to 145.920 FM with 67 hz tone
Set the A VFO to 435.300 FM
M1 menu SPL is split mode which will show up in the upper right as split.

I listened on VFO A to the downlink and could adjust in 1 kc steps up and down. With the satellite doppler of +- 10 kcs, listen for the down link so its clear then you can xmit, listen to the other station and adjust your dopper. The transmit on VFO B does not need to be changed. So with this setup you transmit on VFO B and listen on VFO A. You cannot hear your down link, but if your right on with xmit in VFO B no need to hear your down link as it comes back to VFO A after you xmit. Works pretty cool.

Cheers and I hope this will help someone get on the birds.

If you liked working cross band with the VFO A and B then I have some even more exciting news for you about the ICOM 706

Go to M1 menu and then select a memory channel and dial in the receive frequency of the satellite. Then press the SPL button on the M1 menu and you will notice the right most button changes its label to XFC. when you push and hold down that button labeled XFC the separate transmit frequency for that memory channel is shown. While holding down the XFC button dial in the transmit frequency you want and then let go of the button. You have now programmed different receive and xmit frequencies. To record your settings find the MW button and push it till it beeps twice before you change memory channels.

Have fun

Hi, I'm part of an amateur radio astronomy group trying to get a dish on top of a roof to work. We have much of the equipment, but are having trouble putting it together, as far as how exactly to hook everything up. Would this be the right newsgroup to post to? Thanks.

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1421 November 5, 2004

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1421 with a release date of Friday, November 5th, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. AMSAT says that the U Oh 22 ham-sat is dying and Israel says it may do away with Morse testing. Find out the details on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1421 coming your way right now.

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: UO-22 MAY SOON BE S.K.

AMSAT U-K says that the UO-22 ham radio satellite is not in good shape, and its looks as though its useful life may be over. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, has more:

The AMSAT News Service which brought the first worked of the problem says that the cause if the satellite's demise is unknown. Bit says A-N-S, it may be related to problems with the satellites batteries which have been in space for more than 10 years.

UO-22 was launched in July 1991 from Kourou, French Guiana. It served for many years as the store and forward satellite for Amateur Radio packet and the world wide Sat Gate service. The latter is a linked series of packet radio networks in many countries.

The Ground Station control center at the University of Surrey has attempted several times in recent weeks to reactivate the UO-22 After one attempt it did come back to life, but only briefly. Other attempts have failed completely.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, reporting.

As time permits, the Control Station at the University of Surrey may make further attempts at reviving the ailing bird, but says AMSAT U-K it seems unlikely that they will be completely successful. (ANS)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: PC SAT RECOVERY SUCCESSFUL

Meantime, better news about another ham radio satellite. The P-C Sat ham radio bird continues to work perfectly following it's recovery two weeks ago.

To use P-C Sat, just QSY your APRS mobile station to 145.825 during a pass. You should not have to change any parameters. PCsat digipeats the aliases of RELAY and WIDE just like terrestrial digipeating. (ANS)

RESTRUCTURING: ISRAEL MAY DROP CW REQUIREMENT

Back on Earth, word that the state of Israel may be the next nation to do away with Morse testing. At least the possibility has been raised in the latest issue of the Israel Amateur Radio Club's English language publication Hagal International.

In a brief statement in the latest on-line edition, the magazine says that a proposal to abandon Morse testing has been raised by the nations Ministry of Communications. The publication notes that many European countries have been dropping the Morse requirement and that it expects to see a rather heated discussion among Israeli hams once the Ministry opens the debate for public discussion.

At the moment Israel maintains a 5 word per minute Morse testing requirement for access to the High Frequency bands. But it is also a signatory to the pan-European C-E-P-T licensing agreement and tends to abide by whatever regulations C-E-P-T adopts for its member nations.

More on what's happening in Israeli ham radio is on line at www.iarc.org (Hagal International)

REFARMING THE BANDS: FCC RELOCATION OF FEDERAL USERS INCLUDES SOME AMATEUR 2.3 GHz SPECTRUM

Meantime, here in the United States, the FCC has acted to include the first five 5 megahertz of the 2390 to 2417 MHz Amateur Radio Service primary allocation that it has opened up to accommodate federal users shifted from other bands. According to the ARRL Letter, the reallocations, which also involved non amateur spectrum at 2 GHz are aimed at making room for A-W-S or advanced wireless services including so-called third-generation wireless systems. In making the announcement the FCC said it worked with the US Department of Defense and the National Telecommunications and Information Administration to allow for relocation of critical military and other operations into the 2360 to 2395 MHz band. RESCUE RADIO: DISASTER NUMBERS FOR 2003

If you are involved in emergency communications, these numbers will be of interest to you.

According to the International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies, natural disasters killed 76,806 people in 2003. This is three times the number of victims than died in 2002 with the rise due in part to extremes in the global climate.

The joint society report noted that an earthquake that killed 31,000 people in the Iranian city of Bam and a heat wave in Europe that killed 35,000. They say that these were major contributing factors in the higher toll victim toll.

All of this is a good reason for hams to be prepared for any emergency situation. Here in the United States the best way is by signing up for one of the many communications training courses offered by the American Radio Relay League. Just visit their website at www.arrl.org to find out what's available to you right now. (ARNewsline(tm)) from information from International Red Cross and ARRL)

TELECOMMUNICATIONS LAW: RADIO DISTRACTED DRIVERS REDUX

Some good news for those of you who operate mobile. The head of the National Transportation Safety Board says that education rather than legislation is the best approach to getting people to minimize distractions including cellular telephones when they get behind the wheel of a car.

At a recent press conference National Transportation Safety Board Chairperson Ellen Engleman-Conners said there still are no definitive studies showing that talking on a cell phone is more dangerous than any number of other motorist activities. This includes such activities as eating, reaching for a drink or adjusting the car radio.

Last summer, federal regulators announced new guidelines for states to follow when reporting crashes. Investigating agencies are now asked to say whether the driver was distracted and if that distraction was caused by a cell phone, a two-way radio, or something else.

Engleman-Conners says that having the ability to call is a safety issue and cited the example of a 16-year-old girl who's driving home from the library late at night and has a flat tire. Engleman-Conners said people are more likely to embrace safety measures if they're educated about why they are important.

New York, New Jersey, the District of Columbia and a growing number of cities and towns are prohibiting drivers from using cell phones without hands-free devices. (NTSB reports)

ENFORCEMENT: SOCAL HAMS CLAIM EX-KG6IRO JAMMED EMERGENCY COMMS

From the some people never learn department comes the latest on Jack Gerritsen, the ex KG6IRO. The same Jack Gerritsen whom the FCC has recently told to pay a $10,000 fine for operating without a license.

And you would think that would be enough to catch anyone's attention. But hams on one Los Angeles area repeater say that even with this fine facing him that he, or someone claiming to be him, recently jammed ham radio communications of an emergency at sea. And this time the United States Coast Guard is involved. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, has the latest:

The story starts with Al Geiger, KG6FB, sailing solo to Guadalupe Island on his 36 ft. sloop, following another boat which was about 20 miles ahead of him. On Tuesday night, October 26th they were caught in a bad storm. Al turned back when he lost his Jib sail in the high winds.

Both his VHF marine radio and his 2 meter ham radio amplifier had failed. Without his VHF marine radio, Al lost contact with the other boat.

The alleged jamming incident happened on the Catalina repeater on Friday morning, October 29th. The Coast Guard group in Los Angeles was interested in obtaining any information that KG6FB had about the other boat. So it had Bill Scholz, W1HIJ, who is the District Communications Officer for the Coast Guard Auxiliary, try to contact Al on the Catalina Repeater.

The QSO between KG6FB and W1HIJ started at 10:02 AM and continued off and on through about 11:40. The person alleged to be Jack Gerritsen showed up after the traffic began and refused to clear the frequency. Luckily, a tape recorder was going and here is a small part of what happened. The first voice you hear is that of Bill Scholz, W1HIJ followed by that alleged to be former ham Jack Gerritsen. This was recorded using VOX, so any dead air is missing.

W1HIJ: Wiskey One Hotel India Juliet, Coast Guard Auxiliary Upland Radio 1. This frequency is in use for emergency communications. This frequency in use for emergency communications. Please remain off he frequency. This is W1HIJ, Upland Radio 1 out."

Unidentified Transmission: "Yeah whats your phone number. Ive never heard any emergencies on this damn frequency. You ever heard of 911 stupid?"

Repeater: "beep"

The station believed to be Gerritsen continued on. Not only did he pester W1HIJ verbally. He also played what can best be described as political recordings over and over again.

Soon, other stations believed to have come over from the 147.435 MHz repeater -- the one calling itself the "Animal Farm" -- also appeared on the Calalina machine. They began taunting and jamming the station believed to be Gerritsen, tying up the Catalina repeater frequency much of the time. The combined garbage made it impossible to continue the passing of emergency traffic and it was not until much later in the day that the other boat was confirmed as having arrived at Guadalupe Island, and that KG6FB had made it safely to Whites Landing.

Copies of the full recording of this incident have reportedly been forwarded to several government agencies that handle malicious interference to ongoing emergency radio traffic. We will have to see of any of them follow up on this one.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, in Los Angeles.

Another ham, Tim Thompson, W6DCE, provided us with whats purported to be a phone message left on Gerritsen's answering machine by local FCC inspectors. The investigators reportedly went to his house on a complaint from the Coast Guard to perform a station inspection but were refused entry. On the recording they urge the person inside to permit them in. This, to avoid added fines or possible arrest.

You may recall that the last person prosecuted for bothering an emergency communications service was Rajib Mitra, of Brookfield, Wiisconsin. As reported here on Newsline, last June Mitra was convicted under the United States "Patriot Act" of interference to the communications of a local police department. He was sentenced to 8 years in a Federal prison for that crime. (ARNewsline (tm) with infrormation from K6PZW, W1HIJ, W6DCE, others)

ENFORCEMENT: YOU CAN'T OPERATE THERE

A pair of hams who operated the wrong part of 20 meters have caught the eye of the FCC enforcement folks. The agency's Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, has the details:

Duckworth: "Two warning notices went out for operation on 14.010 MHz. The first went to K0HUU, Donald Mullen, of Springfield, Missouri, for operation outside General class privileges. The second went to W6QEU, Peter Onnigian, of Sacramento, California, for operating outside Advanced class privileges."

--

Both operators were advised that such operation my lead to revocation of their licenses or to a monetary forfeiture. Also that no renewal or upgrade application will be considered until this matter is resolved. They were given 20 days from the October 18th date of the FCC's letter to them to respond. (FCC, RAIN)

ON THE WEB: QRZ.COM WEBSERVER DE-LISTS K1MAN

A popular ham radio callsign webserver has removed the listing of International Amateur Radio Network net manager Glenn Baxter, K1MAN, from its database. In a posting to his own QRZ.com website, owner Fred Lloyd, AA7BQ, says that he took the action because the staff at QRZ reached the collective opinion that K1MAN does not represent a view of amateur radio activities that is conducive to the furtherance of the hobby. His words -- not ours.

Lloyd has also started what he calls an informal survey of QRZ.com users to get their feelings as to whether or not this is the right course of action. As of Wednesday, November 4th, some 387 hams say that they support QRZ's decision to de-list K1MAN while only 19 feel the listing for Baxter should remain.

You can follow this one for yourself. Its on-line at www.qrz.com (QRZ.COM)

TOWER PROBLEMS: EXPLOSION ROCKS TEXAS TRANSMISSION TOWER

Remember our recent story about a fire bug in the Pacific Northwest burning down radio towers. Fires that cost one ham his home. Well that fire bug still has not been caught and authorities are still looking for leads in the case.

And while we do not know if there is any connection, but news reports say that Federal investigators are now looking into the circumstances surrounding an explosion at a power line transmission tower near Dallas, Texas on October 27th. The reports say that one leg of the support structure appeared to have been severed in two places.

Agents from the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, along with local police, are investigating. (Published reports)

TOWER PROBLEMS: VANDAL FELLS TWO TOWERS IN TEXAS

But that's not the only tower vandalism to report this week. Another instance is in Milwaukee, Wisconsin where a company that owns two power transmission towers that were deliberately toppled two weeks ago says that it is willing to pay big bucks to have the person who did it put behind prison bars.

The American Transmission Company is offering a $10,000 reward for information that leads to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for the criminal act that left 17,000 customers without electrical service. News reports in the one say that a person or persons unknown removed the base bolts from the eighty five foot towers causing them to tumble.

American Transmission says that it is installing two temporary wooden structures to support the downed power lines until such time as replacements can be put in. Meantime investigators want the person behind these criminal acts behind bars before he or she strikes again. (Published reports)

A HELPING HAM: GET WELL WISHES TO W4TBU

If you read the QCWA Journal, then you may remember an article about "Ultimate Elmer" Shirley Wilkerson, Jr., W4TBU, that appeared in the winter 2003 edition. A ham who loves sharing the hobby with others.

Now, Tom Webb, W4YOK, says over the QCWA remailer that Wilkerson, who is his close friend and personal Elmer, is seriously ill and confined to a hospital.

Tom says that Shirley is 84 years old and the situation has him depressed and he is refusing treatment. Tom says that this is so unlike Shirley who he describes as a person who loves life so much. And W4YOK says that hearing words of encouragement from the ham community might really help.

So we are going to ask that you take a moment, write out a QSL or post card and send it to W4TBU. Tell him how much you appreciate what he has done to make ham radio a better place.

Send your card to Shirley Wilkerson, Jr., W4TBU, Room 314, Community Methodist Hospital, Henderson, Kentucky, 42420.

Hams traditionally support one another in time of need. This is one of those times. (W4YOK, QCWA)

WORLDBEAT - AUSTRALIA: COST PROHIBITIVE TO KEEP REPEATERS ON THE AIR

Several repeaters down-under are now off the air. This after Australia's telephone provider Telstra put site rental beyond the economic reach of ham radio. Felix Scerri, VK4FUQ, of the WIA News Service reports:

From 22nd October the UHF repeaters co sited on the Black Mountain Telstra Tower in Canberra have been removed from service. Telstra recently carried out an audit of the site and discovered there was no rental agreement that could be found for this ham gear to be on site.

After negotiations with Telstra, the rental offer made by Telstra is beyond the economic resources of the Canberra Region Amateur Radio Club and, sadly they had no option but to remove the equipment by Today October 31st .

Better news however is at Black Hill the ACT's 146.900 MHz service is on air however it may subject to further interruptions. Following last years bush fires there has been a considerable amount of work done by the Tibinbilla tracking station staff to get the site fully operational. The task of the refurbishment and repairs is almost complete.

The repeaters that lost their home operated on 438.025 MHz and 439.950 Mhz. They served the greater Canberra area. (WIA)

WORLDBEAT: UK 5 MHZ BEACONS COMING SOON

The Radio Society of Great Britain says that is close to installing and operating two new beacons on 5 point 290 kHz. The new beacons will operate under the callsigns GB3WES and GB3ORK. GB3WES will be located in Cumbria and GB3ORK in the Orkney Islands. Both will have a stepped transmit power sequence and a 30-second sounder sequence of 0.5ms pulses at 40 Hz and identical to that of the Oxfordshire GB3RAL beacon.

The new beacons will have transmit times will follow GB3RAL by one and two minutes respectively. Together the three beacons will provide an excellent spread of signal source from across Great Britain and offering experimenters worldwide a unique opportunity to study propagation effects at 5 MHz from their own QTH. (GB2RS)

THAT FINAL ITEM: RFID FOR COWS

And finally this week a cow sized idea. in fact, its an idea that combines radio R-F-I-D tags and cows in a system called the National Livestock Identification System or simply N-L-I-S for short. John Williams, VK2BUI, is in New South Whales, Australia, where the system is being tried out:

NLIS uses machine-readable Radio Frequency Identification (RFID) devices to identify cattle. Cattle are tagged with NLIS devices only once in their life. Cattle identified with NLIS devices can be electronically read as they move through the livestock chain. At time of reading, each owner's PIC can be recorded and linked to the NLIS device. This transaction information is then stored in the secure central NLIS database.

RFID eliminates the need for "line of sight" reading necessary with barcode systems. The signal can penetrate through body tissue, wood, plastic, mud, manure and more. RFID in this application is passive and therefore requires no battery, meaning it will last for the life of the animal.

With Japan set to reopen import of U-S beef, government officials in that nation feel that it is more important than ever to be able to trace every animal from birth to marketplace. Many believe that a National Livestock Identification System using R-F-I-D tagging is the logical answer. (WIA News)

Hallo,

Here is Jilly. Let.s do something with this crazy InfoRelation. By accident I have visited this web... and I am teriffied with what people wish to know and the money they offer! This service is designed for crazy scientists or maniacs... Like the one who uses nickname .OB. and who pays in absoulutely extravagant and suspicious way in my opinion.

Hi and thanks for reading.

I am using an icom 7100 to receive radiosonde telemetry at 1681 to 1686 or so MHz. The receiver is starting to show signs of age (8 years old) and I am considering what to do next.

What is important is a good AFC as the signal drifts from 1 to 3 Mhz during the ascent which last about 1 hr and 40 some minutes.
the 7100 does not always stay locked even at S3 and so I need to fiddle with tuning which I rather not.

I also have a goes 1691 to 137 Mhz down converter that works well and if necessary can use a receiver that covers the 137 MHz region.

The only receiver I can find is the Icomm 8500 that cost about $2K.

If you have any ideas please let me know

Thanks again

What are these signs of age? I have a 7100 of roughly the same vintage
(I have 800 MHz coverage in mine), it's doing fine both above and below
1 GHz.

Are you using some sort of low noise preamp to get more signal coming in to the 7100 so the AFC has more to hold on to? The 7100 has a pretty wide front end, a preamp would not only boost the signal but narrow the front end bandwidth. In the last 8 years a lot of services have been added to the 1500-2000 MHz range, signals at other frequencies could be desensitizing the 7100 and/or causing the AFC to lose lock. You might be able to get away with a narrow band filter, like 10 MHz at 1685 MHz center and no preamp. Down East Microwave http://207.162.131.185/cat-frame.htm makes a 1691 MHz preamp, assembled or kit, it would be pretty simple to retune it to 1685, if that would even be necessary, ask them about it.

Have you tried the 7100 at 127-132 MHz with the down converter?

> The only receiver I can find is the Icomm 8500 that cost about $2K.

As I said my 7100 is doing fine, unless you've had a near miss lightning strike or something is actually failing inside the 7100 I'd suspect desensitization. If something is failing it would probably be less expensive to have it repaired. Also, after 8 or so years relay contacts and some connections could be oxidizing and not conducting as well as when it was new and reducing signal levels inside, very easy to remedy.
I haven't noticed this with mine.

Good luck!

Right now the tuning wheel bearing sleeve is warn to where the knob is loose and I think its causing the encoder wheel to rub.

I have a 1.5 db N.F. preamp at the dish feed with a gain of 20 db, good point on the filter ! I look for the noise floor coming up as an indication of interference and see it from time to time.

The shaft encoder is about 80-90 fix for a radio worth perhaps 5 times that amount. Call ICOM for a new one and you can replace it yourself.
Also, perhaps you can set one of the scan modes to agment the AFC?

Thanks for your comment, the encoder still works and I will dissasemble the radio to see if I can fix it.
Yes I thought about programming a scan that would re-aquire when the signal is lost.

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1422 November 12, 2004

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1422 with a release date of Friday, November 12, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. The FCC turns off the ham radio licensing computer and a big Aurora opening hits North America. Find out the details on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1422 coming your way right now.

WITH THE FCC: HAM RADIO LICENSING STOPS AND STARTS DUE TO COMPUTER GLICH

Ham radio licensing came to a screeching halt on November 5th. This after a software glitch caused the computer that issues licenses to do some very strange things. Mark Abramovich, NT3V, has been following the developments from Philadelphia and gas more:

The FCC isn't offering any official comment on exactly what happened. But Amateur Radio Newsline has learned that the problems with the Universal Licensing System computer started after an Oct. 28 software upgrade installed by a government contractor.

The problems that followed prompted the FCC to order a five-day shutdown of the system which issues Amateur Radio licenses. The system came back on-line on Nov. 10. However, as of our deadline for this week's program, the FCC still planned a weekend shutdown of the U-L-S for maintenance and expected it to return to operation on Nov. 15.

The American Radio Relay League's Volunteer Examiner Coordinator Bart Jahnke, W9JJ, tells Amateur Radio Newsline he was among the first to detect problems while doing a routine check up on the application of a friend near the end of last month.

Jahnke says he discovered the application was - as he describes it - flagged or marked pending by the FCC for a review by a live person. He says the automated system and its software are set up for minimal human intervention. Jahnke says such a classification immediately raised concerns that something had gone wrong.

Jahnke tells me once he called his contact at the FCC to report the problem, he was told the computer contractor would be notified to investigate.

A couple days later, Jahnke says he was told the problem was fixed. But, as Jahnke tells me, he checked and found that the computer problem had gotten worse. He says he and other VECs were finding the U-L-S had begun issuing Group D call signs - the 2 X 3 ones - to new licensees out of sequence. He says only the first and third call-district applications somehow escaped getting caught up in the problem.

At that point, Jahnke tells Amateur Radio Newsline he and other VECs called the FCC. He says the commission told the contractor to pull the plug on the system on Nov. 5, run some diagnostics and fix it. A message posted on the FCC's website on Nov. 5 said simply: "The granting of Amateur applications has been temporarily suspended. We apologize for the inconvenience."

Prospective hams who had passed VE exams earlier and were awaiting their call sign were getting nervous. Some who received the out-of-sequence call signs were wondering whether the call signs were OK to use. A few had even received a second call sign, cancelling the first. In all, Jahnke says about 130 licensees were affected and thousands of license applications were backed up in the system.

By Nov. 10, Jahnke says the FCC began issuing letters cancelling the out-of-sequence call signs and awarding the proper call signs to new licensees. For some, he says it was their third call sign in a matter of days.

Jahnke says the FCC deserves credit for responding as fast as it did. He also has praise for the other VECs across the country who were in touch the with FCC, too. Jahnke says he's crossing his fingers and hoping the planned weekend maintenance of the FCC U-L-S computer, won't undo the system fix.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia.

More on this situation in future Amateur Radio Newsline reports. (ARNewsline(tm), NT3V with input from FCC and ARRL)

--

N6ZE: "The aurora was very bright most of the time and the magnetic bearing from the airplane extended from 300 degress through about 060 or 070. We saw this for about 3 hours and a distance of probably 1900 statute miles."

That's Pete Heins, N6ZE, describing last Sunday night and early Monday's magnificent Aurora from his vantage point in the right seat of a Boeing 757 jetliner. Pete was the co-pilot that night, flying from Los Angeles to New York's J-F-K International airport.

N6ZE: "At no time was the visability obscured by clouds, and for about the last 1 hour of the flight we did have about a 1/4 moon in the Eastern sky climbing, and we were still able to see the AU."

--

And while Pete was making his way across country, hams on the ground were sitting on 6 meters, 2 meters and all the bands above. And some like Dave Bernhardt, N7DB, in Boring, Oregon were hearing and working stations all over the place. Dave primarily operated 2 meters where according to the V-H-F reflector he worked W7IUV, K7XC, K7GS, WA6KLK and VE7DXG to name only a few. And Dave was not alone.

On the other side of the country, Jeff Klein, K1TEO, in Trumbull, Connecticut reports making Aurora propagation contacts on 2 Meters as far south as Alabama and Tennessee. To the west Jeff worked stations in Missouri, Iowa and Minnesota.

According to reports from NASA, the Auroral opening was caused by a Coronal Mass Ejection or C-M-E on the Sun. That event happened late on Friday, November 5th with the ionized particles reaching our Earth late on Sunday. Television news programs on Monday night showed pictures of this very bright Aurora as far South as Minnesota and northern Kansas.

On Tuesday the 9th two more solar shocks have arrived. Paul Kelly, N1BUG, in Milo, New Hampshire reported them on the VHF Reflector. The first hit just after 09:00 UTC but did not contain favorable magnetic field vectors or strength to produce Aurora at North American mid-latitudes. The second, arriving near 18:20 U-T-C did produce the classic Aurora buzzing. He later describe this event comig just in time for the natural late afternoon peak for auroral backscatter. He says that the Aurora came up fast and suddenly 2 meters filled with strong buzzing signals. He says over the reflector that he worked as far South as grid square E M 66.

And while hams who only operate the high frequency bands were complaining that 80 through 10 meter propagation had literally disappeared, those like N1BUG, N7DB and K1TEO on 6 meters, 2 meters and above were calling C-Q Aurora and making lots of contacts. All that is except Pete Heins, N6ZE, who landed his big silver bird at New York's J-F-K airport just as the sun was coming up. Then again, you have to admit that sitting at 37,000 feet on the flight deck of a 757, Pete probably had the best view of all. (ARNewsline(tm), N6ZE, VHF Reflector)

By the way, Dick Mannheimer, K6LAE, who was one of the first to alert us to the Aurora also passes along information on an excellent propagation website. Its in cyberspace at www.hfradio.org/propagation.html

The site is operated by Thomas Hood, NW7US. If the name and call sign sound familiar its because this is the same Thomas Hood who writes propagation columns for CQ, CQ VHF, Popular Communications and Monitoring Times magazines.

We have looked at the site. It's well worth bookmarking on your web browser. Again the URL is www.hfradio.org/propagation.html (K6LAE)

HELPING HAMS: UNITED WAY REPORTS HUGE HAM RADIO RESPONSE TO ARRL HOLIDAY TOY DRIVE

The United Way in Martin County, Florida, reports "a huge response" by the Amateur Radio community. This, to the ARRL's call to support a toy drive on behalf of the agency's "White Doves Holiday Project."

According to the ARRL Letter, Carol Hodnett, who directs the United Way of Martin County's Volunteer and Community Resource Center says League members from Maine to California have sent toys or money, and more is arriving every day. The League hopes to provide toys for youngsters left homeless or displaced by a string of hurricanes that hit the region earlier this year.

There is still time for you to take part in this very worthwhile project. All you need do is to purchase an unwrapped toy for a boy or girl aged 1 to 14. Please send it prior to Thanksgiving, Thursday, November 25th. Be sure to include a QSL card or 3x5 card displaying your call sign. Mail it to Ham Radio, The United Way White Dove Project, 50 Kindred St, Suite 207, Stuart, FL 34994.

In our view this is Amateur Radio at its very best. Hams helping kids in a true time of need. (ARRL)

ENFORCEMENT: ARE YOU THIS PERSON?

An FCC license holder who is likely a ham is being asked by the agency if he is the same person convicted of a number of criminal acts. And the agency has an important reason for asking. Spokesman Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, explains:

Duckworth: "Regarding qualifications to remain a licensee, in inquiry concerning criminal convictions for theft by deception and theft by failure to make required disposition of funds as the result of an investment scam went to a licensee in Johnstown, Pennsylvania."

--

According to the FCC release, the person involved is also under investigation by Pennsylvania Administrative Office of the Courts for a possible indecent assault. This is alleged to have been committed on July 30th, 2002.

The purpose of the probe is to determine if the person contacted is the same one as in the alleged and proven criminal cases. For that reason the FCC has withheld the persons identity or any other factual material to indicate whom he or she might be.

But if its the right person, he or she was given two options by the agency. The person can provide additional information on the convictions and charges for consideration by the Commission. Alternately, he or she can voluntarily submit a license for cancellation in order to avoid a hearing on the issue. (FCC, RAIN)

ENFOECEMENT: YOU CAN'T SELL THAT BEACON

Still with enforcement news, word that ACR Electronics, Inc. of Fort Lauderdale, Florida, has been fined $75,000. This, for marketing a personal location beacon to the general public that had not been approved by the Commission.

Now here's the ironic part? The CGC Communicator reports that some of the material submitted to the FCC by ACR helped make the case against the company.

It's all on line at http://hraunfoss.fcc.gov/edocs_public/attachmatch/DOC-253871A1.doc and http://hraunfoss.fcc.gov/edocs_public/attachmatch/FCC-04-259A1.doc (CGC)

ENFORCEMENT: POWER - LESS POWER CAPTAIN

An unlicensed broadcaster's response to an FCC Notice of Violation has helped to clinch a $10,000 fine issued against him. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, has the details.

--

Well, the details really speak for themselves and we would be hard put to say it better than David Michael Oaks. Oaks is the one who received the $10,000 fine for allegedly operating an FM station at his residence in Beaverton, Oregon. This, without the benefit oof holding a valid license to do so.

Quoting from the FCC report and order affirming the fine, the agency says that in responding, Oaks did not deny the charge. Rather, he stated that he was attempting to correct the violation by lowering the power each time he received a notice that he was operating an unlicensed station.

But that's not all. The FCC goes on to say that Oaks asserted that the investigating agent told him that the effective range for a transmitter operating pursuant to Part 15 of the Rules is about 100 feet. Also, that if Oaks chose to do so, he could purchase a Part 15 certified wireless microphone to compare the range of that signal with that of his station.

Oaks did not choose to do so. Nor did he refrain from operating after receiving several written warnings. Based on all of this evidence, the FCC says that the $10,000 fine will stand.

RESCUE RADIO: PROPOSED RADIO JAMMING SYSTEM DROPPED FOR THE MOMENT

Some good news and some bad about an emergency information system proposed by Alert Devices International Corporation. The company has requested that the FCC to dismiss its Petition for Rule Making to create an Emergency Vehicle Signaling Service. This is the previously described service that would allow emergency vehicles to jam out authorized broadcast stations and replace them with emergency warning messages designed to attract the attention of affected motorists.

The good news is that the FCC has granted A-D-I's dismissal request. The bad news is that ADI - according to its latest filing - proposes to submit an "expanded version" of its Petition in the near future. Its all on the web at

MORE POWER CAPTAIN: ELECTRICAL INDUSTRY CHASTISED FOR 2003 BLACKOUT

Those wonderful people that are now bringing you BPL have bigger problems to worry about. This after Federal regulators issue a scathing review of the electricity industry's voluntary efforts to make their power grids more reliable.

The report comes about a year after nation's worst blackout that hit on August 14th of 2003. According to staff at the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, power industry audits play down shortcomings of the grid system, rely on ambiguous standards that often are ignored and reflect vast differences between the best and the worst performers.

But the agency's chairman Pat Wood did say that there have been improvements since the blackout that was caused by power line problems in Ohio and affected eight states from Michigan to New York as well as parts of Canada. (Published reports)

IN PRINT: ALL ABOUT TONE

And with more and more repeaters implementing some form of tone access, it is C-Q Magazine that's taking the lead in explaining how it works to the ham community. In his three page article in the November issue, writer Dave Ingram, K4TWJ, "How It Works" column traces the use of tone access and explains why it can be far more of a friend to hams than a way to keep them off a system they may want to try. You can read what Dave has to say in the November C-Q on newsstands right now. More information is on the web at www.cq-amateur.radio.com (CQ)

TELECOMMUNICATIONS SECURETY: PASSCODE FROM AMERICA ONLINE

Turning to the high tech page, America Online says that it will begin offering members a security device and service that has been used to safeguard business computer networks. This after parent company Time Warner Inc. announces that its AOL unit has signed a deal with Internet security company RSA Security Inc., to launch its new AOL PassCode.

Using an ever changing algorithm, the system is designed to add an additional layer of protection to member accounts. PassCode users will be provided with a small handheld six-digit numeric code key which refresh on the device every 60 seconds. To log onto an AOL account equipped with the service, users will have to type in the six-digits in addition to their regular password.

The price of the code-key device will be $9.95. Service costs will range from $1.95 to $4.95 per month. This, in addition to the usual America Online subscription fee. (AOL, published reports)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: FALSING CALLER ID

The Washington Post reports that a new technology can trick U.S. caller-ID services into displaying someone else's name and telephone number. The Web-based systems make the name and number appear in a call recipient's caller-ID box.

A company called Star38 that launched in September with plans to market to debt collectors has changed its strategy after consumers complained. Star38 admitted the approach was "flawed," and now says it will market their system to law enforcement agencies.

New Jersey-based Camophone says it will perform the service on a call-by-call basis for a fee of $5 and up. The company said it recognizes that the service could be abused but insists its intent is to help customers protect their privacy.

But consumers worry that the technology could be used by stalkers and debt-collection agencies, some consumers worry. The Direct Marketing Association said masking a marketer's identity is illegal under rules enforced by the Federal Trade Commission and the Federal Communications Commission. (Washington Post)

WORLDBEAT - UK: FINAL G5RV LOGBOOK RETRIEVED FROM EBAY

Meantime, word from the United Kingdom that the final log book of one of the worlds best-known radio amateurs has been saved for posterity. This, after it was put up for auction on eBay.

The late Louis Varney, G5RV, of G5RV antenna fame was one of the founding members of the Chelmsford Amateur Radio Society in 1936. So when Chelmsford club member Duncan Munro, M0KGK spotted that G5RV's last ever logbook was being auctioned, the club decided to buy it.

Munro did the bidding. Despite fierce competition he managed to secure the logbook in the last eight seconds of auction.

The logbook shows that G5RV's final QSO's took place on the 11th January 2000 and were , appropriately enough recorded on page 73 of the logbook. The stations contacted were Ron Glover, G0WGP, in West

Sussix and club President Harry Heap, G5HF, in Chelmsford. Louis was, of course, using his famed G5RV antenna for all of the contacts. (GB2RS)

THAT FINAL ITEM: UK HAMS ON THE AIR WITH EXPANDED 40 METER PRIVELEGES

And finally this week, hams in the U-K have taken to the airwaves with their recently expanded privileges. RSGB Newsreader Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, is where it all took place:

--

UK radio amateurs gained access to new frequencies between 7.1 and 7.2MHz from 31st October.
After dark, the band between 7.1 and 7.2MHz is still full of powerful broadcast stations, although some clear frequencies can be found.

The band became available on the second day of the CQ World Wide DX Phone Contest. Many UK stations took advantage of the new band by making contest QSOs with stations in the USA on their own frequency, instead of having to work 'split' as had been the case when contacting North America on 40 metres SSB.

During the daytime, numerous UK stations are now able to have virtually interference-free inter-G contacts above 7.1mhz.

The new band is available to radio amateurs on a Secondary, non-interference, basis until 2009. After the end of March 2009, the broadcast stations should move to other frequencies and 7.1 to 7.2MHz will then become an amateur Primary band.

Jeremy Boot, G4NJH, in Nottingham.

Amateurs in the Republic of Ireland were also granted access to 7.1 to 7.2 MHz towards the end of October, joining those in Croatia, Norway and San Marino who already had access to these frequencies. Hams in Switzerland will also gain access to 7.1 to 7.2MHz from 1st January 2005. (GB2RS)

Nov 17 is experimetal day using PSK31 (10 meters up)
Nov 19 - 21 is L/S (1.2 Ghz FM up and 2.4 GHZ down)
Nov 22 - 23 is V/S (2 meters up 2.4 GHZ down).

For everyone on the 22 - 23 a lot of folks are going to transmit on 2 meters and hear nothing on 70 cm. So please do not transmit on 2 meters November 22 - 23 unless you have a 2.4 GHZ down link to listen.

I know this will not get to everyone so please pass the word so we don't have lot of folks keying up and jamming Nov 22 - 23.

Cheers Bill K7MT

The aforementioned sites abuse credit card information and have software to track visitors. Most profiles of the personals were stolen from dating sites that provide the same copyrighted material for free.

Registered members of these sites also have access to underage personals
featuring adult material depicting minors in explicit sexual acts.

The individual behind these sites trades underage girls from the Philippines and Russia that are being lured to the USA with false promises of work, marriage and the green card, and are eventually forced into prostitution.

The individual that operates these sites manipulates facts using Email/IP spoofing and forged server logs to make others seem guilty and is part of an international criminal network supported by corrupt politicians.
NEVER BELIEVE ANYTHING HE SAYS OR WRITES AND NEVER DISCLOSE ANY PERSONAL DATA.
This suspect is an expert at manipulating people and the public opinion.

Anybody who is concerned about the safety of minors can file complaints with:

PUBLIC SERVICE: HAMS QUIT TOURNAMENT OF ROSES PARADE - LIMIT SERVICE TO ATV

Ham radio will not be a major part of the 2005 Tournament of Roses Parade. Amateur Radio Newsline's Norm Seeley, KI7UP has the rest of the story:

Although it was never officially part of the Tournament of Roses, ham radio has been providing a communications link along the Rose Parade route for more than 40 years. And long before there was any official group, people like Tom O'Hara, W6ORG, of P-C Electronics were the early pioneers:

--

O'Hara: "I first got involved with the Rose Parade
communications
when I was one of the Emergency Coordinators for Pasadena. They asked us ti help out with some longer range stuff than what the CB operators were doing. This was in the middle 1960's."

--

Using video cameras and Amateur television, the ham radio volunteers were ever alert for any kind of an emergency situation that might develop. If they spotted something they would send their pictures back to the parade coordinator who could then take the necessary action.

--

O'Hara: "Later on they added more and more ATV and more and more hams. At one time I think there were 17 camera positions."

Amateur Radio literally pioneered the use of closed circuit television for coordinating large scale events in the Tournament of Roses Parade. At one time hams even had Amateur Television transmitters sending back pictures from helicopters flying overhead. And they did this long before most television stations had camera equipped news choppers of their own.

--

O Hara: "Got involved with the helicopter with the first ATV in 1968. Put it in the Sheriff's helicopter. And when I got my own helicopter I put it in and flew around one year."

--

As the parade grew, so did the Amateur Radio communications effort. By the 1970's TORRA had unofficially been formed. TORRA stands for Tournament of Roses Radio Amateurs and in the 1980's the hams involved formalized as a club and with this came the golden days of ham radio supporting the parade.

Today TORRA has more than 300 active members who regularly volunteer their time. At least that's the way it had been until an incident occurred last year. That's when an incident took place that apparently caused things to go sour.

According to an article in the Pasadena Star News, a pair of ham radio operators were carrying equipment onto the grounds of Tournament House in preparation for the last parade. They were stopped by a senior Tournament official and their presence challenged. The unnamed official even went so far as to accuse the ham radio volunteers of lying to get on the grounds.

Now enter Nextel. The same Nextel that has patented the words push-to-talk.

Nextel is a corporate sponsor of the 2005 parade, and reportedly has donated a number of phones to the event. This means that most Tournament of Roses officials will have a Nextel phone with direct walkie-talkie service in their pockets.

Bill Flinn is the Tournament's chief operating officer. Talking about Amateur Radio's departure he was quoted by Pasadena Star News as saying: "I think it's come to the end of a run. We are sorry to see them go."

But depending on the Nextel walkie-talkie phones as a primary form of communications could turn out to be a mistake for the parade and those that run it. Unlike hams, parade officials and their corps of volunteers are not trained communicators. Rather they have been used to handing a message to a ham radio operator and having an answer appear. Most are likely unaware that they will have to contend with numerous people calling at the same time. All with priority traffic and all demanding immediate answers.

With their years of experience, the hams were the buffers who learned how to work around these problems. But the cellphone provider is coming in cold with no experience in this specialized communications area. There will likely be no experienced net control stations and no way to prioritize needs.

On Thursday, November 18th, as this report was being prepared, we received a copy of a letter from TORRA Chair Jeanne Nordland, WD6BWN, thats being sent to all of the groups members. It confirms that hams will not be providing voice communications in 2005, but that A-T-V assistance to the parade will continue as it has in years past.

But ATV is only one part of the equation. the question still remains as to whether or not the Nextel phones can take the place of the hams and a structured voice communications network. This is something that nobody will really know until January 1st of 2005. That's when the drama will be played out live to the world on their livingroom T-V screens -- on New Years Day. And likely, 10's of millions of people will be watching.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Norm Seeley, KI7UP, reporting.

--

As Norm said, these days the Tournament of Roses Amateur Radio group currently has about 300 members. How many might return if they are asked back in 2006 is really, anyones guess.

THE BPL FIGHT: FCC ISSUES ERATTUM ON BPL R&O

The FCC has issued whats known as an Notice of Erratum. One that slightly modifys its Report and Order on the introduction of Broadband Over Powerline operations.

Two changes were made. First in Section 15.15 under General Technical Requirements section B now reads: "Except as follows, an intentional or unintentional radiator must be constructed such that the adjustments of any control that is readily accessible by or intended to be accessible to the user will not cause operation of the device in violation of the regulations. Access BPL equipment shall comply with the applicable standards at the control adjustment that is employed. The measurement report used in support of an application for Certification and the user instructions for Access BPL equipment shall clearly specify the user- or installer-control settings that are required for conformance with these regulations."

Also, Section 15.31 is amended by revising a paragraph under Measurement standards to read:
"Measurements shall be performed at a sufficient number of radials around the equipment under test to determine the radial at which the field strength values of the radiated emissions are maximized. The maximum field strength at the frequency being measured shall be reported in the equipment authorization report. This paragraph shall not apply to Access BPL equipment on overhead medium voltage lines. In lieu thereof, the measurement guidelines established by the Commission for Access BPL shall be followed."
While these changes may seem as minor right now, they could impact ham radio and other services in the future. This, when and if B-P-L ever becomes a major player in the area of direct to home high speed Internet access. (FCC)

THE BPL FIGHT: ITS NOT BPL IN WESTERN VK

Meantime, some good news on the B-P-L front from down-under. Word that interference being heard by hams in Western Australia is not coming from a powerline broadband installation. The problem is that nobody is sure exactly what the source is. W-I-A newsman Dennis Muldownie, VK6KAD, is in Redcliff with more:

One of the rumors persisting in VK6 is that our power authority is running BPL. This has been denied several times. I may have found the source of these rumors, as I have stumbled across a website dating back to 2002, in which the testing of Broadband by the power company was mentioned.

However it was not BPL technology. There is an ongoing project here to "rewire" the West by placing low voltage and some higher tension feeders underground. This is - or was - progressing slowly. It improves the street-scape out of sight and reduces the potential for damage in bad weather. In providing these services apparently optical fiber cable was also placed in the trench, and the Broadband was under test on the fiber. Not you will note on BPL.

Very little of WA was ever wired by Cable as in Sydney and Melbourne for Cable TV, and therefore Cable Modems are not an option. The way is clear for the power authority to provide such services by Fiber as it replaces the overhead with underground. I have not found out what the tests revealed.

And having said all that, I am finding excessive noise in isolated pockets on the AM Broadcast band, from power lines in my area. I suspect the approved items used on Power lines obtainable from many outlets are not as bullet proof as we would like to suspect...

The saga continues.

The saga does indeed continue and Dennis is one of those at the forefront of the search. (WIA News)

RADIO AND THE LAW: CLUBS AND THE FCC

Still with legal issues, for a group to be eligible for a club callsign, the FCC has four criteria thar must be met. It says that a club must be made up of at least four members, have a name and legal document of organization and a primary purpose of being devoted to Amateur Radio activities consistent with FCC rules. But do you know how many of the members of a radio club need to hold ham radio licenses?

These and many other questions are answered by former FCC rules Chief John B. Johnston, W3BE, in an article titled "What Is a Club" appearing in the just out December issue of Worldradio Magazine. And filling close to two pages, Johnston explains in great detail the recognition given clubs by the regulatory agency and the rules regarding club call signs.

If you have ever had questions regarding radio clubs and their dealings with the FCC, this is the tell all definitive article you have been waiting for. More about subscribing to Worldradio and sample issues is on-line at www.wr6wr.com

And less we forget, the answer to how many members of a radio club must hold a valid FCC issued ham radio license is only one. The rules say that at least one member must have an operator and primary station grant from the agency to apply for a club station license. (Worldradio)

RESCUE RADIO: US COAST GUARD AUXILIARY SEEKS RADIO AMATEURS

The ARRL Letter says that the U-S Coast Guard Auxiliary is looking for Amateur Radio operators or prospective amateur licensees. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, has more:

Wayne Spivak, KC2NJV, is with the Coast Guard's National Public Affairs Department. He says that because the service operates every day, in good weather and in bad, that the U-S Coast Guard Auxiliary is on the air whether there is power to operate or not. And at times like these, the Coast Guard and the Auxiliary rely on the Auxiliary Net as a backup radio network. In areas with a large U-S Coast Guard presence, the AuxNet operates in both a support and backup capacity. More important, in regions where there is no regular Coast Guard presence, the Auxiliary may rely solely on its AuxNet for communication.

And because of this, Spivak says the Coast Guard Auxiliary is seeking ham radio volunteers. He says that this is because amateurs are good communicators. That they have developed both in everyday radio operation and participation during emergencies through RACES, ARES and SKYWARN.

Spivak believes that Amateur Radio and the U-S Coast Guard Auxiliary are an ideal fit. He says that the US Coast Guard Auxiliary is open to all US citizens over the age of 17. A security background check, paid for by the US Coast Guard, is required before an applicant is accepted. If you are interested in expanding your public service horizons, please visit the US Coast Guard Auxiliary Web site. Its in cyberspacw at www.cgaux.org. Again, that U-R-L is www.cgaux.org and I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, reporting for the Amateur Radio Newsline.

RESCUE RADIO : MARITIME MOBILES SERVICES NET NOW STREAMING AUDIO

The sound of the daily Maritime Mobile Service Net can now be heard in streaming audio on the Internet.

The net meets daily on 14.300 MHz between 16:00 UTC and 03:00 UTC. The audio streaming originates from the receive site of W-L-O Marine Radio in Mobile, Alabama using a Japan Radio Company N-R-D 535 D receiver fed from a T-C-I ground mounted loop antenna.

As with any streaming audio on the Internet, there will be an inherent lag from the time its encoded in Alabama and when you hear it on your computer. In this case the delay could be anywhere from 4 seconds to 1 minute, as compared to live on-the-air audio.

Because of this, this streamed audio is not meant to be used to control the net. Rather, it is intended as another means for non hams to listen to the net, family of boat crews to listen for the boat and a way to monitor the net when you are away from the radio or when you have no propagation to hear the net control station.

You can hear the streamed audio daily when the net is in operation. You will need a media player like Winamp or Real installed on your computer. Simply take your web browser to www.mmsn.org and click on the yellow icon that says "Listen Live." (MMSN)

ENFORCEMEMT: CBS PROTESTS JACKSON WARDROBE MALFUNCTION FINE

Viacom Corporation, the parent of the CBS network says the FCC's proposed 550-thousand-dollar fine for Janet Jackson's Super Bowl "wardrobe malfunction" is "entirely illogical." Viacom says neither it nor anyone at CBS knew Justin Timberlake would yank off a piece of Jackson's black leather top.

The move exposed Jackson's right breast for less than a second, but generated a-half (m) million complaints to the Federal Communications Commission. The fine is the largest ever imposed against a T-V outlet. Viacom is seeking to have it rescinded and has indicated that it will fight the matter in the Federal courts. (Published news reports)

ENFORCEMENT: WLFK-LP ADMONISHED FOR BROADCASTING ADVERTISEMENTS

Low Power FM stations are prohibited from broadcasting advertisements by the Communications Act of 1934 and by the FCC's own rules. And doing so has brought a letter of admonishment to a Wisconsin based LPFM station.

This hand-slap went to WLFK-LP and is looked at as a fair warning to all Low Power F-M stations not to broadcast commercial advertisements. A letter of admonishment carries a warning to cease and desist but no punitive action such as a fine. More is on-line at http://hraunfoss.fcc.gov/edocs_public/attachmatch/DA-04-3555A1.doc (FCC)

TELECOMMUNICATIONS LAW: SPAMMER BOUNTY SUGGESTED BY FTC

The U.S. Federal Trade Commission has given its endorsement to a plan that would reward insiders for information leading to the arrest and conviction of people or companies that produce spam. In a recent report the FTC said that some anti-spam proposals, such as a "Do Not Spam" list similar to the agency's highly successful "Do Not Call" list, would not work and could make spam worse. But the agency said that providing monetary rewards for turning in spammers could work in some cases. The FTC is suggesting rewards ranging from $100,000 to $250,000 to turn spammers in. (FTC)

SPECIAL EVENTS: PEARL HARBOR DAY COMMEMORATIVES - DEC. 4 - 7

Two upcoming special event stations will be on the air to commemorate Pearl Harbor Day. The first will be operated by the Historical Electronics Museum Amateur Radio Club from December 4th to the 7th using the call sign W2W. Operation will be in the General; class segments of all of the high frequency bands. Further information is on-line at www.qsl.nwt/w3gr or by e-mail to w3gr@arrl.net (Worldradio)

The other operation we have heard about will be one day only on December 7th. This one by the U-S-S Kidd Amateur Radio Club down in Baton Rouge, Louisiana. Look for this operation mainly SSB on 30 meters from 14.250 to 14.320 MHz and C-W near the popular QRP calling frequencies on 40 through 10 meters. More on this one is on the web at www.lsu.edu/brarc (Worldradio)

SPECIAL EVENTS: THE BATTLE OF THE BULGE - DEC. 16 - 20

And a bit later in December the Anaheim California Police Amateur Radio Club will sponsor special event station K6B. This, to commemorate the 6oth anniversary of the famed Battle of the Bulge that took place during World War 2. Operation will be on 40 through 15 meters from December 16th through the 20th. For more information please e-mail km6hb@arrl.net. (Worldradio)

NAMES IN THE NEWS: A FLY-IN TO HONOR K9TRG

He served the ham radio community for years, especially in the early days of F-M. And on Veterans Day, Thursday, November 11th, some nineteen hams from around the nation gathered at a restaurant in Suburban Chicago to honor their friend Art Householder, K9TRG, of Spectronics fame.

If you operated F-M in the 1960's or 1970's using radios like a Motorola 80 D or a General Electric Progress Line, then the name Art Householder and the call sign K9TRG has to ring a bell. Back when F-M was in its infancy, Art was the premiere supplier of decommissioned police and taxi dispatch radios to the growing world of Amateur Radio F-M.

Now retired and in declining health, he cannot travel as he used to. So this year his friends came to the Rose Garden restaurant in Elkgrove, Illinois to spend the day with him.

And the list reads like a whose' who of ham radio including such notables as Evelyn Garrison, WS7A, who came from Washington State and F-M pioneer Dick McKay, K6VGP, of Los Angeles. From the Chicago area ATV pioneer Henry Rue, AA9XW, the FCC's Russell "Joe" Moonie and RAIN producer Hap Holly, KC9RP, were among those sharing the day with .

While the luncheon is held every Thursday, this was notable event for Art because of the number of people who either took time off from work or traveled thousands of miles to attend. And many say that they plan to do it again next year. (KC9RP)

RADIO LAW FOLLOW-UP: COURT ORDER ON PET CHIPS THAT CAN'T BE READ

Remember our story a few months ago about a particular pet identification transponder chip that were not compatible with most scanners in use in the United States? Well, it took some time but a judge now barred a company from selling or advertising these microchips.

The preliminary injunction from San Diego Superior Court Judge William C. Pate yesterday blocks several named defendants from selling or advertising its unit called "Recovery Chip," If and when the company wants to resume selling or promoting the Recovery Chip product, the court must first approve the company's proposed advertisements. Also, any new ads must disclose that the Recovery Chip cannot be read by the majority of microchip scanners in U.S. shelters.

Banfield, the Pet Hospital has been the U.S. distributor of the particular per I-D chip. It is based in Portland, Oregon and operates in Pets Mart stores throughout the United States. Banfield voluntarily suspended microchip sales in early May, before the lawsuit was filed, and has no immediate plans to resume its microchip program. (Published news reports)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: FREE WIRELESS INTERNET ACCESS IN VAN NUYS CA

A pilot program to provide free wireless Internet access in part of Los Angeles began on October 29th. This at the Marvin Braude Constituent Services Center in the suburban of Van Nuys. During the six-month program, anyone in the area will be able to use a wireless-enabled notebook computer, P-D-A or other mobile device to access the Internet. The high-speed access will be available in the outdoor plaza, along Van Nuys Boulevard and in public meeting rooms and service counters in the building. (Computing)

WORLDBEAT - BELGIUM: QRP POWER TESTS ANNOUNCED

Sunday November 21st, , December 26th and January 16th are the dates announced of the second Belgian U-B-A 'Candlelight Tests." In these tests, several stations transmit simultaneously on 80, 40 or 30 meters running micro power levels ranging from 100 milliwatts down to 5 milliwatts. The challenge for participating amateurs is to copy the code words embedded in the transmitted messages. Full information is on the U-B-A website. A link to it appears ay www.uba.be/actual/candlelight/candlelight_en.html. (GB2RS)

DX

In D-X, PF5X, informs the Ohio Penn D X newsletter that he has received his license from the local authorities in Singapore. Also that his station was inspected and approved for active usage. His callsign is 9V1CW, and Enno says that he will be in Singapore for about 3 years. All QSLs via PA0KHS direct or via the bureau. (OPDX)

And word that N3SIG has been redeployed to McMurdo Station in Antarctica. Chris says that he expects to be there until March 5th. Thats the good news. The bad comes in a report that says the ham shack's antennas there were destroyed, and there us also damage to the main HF rig. So he plans to hand carry a HF rig from his home in Pennsylvania to Antarctica. When he arrives, Chris says that he will construct a dipole and will be on the air as N3SIG stroke KC4. Listen for him mainly on 14 dot 243 MHz which is the unofficial Antarctica ham radio calling frequency. (OPDX)

Lastly, a real rare one with word that Christmas Island as VK9XG will be active from the 22nd of November until the 8th of December. The station will be operated by W0YG and W0MY and will be operational in the CQ world wide CW contest plus a much-needed RTTY activation on 40, 80 and 160 meters. QSL this one as directed on the air. THAT FINAL ITEM: THE BAGDHAD REMOTE BASE - REVISITED

Two weeks ago we reported that former 73 Magazine Editor Keith Lamonica, W7DXX, had arranged for the installation of a remotely controlled transceiver in Baghdad, Iraq. A transceiver whose functions could be controlled by hams world wide over the Internet.

Well, that announcement by W7DXX has created quite a stir in ham radio circles because of the armed conflict taking part in that nation. This has resulted in many questions from the ham radio community that Lamonica recently addressed in an interview with Rain's Hap Holly, KC9RP. W7DXX says that some hams don't spend the time to read whats in front of them:

Lamonica: "There has been a lot of activity, especially on the qrz.com site about the operation and people just don't take a breath and sit back and read the instructions. We have outlined everything that should satisfy anyones curiosity, but you still have people that just put their blinders on and go off to make wild statements."

--

Lamonica has lots more to say about the Baghdad remote and other uses of the Internet by ham radio. You can her it all on this weeks RAIN Report. Its on line in streaming audio at www.rainreport.com or on your phone at 847-827-7246. That number is easy to remember as 847-827-R-A-I-N. (ARNewsline(tm), RAIN)

682. AO-51 Schedule Update

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.space

Howdy from Bill in Helena, Mt. K7MT

I just made the last transmission on 1.2 GHZ up and 2.4 GHZ down with 5 watts from my TS-2000 on AO-51. Signals were s7 on the down link with 5 watts output on 1.2 ghz. I was using DEMI AO-40 circular on 1.2 and 2.4 with a Downeast Micro Wave Convertor (2.4 > 144). I discovered my downconvertor was 29 kcs hi so I finally took the signal source and tuned it back down 29 kcs so I was on frequency and that solved most of my problems. It was fun and hope AMSAT will try this L/S mode again.

AO-51 switches to V/S mode (2meters up 2.4 GHZ down) this evening for the next three days. For everyone please pass on this information as I know there will be some folks kurchunking on 2 meters looking for a 70cm down link.

On 25 Nov, AO-51 will be back to V/U mode (2 meters up 70cm down).

Cheers from Bill

Dennis: I am using the same antenna package with Icom pre-amps mast mounted. For what it is worth, I have nevered used the polarity switching on the AOP-1 and have made well over a thousand satellite QSOs.I have gathered from the amsat bbs postings that these sat passes are usually so quick it really doesn't make a lot of difference. Now with newer birds coming on line that might be a different story. My advice is just hook up the coax and go at it. Pat, K4AVO

Design a Feedline that can switch between either rotation by switching pahse of the two driven elements, and you will be able to use both.

Hallo,

I have visited InfoRelation.com and I would like to thank you for drawing my attention to this service ;-). The idea of connecting demand and supply for info, knowledge etc is great! Thanks to this I was able to find an expert in the field of my interest and hobby.
As regards your advertisement I think that perhaps you offer too much money to the members of the projetc team ;-).

Best regards,
Donald Martin

You're a journalist? It must drive your editors mad, trying to turn your copy into something they can actually publish.

699. A way to receive weather maps/msg on iridium ?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.space

Hi,

Using a /MM station with a Iridium handheld, its data kit and a microwave dish antenna lays on the deck, is there a way to receive weather message in the same way as HF fax i(n USB with a computer) but now in those microwaves frequencies ?
What is the required material or downverter to receive weather msg (is possible) ?

I know what to use for meteosat and other "low frequencies" transmissions, but nothing or quasi about Iridium.
Subsidiary question : is there a way to receive weather message using Inmarsat network ? What solution 'd be the best (easiest or cheapest)

Thanks in advance

Check these sites out. They sell/rent Iridium and Inmarsat phones. If their FAQ and help pages don't answer your question, drop them an email.

I just switched from Win ME to Windows XP. I can get Instantrack to run, but it initially opens in a very small window.

I recall from years ago that there is some special setting that will allow this program to open in a full window, when first opening the program. It seems like it was a dos command.

Can someone help me with this please ??

Create a shortcut to IT, and in the properties of the shortcut select the option of 'Run Full Screen' under the screen tab.

Wow, that improved things a lot, and now I remember having done that a number of years ago.

Now, I get the FULL screen when I put it in the Map mode, but when I am running Ephemeris lists, the printed part appears only in the top half of the page. The program uses the full screen (full screen with background black and text in color, but the printed part only covers the top half of the screen. I wonder if this has to do with some resolution setting in IT (also adjustable in the properties of the shortcut??)

Thanks Again !!

Jim,

I had a similar problem. At least on my machine, creating a batch file with the following contents causes everything, including the ephemeris, to behave normally:

```
@ECHO OFF CD \IT mode con cols=80 lines=25
```

The first line is just for neatness, and the program is in C:\IT.

i suggest switching to a differnt Satellite tracking software try Satscape you can download for free at www.satscape.co.uk its a lot better than IT and its windows based and best of all its FREE

Thanks Alan ! I will have my son tell me how to do the batch file.

And to another poster, I don't want to switch, I have used Instantrack for years and it is perfect for me. I don't go switching software because of one setting that I can't figure out. There would be TEN settings in the new software that I would need to learn !!

Thanks again !!

Howdy from Bill K7MT

Please note that AO-51 will be in V/S (2m up 2.4 GHZ) for a week starting Jan 6, 2005.

Pass the word as there are a lot of folks who cannot hear their downlink on V/U (2m up 70cm down). Yesterday W4LOS and KB8IYO called and called CQ'd and we all tried to work them but they were not hearing the downlink. If you do not hear the downlink please don't transmit for the sake of transmitting. Listen to the downlink as there is always activity. Leave your transmit on frequency and adjust for doppler on the down link.

Happy New Year Bill

Jan 2 Kid's Day on Amsat Echo
Uplink: 145.880 mhz FM voice, 67hz tone
Downlink: 435.300 mhz FM voice
The event will run from approximately 1600 UTC 02 Jan to 0345 UTC 03 Jan. We ask that all amateur radio stations give this short time window to promote satellite operations with kids. If not actually showing a kid how to make contacts via AO-51, then providing a station to contact, or stepping aside to allow others to make contacts with the kids. During the event please limit contacts to stations that are operating with kids at the microphone.

Jan 27
FM Repeater, V/U, ON 9k6 Digital, V/U, PBP BBS, OPEN for Users

AO-51 ECHO LOW POWER STATION (QRP) REQUIRMENTS:

To attempt to keep this simple a low power station will be defined as a station which can deliver no more than 10 watts to a vertical or handheld antenna.

Some examples of Low Power Stations:
1) Using an HT (barefoot, no amplifier) with 10 watts or less output into any type of vertical whip antenna (rubber duck, etc) or handheld beam antenna (arrow type).
2) Using a mobile station with 10 watts or less output into car mounted mobile whip antenna(s).
3) Using a base station at 10 watts output into a vertical omnidirectional antenna on the side of the house.

Examples that are NOT Low Power Stations:
1) Any type of high gain beam antenna, KLM, M2, Cushcraft, etc.
2) Any station transmitting over 10 watts into any type of antenna.

How well we operate the satellite within these guidelines will determine how much we can run this mode in the future. So lets try and do this right!

[ANS thanks Mike, KE4AZN for the above information]

SB SAT @ AMSAT $ANS-364.01
AO-51 Configured for Earthquake/Tsunami Support

AMSAT News Service Bulletin 364.01
>From AMSAT HQ SILVER SPRING, MD.
December 29, 2004
To All RADIO AMATEURS
BID: $ANS-364.01

In an effort to lend any assistance possible to the Earthquake/Tsunami disaster area, AO-51 will be will be configured and opened for use as a store and forward message satellite for those in the disaster area. Therefore the current schedule for AO-51 has been cancelled.
The planned mode change to the FM Repeater in high power will not occur.

AO-51 will be reconfigured at approximately 0305 UTC on 30 DEC 2004 to operate as a Store and Forward PBBS. The PBBS will still be open to general amateur use, but amateur operators should be ready to cease BBS operations at any moment, when we start to receive message traffic. We ask that all unattended PBBS operation stop until further notice. AO-51 PBBS users may be requested to help download and forward messages. More information about how amateur operators can help will be forthcoming.

The FM repeater (Downlink 435.300 Mhz, Uplink 145.920 MHz) will be turned off to allow maximum power to be used on the PBBS downlink.

The configuration for AO-51 PBBS will be:
Downlink: 435.150 MHz, FM 9600 baud PacSat BroadCast Protocol (PBBS)
Uplink: 145.860 MHz FM, 9600 baud PacSat BroadCast Protocol (PBBS)

Anyone that can help contact those in the disaster area and inform them of the Satellite resource is encouraged to do so. Should another configuration of AO-51 be identified as providing more benefit to those in the disaster area, AMSAT will adjust AO-51's operating mode accordingly.

Amsat and the Echo Command Team appreciate your help and understanding as we try and lend assistance.

Mike Kingery
Echo Command Team
Amsat VP Opeations

[ANS thanks Mike, KE4AZN for the above information]
